Alumnus to run for U.S. Congress

Oklahoma State Representative Bill Brewster has said that although this is the most difficult time of his life, he will continue to run for the post of U.S. congressman from the 3rd District.

Tragedy recently struck the Brewster family when two of his children were killed in an airplane crash near Coalgate, Oklahoma.

"But we're going to run this race on ability rather than sympathy," Brewster said, speaking to the State House.

His announcement drew a standing ovation from fellow House members.

The Marietta Democrat noted that around February 1 he had started his campaign, but "we lost two children and two of the finest friends."

On January 31, Brewster's daughter Kecia, 16, and son Kent, 13, accompanied by Madill newspaper publisher Herb Pate and pilot Jack Kirkpatrick, disappeared during a flight from McAlester, Oklahoma.

Their bodies were discovered in the wreckage of the aircraft four days later near Coalgate.

Brewster was accompanied by his wife Suzie, daughter Karel Howerton and son-in-law Brent Howerton when he announced he would continue to run for the post of U.S. congressman. Also at the podium were the widows of Kirkpatrick and Pate and Pate's father, Jim Pate.

Campbell to retire June 1990

Dr. Leonard Campbell, president of Southwestern Oklahoma State University since 1975, has announced plans to retire from that post on June 30, 1990.

"I felt it was in the best interest to let the regents know at an early date," Campbell said. "I think the new president should have input into the upcoming budget and employment of staff and faculty."

The 55-year-old Campbell said if his health would have been good, he would have stayed at the Weatherford university another five years. Campbell suffered heart attacks in 1983 and 1985 and has had two angioplasty surgeries since then, once in 1986 and another in June of 1989.

"I feel good right now, but I feel my decision to retire is in my best interest and also the institution's," Campbell said.

The McAlester native will have completed 15 years as president of Southwestern in June, 1990.

He came to Weatherford from Oklahoma City Western Heights where he was superintendent for five years.

Campbell has nothing but praise for the regents of Oklahoma colleges, Southwestern staff, faculty, students and the community of Weatherford as a whole.

"There's never been a time that all haven't been extremely supportive," he said.

Campbell added, "Southwestern is in good financial condition, has positive faculty morale and strong enrollment. The overall appearance of the campus is the best in years."

President Campbell's major accomplishments during his administration have been the construction of the Fine Arts Center and auditorium, construction of the new maintenance building and fenced-in grounds, and the additions to the Rankin Williams Fieldhouse which included the

"There were tens of thousands out there helping search for the lost plane," Brewster said.

Tens of thousands of sympathy cards were also sent from all over the state, he said.

Brewster said he thought he could help repay supporters best by "rededicating my life to public service."

He said that during his eight years in the House, he has shown "I can get things done. That's my long suit.

"We must solve the drug problem," he said. "I think because of my background as a pharmacist, I can help."

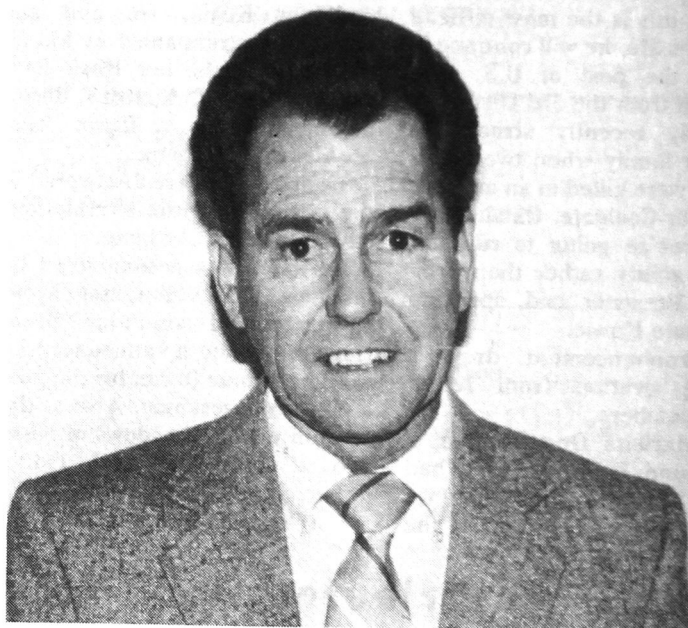

Brewster is seeking the post held by Wes Watkins, candidate for Oklahoma governor, although the Ada Democrat has not announced officially.

The 3rd District includes southern and southeastern Oklahoma. The northwest corner of the district includes Stillwater and all of Payne and Lincoln counties.

Bill received his pharmacy degree from SWOSU in 1965. Suzie also received her elementary education degree in 1965. Bill is a native of Marietta and Suzie is from Cordell.

If Bill can win this race, he will join U.S. Congressman Glenn English, a native of Cordell and also a SWOSU graduate, in Washington, D.C.

SWOSU grad named Extension Worker of the Year

Recia Poulson was named the outstanding Oklahoma Cooperative Extension Service field staff member at the Oklahoma State University fall convocation.

The Woodward County Extension home economist, and a graduate of Southwestern Oklahoma State University at Weatherford, received a plaque and a $1,500 award in recognition of her achievements. She has been employed by OSU since 1981.

Poulson has been an integral part of efforts in Woodward County to provide assistance during the recent farm crisis. One service she provides has boosted the self-esteem of many county residents.

Recognizing that more women would be entering the work force, Poulson's office purchased a computer-assisted figure analysis program that shows people what types of clothing and accessories they should wear.

