STUDENT APhA CELEBRATES NATIONAL PHARMACY WEEK

The public has come to expect to use drugs in almost every instance of therapy today. They expect to buy and use drugs for self medication, and they have a wide variety of drugs from which to choose. Some individuals have become too confident in the curative effects of drugs for their ailments. This attitude appears to be a key part of the over-use and thus misuse of drugs.

Since Oct. 6-12 was "National Pharmacy Week," the student chapter of the American Pharmaceutical Association at the school of Pharmacy at Southwestern State College took the opportunity to publicize the role of the pharmacist in the community.

Drugs are double-edged swords. They have great power for good and also a great potential for harm if misused or abused. We can only wonder how many disease symptoms are being masked by continued self medication, or how many work-days are lost, or how much the country's medical care cost is made larger through misguided auto-therapy.

Much of this misguidance could be eliminated, however, if people would seek the advice of the community drug expert, the registered pharmacist, when purchasing so-called "every-day pills." He is trained in the field of drug chemistry and pharmaceutical incompatibilities and is well qualified to offer advice in the use of over-the-counter preparations.

In recognition of the important role played by the pharmacist in every community, Gov. Bartlett proclaimed Oct. 6-12 "National Pharmacy Week" in the state of Oklahoma. On Oct. 8 Oklahoma City's Mayor Norrick presented

Mrs. Ina Black, Travis Pendley, and Don Roberts with a similar proclamation. Mayor Dean Rader also proclaimed "National Pharmacy Week" in Weatherford, Okla. Window displays depicting "National Pharmacy Week" were set up by APhA members in both the Pharmacy Building and the Student Center. Mary Nicholson and Gary Porter were in charge of promotional activities for the week. Although special recognition is given to pharmacists during this week, the importance of their role in the community continues throughout the year.

Cafky Speaks

The second meeting of the student chapter of the American Pharmaceutical Association was held October 24 in the ballroom of the Student Center.

The speaker was Mr. E. Bruce Cafky, regional director of the Small Business Administration. Mr. Cafky is a native Oklahoman, having been raised in Beaver County. His parents were pioneers of the state. His father, the late O. H. Cafky, spent a lifetime in the banking business in Weatherford, Elk City, Beaver and Forgan.

Mr. Cafky attended the University of Oklahoma and was first employed in the banking business until 1933, when he entered government service in the Comptroller of Currency's Office, Division of Insolvent Banks, Washington, D. C. He later transferred to the National Banking Department as an assistant bank examiner in the Third Federal Reserve District, Philadelphia, Pa.

He has been in government service 33 years, having served in the Departments of Treasury, Interior and Agriculture, General Accounting Office and the Bureau of Aeronautics. He affiliated with the Small Business Administration in 1956 and became branch manager in 1961. He assumed his present position in 1965, when the branch office was designated a regional office.

There was a question and answer period following Mr. Cafky's talk.

Refreshments were served by the Kappa Psi pledge class.

SENIORS VISIT ABBOTT AND LILLY

By RICHARD POWER

The week of Sept. 28 was a week of excitement and expectation for the senior class of 1969. Now our five years of waiting and hoping were just about over, for the trip to Eli Lilly and Company and Abbott Laboratories was at hand. The afternoon of Sept. 28 itself was filled with anticipation and there was a frenzy of hurrying to get all the luggage aboard our bright yellow coaches.

As the caravan roared out of Weatherford, everyone was either trying to remember what they left behind, getting more film into their cameras or trying to listen to the OU football game with Notre Dame. After reaching the Santa Fe terminal, we rushed to the special chaircars in order not to get stuck with the last car. Not everyone made it, however, since the last car finally filled reluctantly by some and cheerfully by others. (This was the car "where the action was," so to speak.)

That evening as we went click-a-tee-clack through the night, everyone began eating their picnic or box lunches, playing cards, and some just tried learning how to walk on a train. We found a good friend on the train. His name was "Alvin," or he could also be known as Mr. 524, 424, 624. While early in the morning hours, you could still see people playing cards and once in a while hear a "Turn out dat l-i-g-h-t!"

As we came nearer to Chicago, the train passed by the old "Juliet Prison." The buildings and towns seemed dead and dreary because the sun was barely up and it was raining out.

Boarding buses at Chicago, we headed for Indianapolis and Eli Lilly and Company where a wonderful K. C. Strip Steak awaited us. The next day we were bused to the main Lilly branch. There, our group picture was taken followed by a tour of the research and development portion of their operation. We saw germ-free animals and how they are kept and electron microscopes and their use. In addition, we visited the test section where raw materials are assayed in order to insure an initial high standard of quality.

We then moved on to the manufacture of ointments, creams, and suppositories, including all of the special tests, care, and quality control that accompanies these products, as well as those with insulin and antibiotics.

