The Avett Brothers

Avett Brothers scheduled for September concert

American band The Avett Brothers will perform in concert on Thursday, September 25, at Southwestern.

The Avett Brothers concert will be held at 8 p.m. in the new Pioneer Cellular Event Center, and the show is part of the university's Panorama series.

Tickets go on sale Friday, July 18, and range from $37 to $75 and can be purchased online through the SWOSU website at www.swosu.edu or www.pioneer-cellular-eventcenter.com.

The Avett Brothers combine bluegrass, country, punk, pop melodies, folk, rock and roll, indie rock, honky tonk and ragtime to produce a sound described by the San Francisco Chronicle as having the "heavy sadness of Townes Van Zandt, the light pop concision of Buddy Holly, the tuneful jangle of the Beatles, the raw energy of the Ramones."

The group performs concerts across the country and will be coming to SWOSU from Nashville where they are the headlining band for the Americana Fest being held September 17-21. The Avett Brothers have released albums each of the last nine years with their latest being Magpie and the Dandelion in 2013, The Carpenters in 2012 and The Avett Brothers Live in 2010. One of their most popular albums was 2007's Emotionalism.

The band was formed in 2001 by banjoist Scott Avett and guitarist Seth Avett as they teamed up with bass player Bob Crawford. The boys immersed themselves in their musician dad's record collection, falling in love with Bob Dylan, Neil Young, and Crosby, Stills & Nash. Other members of the band are Paul Defiglia, keyboard; Joe Kwon, cello; and Mike Marsh, drums.

In addition to touring tirelessly, they have given memorable performances on the Late Show with David Letterman, the Late Late Show with Craig Ferguson, and Late Night with Jimmy Fallon as well as during a feature spot on the PBS series Austin City Limits.

College of Pharmacy receives national accreditation again

Southwestern's College of Pharmacy's Doctor of Pharmacy program on the Weatherford campus has received national accreditation once again from the Accreditation Council for Pharmacy Education.

Dr. Dennis Thompson, dean of the SWOSU College of Pharmacy, said the accreditation of the program is through June 30, 2022, which represents the customary eight-year cycle between self-studies for accreditation.

"We are pleased with the awarding of the maximum eight-year accreditation," Thompson said. "It is a testament to the hard work of our dedicated faculty /staff and the quality of our students and alumni."

The evaluation team visited the SWOSU campus in February of this year and the ACPE Board of Directors reviewed the report at its late-June meeting.

SWOSU's College of Pharmacy is one of two programs in the state of Oklahoma.

"It's important for SWOSU to maintain national accreditations in as many programs as possible," SWOSU President Randy Beutler said. "Accreditation is one more external source that validates the success of a program, and we are extremely pleased with this news for our College of Pharmacy."

SWOSU has been a leading academic institution among universities in Oklahoma. SWOSU has 15 nationally-accredited academic programs—the most among Oklahoma's regional universities.

Student interns at Homeland Security works in Washington, D.C.

Southwestern Oklahoma State University student Michael Morrison of Weatherford has participated in a summer internship with the Department of Homeland Security in Washington, D.C.

Morrison is a senior at SWOSU, majoring in computer science.

One of his first activities was completing Cellebrite CCLO Certification, a mobile forensics fundamentals certification which teaches students the logical extraction and data analysis skills needed for various mobile devices.

Morrison works under the direction of a mentor to extract data from phones that can be used in a court of law when prosecuting an individual accused of a crime. One of his tasks has been sorting phones which are being held as evidence.

Stout selected as NASA Summer Scholar

Jennifer (JJ) Stout, a Weatherford senior computer science student from Southwestern Oklahoma State University, was selected as one of 125 students nationwide as a Langley Aerospace Research Summer Scholar (LARSS) at the NASA Langley Research Center in Virginia.

This unique project is intended to encourage high-caliber college students to both pursue and earn graduate degrees and to enhance their interest in aerospace research by exposing them to the professional research resources and facilities at NASA.

Two primary elements of LARSS are: (1) a research project completed by each participant under the supervision of a researcher who assumes the role of mentor for the summer and (2) technical lectures by prominent engineers and scientists. Additional elements of the project include tours of LaRC wind tunnels, computational facilities and laboratories.

Stout has been working to set up a media server for all NASA Center personnel to provide access to the multitude of historical photos in the NASA archives. As part of this project, she is creating searching algorithms to make the archive more easily searchable.