The program has been used by 400 people in the Woodward area. Poulson gave discounts to teachers, students, 4-H members and leaders and extension homemakers.

Displaced homemakers also were analyzed free as part of a High Plains Vo-Tech program. All other people were charged $15, which included the analysis, a book and a personal consultation.

As a result, Poulson raised enough money for her extension office to buy a serger and table, plus additional items for the office. The purchase of the serger led Poulson to take beginning and advanced serger technique classes from Palmer and Pletch, a leading designer for McCall's patterns.

She then began co-teaching serger classes. Poulson and a friend, Patty McGuire, taught eight classes that reached 77 students, approximately one-fourth of whom were home-based business people. Each class met for 24 hours of instruction.

Surpassing her traditional role as home economist, Poulson networked with Thurman Fussell, Northwestern Rural Electric Cooperative's member services director, to conduct a homebased business seminar.

Delivering educational information about the prevention of teen pregnancy and health concerns of the elderly also has been a major focus of her work.

Poulson said the key to her success has been team work. "The things that reach the most people seem to be accomplished by team work," she said. "We either have resources they don't have or they have resources we don't have. It opens lots of new doors and reaches lots of people."

Technology department receives recognition

Several Southwestern Oklahoma State University faculty members were acknowledged for their efforts in playing such a significant role in creating a new discipline, technology education, within the public schools of Oklahoma.

Roger Stacy, state supervisor of technology education with the Oklahoma State Department of Vocational and Technical Education, sent a letter to Dr. Leonard Campbell, president of Southwestern, recognizing Dr. Don Mitchell, Dr. James Griffin, Dr. Richard Baugher and Mr. Gary Bell, all of the SWOSU industrial education and technology department.

"Dr. Don Mitchell, who has been a longtime leader within the Industrial Arts profession, has emerged over the last five years as a true leader of technology education," Stacy said. "His wisdom, vision, savvy and enthusiasm have given many young persons the opportunity to explore such areas as laser, robotics, fiber optics and aerospace technology at grade six through ten."

Stacy commended Mitchell, who is chairman of the SWOSU department, and his faculty for their leadership, dedication, persistence and support as Oklahoma has evolved into the technology education movement.

HELP REPAIR THE CARILLON

A missing part of the Southwestern State University campus atmosphere is the playing of the carillon chimes. The carillon was donated to Southwestern State University by Doris James Witherspoon, a 1936 graduate and one of the First Distinguished Alumni inducted in the Southwestern Hall of Fame in 1976.

Your donation is needed to help repair the carillon and build a cover around the speakers. Please fill out the form below and help us raise the money to bring "The Witherspoon Bells" back in operation. Mail to: SWOSU Alumni Association, Southwestern State University, Weatherford, OK 73096.

Here is my donation for the Witherspoon Bells. Join these donors: Beth McAninch Jordan; Charles M. Klingman (Skip); Charlotte Nutry; Finley Reid; Bill Stinson; D.J. Witherspoon; Elaine Reiger; Mrs. Frances Kissler.

Alumnus receives engineer award

Lawrence E. Malvern, Department of Aerospace Engineering, Mechanics and Engineering Science, University of Florida, Gainesville, has received the Worcester Reed Warner Medal of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Dr. Malvern received it for his landmark paper, "The Propagation of Longitudinal Waves of Plastic Deformation in a Bar of Material Exhibiting a Strain Rate Effect," which provides the basis for most modern theories of viscoplastic material response, and for his internationally acclaimed graduate textbook, In- troduction to the Mechanics of a Continuous Medium, which has influenced a generation of scholars and practicing engineers.

Dr. Malvern received his Sc.B. in Mathematics and Physical Science in 1937 from Southwestern State College, Oklahoma. He also earned his M.A. in Mathematics in 1939 from the University of Oklahoma and a Ph.D. in Applied Mechanics from Brown University in 1949.

He has been recognized for his outstanding engineering education with awards for undergraduate teaching excellence from Michigan State University and the University of Florida.

Dr. Malvern was elected a Fellow of AMSE in 1982. He was associate editor of the Journal of Applied Mechanics from 1978 to 1985.

He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Mechanics and is a member of the Society of Experimental Mechanics, the American Society of Engineering Education, and Sigma Xi. He also served on the board of directors of the Society of Engineering Sciences from 1968 through 1971.

ASME is a technical and educational organization with 119,000 members, including 19,000 students.

Segress receives national award

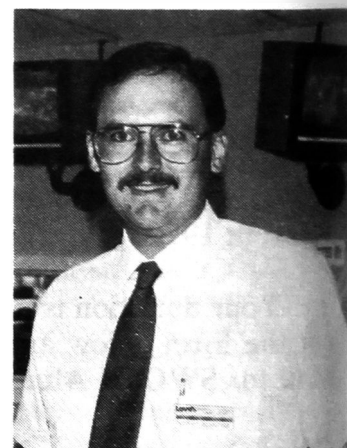

Dr. Terry Segress, music faculty member at Southwestern Oklahoma State University at Weatherford, has been honored with a national music award.

Segress was recently presented the Outstanding Jazz Educator Award by the National Band Association. Segress received the award at the annual meeting of the Oklahoma Music Educators convention held in January in Oklahoma City. It was the first time ever that this national award has been given to an educator in Oklahoma.

Segress received the award for effective leadership in instrumental music education by developing successful concert and jazz bands in America's schools.

