Head Football Coach Hired

PAUL SHARP

Southwestern Oklahoma State University Athletic Director Cecil Perkins has announced that the hiring of Paul Sharp as head football coach of the Southwestern football program has been approved by the Regents of Oklahoma Colleges and that Sharp, the defensive coordinator at Lamar University for the past two and one-half years, will assume his duties at the start of the Spring 1986 semester.

Sharp, 33, began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Ouachita Baptist University in Arkadelphia, AR, where he had been an All-Conference football team selection. After Ouachita, where he ended his term as an assistant coach, Sharp began a four-year stint at Central Arkansas University, located in Conway, AR, where he served as both offensive and defensive coordinators, as well as the assistant head football coach.

A product of Douglas, AZ, where he was an All-State football and baseball team selection, Sharp earned both his Bachelor of Arts degree in political science and his Master of Science degree in secondary education at Ouachita Baptist. He is an inactive member of the 95th Training Command of the United States Army Reserve, holding the rank of Captain. He is also a member of the Texas High School Coaches Association as well as the American Football Coaches Association. He and his wife, Sherri, are the parents of Aaron, 4, and Adam, 2.

Coach Sharp, already on the recruiting trail, mentioned that a football program can be as good as its alumni. "Southwestern has a strong base of alumni and former athletes, and it is my plan to utilize them in recruiting quality players, especially those from western Oklahoma."

Hotz Assumes Okla. State Fair Leadership

Donald J. Hotz, past director of the Lloyd Noble Center in Norman, assumed the position of president and general manager of the State Fair of Oklahoma during the State Fair Board of Director's Annual Meeting on Nov. 19.

He replaces Sandy Saunders who retired as president and general manager after 25 years of successful leadership for the Fair.

Hotz joined the Fair staff and had been serving as vice-president and assistant manager since June 1, 1985.

Hotz spent 11 years working with the City of Oklahoma City where he progressed through the City's Fairgrounds Operation Management to the position of assistant manager of Public Events. That position involved management duties for the Myriad and Civic Center Music Hall, as well as Fair Park Facilities.

He became director of the Lloyd Noble Center in 1974. The facility posted a healthy return each year under his leadership.

In addition to his experience in management, he brings to the State Fair a vast knowledge of computer operations including computerized ticket sales programs. Hotz also has an excellent working relationship with individuals in the entertainment business who contribute to the success of an entertainment facility. He is responsible for putting Oklahoma on the entertainment map by bringing in top-rated stars from across the country.

Hotz is a native of Lookeba and a graduate of Southwestern State College in Weatherford. He is on the board of directors for both the Norman Chamber of Commerce and the Sooner Theater, as well as past chairman of the Norman Convention and Visitor's Bureau.

Hydride Ion Splinters Organochromium

Chemists at Purdue University have observed a remarkable chemical fragmentation reaction in the gas phase that they say is reminiscent of the way high-energy electron beams fracture molecules into smaller charged species.

Assistant chemistry professor

Robert R. Squires and graduate student Kelly R. Lane were studying the reaction of hydride ion with benzenechromium tricarbonyl. To their amazement, they found that the π -bonded benzene ring is expelled from the molecule, producing a hydrido-chromium anion. Kelley received his chemistry degree from Southwestern Oklahoma State University. He is a graduate of Balko High School.

What's intriguing about this reaction, they say, is that the "massive exodus of 12 atoms" (the benzene molecule) is induced not by a high-speed electron, but by a heavier and relatively low-energy (room temperature) particle, the hydride ion.

Ready production of $\text{HCr}(\text{CO})_3^-$ has allowed the Purdue chemists to investigate the "rich chemistry" of this unusual 14-electron ion. It is highly reactive, they find. For example, they note that the anion reacts with alkenes, cycloalkenes, alkynes, and dienes "in a manner reminiscent of atomic metal cations" to yield novel organometallic products. They hope the study of these reactions will lead to insights into reaction mechanisms and catalysis.

Squires and Lane run these experiments in a flowing afterglow apparatus, in which ions are generated and allowed to interact with neutral molecules in the vapor phase. The construction of this apparatus and their studies with it were supported by Research Corporation and the American Chemical Society's Petroleum Research Fund.

SWOSU Industrial Technology Accredited

Southwestern Oklahoma State University President Leonard Campbell announced that official notification had been received from the National Association of Industrial Technology's Board of Accreditation that the four-year degree program at SWOSU had been awarded national accreditation. This recognition assures students and industry that the program at this University meets the level of excellence appropriate to the profession.