Students interested in NASA internship opportunities should visit <https://intern.nasa.gov>.

Education students chosen for institute

Two Department of Education students from Southwestern Oklahoma State University will attend the Mission to Planet Earth summer institute, hosted by the Oklahoma Space Grant Consortium, in Norman.

Emily Hartley of Reydon and Chelsey Mawson of Henrietta (TX) will spend 11 days at the institute designed to prepare teachers to motivate students with hands-on science, technology, engineering and math curriculum.

In addition to the summer institute, Hartley and Mawson will attend a weekend "teaching with an iPad" seminar in September and make a four-day trip to NASA's Johnson Space Center during the spring semester. The institute will enable the participants to enhance their teaching by aligning the motivational activities with national and state standard curriculum.

Computer Science Program Director Madeline Baugher, DOE Coordinator of Field Experiences Bruce Belanger and DOE Assistant Professor Dr. Sherri Brogdon assisted the students through the application process.

Two make NABC Honor Court

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – The National Association of Basketball Coaches (NABC) announced today the 2013-14 NABC Honors Court, recognizing those men's collegiate student-athletes who excelled in academics during the past season. Two players from SWOSU – Bret Atkins and Jordan Franz – were among the record 895 student-athletes to earn the NABC Honors Court distinction.

The NABC Honors Court recognizes the talents and gifts that these men possess off the court and the hard work they exhibit in the classroom. In order to be named to the Honors Court, a student-athlete must meet a high standard of academic criteria.

Atkins (Zagreb, Croatia) provided depth in the backcourt for the Bulldogs, appearing in 19 games last season. He shot 45.5% from the 3-point range while averaging just under three minutes of action per game in his sophomore season.

Franz (Alva, Okla.) saw action in all 27 games his junior season, making seven starts for the Bulldogs in midseason. He averaged 1.8 points per game while shooting 30.6% from the field and 31.0% from 3-point range in just under 10 minutes of action.

White helmets return

WEATHERFORD, Okla. – A traditional look will return to the SWOSU Football team in 2014 as they don white helmets this fall for the first time since 2005. Head Coach Dan Cocannouer recently unveiled the first prototype, which will be the only change in the Bulldogs uniforms this season.

"I've been thinking about ways to help our program out each year and one of the biggest pieces of feedback I get from our former players is, 'When are you going to go back to white helmets?'" Cocannouer said. "I've thought about it quite a bit, because I like the blue helmets, they're very sharp, but I'm ready to get back to tradition."

SWOSU has worn several variations of the white helmet through the years, with different Bulldog logos along with the popular 'SW' logo that was on the side of the lids from 1988-2003. It was also the helmet worn by SWOSU during the programs only National Championship in 1996. That helmet design was replaced by a white helmet with the new 'SWOSU' logo in 2004 before the change to blue occurred in 2005.

"When you look at our history, all but one conference championship was won by the team while they were wearing white helmets," Cocannouer mentioned. "We've come a long way since we've been here and I feel like it's time for our kids to start expecting to win. We're at the point with our program where we feel like we should expect to win and these white helmets are going to keep us in mind of that."

Two assistants accept jobs

WEATHERFORD, Okla. – Two former assistant coaches – Kadie Berlin and Kalie Mader – have moved on from SWOSU to accept junior college head coaching positions for next season. Berlin has been named the new head softball coach at NOC Tonkawa while Mader has accepted the position as head volleyball coach at Pratt Community College.

Berlin assumed her new role on July 1st after two years at SWOSU, serving as an assistant to the Bulldog softball and cross country teams. She came to SWOSU after a playing career at Pratt CC and Ottawa (Kan.) University and she is completing her Master's in Business Administration from SWOSU this summer.

"I am very excited to join the NOC Tonkawa family and community," Berlin said upon her appointment. "I am blessed to have this opportunity and to do one of the things I enjoy most in life, coaching softball."

Mader will be returning to her home state and the junior college where she played at before transferring to SWOSU. She was an assistant for the Bulldogs last season after one season as a graduate assistant at Christian Brothers University in Memphis, Tenn.

Mader played at SWOSU from 2010-11 and she was named to the inaugural GAC all-academic team.

"I am so thankful that I was given the opportunity to be part of the Bulldog family," Mader said. "I will always have a special place for SWOSU in my heart. Without the support system at SWOSU I would not be part of the coaching world and for that I'm very grateful."