Segress, who directs the jazz bands at Southwestern, is in his 19th year at Southwestern. He was nominated for the award by Dr. James Jurens, former chairman of the music department at Southwestern and current Oklahoma state chairman of the National Band Association.

Muncrief receives scholarship

Rob Muncrief, a senior in the business administration program at Southwestern Oklahoma State University at Weatherford, received a $500 cash award from Love's Country Stores for his outstanding performance as a 1989 summer management intern with the company. Muncrief, a resident of Burns Flat and a 1981 Elk City High School graduate, was in competition for the award with interns across the southwest region of the United States. He spent 10 weeks as an intern which allowed him to be introduced into the retail business environment.

SWOSU offers foreign exchange program

When classes began last fall at Southwestern Oklahoma State University at Weatherford, there were four students on the SWOSU campus who were particularly unaccustomed to the American way of college life.

For the first time ever, Southwestern has entered into a foreign country exchange program. Five students from France are presently attending classes at Southwestern, while three students from Southwestern attend classes at La Sorbonne Nouvelle in Paris, France, for one year.

The French exchange students on the SWOSU campus are Liz Colino, Paris; Phillippe Elmalek, Paris; Samia Melbouci, Paris; Sophie Robin, Bourges; and Christine Assard, Paris.

What are the students' first impressions of Oklahoma?

"Oklahoma seems OK!" said Melbouci, the oldest of the group at 23. "Weatherford is pretty nice...it changes a lot from Paris and from the crazy way of life we're used to leading."

"We suddenly passed from what we used to see in films to reality," 22-year-old Robin said.

The only male of the group, 21-year-old Elmalek said, "I am surprised by the very humid weather you have. We are just not used to it."

All five of the group expressed appreciation for the kind welcome they received at the airport in Oklahoma City and for the friendly people in Weatherford.

"Weatherford is a nice and quiet town," 21-year-old Colin said.

All five students, who incidentally speak at least two foreign languages besides their native French, are busy getting settled in Weatherford and at Southwestern. Providing housing for the students are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Johnson and Sherri Baker, all of Weatherford. Elmalek is staying at Jefferson Hall on the SWOSU campus.

Through the effort of Dr. Francis Feeley, assistant professor of history at Southwestern, the student exchange program between the Weatherford and French universities started last fall. The three Southwestern students who are attending school in France are Jackie Bonifield of Elk City and Gayla Kelley and Marc McClanahan, both of Clinton.

Even though this is an informal start, Southwestern is working on a proposed five-year contract for a formal student-faculty exchange program, according to Executive Vice President Joe Anna Hibler.

"This will be such an enriching experience for both the SWOSU students and the Sorbonne students!" Dr. Hibler said.

Former SWOSU student presents research paper

Dr. Bob Wright, New Mexico State University presented a research paper in Amsterdam, Holland August 5-8, 1989. The research topic was "Emotional Stress and Student Teachers: An International Study." Professor Wright taught this past fall semester at Hamilton Teachers College, Hamilton, New Zealand in a Professor Exchange Program.

Though they all were amazed at the huge cars in Oklahoma, the French students feel right at home and are talking "Okie."

Dr. Wright received his BS degree in physical education and math from SWOSU in 1951 and a M.Ed. in 1961.

TV personalities friends to SWOSU

show before Christmas.

Besides personal appearances, the Southwestern rodeo team, jazz band, show choir, and individual entertainers have appeared on the show. We appreciate Ben and Butch McCain and encourage our alumni to watch their show.

Blanche Ross named Clinton Woman of the Year

Blanche Ross was crowned the winner of the 1989 Clinton Woman of the Year title in an election staged by the Clinton Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Ross is the wife of John C. Ross and the mother of J. Kent Martin of Oklahoma City and Vikki Martin of Weatherford. She is a member of the Chapter BR of P.E.O., the Church of Christ and the National Association of Bank Women. She is employed as a vice-president at Oklahoma Bank Trust in Clinton.

The honoree attended high school at Berlin, Oklahoma, graduating in 1958. She took a short business course at Southwestern Oklahoma State University from 1958 to 1959. In addition to her other efforts, she served as chairman of the human resources section of the Certified Cities Task Force recently for the City of Clinton and the Clinton Chamber of Commerce.

SWOSU grad named Clinton superintendent

Don Scales, who has served as the assistant superintendent of the Clinton Public Schools since 1981, was named by the Clinton Board of Education to succeed Joe Bingenheimer as the new superintendent of schools.

Scales will assume his new role as superintendent on July 1, 1990. The new superintendent began his tenure with the Clinton schools in 1965 when he was employed as a math teacher in Clinton Junior High School at the age of 20. He was a 1962 graduate of Colony High School before its consolidation with Corn.

He obtained his bachelor's degree with a math major and a physics minor from SWOSU and in 1965 received a Master of Education degree from Southwestern. In 1970, he completed all of the requirements for a counseling degree but didn't apply for the certificate. He got his superintendent certification from Oklahoma State University in Stillwater in 1981.

Scales taught at CJHS from 1965 to 1968. During his last year there, he also taught part-time math and physics at Clinton High School before moving full-time to the high school in 1968. He became a half-day assistant principal in 1970 under then-principal Danny Lidia. Scales was promoted to high school principal in 1975 before taking the assistant superintendent position in 1981.

His wife, Diana, teaches math at Clinton Middle School. The couple have three daughters. Rachelle is a student at Northwestern Oklahoma State University in Alva. Amy is a sophomore at Clinton High School, while Mindy attends Washington Fifth and Sixth Grade Center.

