School of Pharmacy celebrates 50 years

The School of Pharmacy will celebrate its 50th anniversary on the Southwestern Oklahoma State University campus Saturday, April 29 and Sunday, April 30. All SWOSU pharmacy graduates are encouraged to attend the reunion. The planning committee consists of co-chairman Vicki Jobe of Lubbock, Texas, and David Ralph of Weatherford. Also on the committee are: Sandi Eck, Hieldton; Bob Dishman, Lawton; Jimmy Evetts, Cordell; Klem Chandler, Ponca City; and Jerry Meese, Woodward.

The following is a history of the School of Pharmacy:

A School of Pharmacy, to be located in western Oklahoma, was born in the minds of two pharmacists of that area in the early 1930's. They were practicing pharmacists, active and influential in state as well as local pharmaceutical affairs. These men, Albert Eaton of Weatherford, and Bert Brundage of Thomas, felt a keen sense of responsibility to their fellow men and particularly to the youth in their section of the state. Both had served as members of the Oklahoma State Board of Pharmacy. Mr. Eaton was a past president of the Oklahoma Pharmaceutical Association and Mr. Brundage was a member of the Board of Regents for Oklahoma Colleges for a three year and a nine year term.

A School of Pharmacy was centrally located in the state, but in those depression years Mr. Eaton and Mr. Brundage felt the people of western Oklahoma could be served better by a school in that specific area. Weatherford is less than 100 miles from the western Oklahoma-Texas line, and at that time there was no School of Pharmacy in New Mexico or West Texas.

It would be very interesting if one could refer to written records of all the meetings and transactions that transpired which led to the opening of the first classes in a Department of Pharmacy on the campus of Southwestern State College of Diversified Occupations in September, 1939. But that is not possible. Mr. Eaton and Mr. Brundage made many trips both inside and outside the state, and many meetings were held with those influential in pharmacy, all at their personal expense, to bring tangible form to their dream of a School of Pharmacy in and for western Oklahoma. The course was not always smooth. So, it may be just as well that all transactions and procedures were not recorded.

Information about the early history of the School of Pharmacy was collected from newspaper files, school catalog files, bulletin files (which are incomplete), and by word of mouth from those who were on the scene.

The following statement appeared in the 1939-40 catalog:

Southwestern State College of Diversified Occupations was established by the territorial legislature as the Southwestern Normal School in 1901. This institution from that date until 1920 served the southwestern district of the state by offering two years of college work. During this period a preparatory or a high school department was also maintained. In 1920 two years were added to the curriculum; a four-year college course was organized and the institution was given the name, Southwestern State Teachers' College. Since that time, it has served as a teachers' college offering training for the various levels of the elementary school and the various departments of the junior and senior high school. During the legislative session of 1939, the college was changed to include other occupations in addition to teacher training. The name was changed to Southwestern State College of Diversified Occupations. Now Southwestern will not only continue to train teachers with a strong Division of Education but will also train students for the business, commercial, and industrial world, as well as give a general college course for those who do not desire the special training. Southwestern is now organized into a Division of Arts and Sciences, a Division of Education, and a Division of Technology.

The Department of Pharmacy became a part of the Division of Technology; however, in the 1940-41 catalog a Division of Pharmacy was listed, and it remained so listed until publication of the 1948-49 catalog when the School of Pharmacy listing was introduced. In 1941, the name of the college was changed by the Oklahoma State Legislature to Southwestern Oklahoma State College. The Legislature changed the name again in 1974 to Southwestern Oklahoma State University.

Pharmacy celebrates

Dr. L. J. Klotz came to Southwestern State Teachers' College as a member of the chemistry staff in September, 1934. It was under his direction that the Department of Pharmacy was established. A description of the department requirements first appeared in the 1939-40 catalog:

The Department of Pharmacy offers a four-year course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science and a two-year vocational type course leading to a certificate of proficiency in drug store merchandising. The four-year program is intended to satisfy Oklahoma State Board of Pharmacy requirements for eligibility for registration. The two-year program does not fulfill the requirements but is intended to prepare students for efficient drug store service in the commercial field.

In the four-year degree program, students may elect to specialize in medical technology, pre-medicine or commercial pharmacy during their last two year's work. Students expecting to enter the retail drug field should choose commercial pharmacy; those planning to enter professional pharmacy should choose medical technology. In general, the pre-medical requirements can be worked out in combination with either of the other two programs with an additional summer or semester work.

The establishment of a School of Pharmacy at Southwestern was approved and supported by the Oklahoma State Board of Pharmacy. So, in the 1940-41 catalog this statement of purpose was added:

The curriculum, designed to satisfy the requirements of standards of the Oklahoma Board of Pharmacy, is based upon the standard of the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education.

This first curriculum differed very little regardless of the indicated specialization. The student choosing medical technology as his specialty took two courses designated medical technology, while the student choosing commercial pharmacy chose two courses in accounting and a course in business correspondence. The pre-medical specialty included physics, general zoology, history, and an elective. All the other required courses were the same, regardless of the so-called specialization chosen.

The Oklahoma State Board of Pharmacy had set the minimum enrollment requirement at 25. Eleven students enrolled in the Department of Pharmacy the fall semester of the 1939-40 school year, 25 the spring semester and 44 the fall semester, 1940.

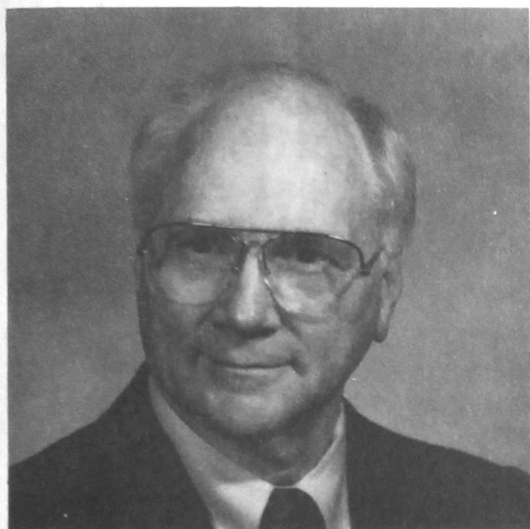

Dr. Klotz, head of the department, briefly described some of the work the pharmacy classes would be doing:

The advanced class would spend six weeks studying sign painting and the arrangement of signs, then three weeks working with crepe paper effects; the remainder of the semester to be spent studying advertising, both mail and newspaper types...Each member of the class designs two practice window backgrounds, does one practice window at the college, and finally does five windows downtown. Local druggists have turned display windows over to students to gain practical knowledge of work...The freshman class has been doing pharmaceutical arithmetic and prescription work. Tentative plans are afoot to start a botanical garden for both classes. All plants grown will have medicinal value, will provide material for students to work with and give them practice in extracting said medicines. The freshman class will study Galencial Pharmacy the second semester. This will include the study and manufacture of ointments, solutions, tinctures and fluidextracts, none of which will involve chemical reactions.

