1978 BULLDOG
Education is the core of our working lives, for those of us who attend college. We come to school with all of our apprehensions, walls, encasing shells created by our previous homelife, and all of our own personal philosophies about life and our future ambition. As we continue to learn and grow, we experience the chipping away of old values and ways to make room for the new ideas that will aid us in our future employment. As knowledge slowly bites away the old and instills a new, informed and well-rounded individual, we finally reach the point in which we are ready to get to the core of what we have learned. We exhibit this core, as we expose it (all of the talents we have learned) in interviews and discussions previous to receiving the job that our college education has trained us for. The core is the finished product.
The actions of men are the best interpretations of their thought.

Locke
As every thread of gold is valuable,
so is every moment of time.

J. Mason
Kindness is the golden chain by which society is bound together.

Geothe
SPARKY for SOPH PRES
What we learn with pleasure, we never forget.

Alfred Mercier
Every individual nature has its own beauty.

Emerson
God divided man into men, that they might help each other.

The future of college students is not in their hands alone. The men and women on these pages prescribe standards, allocate funds, determine student fees and courses, and plan the expansion of facilities. They strive to involve students and faculty in government, to improve the value of Oklahoma's graduate programs and to provide better opportunities for the college bound Oklahoman. Of course, it all takes financial support, yet, their goal is always aimed toward improvement.
University President
Dr. Leonard G. Campbell

With three years behind him as president of Southwestern, Dr. Leonard Campbell can point to significant improvements on campus, particularly from the standpoint of students. Students especially appreciated the improved student food services and the resurfaced parking lots, as indicated by a survey among them during the year. Similar efforts on the academic level resulted in a number of new programs to benefit students.

Under Dr. Campbell’s leadership, Southwestern continues to be known for its concern for its students, for the friendliness and helpfulness of its faculty, and for its quality of college life.

Dorm Council

The Dorm Councils are responsible for making decisions that affect the dorm residents in their respective residence halls. They decide what fund raising projects and activities the dorm will participate in. Dorm Councils are also responsible for operating regular open-house hours. Dorm Councils organize and plan service activities for the dorm to participate in, and plan special activities for the people in the dorms.

Stewart Hall Dorm Council sponsors an annual Haunted House and Christmas party. Both Rogers and Stewart Hall Dorm Councils have had fund raising projects to purchase a new color television for their lobbies. Rogers and Jefferson Dorm Councils worked together to plan their annual Christmas Dance.

Throughout the year, Dorm Councils helped make dorm life a little more enjoyable for everyone.

School of Pharmacy

The difference between greatness and mediocrity in an institution of higher education is determined to a great extent by its administration and its faculty. The School of Pharmacy is fortunate in both administration and staff.

Since becoming Dean of the Southwestern Oklahoma State University School of Pharmacy in 1965, Dr. Walter L. Dickison has been responsible for pilot programs in clinical pharmacy and pharmacy practicum which have been widely adopted by other schools of pharmacy in the nation.

Faculty members do not limit their talents to excellent classroom and laboratory instruction. They prepare lectures, correspondence study courses, and audio-cassettes to vitalize the School of Pharmacy Continuing Education programs.

With headquarters at St. Anthony Hospital in Oklahoma City, the auxiliary faculty helps make pharmacy a real health profession education through Pharmacy Practicum and Clinical Practice programs that involve a clinical faculty made up of community and hospital pharmacists.

In addition to the preceding, the faculty shows empathy for their students through wise counseling and understanding of individuals' problems.

Division of Pharmacy Practice

More Pharmacy . . .

There is more to Pharmacy than just being a school. Pharmacy is a school within a university consisting of divisions and departments. The departments include Medicinal Chemistry and Pharmacognosy, Pharmacology and Physiology, Pharmaceutics, Health Care and Administration, and Clinical Pharmacy.

A student must spend 2 years in pre-pharmacy and 3 years in the professional School of Pharmacy. While admission to the pre-pharmacy program is at the election of the student, admission to the professional program is only through application on forms prescribed by the faculty.

Upon the completion of the 2-3 year program with a minimum of six semesters residence in the professional School of Pharmacy, a student may graduate with a Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy.
Nursing

The first nursing class started this fall semester and the class was limited to thirty-five students. In this first year of the nursing school's existence, the faculty included four teachers and one director.