During his tenure as assistant superintendent, Scales has been over the transportation, personnel, lunch fund, federal programs and curriculum functions of the school system. The main area he has not been involved with is the financial aspect of school operations. He will be working closely with outgoing superintendent Bingenheimer on finances in the upcoming months.

Alum named Teacher of the Year

Jerry Coulson was selected as Seiling's 1989-90 Teacher of the Year. Jerry has been employed as high school math instructor in the Seiling School system since August, 1972.

He and his wife, Mary, and their four children, Amy, a freshman at Southwestern Oklahoma State University, Arlan a senior at Seiling, Angela, a seventh grader, and Alicia, a three-year-old, make their home in the Chester community.

Coulson teaches high school math, sponsors the Beta Club, coaches the junior high and senior high academic teams, and co-sponsors the junior class. He was Pep Club sponsor for many years. He also has driven a school bus for Seiling School since August, 1973.

Jerry is a graduate of Vici High School, where he was salutatorian of the senior class and a member of the National Honor Society, FFA, and the annual staff. He also lettered in basketball and baseball and was voted by his teachers during his senior year as the Most Athletic and Most School Spirited.

Jerry Coulson is an alumnus of SWOSU with a BS in education where he graduated cum laude and maintained a position on the Dean's and President's honor rolls. Jerry has coached Little League baseball during the summers, and his team won the Dewey County Tournament.

Thomas school superintendent is David Self

David Self, who had been the superintendent at Kingfisher for one and a half years, is currently the new superintendent for the Thomas Public Schools.

Self, his wife, Jeanne, and children Josh, 13, and Brooke, 12, will move to Thomas while their older daughter, Dawn, 22, will remain in Kingfisher to complete practice teaching at an elementary school there.

Self has had an extensive career in education, including a stint as a teacher in Kingfisher as well as teaching and/or administrative positions in schools in Jet-Nash, Bristow, Okeene, and Mooreland, where he was superintendent before moving to Kingfisher.

The new Thomas superintendent is currently writing his dissertation to complete requirements for a doctor of educational administration degree from Oklahoma State University in Stillwater.

He has completed his bachelor's degree in elementary education and master's degree in guidance counseling at Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford.

Narci Smith named election board chief

Narci Smith, Butler, was appointed by the State Election Board to be the new secretary of Custer County Election Board.

A registered Democrat, Mrs. Smith has worked the past 12 years as front office supervisor for the Best Western Tradewinds Inn in Clinton. She has been a permanent resident of Custer County for 21 years.

Raised in Midwest City, she graduated from Altus High School and attended Southwestern Oklahoma State University. Her husband is Jack Smith, a farmer-rancher in the Butler area.

The Smiths have two daughters, Kelli, 18, of the home, and Jill Roper, Oklahoma City.

DR. DAN L. GILLIAM (left), Director of the Refining, Marketing and Transportation Accounting Division for Conoco, recently presented a $2,000 check to Dr. Charles Page, chairman of the accounting and finance department at Southwestern Oklahoma State University at Weatherford. Conoco has been awarding this grant to Southwestern's accounting department during the last decade.

Dr. Hibler is chairman of the committee that will make the selection.

"Evolution into the abstract"

"Evolution Into Abstract" were featured in the Kirkpatrick Gallery for Oklahoma Artists. The gallery, located on the upper level of Kirkpatrick Center in Oklahoma City featured artists Dennis Johnson and Gayle Singer. Both received art training at SWOSU.

Johnson exhibited a 15-year retrospective of acrylic paintings and collage on canvas. "I paint today just like I did when I was eight years old. I have fun with art," expresses Johnson. "My vocabulary and techniques are very broad. I work in a lot of different mediums from sculpture and printmaking to painting and collage."

"To be a successful abstract artist you must have a feel and love for realism. I float back and forth between realism and abstraction. I believe it keeps my art fresh. The common denominator in my work is abstract/realism and the sensuous interpretation of nature, figurative and fantasy themes."

Johnson's work has been exhibited in the Ariel Gallery in New York City, Ruth Wiseman Gallery in Dallas and Oklahoma Art Center, Oklahoma City. His work has also been exhibited at the Festival of the Arts, Emerald City Classic National Juried Show, Wichita, KS and the 23rd National Sun Carnival Art Exhibition in El Paso, TX.

Singer, who has compressed the process of moving from realism to abstractionism into four years, exhibited ceramic structures. Trained as a functional potter by Montee Hoke at Southwestern Oklahoma State University, she moved into experimentation with contemporary issues in clay at the very selective program at New York State College of Ceramics (NYSCC) at Alfred University.

She utilizes the process of Stacking forms to achieve unusual heights of 5 to 7 feet in her ceramic sculptures. "It is an important structural aspect in that stacking gives presence and enhances the dramatic qualities of the work."

"By extreme manipulation of the clay in a wet state, I am able to exaggerate its plasticity, sensual and tactile qualities, and make decisions spontaneously about line quality, repetition and direction of motion," states Singer.

Singer earned a masters of fine arts in ceramics from NYSCC of Alfred, New York and a bachelor of fine arts in ceramics from Kansas City Art Institute. She also earned a masters of education at Southwestern Oklahoma State University. She has served as a Graduate Teaching Assistant to Anne Currie, Tony Hepburn and Val Cushing at NYSCC at Alfred University. She was a summer Ceramic Instructor at the Oklahoma Art Center.