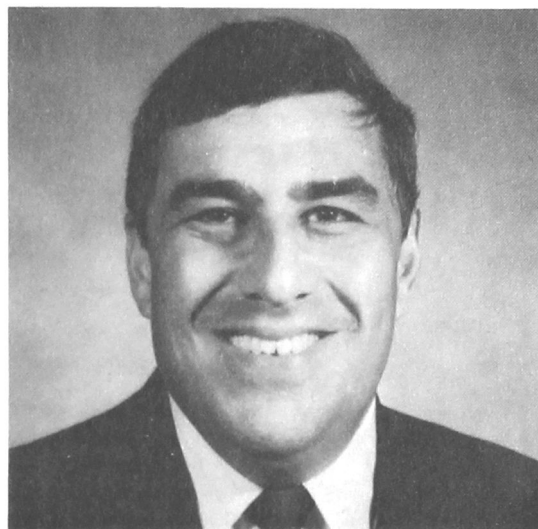

Today, some of us would be inclined to smile at this practical training, but many changes have occurred in the past 40 years. The curriculum at Southwestern has kept pace with those changes and the desire today, as it was in 1939, is to educate young men and women to practice the profession of pharmacy. One of the purposes and objectives of Southwestern State College School of Pharmacy as stated in the 1964-67 Bulletin was "To provide a pharmacy curriculum for individuals wishing to make a career of pharmacy." By action of the faculty, the curriculum has been made flexible enough to meet the requirements of those students who intend to pursue graduate study.

Those who have served as administrative officers since the establishment of a Department of Pharmacy are: Dr. L.J. Klotz, head of the Department of Pharmacy, 1939-40, and the Division of Pharmacy, 1940-42; Dan Rivkin, 1941-43; Ralph M. Wilson, 1943-46; Dan Rivkin, 1946-48; Dr. A. Schram, 1948-49, Acting Dean of the newly designated School of Pharmacy; W.D. Strother, Dean, 1949-65; Dr. W.L. Dickison, Dean, 1965-79; Dr. H.F. Timmons, Acting Dean, 1979-81; Dr. B.G. Keller, Jr., Dean, 1981 to July 31, 1987; Dr. H.F. Timmons, Acting Dean, August 1, 1987 to December 31, 1987; Dr. J.A. Scruggs, Acting Dean, January 1, 1988 to August 31, 1988; and Dr. H. David Bergman, Dean, September 1, 1988 to present.

The Department of Pharmacy occupied quarters in the basement of the Old Science Hall until the late 1940's, when it moved to the second floor of the Administration Building. This space was shared with the Chemistry Department. Following World War II, the sharp increase in enrollment called for more space. Two barracks buildings were moved onto the campus; one served as a classroom and the other housed three offices, a pharmacology laboratory and a pharmacy laboratory. These buildings relieved the crowded condition to some extent, but it was necessary for three or four students to occupy the same laboratory desk. In 1960, state appropriations were made available for the construction of a three-story building to be occupied by pharmacy, chemistry, and physics. This provided 18,000 square feet for pharmacy. The building was occupied for the opening of classes in September, 1963.

In the late 1960's, state and federal funding were obtained to enlarge the School of Pharmacy, with a corresponding enlargement of the facilities of the Departments of Chemistry and Physics. The Department of Mathematics was moved to another location on campus. A grant of $75,000 for furniture and equipment was obtained from the Pfeiffer Foundation, subject to the receipt of a "matching grant" of private funds. The matching grant was quickly raised in the form of contributions by manufacturers, wholesalers, alumni, and friends. The addition, the entire east wing of the building, was completed, furnished, and occupied in 1970. At that time the existing facilities were remodeled and air conditioned.

Efforts to obtain additional state appropriations to enlarge the physical facilities of the School of Pharmacy in the 1970's were fruitless. Therefore, Dr. Al Harris, the immediate past president of Southwestern, utilized surplus local funds to construct the Pharmacy II building for the School of Pharmacy which was completed in 1975.

In 1949, the School was still unaccredited and not eligible for membership in the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy. The Board of Regents of Oklahoma Colleges commissioned Mr. Bert Brundage to find a Dean. A letter was written to Dr. R.C. Wilson, former Dean of the School of Pharmacy, University of Georgia, asking him to recommend an individual for the position. He recommended Dr. W.D. Strother, who had been a member of his faculty. Mr. Brundage and Mr. R.H. Burton, president of the College, went to Athens, Georgia, to interview Dr. Strother. As a result of this interview, W.D. Strother became the first official Dean of the School of Pharmacy on August 1, 1949.

The Board of Regents of Oklahoma Colleges issued the ultimatum that accreditation must be obtained within two years or the School of Pharmacy would be closed. A major task was before Dean Strother—the faculty and curriculum had to be upgraded. One of his first official acts was to employ Dr. Wilson as a faculty member. He spent one year at Southwestern School of Pharmacy, teaching and acting in an advisory capacity to Dean Strother.

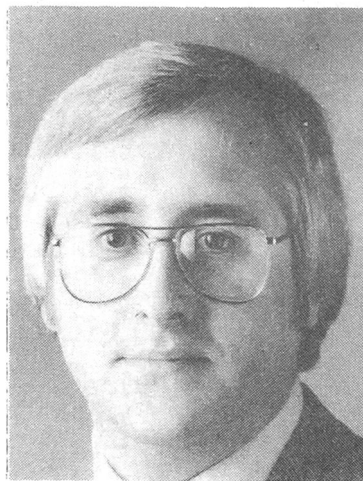

"The School of Pharmacy began its tenth year with the strongest faculty in its history,"

Dean Strother reported. The enrollment in September, 1949, was 110 students. Dean Strother announced in November, 1949, that beginning with the second semester, all lower classmen in the School of Pharmacy would begin meeting requirements of a new curriculum—the changes being made to meet all requirements of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy and the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education. Under Dean Strother's direction and with the cooperation of a well-chosen faculty, the challenge was met. On February 5, 1951, R.H. Burton, president of the college was informed by P.H. Costello, secretary of the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education, that the School of Pharmacy was accredited with a Class B rating. Commenting upon the accreditation, President Burton praised Dean Strother, the Oklahoma State Board of Pharmacy, Mr. Albert Eaton, and Mr. Bert Brundage for the work done to accomplish this goal. On August 28, 1951, the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, meeting in Buffalo, New York, voted unanimously to admit Southwestern State College of Pharmacy to membership. Dean Strother took immediate action to meet the requirements necessary for Class A accreditation by further improving faculty, facilities, and curriculum. The reward for this effort came when, at the meeting of the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education on June 3, 1954, after a scheduled inspection, the School was given Class A rating.

The first degrees were conferred on two graduates in 1941: Clyde Miller, Weatherford, Oklahoma; and J.T. Moore, Durham, North Carolina. Forty-six years later, in 1988, 102 students received a B.S. in Pharmacy degrees. The enrollment has grown from 25 that first year to more than 600 pre-pharmacy and pharmacy students this semester. The success of a professional school cannot be measured by numbers, but rather by the quality of its graduates. Southwestern Oklahoma State University School of Pharmacy graduates are in demand; they are respected; they are good professional citizens. Celebrating our 50th anniversary, the School of Pharmacy plans to continue these rich traditions into the next century. Yes, the School of Pharmacy is one of the best in the United States.