A student may receive a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in Nursing. The first two years of the four year program consist of general education courses and other courses prerequisite to the clinical component of the nursing major. The last two years include clinical courses.

Scholarships are available from two area hospitals and one private party. These scholarships are available only to upper division nursing majors.

Art

The aims of the Department of Art are fourfold: to provide the general education in art needed by students to develop a consciousness of art as a part of life, to enrich the general education program, to train teachers to teach art in the public schools, to encourage the development of artists for the commercial field. The department has programs designed to meet each of these aims. Southwestern offers Bachelor of Arts Degrees in the areas of Art, Commercial Art and Art Education and a Master of Education Degree in Art Education. In addition, an individual may earn a Commercial Art Certificate by completing the 60-semester-hour program at the university.

Art is primarily the application of skills, knowledge and abilities learned in foundation art courses toward the resolution of communication challenges of the various media. A broad foundation of general art courses complemented by specialized courses in the areas of painting, ceramics, sculpture, graphics, jewelry, art history, and commercial art will better prepare the student to step from a learning situation into an earning situation.

Biology

Picture yourself touring the inner-workings of a plant cell, studying its method of respiration, and its behavior. Or try to imagine learning all of the muscles contained in a frog's body, or all of the bones in the human body. If this sounds interesting, biology is for you. Biology is the subject that can take you to these places and farther.

The Biology department at Southwestern offers over twenty-five different life science courses. These courses cover all aspects of the life sciences, from the smallest microorganism in the jungles of Africa to the largest whale living in the depths of the sea.

Research Biology, Medical Technology, and Nursing are only a few of the career choices that stem from the wide variety of life science courses offered at Southwestern.

James Lovell, Biology Department Head

More Business . . .

Southwestern's Division of Business has more than doubled in every aspect over the past twenty-five years. Twenty-one full-time faculty members now serve the Division's class enrollment of over 3,000 students.

Beginning with the fall semester of 1977, the Business Department received approval to offer the Master of Business Administration Degree. The approval culminated a five-year effort by the faculty and administration, and will serve the needs for graduate study in Business for Southwestern Oklahoma. Forty students representing undergraduate degrees from fifteen different universities and sixteen degree disciplines were admitted to the first MBA class.

In addition to the MBA Degree, the Business Department boasts a new advisory service program, funded by an Economic Development Grant, to provide free consulting activities for business firms.

The Division of Business adheres to a philosophy of quality education for students, service to the community, and leadership through professional involvement. May they help you?
Chemistry

Supplying the needed knowledge of chemistry for students in nursing, home ec., pharmacy, biology, pre-medicine, pre-dentistry, etc. is the Chemistry Department. This basic building block is headed by Dr. Donald Hamm and is one of only five chemistry departments in the state that offers the A.C.S. (American Chemical Society) Professional Degree.

From this department sprouts the Student Affiliate Chapter of the American Chemical Society (the Chemistry Club) which has been honored as one of the "outstanding" Chapters in the nation.

During the summer the department conducted a six week institute here for gifted high school students from across the nation. The program was sponsored by the National Science Foundation and Dr. Allen Lane served as director.

The department also boasts Dr. Don Hertzler who served as chairman of the Oklahoma section of the American Chemical Society.

General Education

The General Education Committee plays an important role in preparing Southwestern students to meet the world as well rounded individuals. The General Education department works to give students a broad range of required courses in order to give students knowledge in fields other than their major area.

The General Education program is designed to give all students an awareness in five distinct areas. These areas are basic skills and communication, knowledge of man as a social and intellectual being, an appreciation of man’s scientific heritage, an enlargement of one’s awareness and perspective in creative arts and activities, and a development of attitudes to add dignity and meaning to one’s own personal life.

Courses are required in six major areas. These areas include English and speech, mathematics, physical education, biological sciences, physical science, and history and social sciences. General education electives may then be chosen from the areas of music, art, literature, humanities, behavioral science, foreign languages and practical arts.
Health, Physical Education and Recreation

The HPER Department is a progressive program as a result of the combined efforts of the staff members. Due to a wide variety of areas of expertise and backgrounds, the Department is able to offer courses in the physical arts leading to a better understanding of HPER. This enables SOSU to offer expansive and progressive courses in outdoor education. The program is known nationwide and is credited with many firsts since its beginning by Dr. L. J. Van Horn in 1957. Dr. Van Horn has instigated countless new programs into the department during his twenty years as HPER Department Chairman. These contributions will be long remembered and enjoyed by all for many years after his retirement in May, 1977. Through Dr. Van Horn's guidance, the program has developed into the finest in the state.
Home Economics

As far back in history as one cares to delve, home economics has always been important. Even in the most primitive of homes, the basic aspects of home economics — preparing food and clothing for the family — were always found.

