A Time For Thanksgiving

October has come and gone. Homecoming was the sixth. By the time this issue of "The Southwestern Pharmacist" is put together, printed, mailed, and in your hands, Thanksgiving Day, 1973, will be close at hand. Perhaps a review of the things for which we are thankful is an appropriate theme for this message.

We are thankful for pharmacy and grateful that the profession of which we are members is at long last moving into a more professional relationship with patients and other health professionals.

We are thankful for Homecoming with its opportunity to visit with returning alums and briefly relive nostalgic memories with these good friends.

We are thankful for our active, progressive Pharmacy Alumni Association. Through their hard working officers and local membership and by employing your annual dues, they perform many services for our School. They have, for many years, provided annual scholarships for needy and deserving students. Each year they provide generous financial support of our annual Senior Honors and Awards Banquet. They take charge of all arrangements for the annual Alumni Homecoming Dinner get-together for both member and non-member pharmacy alums and guests. They present an annual Recognition Award plaque to a Southwestern pharmacy alum or pharmacist friend of Southwestern in recognition of his or her contributions to our profession. This presentation is made at the OPhA Banquet held annually at the conclusion of the OPhA Convention. They arrange and hold an annual breakfast or luncheon business meeting during the OPhA Convention. These, and many more services to our School, make us indebted to and extremely thankful for the Southwestern Pharmacy Alumni Association.

We are thankful for capable and concerned students who come to Southwestern seeking a high quality education in pharmacy. We are also thankful that our enrollment in pharmacy has not decreased at a time when the rest of our college has experienced a loss in enrollment. We remain one of the larger schools of pharmacy in our nation. Of greater importance, the quality of our program and of our graduates is excellent.

We are thankful for a capable and dedicated faculty and staff; for the reputation of excellence developed and handed down by such stalwarts as Dan Rivkin, Walter Strother, Ina Black, and others you can remember. For our veteran faculty members who have carried on this tradition so well and for the new members who have joined us with equal dedication to keep the "Southwestern Brand" a brand of highest quality, we give thanks.

We are thankful that we have an excellent, modern, and extremely functional physical plant, and that our equipment is second-to-none for undergraduate pharmacy education.

We are thankful for the Federal grants to our School, which have available to us for the past 1 years at an average figure of about $200,000 per year. We have permitted remodeling, addition of equipment, the employment of more faculty and the development of such things as our closed circuit television, new learning laboratory, added library resources, and off-campus clinical programs. While we regret that Federal support will soon be a thing of the past, we are thankful to have it. We are thankful for our dedicated volunteer part-time faculty members, who instruct our students in our off-campus clinical programs: professional practice and clinical pharmacy. We are thankful for the Southwestern Pharmacy Alumni Foundation which stands ready as our source of support when all other sources of income have failed. We are thankful to our alumni and friends who have given generously to this school, and we are thankful that we can be confident of support from them and from those who have not yet given. We are thankful for the FOUNDATION which is tax-deductible. Alumni can be thankful that we are buying for their Alma Mater a LIFE INSURANCE policy to protect its future.

Now that we have started, we find that we have so many things for which to be grateful that a full list would far exceed the space available for this message.

In conclusion, we are above all, thankful for YOU, our loyal friends and alums. We share your successes and your failures. YOU hold in our hands our reputation, our past, our future, and our ultimate destiny. We are proud of you and forever grateful for your constructive criticism, your loyalty, and your support.

The difference between teaching an all-boys class and an all-girls class is that when you enter a class of boys and say "Good morning", half the hands shoot up demanding to know what you mean by "good" and the other half what you mean by "morning." When you say "Good Morning" to a class of girls, they all write it down in their notebooks.

Anonymous College Teacher

Former Student Joins Faculty

Mr. Larry Innis is one of four new instructors in the Southwestern State College School of Pharmacy for the Fall 1973 term. A native of Oklahoma, Mr. Innis received his B.S. from SWSC, where he was an active member of Phi Delta Chi. He belongs to APhA and has just finished a term on the OPhA Executive Council representing district nine. From 1966 to 1968 the Weatherford alum was located at Winslow, Arizona, where he was chief pharmacist at the USPHS Indian Hospital. Mr. Innis was the manager of Craighead Pharmacy in Woodward until his employment at SWSC.

One of the main reasons the new dispensing and pharmaceutics lab teacher decided to come back to school was to give his wife, Paula, an opportunity to get her degree. She is a second-year professional student in the School. The Innises have one son, Ashley, who is six years old.