Alum serves preceptorship

Kurt Gibson recently finished a two week preceptorship at Gibson-Gibson Dental Office under the supervision of Dr. Gayle Gibson. Kurt is the son of Dr. Darryle and Patsy Gibson of Guymon. Kurt is a student of the Oklahoma University School of Dentistry and will graduate in June. Dr. Gayle Gibson was placed on the faculty at the college ranked as preceptor. This was the final two weeks of Kurt's preceptorship. Last summer he spent three weeks in Stilwell at the Indian Health Service. He said the five weeks gave him the opportunity to see an actual dentist practice and gain hands-on practical experience. It is an opportunity to see the business management end of a practice and to prepare for moving into his own practice, he said. It also allowed him to share his experience with his uncle and his dad, he noted. He taught them about "new ideas and technology," he said. Kurt is a 1981 graduate of Guymon High School. He graduated from Southwestern Oklahoma State University. After graduation from dental school he plans to set up practice with his father and uncle. He and his wife, the former Janet Parsley, have one daughter, Leah, and are expecting their second child.

Alum heads state pharmacy board

Joe Schwemin, Executive Secretary for the Oklahoma State Board of Pharmacy, received his pharmacy degree in 1948 from SWOSU. Joe is a native of Ponca City. He is a member of the Southwestern Oklahoma State University Distinguished Alumni Hall of Fame.

Dr. H. David Bergman selected as dean

Dr. H. David Bergman is the new Dean of the School of Pharmacy, the first outside candidate appointed dean since Dr. W.D. Strother in the 1950's. He was most recently Assistant Dean of the University of Pittsburgh School of Pharmacy. A native-born Texan, he graduated from the University of Houston with a B.S. in Pharmacy in 1967 and immediately entered the hospital pharmacy master's program at the University of Iowa. During his residency, Dr. Bergman developed a clinical pharmacy practice and research site on a general medicine unit at the VA hospital in Iowa City. After completing his work in Iowa, he began working on his Ph.D. in clinical pharmacy at Purdue.

Dr. Bergman received his Ph.D. in 1973, and his first academic position was at Northeast Louisiana University School of Pharmacy in Monroe. At Northeast, he developed and ran several clinical sites and had graduate teaching responsibilities as well. It was at Northeast that Dr. Bergman began a long association (lasting to the present) of writing for the Southern Journal of Pharmacy. In 1977, he left Northeast to become Coordinator of Clinical Pharmacy Programs at the University of Pittsburgh School of Pharmacy. He became assistant dean in 1981. He worked to expand the clinical program, while doing a great amount of work in the area of drug interactions.

Nationally, Dr. Bergman is well-known for his more than 150 publications, and his work in the landmark Incompatibilities in Large Volume Parenterals studies of the 1970's. He is currently a publications referee for the U.S. Pharmacist and the American Journal of Hospital Pharmacy. He has served as a consultant for Eli Lilly and Company and has steadily received grants and contracts since 1970.

Dr. Bergman is licensed in two states, and has served on numerous local, state and national pharmacy committees. He is a member of Rho Chi, and he was an AFPE scholar in graduate school. Dr. Bergman is married and has four children.

Pharmacy alums lead in OPhA

The first two graduates from the SWOSU School of Pharmacy were Clyde Miller and Jesse Moore in 1941. By 1947, the pharmacy classes had grown and each year thereafter pharmacy students began to take leadership responsibilities in Oklahoma as well as other states where they practiced.

In 1961, Clyde Miller was elected president of the Oklahoma Pharmaceutical Association. Clyde is now deceased, but he was the start of "Presidents In the Future of OPhA."

The SWOSU School of Pharmacy alumnus, Lonny Wilson (Class of '73), was inducted as the current president of the Oklahoma Pharmaceutical Association (OPhA) during the recent annual convention. # Alum chiropractor once played trumpet for showbiz greats

About 10 years ago, trumpet player Jack Janway was playing Las Vegas variety shows, accompanying guys like Bob Hope, Paul Williams, Redd Foxx and Engelbert Humperdinck.

Janway, who had for several years spread his professional time among nightclubs in the New York City area, said he preferred working in Las Vegas. Because the clubs were closer in proximity, it was easier to maintain a "normal" lifestyle. And he had his eyes on his next goal: to become a studio recording artist, the likes of which he played for such showbiz greats as Henry Mancini.

What Janway didn't know was that in his mid-20's he had just reached the peak of his professional music career. He probably could not have imagined that life would find him 10 years later as a doctor of chiropractic and a certified acupuncturist in his hometown, with a wife and four children.

Back then, all Janway knew was that the degenerative arthritis in his jaw had become so severe that some of the cartilage tore loose, and doctors could not guarantee that corrective surgery would be successful. Not good for a man whose livelihood depended on three to four hours of practice a day, and whose nightly performances sometimes lasted four to six hours.

"I was disappointed for awhile, because it seemed like things were really going good," said Janway, 34. "But during the time I was a musician, I saw an awful lot of sadness as far as drug and alcohol-related problems."

Perhaps the most shocking of those was when his idol shot himself in the head. Bud Brisbois, who was about 20 years older than Janway, was one of the leading trumpet players in the country at the time of his suicide. He was a studio recording artist who played background music for films and worked with Henry Mancini.

Brisbois had attained what was Janway's ultimate goal, and it stunned the young Oklahoman to think he could hurt badly enough to take his life.

"When the jaw thing came around, I thought maybe it was a chain of events telling me to get out of the business," Janway said.

"With that kind of lifestyle, people are around it (drugs and alcohol) a lot. You travel on the road a lot, and it's easy for people to get started on things," he said.

"People get bummed out on traveling, and they don't eat right and sleep right."

Janway believes the example set by his parents, who maintained an orderly family life and were active in church and community affairs, prepared him for the chaotic lifestyle that sometimes brings an overwhelming sadness and depression.

Having always been interested in pharmacy and medicine, Janway had taken pre-med courses at Southwestern University in Weatherford, but they took a backseat to his music degree.

Now, however, he turned his attention to the medical field, enrolling in 1980 in Cleveland Chiropractic School in Kansas City, MO. He worked his way through school playing the trumpet on a schedule that was Syntex Laboratories named Jackie Lynne Norvill a Syntex professional medical representative after her completion of an in-depth training program, according to Jack Tuttle, Syntex vice president of sales.

In this position, Norvill, 26, will provide health care professionals in the Enid, Okla., area with medical background and usage information on Syntex pharmaceutical products.

Prior to joining Syntex, Norvill, a native of Pauls Valley, Okla., worked as a microbiologist for the Oklahoma City-County Health Department. She received a bachelor's degree in biological sciences from Southwestern Oklahoma State University in May 1986.

The five-month training program involves courses in medical terminology, anatomy, physiology, disease states, pharmacology, therapy methods and specific Syntex products. It concludes with an intensive two-week seminar, featuring prominent physicians who lecture on specific areas of medicine.

not as strenuous as before, and in 1984 moved to Muskogee and opened an office.

"I had thought about going back into pharmacy, but I wanted to get into a profession to do something more directly to help people on a one-to-one basis," Janway said.

"A lot of people don't have a good comprehension of chiropractics. They think we just see a lot of people with low back problems, but I get to see a lot of different people in different age groups."

Janway's second specialty as an acupuncturist has given him the opportunity to ease numerous aches and pains.

"I had a patient that had cancer, leukemia, glaucoma and shingles, all at the same time," he said. "The lady's husband called me up and said he had come home and she had just bought a gun and was going to shoot herself, and he asked if there was anything we could do as far as acupuncture."