The next day after a banquet and a night on the town, we toured the Kentucky Avenue plant to see capsule making, packaging, storing, and tablet making. One of the most interesting departments was the capsule manufacturing, where each machine cost at least $126,000. We also learned that Lilly keeps a two-year supply of vital drugs such as insulin on hand in case of emergency. The magnitude of their operation was illustrated by the fact that one warehouse had an inventory worth approximately 45 million dollars.

When we reached the Pick-Congress Hotel in Chicago, everyone was tired and cranky, never-the-less we had survived the trip from Indianapolis. The next morning we toured the Abbott plant all day with beautiful young femmes as our guides. We had an opportunity to see the manufacturing of tablets, parenterals, etc., and found it most interesting. Also included on the tour was the new Abbott Park, which will soon house new research, manufacturing and administration facilities.

"Sightseeing" was the order of business that evening. For example, some had never seen a real live "bunny." Many went to the right place to find them, but some got off the track at the "606" or the "Bourbon Street A-Go-Go." The next day we toured places such as museums, Gold Coast District, Planitarium, Shopping Center and Sacks.

Upon boarding our homeward-bound train, we felt very tired because we had really had a wonderful time on "Our Senior Trip."

P. S.

There wasn't much card playing on the way back, but a lot of "Turn out dat l-i-g-h-t!"

HOMEcoming AT SOUTHWESTERN

1968

Once again it is time for all the Southwestern alumni to return to the Hill for a week-end of fun and excitement. The many activities that are planned for this year's Homecoming promise to make it the greatest ever!

Homecoming activities kick-off with the narrowing of the Homecoming queen nominees to five lucky beauties on Thursday, Oct. 24. They will "campaign" and try to win votes for a week. On Oct. 31, the queen of the 1968 Homecoming will be selected in an all-school election. The winner will be announced at the football game.

Homecoming week-end commences Friday morning, Nov. 1, at 10 with the annual Homecoming assembly at the Health and Physical Education Building. The program will include a guest speaker. The Bulldog cheerleaders will be present to help enhance the school spirit.

Friday evening there will be a bonfire and pep rally south of the Bulldog baseball field.

School organizations will be sharing responsibilities in beating a drum all night Friday night to boost Homecoming spirit.

Also Friday night, as traditional, the organizations that are participating in the parade will be busy on their all night -- last minute -- float building preparations in order to build the number one float of the parade. The building, which started in early October, will end Saturday morning at 10:00 a.m. when the sirens of the police cars announce the start of the parade -- the theme being: "Heritage of the Hill."

After the parade at 12 noon, the annual Former Students Luncheon will be held in the Student Center for all alumni. From 2 until 4 p.m. all pharmacy alums are invited to an open house of the School of Pharmacy. Also the other buildings on campus will be open with guided tours being offered. Then at 5 p.m. all pharmacy alumni are invited to attend the Pharmacy Alumni Social Hour and Dinner at the Mark Restaurant. Tickets have been mailed to all alumni and additional tickets may be procured from the School of Pharmacy or Mr. Jerry Allen, Allen Pharmacy, Weatherford (secretary-treasurer of the Pharmacy Alumni Association).

Kicking off at 7:30 p.m. the Bulldogs play Panhandle State at Milam Stadium. The winning parade floats will be on display for early comers to enjoy. During half-time ceremonies Shelia Willis, Homecoming queen of 1967, will relinquish her crown to the new queen.

After the game all alumni and students are invited to attend the Homecoming dance in the Student Center Ballroom. Guests may "rock" to the sounds of the "Primettes" until about midnight.

Alumni of the pharmacy fraternities may also want to take note to attend the special activities that their active brothers plan to offer.

Mrs. Black Shows Slides

Mrs. Ina Black, Southwestern Pharmacy instructor, was guest speaker at the first business meeting of Pharmacy Wives held Oct. 8 in Pharmacy 301. Although she has spoken many times in past years to the wives, her program this year consisted of slides taken during her summer trip to Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

Due to resignations of two officers, President Linda Moore called for nominations for vice-president and secretary. Elected were Sarah Willis and Kay Peterman, respectively.

Discussion was held on fund-raising and service projects. It was voted to hold dorm sales consisting only of caramels, apples and popcorn balls during mid-term tests, Oct. 30 and 31.

The wives also voted to sponsor a booth at the APhA Harvest Festival held Oct. 22 at the Community Building. Bobbie Baker was appointed chairman of the committee to arrange for the booth.

Already planning for Christmas, the group voted to start plans on a Christmas basket for a needy family of Weatherford. Sherri Musick will head this committee.

The next meeting of Pharmacy Wives is scheduled for Nov. 12. It will be the last meeting at which membership dues of $3 can be paid.

