Dr. Al Harris, a native of Altus, became president of Southwestern State College on July 1, 1960, and became the first alumnus of the college to return as its president.

Harris graduated from Southwestern in 1931 with a Bachelor of Science degree and immediately accepted a position in the Custer City schools. By attending school in the summers, he completed requirements for a Bachelor of Arts degree and also acquired enough hours in various fields of study to qualify for majors in mathematics, science, history, government and industrial arts.

After teaching in the Custer City schools for two years, Harris became superintendent of schools. He completed a masters degree in administration and educational psychology from George Peabody College for Teachers in Nashville, Tenn., and in 1939 accepted the superintendency of Watonga schools. Harris moved to Clinton in 1947 as superintendent of schools and received a doctor of education degree from Oklahoma State University in 1955.

Under the guidance of Harris, Southwestern experienced its greatest and most rapid growth. In the fall of 1960, enrollment was 1,871. Enrollment was 5,563 in the fall of 1972. During Harris' tenure, Southwestern built the Chemistry-Pharmacy-Physics Building, a new library, an arts and science building, four dormitories, a second cafeteria, a swimming pool, and an office addition to the Physical Education Building.

Also, an addition that almost doubled the size of the Chemistry-Pharmacy-Physics Building was added, and the Memorial Student Center and two older dormitories were enlarged. The Old Science Building was modernized; the old gymnasium after extensive remodeling became the Music Building; and the old library was completely renovated to become the Art Building.

Harris retired June 30, 1975 ending his 15th year as president. Harris' family is Southwestern-educated. Mrs. Harris received her Bachelor of Arts degree in English and Spanish from Southwestern, and their daughter, Ruth, graduated from Southwestern in 1966 with a Bachelor of Science in education and in 1968 was awarded the master of teaching degree.
Dr. Joe Anna Hibler is a native Oklahoman and has spent most of her life in western Oklahoma.

Hibler received a bachelor’s degree from Southwestern State College in 1960, a master’s degree from Oklahoma State University, and her doctorate from Oklahoma University—all in business education. She taught her first four years at Altus High School and served as an adjunct instructor at Altus Junior College. In 1965, she returned to her alma mater as an instructor in the Division of Business.

She later chaired the Office Administration/Business Education Department before becoming the dean of the School of Business. In 1986, Dr. Hibler was named Executive Vice President for Academic Affairs. Four years later, the Board of Regents of Oklahoma Colleges appointed Dr. Hibler as president of Southwestern.

When she assumed her duties on July 1, 1990, Dr. Hibler became the first woman in 55 years to serve as president of a university in Oklahoma.

While at SWOSU, the university’s Foundation enjoyed tremendous growth with assets jumping from $840,000 in 1990 to $7 million in 2001. Several building projects were completed including the impressive Thomas P. Stafford Center and Music Building on the Weatherford campus and the Student Union Building on the Sayre campus. Davis Road on the north side of the Weatherford campus was expanded from two to four lanes.

During her tenure, SWOSU was one of the first Oklahoma universities to offer distance learning classes and interactive classrooms, and the annual Bernhardt Academic Excellence banquet was established to recognize outstanding faculty. SWOSU also received approval to start a Doctor of Pharmacy program, and the university’s athletics program joined NCAA Division II and the Lone Star Conference.

Dr. Hibler retired June 30, 2001, ending her eleventh year as president and a 41 year career in education.