Her work has been exhibited at the Fosdick-Nelson Gallery, NYSCC at Alfred University; Pewabic Pottery, Detroit Michigan and John Porter Gallery in Oklahoma City. She was twice selected to exhibit in The Wichita National, a media craft exhibit and was chosen to show in The Clay Cup, a national juried competition and exhibition in Carbondale, Illinois.

Singer's work is included in the permanent collections of the New York State College of Ceramics and Kansas City Art Institute.

SWOSU graduate manages State Fair

Donald J. Hotz, past director of the Lloyd Noble Center in Norman, Okla., assumed the position of President and General Manager for the State Fair of Oklahoma in November 1985.

Under Don's direction the State Fair of Oklahoma has undergone many positive changes including the acquisition of the OK Ticket operation from the Univeristy of Oklahoma. With this acquisition, the State Fair of Oklahoma has been able to greatly improve its ticket operations.

In addition to running OK Tickets, Don has been responsible for taking over the operations of the State Fair Speedway during the summer months and the concession operations for year round use including the fair.

One of the most important changes that Don has initiated was the all-new 17 day format for the 1987 State Fair of Oklahoma. He believed that Oklahoma and its people have shown the need for an extended Fair by the ever increasing attendance figures and upswing in the state's economy.

Don spent 11 years working with the City of Oklahoma City where he progressed through the City's Fairgrounds Operation Management to the position of Assistant Manager of Public Affairs. That position involved management duties for the Myriad and Civic Center Music Hall, as well as Fair Park Facilities.

He became director of the Lloyd Noble Center in 1974. The facility posted a healthy return each year under his leadership.

In addition to his experience in management, he brought to the State Fair excellent working relationship with individuals in the entertainment business who contribute to the success of an entertainment facility. He is responsible for putting Oklahoma on the entertainment map by bringing in top-rated stars from across the country.

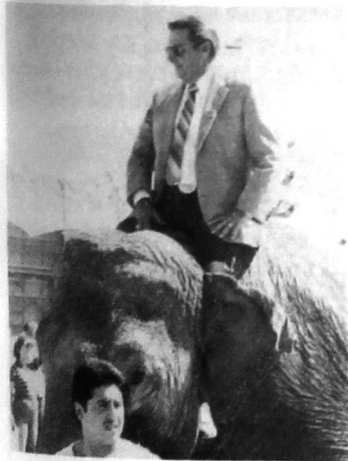

Don is a native of Lookeba and is a graduate of Southwestern Oklahoma State University.

Physics department starts endowment

Southwestern Oklahoma State University's Department of Physics has started an endowment to provide scholarships each year to deserving physics students on the Weatherford campus.

Royce Snider, a junior from Perry, was recently named the first-ever recipient of the J.R. Pratt Physics Alumni Scholarship. The $500 award was derived from the newly-started endowment fund.

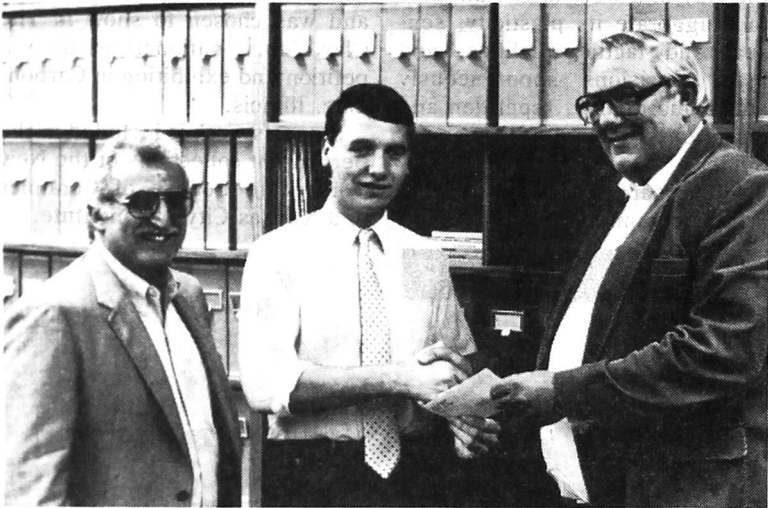

J.R. Pratt was chairman of the physics department at Southwestern for 37 years.

"This endowment is in honor of Pratt," said Dr. Benny Hill, chairman of the physics department at Southwestern. "Many alums graduated from the physics department while Pratt was here. We're hoping that alumni and friends will see that this fund grows."

Dr. Hill said he hopes someday to have a sizeable endowment in order to provide numerous scholarships for physics students. To help, please contact Dr. Hill at 774-3295 or write Dr. Benny Hill, Physics Department Chairman, Southwestern Oklahoma State University, 100 Campus Drive, Weatherford, OK 73096.

Snider, the first recipient, is active in physics club at Southwestern and is currently working with other students on superconductor research.

Regents approve OU Doctor of Pharmacy

The Oklahoma State Regents for Higher Education have approved a Doctor of Pharmacy Program to begin June 1990 at the University of Oklahoma and are also encouraging Southwestern Oklahoma State University to submit a proposal for implementing the program.

"OU is in an excellent position to begin a Pharmacy Doctoral program almost immediately," said State Regents Chairman James E. Barnes. "Because of its existing faculty, facilities, and institutional support, the university will have to make the program a reality."

The State Regents are enhancing the level of pharmacy education in Oklahoma because of changes taking place in the profession.