Today in our more modern life style, especially in a time of economic inflation, home economics takes on a much broader range of activities than simply knowing how to prepare food and clothing. The college graduate who has a degree in Home Economics is specialized in the business aspects of running a household. She also has a ready knowledge of child care and guidance.

All these aspects are witnessed when one observes the courses offered in the Home Economics Department at Southwestern Oklahoma State University. There is a broad range of classes supplemented with laboratory work in cooking, sewing, and working with children.

Department Chairman Helen Brown and the entire Home Economics faculty work to bring about these interesting and useful classes and laboratory experiences so that they will appeal to potential Home Economics majors. Their realization of the essential need for this type of training prompted the inclusion of this learning process in the department.
Industrial Arts

The Industrial Arts Department is located on the northeast side of Southwestern’s campus. Here students learn many different skills such as drafting, metalwork, woodwork and electronics. Many students who take these courses take them for their own personal knowledge. However, those who pursue a degree in Industrial Education have a variety of job opportunities — junior or senior high teaching, physical therapy, teaching in hospitals, engineering and drafting are just a few.

The successful endeavors of the Industrial Arts Department is headed by Dr. James Griffin. Dr. Griffin and his staff have produced many talented teachers and professionals and through much hard work will continue this tradition in the future.

Language Arts

Every day we work with words, and working with words is the main function of the Language Arts department. All students, no matter what their major, are required to take courses in language arts. The faculty of the Language Arts Department has a large and important job in preparing each student to communicate and work with words in society. There are many different avenues through which these communication skills can be learned. Courses in literature, foreign language, speech, theater, grammar, and journalism, all offer the student a different area of language arts to learn through.

Practical experience for the language arts student can be gained by working on the BULLDOG yearbook staff or on the staff of THE SOUTHWESTERN, a weekly newspaper published by the journalism department. CHAPBOOK, a book of creative writing and art from Southwestern students. CHANNEL ONE, a book of themes and compositions, is also published through the Language Arts Department.
Eugene Hughes, Language Arts Department Head

Language Arts Faculty: Delenna Williams, Lillian Thomas, Anna Laura Smith, Ted Pyle, Jack Shaw.

Mathematics

Under the direction of Department Head Raymond McKellips and the Mathematics faculty, a student may choose from a variety of careers ranging from computer technology to kindergarten math.

The modern curricula in mathematics includes courses and activities designed to provide preparation for the professional mathematician; knowledge in contemporary mathematics for a liberal education; mathematical competence to prepare a professional teacher of secondary mathematics; mathematical content in depth for the student interested in the applied sciences, statistics, computer science, mathematics for business, and an excellent area of concentration for the elementary teacher.

Raymond McKellips, Department Head

Military Science

The curricula in Military Science includes courses and activities designed to prepare a student to become a commissioned officer in the United States Army.

The first year student is introduced to the military customs and designs. Then, when given a basic knowledge of the military, the students learn about the role of the Army in society and its importance in the national defense. The second year instruction includes the history of the American military, map reading, and tactics.

Junior level work begins the advanced leadership seminars and the advanced philosophy of tactics, which carries on through the senior year.

Activities coordinated with class work include programs such as water survival training, rappelling, orienteering, and hand-to-hand combat. There are social organizations such as Scabbard and Blades fraternity and the Saberettes sorority; along with professional groups, Pershing Rifles and the Commandos, all of which promote leadership and assist in capability of performance in today's Army.
Music

Marching to the beat of a fantastic drummer is the Pride of the Southwest. Those fancy steppers seen during halftime and all the other music makers on campus are the product of hard work, plenty of time and Dr. Jurrens and the Music Department.

The Music Department is accredited by the National Association of Schools of Music and offers performance opportunities for all university students.

The performance groups not only hold concerts on campus but also in high schools throughout the state.

In recent years they have performed at the regional Music Educators National Conference in Omaha, the College Band Directors National Association in Albuquerque and the Arkansas Valley Music Educators Association in Pueblo, Colorado.