The woman's radiation and chemotherapy treatments had to be temporarily halted due to the shingles, causing her excruciating pain, Janway said.

He administered acupuncture for pain control and shingles, which he said cleared up the condition and allowed her to return to chemotherapy.

"I was pretty thankful that I grew up in a family where religion and morals were quite responsible for getting me through the music business without developing all the alcohol and drug-type problems I saw," he said.

Janway met his wife, Lynn, when she came to him for treatment. The family attends the First Assembly of God Church, where he still plays the trumpet. He also occasionally performs engagements around town.

"When people tell me how much they enjoy my playing, I tell them, 'You should have heard me back when I was really at my top performance,'" he said.

SWOSU graduate teaching in Wichita

Saundra Hopper, SWOSU graduate, accepted a teaching position with the Wichita Public School System, USD 259, Wichita, Kansas. Hopper teaches at Lincoln Elementary School.

The Wichita Public School System is the largest and most diversified school district in Kansas. An urban school district, Wichita serves over 46,000 students at 112 schools, including vocational and special education centers. USD 259 employs over 3,000 teachers and is accredited by the Kansas Department of Education.

District programs serve students from pre-school through adults. A number of alternative schools offer options in teaching and learning styles. Co-curricular activities from athletics to chess supplement the academic program.

The 152 square miles of school district cover virtually all of the city of Wichita and extend beyond the city limits into large portions of Sedgwick County.

89-year-old happy to be working

"Retirement" is not a word in Voyle Scurlock's vocabulary.

At an age when most have settled into a comfortable rocking chair, Scurlock decided to launch a new career.

The Oklahoma City man began his career in real estate 10 years ago at age 79. He is a realtor with Bob Linn and Associates, 6613 N. Meridian.

As for stopping, his license doesn't expire until 1999, he said.

"I won't go on beyond that. I won't try to if I live that long. I may call it off next year."

"I would guess that I may be one of the oldest realtors and brokers in the business. I'd like to go one more year."

Before embarking in real estate, Scurlock spent most of his career in education.

The Roosevelt native received his bachelor's degree in education from Southwestern State College in 1927. He then attended Oklahoma A&M, now Oklahoma State University, receiving his master's degree in education in 1936.

During World War I, while in his late teens, he taught school in a one-room schoolhouse. Because of a health problem, he was unable to join the military.

At age 22 Scurlock was named Hobart Junior High principal. The next year he was elected to the office of Kiowa County school superintendent, a post he held for four years.

He was re-elected to the position but resigned within three months to accept a high school inspector's post with the state. Scurlock said he visited every high school in Oklahoma over a two-year period.

In July 1931, he moved to Tulsa to become a vocational rehabilitation counselor. Ten years later, he moved back to Oklahoma City to become director of the education department. He left the post in 1965 after working 34 years at the Capitol.

He then joined the University of Oklahoma as director of the vocational rehabilitation grant program.

In 1970, he left the position and began to think about slowing down.

"I came home with the idea that I'd had it. I was just going to take off and fish. A few weeks passed, and I was climbing the walls."

After considering a move into the insurance business, Scurlock decided to venture into real estate.

"I started looking around to see what I wanted to do. I decided on real estate. I didn't know anything about it. I thought I did of course," he said.

Scurlock said he keeps busy with the eight homes and one commercial property he has listed.

He has no idea how many homes he's sold, but said he considers helping the client the most important aspect of his job.

"The big thing is being of service to other people. The average person who decides to sell his house or decides he's going to buy one doesn't have any more idea than a rabbit what's involved."

"There's a lot in it. I enjoy working with people and helping them understand all that's involved," he said.

Scurlock said he sees Oklahoma's real estate market improving slowly, but steadily.

"I think our economy is gradually improving. It (the housing market) is getting better."

Gamma Delta Kappa stays active

Since 1911, Gamma Delta Kappa has stayed active on the Southwestern campus. In fact, it can boast as being the oldest student organization on the campus. Gamma Delta Kappa, an honor society for women, devotes itself to helping meet the needs of the public.

The organization limits its membership to women with high scholastic achievement and character. For initiation, one must have a minimum of a 3.25 overall grade point average as well as maintain a GPA of 3.0 after becoming a member.

Community projects, special speakers, and fund raisers sponsored by the club along with a scholarship to SWOSU, awarded by the organization in the spring, provide many opportunities for members to stay involved.

Over 100 initiates were inducted at a ceremony held in the Elementary Lab of the Education Building on the SWOSU campus. A total of over 100 new initiates were inducted.

Under the supervision of their new sponsor and advisor, Mrs. Dolores Russell, the 1988-89 officers are Terri Longnecker, Midwest City, president; Christine Higa, Oklahoma City, vice-president; Nancy Stinson, Laverne, secretary; Jimmie Hammons, Pocasset, treasurer; Janet Conway, Brownsville, historian; Jennifer Goodin, Hydro, publicity; and Beth King, Oklahoma City, reporter.

Gamma Delta Kappa stays involved in various projects throughout the year and welcomes support from the community and alumni in their service to the community.

The Hammon native resides in Elk City.

"Cynthia has newspaper experience in Denver, Brighton, CO., Tulsa, Clinton, Asbury Park, NJ., Elk City and most recently, the West-OK Shopper in Elk City," said Journal publisher Tom Higley.

She has a master of education degree in art and journalism and a bachelor of arts degree in commercial art and journalism from SWOSU. She also completed a short course for professional writers at the University of Oklahoma.

"We are pleased to have Cynthia as a member of our 'award-winning' staff at The Journal," said Higley. "She is an important addition to our staff."

books and has also written for national publications.

Alum never would quit

The gentle arrangement of "Shekinah" filled the room in which Jeff Leslie silently sat. Though Leslie sat facing the stereo, his gaze had long since drifted far beyond that. His head bobbed up and down in time with the music as he quietly sang along with the words he had written. As the song's final notes echoed through the room, Leslie turned his head and smiled the smile of an artist pleased with his work.

"Boy," he said. "I just can't hear enough of that song."

Using a stick held firmly in his mouth, Leslie pressed the off button on the stereo's remote control which was mounted on a board in front of him. He turned his head slightly to the right, his mouth locating the "sip and puff" tube which controlled his electronic wheelchair. A combination of sipping and puffing on the tube would move his wheelchair left or right, backward or forward.

These day's Jeff Leslie's life moves mostly forward.

Leslie graduated Magna Cum Laude from Southwestern State University in Weatherford in 1979. He had attended the university on a music scholarship and by the time he graduated had won almost every award a musician could win. Three years in a row he had been awarded a citation for best drum performance at Southwestern's jazz festival. He was cited for the best drum performance and sight reading at the prestigious Wichita Jazz Festival. In addition to drums, Leslie played guitar, piano and bass guitar. He was also a formidable singer and composer.

After graduation, Leslie taught junior and senior high band and choir first at Omega, then at Tulsa's private Eastwood School. Music continued to play an important part in Leslie's life the following year, the melody provided by the joyous ringing of wedding bells. He was gainfully employed and happily married.

There was not a single bad note in Jeff Leslie's life in 1981. During the next three years he would endure a symphony of them.

In 1982, Leslie dove into a shallow lake and broke his spinal cord at the fourth and fifth cervical vertebrae. Although it wasn't severed it was crushed beyond repair. On his third day at the hospital, his lungs gave out and he was put on a respirator.