The principal thrust of Doctor of Pharmacy programs is an extensive clinical component that teaches pharmacist to provide patient-oriented services, advise physicians, and other health professionals, and counsel patients on proper drug usage.

LISA HAWES and Brent Bergen, both Southwestern pharmacy school graduates working for Eckerd Drug, were recently on the Weatherford campus interviewing prospective employees. Lisa, a December 1988 graduate, is a pharmacist in Joshua, Texas, while Brent, who graduated in 1985, is a pharmacist in Arlington, Texas.

Alumni on State Pharmacy Board

Keith Dodson, a 1961 Pharmacy graduate, is a member of the Oklahoma State Pharmacy Board. Keith lives in Altus with his wife, Judy, who is a 1961 Elementary Education major. They have three children: Debbie, Mark and Scott. Debbie teaches in Altus, Mark is a SWOSU Pharmacy graduate and Scott is still in high school. Keith is a partner in the United Drug Stores in Altus, Elk City, Purcell and the Bunker Hill Drug of Altus.

Keith is on the Board of Directors of the Pharmacy Providers of Oklahoma; Past President of the Oklahoma Pharmacy Association; Past President of the Oklahoma Pharmacy Heritage; and a member of the National Association of Retail Druggist. He is a member of the Board of the Altus Park and Recreation, Air Force Association, Altus Chamber of Commerce, and the First United Methodist Church. He is also Past President of the Altus All-Sports Association.

He also joined three teammates on the first team of the district and conference teams. Also named were running back Mark Williams of Pampa, Texas; wide receiver Derrick Bailey of Altus, and defensive back Shawn Peters of Woodward.

In addition, three players were named to the 1989 NAIA Academic All-District 9 football

Southwestern lands greats on decade teams

As most Southwestern followers already know, the decade of the 1980's was a successful one for the SWOSU sports teams.

National championship titles were won by the women's rodeo team in 1982, the men's team in 1985 and the women's basketball squads of 1982, 1983, 1985 and 1987.

The success of the Southwestern teams is evident on the Daily Oklahoman's NAIA District 9 All-Decade Teams which were compiled by 20 sportswriters of the Oklahoma City newspaper.

Five women's basketball players, five footballers and one baseball player from Southwestern were named to the All-Decade teams.

Southwestern players dominated the All-Decade women's basketball team as five of the 15 players were from SWOSU. Named to the squad were Kelli Litsch of Fay who played at Thomas High School; Chelly Belanger of Weatherford; Anita Foster of Dallas, Texas; Shelly Brown of Holdenville; and Rhonda Smith of Wooster, Ohio.

Litsch, who was named the women's basketball player of the decade in Oklahoma, led Southwestern to three of its four national championship titles in 1982, 1983 and 1985. She was a four-time first-team NAIA All-American for coach John Loftin.

Litsch, who is now assistant women's basketball coach at Southwestern, scored 2,700 points and pulled down 1,213 rebounds during her brilliant four-year career. She averaged 20.8 points and 9.3 rebounds in 130 games.

Loftin also picked up a top award in the Daily Oklahoman voting. He finished third in the "Coach of the Decade" race behind University of Oklahoma men's basketball coach Billy Tubbs and former University of Oklahoma football coach Barry Switzer. Finishing fourth was Oklahoma State golf coach Mike Holder. Others receiving votes were former OSU football coach Jimmy Johnson, OSU football coach Pat Jones, OSU baseball coach Gary Ward and Midwest City football coach Dick Evans.

In the "Team of the Decade" competition, Southwestern's 1982 women's basketball team which finished 34-0 and won the national championship title finished third behind the 1985 OU national championship football team and 1987-88 OU basketball team that reached the NCAA finals. Taking fourth place in the voting was the 1987 OSU baseball team, the NCAA runnerup.

Belanger, Foster, Brown and Smith were all first team All-Americans at Southwestern. Belanger, a 1978 graduate of Weatherford High School, helped lead the Lady Bulldogs to their first-ever NAIA title in 1982. Foster, a first teamer in 1984, still holds the school record of 73 blocked shots in one season which took place in 1983-84. Brown, an NAIA All-American in 1985, helped lead the Lady Bulldogs to the 1985 national crown. And, Smith led the Lady Bulldogs to the 1987 national title. She was a complete player who led the team in scoring, rebounding, assists, steals and blocked shots.

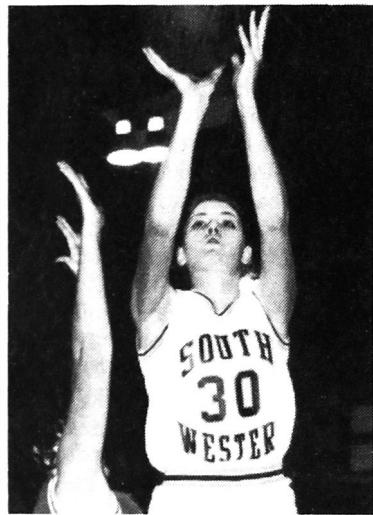

Southwestern was also well represented on the 33-member All-Decade football team. Named were Carl Birdsong, Gary Harper, David Thompkins, Rand Webster and James Hicks.

Birdsong, who lives in Amarillo, Texas, played for the Bulldogs in 1979-80. He holds the SWOSU school record in punting with a 44-5 career average. Birdsong, now a pharmacist, was a first team All-American who also played for the St. Louis Cardinals.

