Southwestern

An aerial photograph of a railway yard. A train with several freight cars is positioned in the center. To the left of the train is a large, dark-colored building with a gabled roof. To the right is another large building, possibly a warehouse or maintenance shop. In the foreground, there are several smaller buildings and a curved road or path. The background shows a hilly landscape with some trees and a road.

1945-46

DEDICATED

To the noble and brave alumni and former students who fell in battle, lost to the world but retained in the hearts of men.

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

It is with a spirit of humility and pride that Southwestern dedicates this yearbook to her alumni and former students who gave that "last full measure of devotion" in order that we may continue to enjoy the American way of life.

Today our freedom brings great responsibilities. We cannot afford to endanger the future by muddy thinking or limited vision. The entire world is looking to this nation for leadership. Southwestern is happy to accept this challenge by assuming her responsibilities in the training of youth for tomorrow.

We must be alert; we must keep informed; and, as never before, we must realize "eternal vigilance is the price of freedom." Therefore, we, the personnel of this institution, pledge ourselves to the task of expanding the curriculum to meet the needs of the changing world order. By so doing every student leaving Southwestern will have had adequate opportunity to become a well-balanced individual.

Realizing that education is the indispensable means by which democracy serves its ends and determines its progress, Southwestern is indeed proud of her diversified educational program. She challenges you, the youth of this great state, to accept these excellent opportunities.