"They never thought I'd get off the respirator," he said.

But Leslie surprised them and was taken off the respirator and went through the rigors of rehabilitation, first in Tulsa and later at the O'Donoghue Rehabilitation Institute in Oklahoma City.

The initial cost of the accident was the use of both arms and both legs. The final bill would involve much more.

"I was scared," Leslie said. "I wasn't fully aware of the effect this would have on my life--until my divorce."

"I knew I had lost the ability to perform musically, but that wasn't my main concern at the time. My main concern was to survive and save my marriage," he said. "But the strain was too great and the pain was too much. We were married a year before the accident and divorced a year-and-a-half later."

Divorced and wheelchair-bound, Leslie returned home to live with his mother and father. Shortly after he returned home, his father died of cancer.

"That was the lowest point in my life," Leslie said. "I started questioning God. I wondered how much more I was going to have to put up with. Finally it was a matter of surrender, not worrying about my destiny and letting God take care of me."

Leslie said he would have never made it through that period of life without the encouragement of his mother.

"My mother is a terrific person," he said. "She has a lot to do with my current state of mind. What's amazing about my mother is her strength--watching me go through my accident and divorce, my father dying, and still being there to comfort me. She's amazing."

"I dread to think what would have happened to me if she hadn't been with me through all this."

Today Leslie lives in an Edmond home he purchased with money won in a settlement over his accident. He shares the house with Dana Carbaugh, a full-time helper who assists Leslie with those things he is unable to do for himself. Once again, music is a large part of his life.

"In the last couple of years, I have been developing a relationship with a Nashville publishing company called Starsongs. They handle Petra, and other gospel acts including Twila Paris," he said.

His fledgling songwriting career received a big boost when he met former Edmond resident Bob Farrell, one-half of the popular gospel duo Farrell and Farrell.

"The group had always been one of my musical influences, which made it really special when he took an interest in my work. I met him shortly before he moved from Edmond. He read some of my lyrics and thought they were pretty good," said Leslie. "He gave me some suggestions and pointers on how I could improve my writing."

Farrell in turn handed the songs to John Chisum, who functions as somewhat of a music broker. Chisum pitched the songs to gospel artists Sandi Patti, Steve Green, Larnelle Paris and others.

"So I've had songs turned down by some of the best," Leslie joked, clearly undaunted.

Leslie composes his songs from a corner of his home filled with electronic equipment. There are recorders, mixers, a bank of keyboards, a drum machine, a personal computer and printer. On another table sits a stack of papers and an open Bible, heavily streaked with yellow and blue highlighter marks.

A special headset allows Leslie to electronically move the cursor on the computer any direction he moves his head. He types with a stick he holds in his mouth. Lyrics are printed on the computer's printer.

The computer is also connected to his recording equipment. A special computer program allows him to compose complete musical scores on the computer screen, and then play it back through the Lloyd Thomas (right), SWOSU alum and the first football player to make All-State, paid a visit to the SWOSU campus and The Southwestern Room. Lloyd played football in 1921 and 1922. Lloyd was a fullback. He is native of Snyder, Okla. He has retired from the Oklahoma City Fire Department and now makes his home in Grove, Okla.

Lloyd found old newspapers and yearbooks with stories and pictures about his college days at Southwestern. The only buildings on campus were the Old Administration Building and the Old Science Building. The football field was located in the area where the Student Union and Chemistry/Pharmacy/Physics buildings are presently located. Lloyd is pictured with his daughter, Helen Thomas, Grove.

The Alumni Association welcomes all alumni to return and visit their college or university.

synthesizers and drum machine. The corner is Leslie's favorite spot in the house.

"When I got this software, it was the answer to my prayers," Leslie said. "The beauty of the thing is that I get to hear my performing style as though I were actually playing. Whoever invented this program deserves the Nobel Prize."

"There have been days where I'll stay here and break only for supper. I feel like I've been born again, a second chance type thing. Before this came along, I used to read and watch TV all day. I bought that big screen TV and since I got this I've hardly watched it."

"I'd like to continue my career as a songwriter, make it professionally," he said. "Maybe travel and perform some concerts."

Leslie is currently in charge of the music program for the Edmond First Baptist Church Sunday School. He enjoys working with people and hopes he can teach others the lessons he has learned. He cherishes the friends he has made through his music and is frustrated when people are intimidated by his wheelchair.

"Some people are afraid they'll offend me somehow. Handicapped people are just people. I'm not any different than before, maybe a little wiser. I know not to dive into shallow water now."

"I still go through the lowest lows, but I also have the highest highs. I always find a reason to go on living."

"I'm thirty now," he said. "I haven't even hit my stride. My best years are all ahead of me. The worst ones are behind me, that's for sure."

Leslie played a song he'd recently recorded. Psychedelic Sgt. Pepper-styled vocals washed over the song's lilting island beat. Leslie nodded his head along with the happy rhythm as though there weren't a sour note in the world.

Polks set up scholarship

Frank and Shirley Polk of Oklahoma City are pictured making a $12,000 donation to the Southwestern State University Foundation. Otis Sanders (left), executive secretary of the SWOSU Alumni Association, is accepting the donation. Frank is a native of Roger Mills County, a SWOSU Distinguished Alumni Hall of Fame member and president of Southwestern Bank and Stationary Supply. Shirley (Douglas) Polk is a graduate of Weatherford High School and SWOSU. Donations like the Frank and Shirley Polk Scholarship will help a few more students attend SWOSU.

DONALD A. FLYNT is the coordinator of Criminalistics and Supportive Services for the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation in Oklahoma City. Don is a graduate of Hammon High School and received his chemistry and biology degrees in 1966 from SWOSU.

If your name did not appear in this edition, it will the next time. We ran out of space. KEEP YOUR ALUMNI DUES PAID.

DURING THE SUMMER of 1922, the students at Southwestern purchased this car for the college president. Each student gave a dollar. The picture and information were furnished by Bessie Kramer Jones. She is 86-years-old and lives in the Oklahoma Christian Apartments in Edmond.

Kirkpatrick Gallery spotlights Sweeney

The Kirkpatrick Center Museum Complex spotlighted the work of potter Paul Sweeney October 4 through November 13 in the Kirkpatrick Gallery for Oklahoma Artists.

Sweeney, who has been creating for 15 years, exhibited pottery.

"The quickness of form that clay on a wheel allows, permits ideas to materialize and also be destroyed with great speed. The wheel is simply a tool to sketch from. The surface is something that happens in a different state of mind because of the time involved on a piece of ceramic," states Sweeney about the process of his work.

He graduated from Southwestern Oklahoma State University and has taught ceramics at Arts Annex for twelve years.

Sweeney's work has been exhibited in the Fred Jones Museum, Norman, Artsplace II, Oklahoma Art Center, the Oklahoma Designer Craftsman Exhibition and the Philbrook Museum, Tulsa.

FROM YOU

Alumni Association:

Dear friends: I was glad to have the list of graduates of 1928. My husband was very active that year. I taught to permit him to get his degree. He passed away June 15, 1980 of heart failure. I live here in Leisure World. I see Leone Pressley once or twice a year.

I enjoy hearing from the old "Timers".

Sincerely,

Nola Lee M. Vanderveer

P.S. I play piano for our very nice Oklahoma Club-110 members!