The one thing that impresses Mr. Larry Innis most about the School of Pharmacy is the quality of graduates and their ability to practically go out and work in a professional position.

From the staff of the Southwestern Pharmacist and the entire student body, we take this opportunity to welcome home Mr. Larry Innis, his wife, Paula, and their son, Ashley.

SWPhA Picnic

The annual Southwestern Pharmaceutical Association Picnic was held on August 30 this year and was well attended by both faculty and students. Many pounds of hamburger were devoured after being cooked to perfection by the faculty. About 35 gallons of soft drinks were consumed that evening to try to wash the burgers down. Approximately 350 students attended the event which turned out to be a time of renewed friendships and a little relaxation together before the work of the year started.

Our thanks to all those that had a part in the success of this event. A special word of thanks goes to Stan Parks-picnic chairman, Dr. Scruggs-Chapter advisor, and the entire faculty for the use of their grills and skills.

Two New Instructors Join Pharmaceuticals Staff

Dr. Keith Reichmann

"I am really impressed with the overall high standards of the students at Southwestern," says Dr. Keith Reichmann, one of the School of Pharmacy's four new instructors this fall.

Dr. Reichmann, who came to Southwestern from the University of Colorado, where he spent four years as an assistant professor, likes the small town atmosphere of Weatherford and is thoroughly pleased with the school in general. Although born and reared in St. George, Utah, the new professor is not completely unfamiliar with the Sooner State. He was stationed at Fort Sill for one year while in the service.

Dr. Reichmann received his B.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Utah, where he was a member of Rho Chi and Sigma Xi. He also belongs to APhA, the Academy of Science, American Institute of History of Pharmacy, and a Fellow of AFPE. He is currently doing research on non-aqueous emulsions, and is preparing or anticipating study on the history of pharmacy and bioavailability. The new teacher would very much like to develop a course in continued education.

Three lovely children, Shelia, 11; Douglas, 10; and Suzanne, 6, along with his gracious wife, Lu, make up the rest of the Reichmann family. They reside at 1421 Pine. We wish Dr. Reichmann a world of success and to him and his family a hearty welcome.

Dr. Raymond Jurgens

Dr. Raymond W. Jurgens Jr. received his degree in pharmacy in June 1968 from Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa. One and one-half years later he entered graduate school in the fall of 1969. He received his PhD degree in Pharmaceutical Industry at the University of Florida at Gainesville in June 1973.

Dr. Jurgens acquired experience in hospital pharmacy while working at the Medical Hospital at the University of Florida. As a graduate assistant he taught Senior Dispensing and Clinical. In addition he worked at Abbott Laboratories in the Research and Product Development Center.

Dr. Jurgens is registered in Illinois and Florida. He is a member of Rho Chi, Kappa Psi, American Pharmaceutical Association, and the Florida Pharmaceutical Association. As for hobbies and sports he enjoys tennis, scuba diving, swimming, and surfing.

Dr. Jurgens is currently teaching Pharmaceuticals III, Proprietary Drug Products and Pharmaceuticals Labs. In the future, Dr. Jurgens would like to research and develop various dosage vehicle forms. He is also interested in studying the biodegradability of various dosage forms that have not yet been investigated.

Enrollment Down - Confusion Up!!

Enrollment at SWSC this fall caught many students by surprise. Very few students knew they would be enrolling by computer. Most students were happy to find that they did not have to fill out either class cards or those long white enrollment data sheets. Instead of having to carry numerous class cards, class stickers were placed on the computer data sheet each student received. Each student picked up his computer data sheet in the student center and then went to the up stairs lounge.

Unfortunately the lines were longer than usually this fall. Several things happened causing the waiting lines to be longer: all seniors in the school of pharmacy had to see Dean Dickison as their advisor, all students with over 90 hours enrolled on the same day and everyone had to adjust to computer enrollment.

All seniors in the school of pharmacy must have the Dean's approval for their trial study. Because of the large number of seniors, many of them did not manage to get their trial study approved the first day and had to come back for enrollment the next day. It became so crowded in the upper lounge the second day that the seniors had to be moved to the pharmacy building to finish their enrollment.

After a student had his trial study approved, he had to wait in another line to get the class stickers for the computer sheet. Once the student had his class stickers, enrollment was quickly finished because of the lack of forms and class cards to fill out.

The students were not the only ones that felt enrollment was a headache. The faculty also realized there were problems in enrollment procedures this fall. The faculty is making plans to simplify enrollment next semester in hopes of avoiding all the confusion that occurred in this fall enrollment.