In the summer, students and music directors from a four-state area converge on the campus for camps that feature double-reed, choral, band, twirling and drum majoring, cheerleading, flag and rifle, and for the annual piano workshop.
Physics

The Physics Department is entering a wonderful new world of study including some rather startling experiments and projects. Dr. Edwin Green and several geology students conducted a research project on the “Recovery and Age Determination of the Fossil Remains of Mammoths in Southwestern Oklahoma” which was assisted through an Institutional Research Grant. Dr. Charles Rogers and a group of physics students made radioactive tests for fallout from the Chinese H-bomb. One of the big moments in the Department was when geology students were privileged to inspect 12 specimens of moon rocks which were borrowed from the Space Center in Houston, Texas.

The Department also acquired new equipment through funding by the National Science Foundation for use in geology laboratory courses and in its Optics course. A new astronomy observatory to house a 14” reflecting telescope is being constructed near the Weatherford airport. The observatory, designed by Dr. Ray Jones and Dr. Charles Rogers, will provide for better laboratory sessions as well as giving students incentive to conduct research projects in astronomy.
Social Sciences

So many of today's problems involve politics and government. Social Science courses are designed to teach the student of his environment, social and physical.

American Government and Political Science aim toward the development of an adult capable of understanding his government and making sound decisions at elections.

Communication with men from different cities, states, and far-off countries is the contribution of sociology classes.

Reading the tales of past, history books open minds so that they may project into the future.

These combined help to create a student capable of understanding a confusing world and of building a better future for those to follow.

Clarence Petrowsky, Department Head
Teacher Education and Psychology

Teacher Education at Southwestern is viewed as one of the key steps in developing those attributes and skills which will make teaching not only a satisfying and rewarding career, but is designed to be a foundation which prospective teachers can utilize to the fullest in their efforts to teach others.

The famous TEP-TV facilities which provide closed circuit and cable television programs for the institution and the community is typical of the forward-looking steps which have been taken, and continue to be initiated. Not only are students instructed in both elementary and secondary education, but also in psychology, library education and special education.

The program in psychology utilizes advanced techniques to achieve superior training for those who choose this as a major field. Theory and practical experience are combined to produce fields of study which are intellectually stimulating, greatly practical and career oriented.

The Art Guild's members consist of anyone interested in or who appreciates the arts.

They entertain visiting artists from other cities and states who demonstrate their techniques.

Films concerned with art throughout the world are often shown at club meetings.

Members are usually Art majors, but not necessarily, and they often participate in state-wide art festivals.

The biggest event of the year for the Guild was their Annual Christmas Show in which works from the members were shown and sold to visiting art collectors.

Yearbook

Everyone it seems in this hectic world today decides sometime in their life they would like to be journalists. A group of eleven made this decision when they decided they wanted to get involved with the yearbook. These people acted a little strange sometimes but it's not really their fault. Hassles of deadlines, sales and trying to contact half the people on campus in order to find out one person's name sometimes frustrated them almost to the point of insanity.

Once a lady by the name of Marjorie Hourd wrote, "Nothing is more empty than a book in which you cannot find yourself." This is the goal that the yearbook staff of the 1978 BULLDOG worked toward. We trust that in the years ahead as you thumb through these pages, it will prompt memories which reflect your days at Southwestern as they are today.

Marriage and graduation depleted the ranks of staff holdovers, and with only one person returning, this made it tough, but editors compensated by redoubling their efforts, holding night sessions ... and crying.

Gamma Delta Kappa

Gamma Delta Kappa is the oldest student organization at Southwestern, dating back to 1911.

To be a member a girl has to have a 3.25 grade average for a full academic year.

It is not only an honor sorority. The members work on various projects throughout the year for service to the community and the state. For Thanksgiving they collected canned goods and other foodstuffs and distributed them to needy families.

They played Santa to the youngsters at Children’s Memorial Hospital in Oklahoma City by donating Christmas toys.

Women’s Awareness Day was sponsored by the sorority in January. Various speakers talked on subjects pertaining to women.

To further their cause the sorority donates a $100 scholarship to one of its members by application based on financial need.

At the beginning of the year a picnic is held for the junior and sophomore members.

During February they have their annual Sweetheart Dance and end the year with another picnic.

Any college student is eligible after completing at least sixty semester hours.

The group encourages scholastic achievement and the recognition of advancement through education.