Otis,

Thanks for all your help this past week-end. You obviously had everything under control and it showed!

It was a great week-end for all. Thanks again.

Stan Powers

Dear Millie:

Greetings: Yes I am still around, busy and enjoying life at 86. Even after these passing years, there are many good, positive memories of people and events shared at Southwestern, Weatherford, Arapaho, Custer City and southwestern Oklahoma.

Enclosed is a small check to add to the fund for the repair of the Witherspoon Bells.

Millie, check my name in the alphabetical list of lifetime members. It should be REID-not REED. The latter is the English spelling. My Scot grandfather, Alexander Finley Reid, after whom I was named, would not like this as he had NO love for the English. My parents used "Finley" because I had a cousin, "Alex" in the same town.

I thoroughly enjoy and appreciate each issue of "Echoes". I also subscribe to the "Southwestern" and also "Westview". So, you see, I keep up pretty well with the current scene on the N. Custer neighborhood.

Wishing the Best to you and yours!

Cordially,

Finley R.

Dear Mr. Sanders:

Yes! Otis, there is a lively, real, magnanimous J.E. ("Cocky") Stiles. His writing is compelled to acknowledge the warm greeting and gracious welcome extended to him and his wife by you and your lovely spouse at Homecoming. Western Oklahoma hospitality is grand, but at Southwestern especially so.

Furthermore, the resounding recognition afforded alumni of Beta Tau Beta, and alumnae of Tri-J, BTB's sister sorority, was most gracious. It was rejuvenating to be among the revelers at the GREEK REUNION.

A salute with commendation to the Inter-Greek Councils who fostered the idea of an All-Greek Reunion; likewise to the campus chapters of fraternities and sororities who hosted the activities in tandem with the SWOSU Alumni Association and the University.

Again, to all who made the 1988 SWOSU Homecoming and the All-Greek Reunion so successful--a genuinely hearty thank-you!

For next year, plan it; expand it; build Homecoming bigger and better.

Sincerely,

J.E. ("Cocky") Stiles, Jr.

Dear Otis,

What a wonderful Homecoming! We saw some friends we had not seen for many years. Thank you so much for sending us the picture. I am sorry I do not have addresses for Virginia Bowersock and Margaret Jenkins. However, I talked with Shirley Polk, and she does have Virginia's address.

Shirley and I entered kindergarten, went through grade school, high school and college together, and are still closest friends.

Arnold and I have many happy memories of our years at Southwestern. A very sad one was of a large group of students singing "Standing Firmly on the Hilltop" as we watched the old Ad building burn on the night of our graduation the summer of 1939.

Thanks again for the picture. Hope to see you at Homecoming next year.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Sanders,

We want to thank you and your staff for the wonderful events we attended at Homecoming. The honor delighted my father, and was enjoyed by all our family. A tremendous amount of planning is necessary for such a smoothly progressing event. Your staff is to be congratulated!

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Dr. and Mrs. Jon Blaschke

Dear Millie,

You can print this or not. Grandma and Grandpa Rhodes lived on the East side of Weatherford in I believe about 1922 (although Dad's Mom's name was Ford). Being from Cordell, Dad first entered the then Southwestern Normal School to attend high school and lived with Grandma and Grandpa Rhodes. Of course he received his B.S. in 1930. He and Mom moved quite a bit in Oklahoma and then back to Weatherford in 1947 and remained there until their decease. They lived in six places until 1987, the last being the best I believe. The great and small entered their door. Rose recently sold the family home. Dad remarked that he wound up a block from where he started! You can draw your own conclusions from that.

Otis,

Please accept a very belated expression of thanks and appreciation for the article that appeared in Echoes From the Hill. As you can imagine, my schedule has been very hectic and "paper work" has suffered...

I've had so many nice things happen during my year as President of NASSP. None though mean as much as those which come from those people--those places "close to home".

I shall always consider Southwestern a part of my life...in its own special way...one of the "homes" of my life.

Best wishes to you and everyone there. Have a great 1989...and thanks again!

Winden elected to national office

Kurt Winden, former Executive Director, Vinita Chamber of Commerce, Vinita, Oklahoma, has been elected National President, Technology Student Association (TSA) Alumni Association. Winden, a charter alumni member since 1983, was officially elected at the 10th annual national conference of the American Industrial Arts Student Association (AIASA) held June 19-23 in Downingtown, PA. By virtue of a constitutionally-approved name change, AIASA then and there became TSA, one of seven national vocational student organizations akin to DECA, FBLA, FFA, FHA, HOSA and VICA. TSA Alumni Association is a recognized division of Technology Student Association and plays a major supporting role in service to TSA at local, state and national conferences as volunteer coordinators, judges and administrative staff for the many leadership- and technology-oriented competitive events. TSA Alumni Association members are also expected to play potentially powerful roles in the pursuance of national corporate competitive event sponsorship or other means of private-sector monetary support. Winden was Oklahoma

AIASA Vice President in 1980-81.

NOTE: A former Rocky and Washita County resident of Southwest Oklahoma, Kurt Winden graduated from Sentinel High School in 1981 and did earn a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration from Southwestern Oklahoma State University (SWOSU), Weatherford, OK, December of 1985. ## Southwestern graduate heads Shawnee schools

The Shawnee Board of Education recently unanimously hired Jim K. Archer as the district's superintendent.

The Southwestern graduate went to Shawnee from Madill. Archer's resignation from the Madill school was effective Aug. 31, 1988 and he assumed his new duties at Shawnee when classes began in August.

The 53-year-old El Reno native received a bachelor of arts degree from Southwestern University in 1958.

He began his educational career as a coach in Clinton from 1958-60 and went on to work in schools in Elk City (1960-64); Amarillo, Texas (1964-68); and at Tulsa McLain High School (1968-72).

Archer worked as assistant principal and athletic director in Grapevine, Texas, from 1972-77, and then served as superintendent in Texline, Texas, from 1977-81.

Texline's school district, located one mile away from Clayton, N.M., consisted of 62 square miles with a single bus route that totaled 200 miles round trip every day, Archer said.

Archer served as superintendent in the 230-student Vinita school system from 1981 until 1985, when he became superintendent to Madill's 1,500 students.

Archer indicated one of the first things he wanted to do at Shawnee was meet with board members and establish the district's goals.

"We'll look at our goals for what we want to do for the 1990's," Archer said. "Once we get (the board's goals) put in place, then my goals will be put into place. The process will then be repeated to include the principals' and teachers' goals."

"If you don't have any goals you can't go anywhere," Archer added. "You don't have a road

Two Southwestern alumni retire

Retirement is, of course, something the TRS office is very used to dealing with. But this year it has been a particularly meaningful word, for 1988 has seen the retirement of Executive Secretary Bill Ware, long-time Assistant Executive Everett Wright and several other TRS employees.

Bill Ware--During the 12½ years that Ware served as Executive Secretary the Retirement System's assets grew from $250 million to $1.7 billion and the average monthly retirement check grew from $300 to $875.

Working with numerous legislatures and governors, Ware played a central role in improving benefits for both active and retired TRS members. Active members saw improvements in the retirement benefit formula, maximum contributory salary, beneficiary provisions and other areas. Provisions for retiree beneficiaries also improved and retirees received benefit increases in well over half the years Ware served as Executive Secretary.