Phi Delta Chi

Phi Delta Chi's sweepstakes winning float

Phi Delta Chi added eight new members in its initiation held on Sept. 2, 1973. The new members are: L. Regan, Mike Dotson, Lodric Crory, Ken Hawkins, Ron Hagg, Sam Barrett, Gary Meadors, and Bob Cantrell. The brothers look forward to another prosperous year with the addition of such a fine group of new members.

Installation of 19 new pledges was held Sept. 13, 1973. The pledges installed were John Durett, Ray Warren, Doug Heatherington, Scott Atkinson, Tom Kenoh, Weldon Roberts, Len Hunt, David Hudson, Bill Sartor, Steve Stach, Rick Crenshaw, Steve Gregory, John Morgan, Larry Blackmon, Ted Miller, Fred Peters, Jerry Lee Dennis, and John Johnston, and Charlie Durdin. This is an excellent group and the brothers are expecting great pledgeship from them.

The brothers of Phi Delta Chi are again having a good season in the field of intramurals. We have at least a football team that is going for another winning season. After five games the team is holding an undefeated record of 5-0. The brothers are behind them all the way for a totally undefeated season this year. With the other intramural programs coming up soon Phi Delta Chi plans to field three basketball teams again this year with hope of an undefeated season in this sport also.

Phi Delta Chi has been active in community affairs again this year. Brothers John Bredehoff, Bob Harp, Gary Meadors, Jjonde Cody, Jim Little, Dan Barnes, Ken Hager, Mark Eck, Ronnie Martin, Stan Parks, and Pledge Len Buntz journeyed to the State Fair to assist the Oklahoma State Health Department with its V. D. Prevention Booth. Many of the brothers and pledges are also active in the V. D. Speakers Bureau which is working with the Health Department to keep the public informed to the prevention, cure, and reporting of cases of V. D.

The pledges and brothers of Phi Delta Chi assisted SWPhA in its Homecoming Mum sales again this year. Again this year sales were excellent with over 150 flowers sold.

This year's Homecoming was again good to Phi Delta Chi who under the direction of Brother John Mustard built another prize-winning float. The float consisted of a balance with a graduation cap in one pan and an atomic model in the other depicting the advances in pharmacy, and a rotating wheel with a locomotive and a space capsule depicting the advances in travel made by residents of Weatherford. The brothers are looking forward to next year and another winning float construction.

A homecoming luncheon was served for the brothers and returning alumni and Phi Delta Chi faculty. Those in attendance

Kappa Psi

Delta Beta Chapter of Kappa Psi Pharmaceutical Fraternity began the Fall 73 semester by initiating an "enormous" group of men. Admitted to membership were Fred Taylor of Tonkawa, Okla. and John East of Muskogee, Okla. John East was voted as "Best Pledge." Poor Fred... we had a heckuva time trying to explain to him that he wasn't the worst pledge but just second best.

Our Fall Smoker was a smashing success producing 25 pledges. We were extremely relieved to get so many since last semester's pledges seemed so "few and far between." Our new candidates are as follows: Greg Alexander, Kim Arganbright, George Cheek, Scott Courtney, Richard DeFord, Terry Fanning, James Fielding, Steve Gates, Ron Hackler, Andy Hale, Walter Hearin, Mark Hutchings, Darrell Ingmire, Roy A. Johnson, IV, Frank Kantro, Wes Kifer, Dale Killian, James Myatt, Randy McDowell, Jay Sterba, Mike Stuart, Joe Vincent, Duff Wattenbarger, Billy Welch, and last and least William Young.

We also wish to extend a warm welcome to Ed Young, a returning neophyte who just finished serving some time in the Air Force.

The fall money raising project is now in progress. We are having a drawing for 100 gallons of gasoline. Last semester this proved to be a very successful way to make money.

Our annual homecoming party was held October 6 at the Kendall House.

This summer 23 brothers of Kappa Psi made the Deans Honor Roll and four made the President's Honor Roll. Terry L. Hobbs, Terry T. Balzer, Tom Siegmann and Fred Taylor all made aces in their summer attempts. Making the Deans list were as follows; Mark S. McKinney, Roger L. Barrett, Robert B. Gilliams, John W. Porter, William J. Kelly, Harold W. Sims, Gayland G. Vandiver, Michael D. Finley, Gary Johnson, Sidney Johnson, Jerry D. Mahan, Michael L. Hogan, David M. Killough, David L. Payne, Keith D. Metcalf, Charles A. Shannon, Vernon L. Wall, Terry E. Hargis and Edward D. Eshlemen.

