

SWOSU Students Hosting Dinner to Benefit At-Risk Students

01.14.2015

Southwestern Oklahoma State University students are hosting a dinner to benefit an after-school program for at-risk students.

The Black Student Association at SWOSU will host its 2nd annual Soul Food Dinner on Thursday, February 5, from 7-9 p.m. in the Memorial Student Center Ballroom on the Weatherford campus.

There will be live entertainment, and the dinner consists of fried chicken, fried catfish, collard greens, macaroni and cheese, cornbread, red rice and beans.

Tickets are available for $10. Part of the proceeds will go to Eastside Academy in Clinton, a program that helps at-risk students succeed in school.

“Help us, help the future leaders of tomorrow as we seek to impact their lives,” said BSA President Alfa Abame.

Contact Abame at abamea@student.swosu.edu or call 405.269.3219 for tickets. Seating is limited so area residents are encouraged to purchase their tickets soon.