Everett Wright--The retirement of Everett Wright was truly an end of an era. The Teachers' Retirement System began in July 1943 and he joined its staff in October 1943. Thus, it is very much appropriate to call him "Mr. Retirement," as many long-time TRS members do.

"I enjoyed every minute of my work with the Retirement System," Wright said, "I'll miss the many, many friends who came into the office for help or just to visit. But there are many of them who are retired too, so I'm sure I'll run into them everywhere."

"I have an RV and when I travel in it I have an Oklahoma-shaped sign that I put out. The sign reads: 'The Wrights,' and below that, 'TRS.' I invite all my friends to stop by and say 'hi' when they see me out."

Both gentlemen are SWOSU graduates.

SPORTS SPOTLIGHT

SWOSU football players receive honors

Southwestern Oklahoma State University at Weatherford had eight players named to the 1988 NAIA District Nine and 11 players to the 1988 Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference first and second teams.

In addition, six were named District Nine honorable mention and six were named OIC honorable mention.

Kefrin Rusk, 6-3, 270 pound senior from Houston, Texas (Scarborough), was the lone Bulldog named to the District Nine first team. Rusk, an offensive right tackle, graded out at 91% this past season which is considered outstanding by head coach Paul Sharp. Rusk is a powerful blocker who had 21 flatbacks which means he blocked his man so good that he knocked his opponent flat on his back.

The Southwestern captain is also regarded as a tremendous pass blocker. During the season, his opponent never sacked the Southwestern quarterback.

Rusk was also named to the OIC first team.

Also named to the OIC first team were: Todd Helton, 6-7, 251 pound junior from Perryton, Texas, defensive lineman; A.J. Johnson, 6-1, 244 pound senior from Oklahoma City Southeast; and David Johnson, 5-10, 208 pound senior from China Spring, Texas, defensive back.

Helton anchored the Bulldog defensive line in 1988. He was the fifth leading tackler with a total of 63. He also had seven quarterback sacks and led the team in tackles for losses with 13. A.J. Johnson was the leading tackler with 108 unassisted and assisted stops. He had three quarterback sacks, recovered four fumbles and broke up two passes. David Johnson was the Bulldogs' second tackler with 99. He also had eight tackles for losses of 36 yards, three fumble recoveries and nine pass breakups. Probably the biggest highlight of the season for David Johnson was in Southwestern's homecoming victory over Arkansas Tech when he returned a blocked field goal attempt 75 yards for a touchdown. SWOSU ended up winning the game as a result of his effort, 6-0.

All three were also named to the District Nine second team.

Named to the District Nine and OIC second team offense were: Todd Hudson, 6-3, 212 pound senior quarterback from Wynnewood; James Hicks, 5-11, 223 pound senior tailback from Burkburnett, Texas; Jeff Morris, 6-4, 257 pound offensive lineman from Daingerfield, Texas; and Jim George, 6-0, 264 pound

Hudson quarterbacked the Bulldogs to a 6-4 record in 1988. He threw for 765 yards and 3 touchdowns. During his career at Southwestern, Hudson passed for 2,967 yards which places him 4th in the Southwestern record book for most passing yards gained in a career.

Hicks also had a banner career at Southwestern. He was the Bulldogs' leading rusher in 1988 with 844 yards on 217 carries. Hicks wound up his career with 3,263 rushing yards which is second best in the Bulldog record books.

Morris and George were both linemen on the Bulldog offense. Morris was named to the second team because of his duties on the line. George was selected to the team because of his kicking duties. The Guymon product was 5-11 in the field goal department and was 13-16 in PAT attempts.

Named to the OIC second team on defense were: Doug Nelson, 6-5, 265 pound junior lineman from Pond Creek; John McCoy, 6-4, 214 pound senior end from Haskell, Texas; and Shawn Peters, 6-0, 207 pound junior back from Woodward.

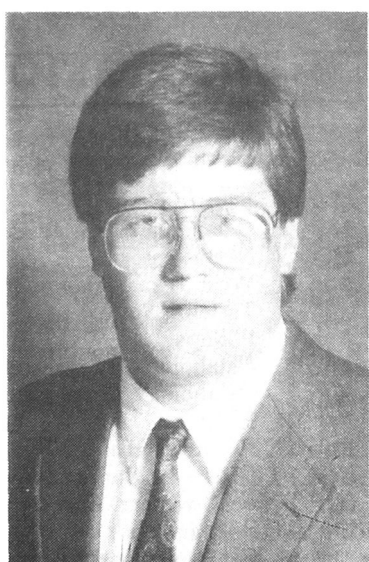

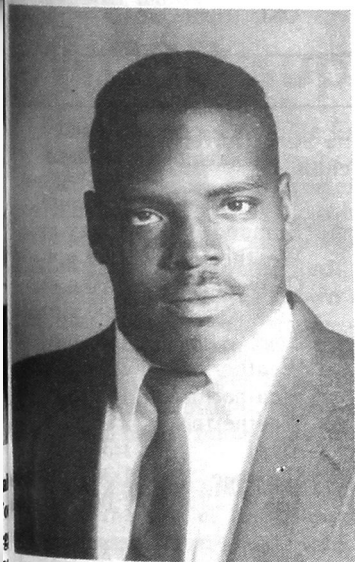

Nelson had 57 total tackles in 1988. He was also second on the team in tackles for losses with 12. Nelson had eight quarterback sacks, three pass breakups, one blocked kick and he recovered two fumbles. McCoy had 63 total tackles including nine for losses of 65 yards. He had five quarterback sacks, one pass interception, four pass breakups and he recovered three fumbles. Peters was the third leading tackler for Southwestern with 79. He had 13 pass breakups and two pass interceptions. He also had nine tackles in losses of 36 yards.

McCoy and Peters were also named honorable mention on the District Nine team.

Others named to the District Nine honorable mention list were: George Woodward, 6-0, 219 senior linebacker from Chandler; Tim Stroud, 5-9, 192 pound fullback from Duncan; Rex Ross, 6-0, 244 pound center from Deer Park, Texas; and Don Richard, 5-11, 183 pound defensive back from Oklahoma City Star Spencer. All four were also named to the OIC honorable mention list.

Also named to the OIC honorable mention squad were: Bob Ward, 5-10, 180 pound junior wide receiver from Edmond; and Derrick Bailey, 6-0, 160 pound junior wide receiver from Altus.

KEFRIN RUSK (left) and Todd Helton were both named NAIA All-American Honorable Mention in 1988.

Archer said he will need more information before any action is taken regarding grade centers.
“I’m not ready to make a decision of any type until we get the information from the community, as well as all other aspects. I don’t think you can just take one side or the other.”
Once the information is gathered, Archer said a decision should be made as soon as possible. “Then we need to put it all together and go,” he said.

Archer said that the root of Shawnee’s problem does not lie with grade centers or neighborhood schools. “The problem that’s facing us is that when we’re letting things like that happen, we’re taking away from our education of our kids. And that’s the most important commodity we’ve got.”

He has invited Shawnee school patrons to share their views. “Our door is open,” Archer said. “If they want to come by and visit and communicate...I have no problem. I might not agree, but they’re entitled to their say.”
Shawnee’s financial woes are nothing new to Archer, who faced comparable pressures in Madill. “In essence, the most important thing is the teacher,” he said. “The more that the teacher knows about her or himself, the more knowledge they have to transpose to the kids...”