NAIT is the only national accrediting agency for industrial technology, and the program at Southwestern is the only program in the state of Oklahoma to achieve this recognition.

Dr. Don Mitchell, chairman of the Department of Industrial Education and Industrial Technology, stated, "The program accepted students for the first time during the fall term 1981 and now has over 90 majors. The first graduates were in 1983. The purpose for inaugurating this program was to contribute to the industrial development of the state of Oklahoma by providing a higher education program designed to prepare highly-skilled personnel who would initially occupy management positions. Although there have been only two years of graduates, some of the industries in which these graduates have positions include AT&T, 3M, Rockwell International, Tinker Air Force Base, Hollytex, and C & R Industries."

The program is under the coordination of Dr. Roy Gillaspay, Assistant Professor, Industrial Education and Technology. He points out that business and industry are now confronted with an ever-increasing rate of change brought about by high technology. Dr. Gillaspay states, "In all cases the first new location choice of a high tech industry is an area that has a university with the documented ability to provide industry's need for skilled personnel. The program at Southwestern now has the ability and the national recognition necessary to meet this need."

Dr. Gillaspay emphasized that an Industrial Technology graduate is a professional with a broad technical managerial background in a variety of industrial specialties. The areas emphasized in the Southwestern program are manufacturing, quality assurance, construction, design, and industrial sales and marketing. Typically, students may study materials testing analysis, metallurgy, design of automated computerized systems, production planning, systems for quality control, and project scheduling and management. Other areas stressed include safety, cost accounting, cost analysis and product effectiveness.

President Campbell, in making the announcement that the Industrial Technology program at Southwestern had received national recognition, commented, "At Southwestern we pride ourselves in providing programs of excellence. We are pleased to add this program to the others that have received national accreditation, including all Teacher Education programs, Pharmacy, Music, Chemistry, Medical Records, and Nursing. We are especially pleased to provide this program to serve industry in our state, to contribute to our industrial recovery effort, and to provide a higher education level of excellence to attract new industry to Oklahoma."

Dr. Moore Selected Grand Marshall

Dr. Robert Moore was named Grand Marshal for the 1985 Hoisington, KS, Labor Day Celebration. Dr. Moore headed the 89th annual parade down Main Street in Hoisington on Labor Day morning.

Dr. Moore was honored by the Hoisington community on Aug. 26, 1979, when he had completed 25 years of medical service to the Hoisington community.

A native of Hobart, OK, he attended Southwestern Oklahoma State University; served in the Air Force during World War II for four years and 10 months, and returned to Southwestern where he received his Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy degree as a pre-med.

He spent one year in Oklahoma City as a pharmacist and attended Oklahoma City University, taking night courses. In 1949, he entered the University of Oklahoma Medical School and was graduated in June, 1953.

After a year of internship at St. Joseph Hospital, Wichita, KS, he began his practice in Hoisington.

Both Dr. Moore's father and his grandfather were doctors. They, however, specialized in eye, ear, nose and throat, while Dr. Moore entered general practice.

Moore was married in 1946 to his wife, Bea, who was a student at Southwestern and a native of Weatherford.

While at Southwestern, Moore was president of the Student Council. He was on the wrestling team in college. He boxed while in the Air Force.

Alumni Named As OSU Associate Dean

DR. KENNETH L. KING

Dr. Kenneth L. King was recently promoted to associate dean of the Oklahoma State University College of Education by the University's Board of Regents.

King is presently director of education student services, associate director of teacher education and professor of curriculum and instruction at OSU. He will continue to hold the teacher education post as well as the faculty appointment.

He received a B.S. degree in elementary education from Southwestern Oklahoma State University in 1964. He earned an M.S.

degree in secondary education and an Ed.D. degree in higher curriculum and media, both from the University of Oklahoma.

King taught four years in the public schools in Pampa, TX, before beginning his doctoral work. On completion of that degree in 1969, he went to Kansas State University where he served as an assistant professor of curriculum and instruction and director of the instructional media center. He came to OSU in 1972.

King's wife, Peggy, is also a 1964 SWOSU graduate with a B.S. degree in elementary education. They have two daughters, Kim, who is a 9th grader, and Kelly, a 2nd grader.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth King, Reydon.

Former City Coach Gets ETSU Coaching Position

East Texas State defensive coordinator, Eddie Vowell, will become head football coach at the end of the season when Ernest Hawkins retires, school officials announced.

Vowell, 38, is a graduate of Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford. Before joining ETSU, he coached high school football in Amarillo, San Antonio, Levelland, and Gainesville.

He received his degree from SWOSU in 1969.