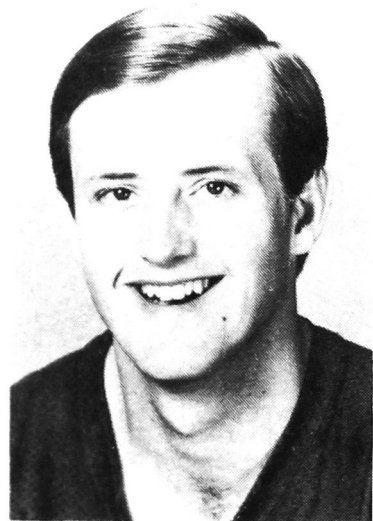

Harper, a Gulfport, Miss. product, led Southwestern in tackles at linebacker during his junior season and was named a first-team All-American in 1980. A second team All-American in 1980 was cornerback Thompkins of Oklahoma City who holds the school record for most interceptions in one season with 11.

Webster of Jackson, Miss., was NAIA District Nine Defensive Player of the Year and a first team All-American at defensive end in 1985. Hicks played at Southwestern in 1985-88. The Burkburnett, Texas tailback gained 3,263 rushing yards in his career which is second best in school history. His brother, Charles, holds the school rushing record of 4,233. Charles played at Southwestern in 1968-71.

The lone Bulldog on the All-Decade baseball team was Jeff Deckard who played for Southwestern in 1987. The first baseman from Yukon was Player of the Year in both NAIA District Nine and the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference. The second team All-American hit .450 and led the Bulldogs to a 45-17 season.

KELLI LITSCH, who is now assistant women's basketball coach at Southwestern, was named the women's basketball player of the decade for the 1980s in Oklahoma.

CARL BIRDSONG was one of five football players at Southwestern to be named to the NAIA District 9 All-Decade team in Oklahoma for the 1980s. Birdsong was a punter for the Bulldogs and he ended up playing professional football for the St. Louis Cardinals. He is now a pharmacist in Amarillo, Texas.

JEFF DECKARD was named to the NAIA District 9 All-Decade baseball team in Oklahoma for the 1980s. Deckard was named Player of the Year in both NAIA District Nine and the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference in 1987.

Rhymer officer of OAFP

Dr. James R. Rhymer of Clinton was installed as vice-director of the Oklahoma Academy of Family Physicians, Great Plains District. He also was named to the academy's 28-member board of directors.

In addition, he was appointed for the third consecutive year to chair the OAFP Legislative Committee.

Dr. Rhymer is a board-certified specialist in family medicine and has been a member of OAFP since 1974.

The Oklahoma Academy of Family Physicians is composed of approximately 1,000 doctors from across the state. It is a constituent chapter of the 68,000-member Academy of Family Physicians. Rhymer is a SWOSU alumnus.

Southwestern qualifies for Nationals

Southwestern Oklahoma State University women's basketball team won their 6th NAIA District 9 basketball championship title as the Lady Bulldogs defeated defending national champion Southern Nazarene University, 67-63, in the title game on March 3 in Weatherford.

The Lady Bulldogs then traveled to Dodge City, Kan., to compete in the bi-district championship contest against St. Mary of the Plains, Kan. Southwestern won the bi-district championship title by defeating the Saints, 65-52.

As of press time for Echoes, the Lady Bulldogs were preparing for their 6th trip to the national tournament. Southwestern has won national championship titles in 1982, 1983, 1985 and 1987. Southwestern also went to the national tournament in 1984.

Southwestern took a 26-4 record to the national tourney.

Southwestern players Valerie Fariss of Leedey and Kayla Thompson of Hobbs, N.M., were named to the 1989-90 All-District 9 basketball team. Named to the second team was Carla Duncan of Memphis, Tenn.

Fariss, a freshman, was Southwestern's leading scorer with a 15.2 average. She also led the nation in freethrow shooting at 86%. Fariss averaged 4.7 rebounds per contest and was second on the team in assists with 65. She also was a 55.7% field goal shooter. Fariss won the Most Valuable Player Award at the prestigious Queen's Tournament held in November in Plainview, Texas. Fariss was also named to the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference 1st team.

Thompson was the workhorse for the Lady Bulldogs in 1989-90. The senior point guard led in assists and steals with 159 and 45, respectively. Thompson also averaged 8.0 points and 5.0 rebounds. Thompson was named to the OIC second team.

Duncan, a senior center, was also named to the OIC 2nd team in addition to the all-district second team. She was Southwestern's second leading scorer at 13.8 and the team's leading rebounder at 5.8 per game. She also led the team in blocked shots with 60. Duncan's scoring and rebounding statistics were not as high this season as last because of a more-balanced attack. Duncan was a first-team All American in 1988-89.

As for the men's team, the SOUTHWESTERN celebrates its 6th NAIA District 9 women's basketball championship after defeating Southern Nazarene, 67-63, in the district finals.

Southwestern Bulldogs faced a rebuilding year in 1989-90. Head coach George Hauser only had one senior on the team which was Chris Hamilton. The Bulldogs had an 8-19 record.

Guards Stephen Joseph and Michael Parks were named honorable mention all-district while both players were named to the OIC 1st team.

Joseph and Parks gives Hauser a dynamic duo at the guard positions. Joseph was the Bulldogs' leading scorer with his 15.9

average, while Parks was third on the team at 14.2. Parks had 83 assists while Joseph had 46 to lead the Bulldogs in that category. Both players will be back next season for Hauser since Joseph is a junior and Parks is a sophomore.