Alpha Psi Omega

Thespians wishing to put their talents to productive use can be found as members of Alpha Psi Omega, a club designed to promote interest and activities in the art of theatre. The group provides actors and actresses for many of the drama department’s productions and members assist with construction aspects of presenting the plays.
Drama

The Drama department began their season with the play entitled "Look Back in Anger." The play was directed by Claude Kezer and had four performances on the Southwestern campus before it was a contest play in Oklahoma City at the Oklahoma College Theatre Festival. From the "Look Back in Anger" cast, two All-State Cast members were chosen. Mickey Best and George Ann Jones were the two honored thespians. Also at the festival, another distinguished honor was awarded to Jerry Brewer. He was selected to be a further contestant in the Irene Ryan Scholarship Award.

"Look Back in Anger" was followed by "SOSU Playwrites on Stage", a production which featured two student-written plays and several student directed scenes from established plays.

Through good times and bad, the staff of THE SOUTHWESTERN sticks together.
Newspaper

Efforts designed to make "The Southwestern" a more readable newspaper this year proved both challenging and rewarding to co-editors Ken Shaw and Debi Embry.

Sports coverage, in particular, was upgraded — and there was much to write about with Southwestern teams among the leaders in almost every sport. Photo coverage was increased through the efforts of Mike Stach, Kathy Keffer and others.

Other efforts centered on greater reader involvement and response through letters to the editor, editorials, and columns.
Iota Alpha

Iota Alpha, an Industrial Arts organization, provides a chance for its members to get involved in activities on the Southwestern campus.

Officers for Iota Alpha are J. C. Scott, president; Dewayne Willis, vice-president; and Joe Sieber, secretary. Treasurer is Robert Jarousak and Charles Bayha holds the office of parliamentarian. Toby Hawkins is reporter and Doug Miller is the student advisor.

Along with participating in several campus service activities, Iota Alpha also builds a homecoming float and sponsors a Christmas banquet each year.
The Indian Heritage Club aims to promote Indian cultural awareness and puts a strong emphasis on academics. Members participate in intramural sports on campus and have organized an all Indian basketball team.

The club sponsors Indian Heritage week during the spring semester in addition to the various pow-wows held throughout the year. Pictured on the left is Elsie Hecrow, Indian princess selected to represent the club.
Band

As the Southwestern Bulldog football team made their fantastic debut in the fall, the Southwestern Bulldog Marching Band also made a sparkling entrance. The band highlighted the halftime of each home football game with fireworks, skits, intricate marching formations and music. The band performed their renditions of popular tunes and old favorites.

The band is not made up entirely of music majors, with students from all over the Southwestern campus being a part of the band, from pharmacy to psychology majors.

In early November, the Bulldog band went on the road and traveled to Houston, Texas. There, it became a part of the halftime show for a Houston Oilers' game in the Astro Dome. The band made other trips throughout the year.

Bible Chair

The Bible Chair, affiliated with the Church of Christ, is home away from home for many students who find within its friendly confines a place of Christian fellowship, Bible study and devotionals. Billy King, director, teaches a number of Bible courses which can be taken for college credit each semester. The Bible Chair building also offers opportunity for relaxation and recreation.
The Baptist Student Union is a place for Southwestern students, regardless of religious affiliation, to join together in the worshiping and witnessing of Jesus Christ. It is a place for sharing experiences and insights. It is a place to relax with friends after a hectic day of class, and watch television or play ping-pong. It is a place for prayer — at Noonday devotions or Thursday night vespers. But most importantly, it is a place for people just to be together.
Chi Alpha Gamma Delta

Spreading the gospel throughout the Southwestern campus is the sole purpose of Chi Alpha Gamma Delta, and members take their roles very seriously. Not only does the Pentecostal group spread the word of Jesus Christ locally, but they employ music as a way of preaching through their traveling choir. Members gather every Thursday night for an evening of prayer and discovery of one's relationship with God through Bible reading. Tuesday nights are meeting nights and every day is one of prayer due to oncoming services.

The Wesley Foundation is a Campus Ministry funded by the United Methodist Church, and open to students of all denominations.

Its program was founded to provide for students a fellowship community that enables each student to live up to their own discipleship in Jesus Christ.