First Grade Teacher Retires

When Jane Lee Jacobs announced her retirement from teaching, she had been teaching children for a total of 38 years. All but three of those years were spent teaching first grade.

She taught 7th and 8th grades at Southard for one year and grades 5-8 at Okeene for one year, band at Watonga for one semester, 8th grade at Binger for one year, and the remaining years were spent in the Canton school system.

Jane Lee was selected by the faculty of Canton schools as "Teacher of The Year" in 1984.

During the course of her career, Jane Lee has had the privilege of teaching several second-generation children, having their father or mother when they were in first grade.

Jane Lee's husband, Elb, retired last year. He owned and operated a car lot in Watonga for many years. She has one daughter, Doris Lee Knight, who is a speech therapist in Alabama, and one grandchild, Lyle Knight.

Jane Lee has always been a conscientious teacher, often giving of her time "above and beyond the call of duty." To her, teaching was a way of life. Following is a piece she wrote when she was nominated as Teacher of The Year.

"My feelings are that I should spend every minute of my teaching day helping students learn as much as they are able to do that year.

"As the daughter of two educator parents in the days when school boards frowned upon hiring both husband and wife, my widowed grandmother took care of me in the home my parents owned so I could go to school while my parents earned a living at two other schools.

"After college, I taught in two different places before going to Florida and marrying my Navy sweetheart. Then I taught in the art department at Southwestern Oklahoma State University while waiting for his assignment to an aircraft carrier based in California.

"Following the war, my husband attended college on the GI bill, and I was fortunate in getting a job 16 miles from my parents, who could take care of our little three-and-a-half-year-old daughter while I taught. The next year, I was lucky enough to get a job five miles from my parent's home.

"The third year, my hometown had an opening in the first grade. I took that, as my husband was in business there by that time. This is the job I still have. He died suddenly when I was 31 years old. I've been thankful many times for getting to teach where I could look after my aging parents and have the same working hours as my daughter's school classes.

"My daughter used to complain, as a child, when I had to take her with me to state teachers' meetings, but my feelings of prestige and the comfort of helping others must have influenced her. After earning her master of science degree in speech pathology, she turned down a clinical job because she prefers working with school children.

"Teaching is the only way of life I ever knew. I wouldn't trade it for any other. Where else could I serve mankind and earn a living, too?

"Teaching is the best way I know of meeting so many new people and learning their good points. Frequently I hear adverse remarks about a person; but when I get to meet them and work with them, I find their good points far outweigh any mistakes they have made."

Alumni Named Texas Coaches

Carlton "Buck" Buchanan, his wife, Cheryl, and their two children, Caralee, 5, and Chana, 1, have moved from Plainview, TX, to Shamrock, TX, where Buck has assumed the position of Athletic Director and head football coach of the Shamrock school system.

A graduate of Elk City High School and Southwestern Oklahoma State University, he has a B.A. degree in recreational leadership.

A four-year football letterman in college with All-Conference honors in 1972 and Honorable Mention in 1973, he was listed in Outstanding College Athletes of America in 1974 and was drafted by the Cleveland Browns pro football team in 1973.

Buchanan has had eight years as a varsity assistant at Plainview High School, during which time the teams with which he assisted won four district championships and shared two, finishing no lower than second in district.

In making application for the position of high school basketball coach in the Shamrock School System, Shamrock, TX, Terry L. Thionnet wrote:

"I have a Bachelor of Science in Education degree from Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford, which I attended from 1972 to 1976.

"I am 31 years old, married, and have two children, ages 3 and 7.

"I like and communicate well with young people. I feel that I can bring desire and enthusiasm to your school athletic program that will promote a learning environment and a winning season.

"My teaching areas are psychology, social studies, and driver education. I have five and one-half years experience in the teaching profession.

"I was employed at Davidson High School, Davidson, OK, from January 1977 to May 1980, as boy's and girl's high school coach. I worked at Otis Engineering Company from June 1980 to February 1982. I worked as Security Guard at Quarles Drilling Company from March 1982 to August 1983. I was employed as junior high and high school boy's baseball and basketball coach from August 1983 to May 1985 at Canute, OK."

O'Hara Selected District 10 'Administrator'

Richard O'Hara, Weatherford school superintendent, was selected Administrator of The Year for District 10 by his fellow administrators, members of the Oklahoma Association of School Administrators.

District 10 is comprised of Beckham, Custer, Greer, Harmon, Jackson, Kiowa, Roger Mills and Washita counties.

To be considered for the honor, a nominee should be successful in top level educational administration in such positions as superintendent, assistant superintendent, administrative assistant, or director.