Other SWOSU players who were named honorable mention on the OIC teams were Jackie Snodgrass of the women's team and Chris Hamilton of the men's squad.

Southwestern Oklahoma State University has become a national power in women's basketball as evidenced by the above results.

Yorkresignsascoach

Mike York, the most successful football coach in Hobart Bearcat history, gave up his coaching duties recently to pursue the vacancy as principal of Hobart High School.

The vacancy came as a result of current principal Joe Martin's retirement, effective at the end of the school year.

"I've enjoyed my stay as coach here," York said. "These 14 years have been the best that I could ask for."

"The kids are great and they have always given great effort, but I'm at a point in my career that I want a new challenge." "I'm fully qualified and I want to pursue a career in administration."

Hobart was York's first job after graduating from Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford. His first year, 1970, York served as junior high assistant coach.

From 1971 to 1974, York was head coach of junior high, and he was promoted to high school assistant coach in 1975.

When he took the reigns as high school head coach in 1976, nobody dreamed that he would turn Hobart football into a dynasty.

York resigns with an overall career record of 148-35 (.801) and two state championship teams. His achievements rival those of former Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer, whose career record was 157-29-4 (.837) with two national championship teams.

His record of 113-32 during the '80s was the second-best for coach of the decade, and best for a team. Only Bruce Hendrickson, who coached at Okeene and Seiling, was ahead of York with 114 victories.

He lead Hobart to state championships in 1980 and 1982. His 1980 squad finished 15-0 and several players went on to collegiate careers.

York coached 18 different players who earned all-state honors, including the back-of-the-year Brad Calip in 1980.

In addition to his success on the gridiron, York coached a state championship track team in 1986 when the Bearcats won the title with only five athletes. He coached three athletes who earned all-state honors in track.

A few of York's more memorable games as head football coach were the Davis game in 1980, the Cordell game in 1981, and the Okemah game in 1982.

"The following week when we beat Morris 35-7 in the finals was sort of anti-climatic after beating Davis 28-21 the week before," York said.

"We were down 10-0 in the fourth quarter and came from behind to beat a very talented Cordell team in 1981."

"The Okemah game in 1982 finals was a high point in everybody's mind," York said, "because they were a really good team."

Ironically, York lost his first district game at Hobart 35-28 to Sayre in 1976. After that, the Cats put together a 28-game winning streak in district games. In the years 1977, 1978, 1979, 1980, 1981, and 1982, Hobart was undefeated in district games.

York's career record in district games was 60-4, including a 45-3 mark in the '80s. His teams won 12 district titles outright and tied for another.

ECHOES RECEIVES

FROM YOU

Dear Mr. Sanders:

Thank you for your sweet letter. I couldn't believe I had failed to enclose my check for the alumni membership. Imagine my surprise when I realized that I had also failed to even write the check. I can't imagine where my mind was. This time, I have a checklist so I won't forget the check.

To answer your question as to how I ended up in Maitland, this is where my parents live. It is a part of the "Greater Orlando Metropolitan Area" whatever that means. I work in a small town just north of Maitland, Lake Mary. I lucked into a wonderful job with Stromberg-Carlson and am very happy here even though I miss Oklahoma.

Daddy still works for the Orlando Sentinel. He is the Seminole county editor. Even though he complains about the tortures of "every day, filling the yawning blank newsprint" he still loves his work.

Mom is a mathematics instructor at a local college and is an adjunct teacher at another. Needless to say, she is overworked but loves her work as much as Daddy does his.

Thanks again for your letter. Tell Dr. McGurk hello for me if he is still on the staff. The computer science courses I took at Southwestern have served me well.

Sincerely,
Donna Boyett

Dear Otis,

Just received my "Echoes From the Hill" and it is full of news and of old friends. So sorry to hear of Roy P. Stewart's passing. I bought his book and treasure it. Gene and Vera Stewart are dear friends. I also take "Westview" and love it.

Sincerely,
Nola Lee Vanderveer

Former NASA employee honored by city

Dale Taylor, the computer programmer and analyst for the city of Weatherford, began working with computers following a one week course at the University of Houston in the mid-1960s.

Taylor was the city's employee of the month in recognition of his work. He has completely integrated data processing for the water office and is working on an automated program for the building and inspecting office.

He also oversees data processing in the police department and court clerk's office and also is advisor to the fire department on the subject.

A native and resident of Clinton, Taylor graduated from Southwestern Oklahoma State University in 1962 with a degree in math and physics. He then went to work for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as an aerospace engineer.

At that time, he said, few people outside the federal government were using computers and he doubts that SWSU had one on campus.

But the analytical group he was working with needed some programming done and Taylor said he volunteered and took the week-long course as preparation.

Taylor spent four years at NASA during the Gemini and early Apollo programs before moving to Tulsa to spend several years working for oil companies.

Making the decision to raise his children in western Oklahoma during the '70s, he worked for 3M, South Western Oklahoma Development Authority and in his own business before coming to work for Weatherford in 1985.

Until that time, the city had contracted out its computer work, he said.

His work in the water department cuts down the number of times data must be entered to maintain records and do the billing. He has been involved in developing programs for other departments and teaching personnel how to use them.

He has installed a network system in the police department.

Taylor and his wife, Dianna, have two children, Linda Mangus of Tulsa, who recently gave the Taylors their first grandchild, and Travis, a computer student at Oklahoma City University.