Kappa Psi Pledge Class

Kappa Psi opened the fall semester with a back to school party for members and their wives or dates. The following week the Fall Smoker was held in the ballroom of the Student Union. Entertainment at the smoker was provided by Professor Perry K. Jones, "The Wizard of the Physics Department," and a dixieland band headed by brother Truitt Guthrie. Betty Shoecar, Elmanette Branagan, and Jon Bower passed out cigars to the members and prospective members.

As the leaves begin to fall we turn our attention toward Homecoming. Each year Kappa Psi competes in the designing, building, and exhibiting of a float for the Homecoming parade. Coffee and doughnuts will be served to alumni of Delta Beta chapter

Phi Delta Chi Plans Ahead

Progress is really taking shape with Phi Delta Chi's Homecoming plans. The float committee has been meeting regularly to try to make another Sweepstake entry, and we feel that we've done just that. Alumni have been notifying us of their intentions to make it down for Homecoming.

To give the alumni a little spice to their return to Southwestern, a barbecue has been planned for Saturday afternoon, catered by Underwood's of Altus. So it appears that the brothers of Phi Delta Chi are in store for quite a festive weekend.

Phi Delta Chi has initiated a service project for this semester to be handled in the latter part of the month. For an entire week, a booth will be set up in the Student Center to sell "Care" packages. The cost is $1 a package, and it is going for a very worthwhile cause. Let's all participate and send Care packages to those in need.

We feel that we have an exceptional pledge program this semester headed by Pledge Master Bud Parrett and Assistant Pledge Master Al Garrett. Officers of the pledge class are President Bill Lancet, Vice-President Dave Acker, and Secretary-Treasurer Bobby Webster. Others in the pledge class include: Houston Anderson, Robert Cox, Bob Schwabe, Bill Weingartner, Ray Potts, Dennis Jordon, and Steve Pray.

Phi Delta Chi has many of its brothers associated in other activities on campus. The senior class officers are composed entirely of Phi Delta Chi men. Its president is Bud Parrett; vice-president, Al Garrett, and treasurer, Rick Allen. John Rynners is the current president of Rho Chi, national honorary pharmaceutical fraternity. Finally, in the Student Senate, Phi Delta Chi is well represented with the senior class representative Gary Porter.

in Don Murrow's garage between 7:30 - 9:30 Saturday morning. The officers and alumni of the Delta Beta graduate chapter will meet on Saturday afternoon.

Kappa Psi has instituted a Professional Speakers Program this semester to enlighten the members on the many problems in our profession today.

Kappa Psi Has Full Year

The fall pledge class of Kappa Psi pharmaceutical fraternity kicked off the semester with a breakfast for the members in the ballroom of the Student Center. In spite of the early hour and the sleepy eyes, everyone enjoyed getting together over a cup of hot coffee.

A car wash was held on Oct. 19 to raise money for pledge activities. Although the day was quite cool, the sun shined brightly and a large crowd was on hand. Approximately 40 cars were washed. Another car wash is planned for the near future.

The pledge officers this fall are: Ken Stanley, Cushing, president; Ron Thomas, Amarillo, Texas, vice-president; Roger Whittemore, Hennessey, secretary-treasurer; J. E. Cummins, Dumas, Texas, parliamentarian.

Other pledges include: Rudy Aldrich, Eads, Colo.; Bob Lenhard, Edmond; Don Roberts, Breckenridge, Texas; Ron Cackler, Cushing; and John Shepard, El Reno.

APhA PICNIC

The annual Back to School Picnic of the student chapter of the American Pharmaceutical Association was held on Wednesday, Sept. 11, at the Weatherford City Park.

The outing was well attended by a crowd of about 250 pre-pharmacy students, pharmacy students and faculty.

Phi Delta Chi Pledge Class

The pledges of Phi Delta Chi withstood an onslaught of water-filled sponges Tuesday night, Oct. 22, at the APhA Harvest Ball. The pledges volunteered to be targets at the Phi Delta Chi booth. One pledge who was sidelined with a severe headache and cold appeared to be the only casualty. The Harvest Ball was held to create interest in the APhA.

The pledges held a breakfast for the members at 7:00 a.m. Friday, Oct. 25, at the Spot. The purpose of the breakfast was to bring the members and pledges of Phi Delta Chi together at a pledge-planner function.

Phi Delta Chi and the pledges will be starting work on the Homecoming float for this year. The fraternity has won the float contest for the last three years. The pledges are going to give it all they've got to make it four out of four.

In the midst of a great cloud of smoke the faculty chefs broiled racks of hamburgers in between coughing spells, tears and cries of "Hurry up with those patties."

The picnic committee was composed of: Tom Davis, chairman, Travis Pendly, Mike Haines, Paul Durham, Danny Young and Ron Lummus. A special thanks is given to the pledges of Phi Delta Chi for their assistance.