Congratulations are in order for these men and their efforts.

Vernon Wall shown donating blood for use in Donna Fowler's heart surgery. Kappa Psi donated a total of 15 pints.

Kappa Epsilon

The members of Kappa Epsilon shown with the clothes they collected for the Enid flood victims.

There are many different ways an organization's growth, progress, and strength can be measured. One of these is by an examination of the size of intake of new members. If this parameter is used, Kappa Epsilon definitely appears to be a growing organization; for the following seventeen pledges were pinned September 11: Cheri Buzzard, Denise Chadwick, Linda Dillard, Marilyn Duncan, Silua Goodwin, Janie Haugen, Dorinda Henslee, Sheila Jarvis, Robin Johnson, Janet Keller, Margaret Kobus, Mitzie Nall, Teresa Pierce, Christine Richards, Gaye Sween, Shala Shafaie, and Barbara Simon.

Another way a group's strength can be measured is by the amount of activities it has for its members. Again, in this manner, Kappa Epsilon has excelled this semester. First of all, the members kidnapped the pledges for an early morning breakfast. Since many of the pledges were expecting it on a Saturday, the members surprised them by coming for them at 6:00 AM on a Friday morning. Secondly, the members and pledges have formed a football team.

In order to function, a group must also have sufficient funds. Therefore, as a money-making project, the membership sponsored a drawing for a certificate for $100.00 of groceries from a local food store. The certificate was given away

Thursday, October 18, at the SWPhA meeting. The pledges have increased their treasury by selling cookies, cupcakes, brownies, and cakes to the various groups that were making floats for homecoming.

In the final analysis, Kappa Epsilon is a "healthy" organization; for it is increasing in size, has a sufficient number of activities, and is financially stable. However, the most important thing is that the members and pledges enjoy being in Kappa Epsilon and are proud of their organization. As long as this attitude prevails, the Kappa Epsilon will continue to exist at Southwestern.

Phillips, Mr. Rodney Opitz, Mr. Terry Jones, Mr. Bill Weingartner, Mr. Glenn Howard, Mr. James Butts, Mr. J. D. Harrison, Mr. Max Enterline, Mr. Doyle DeMoss and their wives and dates. A homecoming dance was also held with everyone having an enjoyable reunion. We hope to see many more alumni here to visit with us next year.

Until the great Harry Buffalo returns once more the Brothers of Phi Delta Chi bid everyone a fond adieu.

Rho Chi

The Beta Upsilon Chapter of the Rho Chi Pharmaceutical Society held their first meeting of officers on August 30, to organize and set up the Society's objectives. This year's Rho Chi officers are Clay Franklin, president; Charles Dickerson, vice-president; Carolyn Riley, secretary; John Taylor, treasurer; Beckie Willis, historian-reporter. Dr. Homer Timmons is serving as sponsor.

The first general meeting was held on Sept. 6, and three committees were set up as follows: Committee on Projects, Russell Griffin, chairman; Committee on Educational Films, Ron Martin, chairman; Committee on Communications, Beckie Willis, chairman. Anyone who was unable to attend and would like information about the meeting or who would like to contribute ideas can contact the chairman listed above or any officer.

In order to keep students on professional practice informed of Rho Chi's activities, a new policy to include a copy of Rho Chi news in the "Pharmacy Observer" was approved. The "Observer" is mailed to these persons after each printing.

The Committee on Projects is currently studying ideas for possible projects for the year. Some of the projects being considered are tutorial sessions, educational films, VD Speakers Bureau participation, awards to pharmacy students for scholastic achievements, and honors seminars made up of student panels. These proposals will be discussed at the next meeting.

The committee on communications prepared a display for the pharmacy showcase for Oct. 1-8. It dealt with the history of the Rho Chi pin, the awards given to underclassmen, awards given to members, and the requirements for eligibility.

The Society's objectives are to encourage learning and the achievement of excellence in learning. We hope to preserve our past record as well as to help shape our future by our efforts and participation in increasing awareness of social and ethical responsibilities and thereby enhance the prestige and fraternal aspects of the profession of pharmacy.

Pharmacy Wives

On September 18, Pharmacy Wives held their annual tea and style show in the student center ballroom.

The theme for the evening was Pharmacy and the room was decorated sidewalk cafe style.

The program began with the style show with most of the stores in Weatherford furnishing clothes to be modeled.