Students design their own programs which include: Wednesday evening Bible Study, Sunday evening meals and programs, devotions led by students, an “Adopted Grandparents” program, intramural athletics, a bi-monthly newsletter, and occasional events on campus.
Student Association

The Southwestern Student Association is an organization of students that are concerned with the improvements of their growing university. This organization is made up of all students enrolled in twelve hours or more. The students elect students to represent them and to voice their opinion on activities and special events throughout the school year.

The class representatives and class presidents, along with the executive council, make up the Student Senate. The Student Senate this year sponsored a quite successful chain of events. A total of 36 dances, compared to 19 the previous year, kept the dancing student on the move. For the movie lovers, 17 movies were shown, compared with eight last year. And for the student who likes to sit and enjoy a concert, a total of three concerts filled the schedule compared to one last year.

The Student Senate is an organization of active and interested students. These students work and strive to make Southwestern Oklahoma State University a better university for students.

Jeannie C. Riley was one of the concerts sponsored by Student Association.

Homecoming was a big event on Southwestern's campus.

A formal dance was held after the game rounding out the homecoming ceremonies.

The 1977 sports year at the University of Southwestern Oklahoma State was a season that coaches as well as fans will long remember. Leading off with a basketball team that went to the National Finals after winning conference and district the athletes adrenaline began to flow. Attitudes began to change and everyone wanted to be a winner.

From basketball came baseball and the baseball team under new head coach Larry Geurbink showed how much enthusiasm they had as they clipped Southeastern in a home contest for one of the only two losses the Savages had all year in conference play. Also the game against OU that was more or less just a practice game proved how tough the Bulldogs were as they battled the Sooners in a thriller. The Bulldogs finished second in the conference and journeyed to the District Nine playoffs. Led by David Wall's pitching and a large encore of hitters including Willie Lee, Desmond Donthan, Greg Armringer, Gary Calip and a host of others the Bulldogs compiled a .286 team batting average.

Geurbink coming into the year told the players that he had never had a losing season and the man expressed his views that now was not the time to start! The Bulldogs rounded out the season with a 26-17 record.

Next came track. Track had never been a very big sport at Southwestern but with the enthusiasm that these young men displayed they were bound to be winners. The track team swept the conference meet and finished third in the district. Now track is on the map and in the books at Southwestern.

The golf team also had a very good year as they too won the conference and finished third in the district.

The rodeo teams finished just short of making the finals for the national championship.

The tennis teams had a very respectable year as the men finished second in the conference and third in the district. The women put together a 4-4 mark in match play.

As the new school year rolled around the athletes were still feeling the spirit that made them want to give their all to win. The Bulldog football team put together their best record ever, finishing the regular season with 10-0 record and clipping Kearney Nebraska in the semi-final playoff game. As the Bulldogs traveled to Seattle to play for the National Championship they were rated number one in the nation, held the conference banner in their hands and were wanting to win the big one for head coach Otis T. Delaporte, who announced his retirement prior to the playoffs.

The Bulldogs met their match at Seattle and never got the ball moving losing to Abilene Christian 24-7.

The seasons rolled around and basketball started again. With two new guards replacing, Matt Bush and P. J. Simmons who graduated, the Bulldogs were inching their way toward the conference title and the playoffs.

This was truly the year of the Bulldogs.
Cheerleaders

Seldom quiet and seldom at home were the cheerleaders of the 1977-78 Bulldogs. These six young ladies found time in their busy usually hectic schedules to attend a large majority of all Southwestern's sporting events. Ranging from football to track these ladies did it all. It is really not that easy being a cheerleader. One must learn cheers, formations and work with the fans to get cooperation. Ask any athlete how much difference it makes to have the crowd behind you and most will say, "one heck of a lot." Hats off to these fine young ladies who gave up their time and devoted their energies to support the Bulldogs. From left to right they are: Liza McElroy, Shirley Mack, Robbie Steenbergen, Barbara Tauriello, Rita Epps and Peggy Akers.
Football

The 1977 Southwestern Oklahoma State University Bulldogs had a season that will long be remembered by the fans and the school. Going into the championship game the Bulldogs were rated number one in the NAIA. Now the Bulldogs are an established team next year for the coveted championship title.

How ironic that a team that was picked to finish last in the conference coming off of a previous season record of 4-7 should do so well. This team of young men that consisted of 16 seniors really put it all together for the 1977 season. The team finished the regular season with a 10-0 record and conquered Kearney Nebraska in the Semi-final playoff game and won a slot in the finals played in the Seattle Kingdome.