“The most important commodity we’ve got, outside that child, is that teacher.”
Archer said that Shawnee has “a tremendous group of teachers. I think there are a lot more pluses than there are minuses, by far.”

Southwestern roundballers enjoy success

It is not too often when NAIA District Nine universities have both their women’s and men’s basketball teams in the playoff semifinals. Well, the Lady Bulldogs and Bulldogs of Southwestern had both their teams in the semis in 1988-89 and even one made it to the district finals.
It was a successful season for both SWOSU squads. John Loftin’s Lady Bulldogs finished with a 22-5 record, while George Hauser’s Bulldogs ended at 21-8. The Lady Bulldogs wound up in the district finals and lost a close one, 66-63, to Southern Nazarene. The Bulldogs went down in defeat 71-63 to East Central in the semifinals which was played at the State Fairgrounds Arena in Oklahoma City.
Both Hauser and Loftin had to be proud of their teams in 1988-89.
Daron Harrison, one of the Bulldogs’ most exciting players in years, was named 1st team All-

District 9 and Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference. The 6-2 senior forward from Saluda, S.C., scored 1,252 points in his three-year career at the Weatherford university. He also had 516 career rebounds. In 1988-89, he averaged 16.9 points and 8.4 rebounds per contest. He led the team in blocked shots with 30 and was second on the team in steals with 58.
Sensational sophomore guard Stephen Joseph of Oklahoma City Millwood was named to the 2nd team of the OIC all-conference team. Named honorable mention were freshman guard Michael Parks of Oklahoma City Millwood; senior forward Thomas Anderson of Ada; and senior center Robert Nash of Sorrento, La.
The women’s team also had several honorees this season.
Leading the way was Carla Duncan, a 6-3 junior center from Memphis, Tenn. She averaged 18.9 points and 9.1 rebounds per contest. She also had a remarkable 57 blocked shots this season. For her efforts, Duncan was named to the 1st team of both the OIC and District 9 squads.

Also, Dena Phelps, who has been a four-year starter at point guard for Southwestern, was named to the 2nd team of both the OIC and District 9 honor teams. The 5-8 senior from Minco led the Bulldogs in assists and steals in 1988-89 with 82 and 55, respectively. Phelps also carries a 3.47 grade point average.

Phelps, along with Stephanie Ramsey who was named to the 2nd team of the OIC all-conference team and honorable mention All-District, were members of the 1987 Southwestern team which won the NAIA national championship title. Ramsey, a 6-2 senior center from Memphis, Tenn., averaged 7.4 points and 4.3 rebounds per contest.

SWOSU supporter Millie Thomas dead at 87

Funeral services for Millie Fay (Alexander) Thomas, 87-year-old former registrar at Southwestern Oklahoma State University, were held March 13, 1989 in the Federated Church of Weatherford.
“Millie”, as she was known to the many alums and friends of Southwestern Oklahoma State University, died March 10 at Clinton Regional Hospital. She had been in ill health for the past four years.
Even though Millie had not been in the best of health in her latter years, she still made valiant efforts to attend all homecoming and alumni association meetings and events.

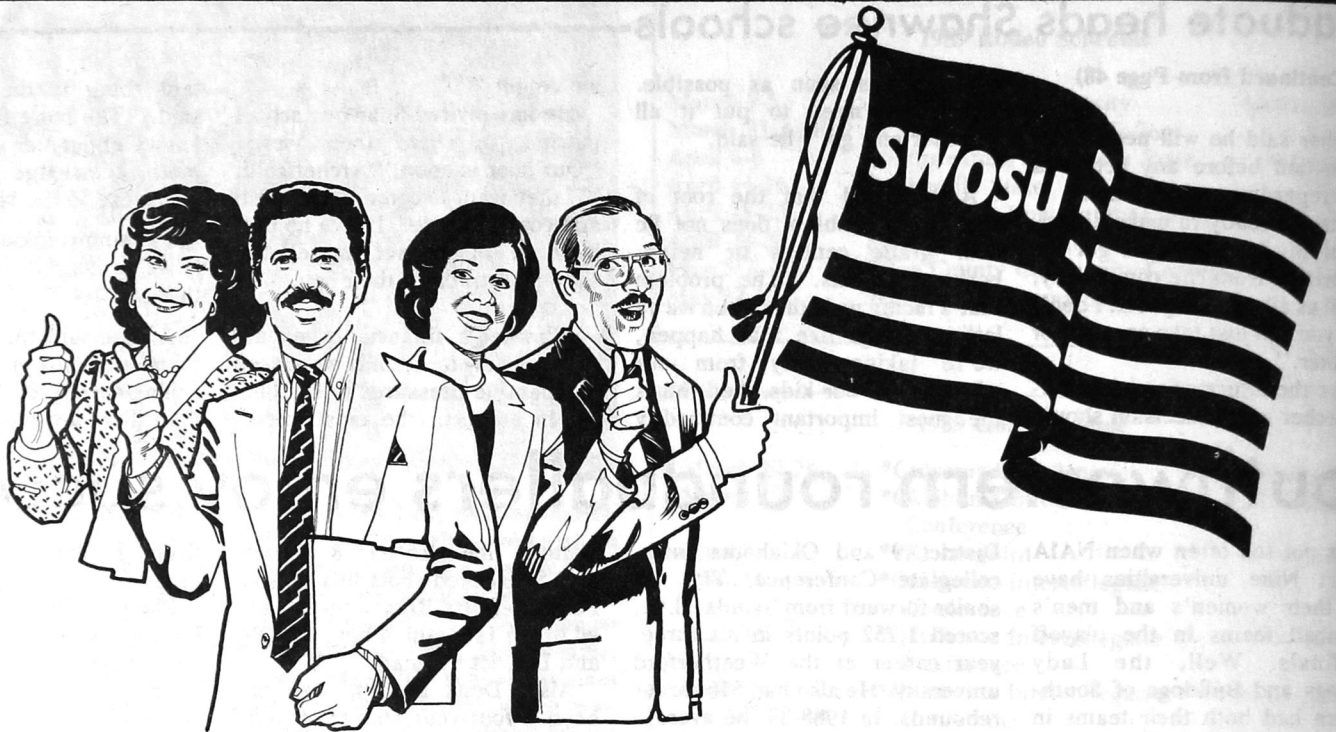

Born June 18, 1901, in Taloga, she attended school near Arapaho and graduated from Arapaho High School in 1919.
She attended Southwestern Normal School in Weatherford receiving a teaching certificate in 1930. She worked in Sayre for the Beckham County superintendent of schools before coming back to Southwestern in 1928 where she worked for 38 years. She spent 26 years of that time as registrar. She retired in 1966. After her retirement, she served as treasurer of the SWOSU Former Students Organization.

She married Clyde Thomas on Jan. 15, 1949, at Wheeler, Texas. Mr. Thomas died Jan. 12, 1976.
Survivors include three brothers: Joe Alexander of Gore,

George Alexander of Borger, Texas, and Arch Alexander of Stillwater; one sister Goldie Friedrich of Clinton; and a host of nieces and nephews.
Memorials may be made to the Southwestern Oklahoma State University Foundation. The scholarship fund will be administered by the SWOSU Alumni Association.