Following the style show, the officers served refreshments of cookies and punch.

The introduction of guests and sponsors was followed by each officer introducing herself and telling a little bit about the Pharmacy Wives organization. Officers for this year are: President-Donita Meador; Vice-President-Theresa Frame; Secretary-Sherri Martin; Treasurer-Geane Schafer; Historian-Vicki Otts; Reporter-Lona Albert; Parliamentarian-Terry Dennis.

Favors for the event were furnished by various drug companies.

The last thing on the program was the drawing for the door prizes which were furnished by local drug stores.

The first Pharmacy Wives meeting was held Oct. 2, in the Pharmacy Building. The speaker for the meeting was Dr. Timmons. There was a guided tour of the Pharmacy Building followed by the regular business meeting.

The events of the upcoming year were discussed and three money-making projects were decided on.

Mrs. Mary Porter was the sponsor for the meeting due to the absences of the regular sponsors; Mrs. Weber and Mrs. Dickison.

Refreshments were served in the seminar room at the close of the meeting.

Without Scruples

After exhaustive research, taking nearly 5 minutes, we of the Southwestern Pharmacist take pleasure in the announcement of a new disease. This disease is called Waggoner's Contracture after the name of the patient in which the disorder was first noticed. The disease consists of a peculiar and typical hooking of the fingers of the hand. The index finger is partly flexed, the middle finger is more strongly flexed while the little and ring fingers are completely flexed. Also, there is a highly unusual tumor on the hand. This growth is of the shape and size of a coffee mug. The tumor is open on the top and is filled with a thin brown fluid that smells like coffee. Considerable heat is apparently evolved by the lesion, as the tumor actually steams at times. The tumor and contracture are both concurrent and recurrent, an attack lasting several minutes to hours. At other times the syndrome is not apparent.

Furthermore, the disease is contagious and may be an occupational hazard. The disease has been noticed mainly among Professors of Pharmaceutics, although a Pharmaceutical Chemistry professor was noticed with a large but temporary case. One case was noticed in a Physiologist, but the tumor was atypical and looked like a plastic glass filled with coffee.

We do not think there is a cure, but the victims seem to have some instinct of attempting to treat the condition by stirring into the brown fluid a white substance which was probably a sulfa powder.

We will keep the condition under observation and report any breakthroughs in finding a cause or cure.

When the new wing of the Pharmacy building was opened in 1969, the total cost of construction and equipment was let's say $2,345,032.67. Of this cost apparently about $32.67 went to purchase a still for distilled water for the building and a boiler for hot water. The entire $32.67 was wasted. The boiler and still broke down last February and are still inoperative as of this date. Drs. Ulrich and Huerta are "making do" with temporary equipment until a new boiler and still are installed. The temporary still is about the size of a hypertrophic coffee pot and supposedly puts out a gallon per hour of distilled water when hard pressed. Since the labs use water at the rate of 5 gallons per hour more help is needed in the form of a demineralizer. Furthermore, the Chemistry Department comes to us for their water commodities. Due to the non-functional boiler, hot water is prepared p. r. n.

Keep this a secret, but at the last SWPHA annual hamburger fry it was rumored that the hamburgers were apparently an admixture. (Look it up in your Pharmacognosy Text - another service of the SW Pharmacist's own continuing education program). We mustn't say more, but the local soybean market is rumored to have risen 50¢ per bushel the day of the picnic.

One of our informants reports an unusual incident that took place the other day over at the college library. (Remember the library? That's where they keep all them books.) This informant was searching through the section on Chordate Anatomy and found a book on the History of Underwear. No doubt there must have been some logic in placing the book there. It even had the Dewey Classification number appropriate to the Chordate Anatomy section. The book had been mis-numbered in case you are wondering.

SWPhA

The first meeting of the SWPhA was held September 20 in the Student Center Ballroom. The speakers for this meeting were the students from Southwestern who went to the Student American Pharmaceutical Association National Convention in Boston this summer. These speakers were Mark Eck, David Ralph, and Ronnie Martin.

Richard Smith also showed slides of his experiences at Sandoz this summer. He was participating in their Pharmaceutical Manufacturing Externship Program.

After a special election and a run-off election Kathy Lightfoot has been elected Secretary of SWPhA. Congratulations to Kathy, knowing she will do a good job.

The SWPhA has just wound up two of our annual projects, the selling of Homecoming mums and the selling of lab coats. Both projects were a success and we thank you for making them so.