The Seniors: David Ream, Scott Funk, Lewis Blanton, Gary Calip, Mike Sekul, Mike Whaley, Roy Ellison, Mike Brown, Gerald Nipp, David Armstrong, Pat Vaverka, Fred Bangs, David Denning, Dan Cocannouer, H. L. Washmon and Doug Brown, played a big part in the Bulldogs' success.

The title was not meant for the Bulldogs on that fateful day in December, but as these fine seniors leave this institution of higher learning, they will always be able to look back with pride at their achievements during the year.

Otis T. Delaporte announced that he was stepping down as head football coach of the Bulldogs at the season's close. Delaporte received many awards in this his final season including "Coach of the Year Awards" in the Conference, District and Region. Also Delaporte was honored at the Tenth Annual Headliners Banquet.

Delaporte took the head coaching job at Southwestern in 1963 and stacked up an impressive record of 98-47-2. For five straight years he led the Bulldogs to the conference title starting in 1967.

This, his final season in coaching, was the school's best season ever as they went undefeated during the regular season. Also this was the first time the Bulldogs have made it to any kind of National Playoffs, much less the finals.

Maybe Delaporte summed it up best in his resignation letter. "This decision is the right one for me, and it comes at a time when a winning tradition has been established for the entire SWOSU athletic program."

Basketball

It was an uphill battle, but the Southwestern basketball team clinched the Oklahoma Intercollegiate title in the final game of the season, barely nudging out Southeastern.

It was the games away from home that presented problems, as the team stretched its home game winning streak to more than 30 consecutive games.

Capitalizing on all-out effort and great execution of the two-minute stall in close games, the team overcame the loss of last year's two guards lost by graduation. As the season progressed Tony Simmons and Sharky Sheridan filled these spots ably, and as the season came to a close hopes were high for a post-season spot in the tournament at Kansas City.

Baseball

The 1977 Bulldog baseball team continued the winning tradition that is becoming part of Southwestern’s trademark. Recording a 26-17 overall record the Bulldogs finished second in the OIC conference and earned a place in the District Nine playoffs.

Larry Geurkink took over the reins as baseball coach prior to the opening of the season and instilled a spirit in the players that made them want to win more than anything else in world. Southwestern beat Southeastern in a home game one afternoon after the Savages had just won the Pan American Tournament. In fact, this win by the Bulldogs was only the second time the Savages were beaten all year in conference play.

The season included a game against OU that the Bulldogs were not figured to have a chance in. However the Bulldogs gave the Sooners a good fight up to the ninth inning when the hard hitting Sooner team broke open the game.

This year the Bulldogs look forward to having most of their players return and some hard recruiting should bring in some more depth for the ’78 team.

It is nothing but will power that makes a person slide head first and the team had will power.

Track

Southwestern's track team lived up to all expectations in their 1977 season as they tore up the OIG conference race. The Bulldogs swept all the running events in the meet. Led by the unstoppable Gary Richardson and Sidney Laub (the most valuable athletes of the meet), the Bulldogs managed ten first place finishes and out-distanced their closest competitor by 28.5 team points.

The track team also finished third in the district meet. The outlook for the upcoming season looks very good for the track team as they will have almost the whole crew returning.
The 1977 Track Team

Golf

The 1977 golf team set many new marks for the golf teams to follow in the years to come. For the first time in the history of the school the golf team won the conference title, and finished third in the NAIA District nine tournament. The golf team also brought home four second place trophies during the regular season; one from Central State, East Central, Cameron and Shawnee. Bob McAfee and Don Weeks tied for the medalists spot at the Conference tournament.

The Women's and Men's respective tennis teams had very respectable seasons during the 1977 school year. The men compiled a 6-5 match record finishing second in the conference and third in the district.

The Women rounded out their season with a 4-4 mark and high hopes of improvement in the coming year.
Rodeo

The Southwestern Rodeo team finished their 1977 season in third place of the Central Plains Region. The team was in the race all season for the finals but were narrowly edged out in the final rodeo of the season. Only the top two teams from each region make it to the finals.

The women's rodeo team also was eliminated from a position in the finals.

During the fall semester, Blunck's Studio took yearbook pictures in each dorm. With this convenience made to the student, it was the hope of the yearbook staff that more class pictures would be taken. As an added incentive, one extra page of candid pictures in the yearbook was offered to the dorm having the most yearbook pictures made. Oklahoma Hall was the winner.