They must have a sound, dynamic and realistic philosophy of education and be a person who can inspire and motivate people.

They must also have a record which evidences continued professional and personal growth through appropriate training and experiences, including skill in human relations and the stamina to cope with pressures on the job.

O'Hara was honored and received an award in Tulsa at the annual teachers' meeting Oct. 17, 1985.

O'Hara is married to Melva, a kindergarten teacher at Burcham Elementary, and they have three children--Gina, 14; Nikki 11, and C. R., 8.

He graduated from Elk City High School in 1964, Southwestern State College with a bachelor's in education degree in 1968, a master's degree in 1971, and received his superintendent's certification in 1981 from Oklahoma State University.

He has served as social studies teacher and head basketball coach at Elk City High School and in Plainview, TX. He was assistant principal of Weatherford High School, 1979-80; principal of Weatherford High School, 1980-81, and has been superintendent since 1981.

Jane Kennedy Named 'Teacher of The Year'

Jane Kennedy, an Independent Middle School eighth-grade math and algebra teacher in Yukon, was named the 1985-86 Oklahoma Teacher of The Year at ceremonies held at the Oklahoma State Fairgrounds.

Kennedy, a 20-year veteran teacher with a bachelor's degree from Oklahoma University, Norman, and master's degree from Southwestern Oklahoma State University, Weatherford, has taught in Clinton and Weatherford, in addition to her service in Yukon.

Kennedy was chosen from 69 Zone Teachers of The Year who were honored for outstanding contributions in teaching and in service to their school districts and their communities.

Kennedy has served on numerous committees in the Yukon Public Schools, including the curriculum, gifted program, faculty advisory and principal selection committees. In addition to teaching, she has coached scholastic and Math Counts teams in academic competitions.

One outstanding feature of Kennedy's teaching method is the many unusual projects she has developed to gain students' attention, reinforce math concepts, and motivate them to learn. One such project is the "B.U.M.S." Club (Bring Up Math Scores), in which students are rewarded for successfully completing math puzzles.

Kennedy represented Oklahoma in the National Teacher of The Year program. The Teacher of The Year program recognizes outstanding teachers who are initially selected by their peers and continue on through an elimination process until the winner is selected.

Alumni Educator "Best of The Best," Peers Say

Eliot Elementary School Principal Roger Tomlinson says he isn't comfortable claiming he is the best at anything.

Roger is a 1961 Southwestern Oklahoma State University graduate with a degree in physical education. He was a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity and a graduate of Fay High School.

He is one of 55 elementary and middle school principals named as the nation's outstanding educators.

His peers say accomplishments such as starting the district's first Spanish Immersion Program, attracting 200 transfer pupils, strong leadership abilities and his personable nature make Tomlinson the "best of the best."

The Tulsa Association of Elementary School Principals chose Tomlinson as the outstanding elementary educator in Tulsa last year, said Woody Norwood, then president of the group.

Tomlinson, one of 18 nominees, went on to win the title at the state level.

The names of the nation's outstanding principals were announced by Secretary of Education William J. Bennett, who said the 55 were "leaders of schools where everybody's a winner."

The competition was sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education and the National Association of Elementary School Principals.

Bennett honored the "National Distinguished Principals" at a banquet in Washington on Oct. 3.

Tomlinson started the district's first Spanish Immersion program, and that has been "extremely successful," Norwood said.

In the program, English-speaking kindergarten pupils begin school in a classroom where the teacher speaks nothing but Spanish.

In the first grade, English is spoken for 10 per cent of the class time. The amount of English increases with each grade until in fifth grade where classes are taught half in Spanish and half in English.

"To make a program like that work, a principal really has to have confidence in himself and his school," Norwood said.

The transfer rate to Eliot, 1442 E. 36th Street, also shows the school has a good program, he said.

Almost 200 pupils from outside the Eliot district chose to attend there last year, bringing enrollment near 500.

Many parents in the school's neighborhood considered sending their children to private schools, but they chose Eliot instead, Norwood said. Tomlinson said he is proud of parental participation, the Spanish Immersion program, special attention to pupils' needs and an emphasis on learning rather than teaching.

Eliot students scored the highest among elementary school pupils on the latest round of Science Research Associates national achievement tests, he said.

This year, Tomlinson is beginning his 12th year as principal at Eliot, which is attended by kindergarten through fifth grade pupils.

Tomlinson taught physical education at Eliot and another elementary school from 1961 to 1971 and later was principal at Houston Elementary School.

The association's affiliates chose one public school principal in each state and the District of Columbia. Three principals from private schools and one running a school on Clark Air Base in the Philippines also were chosen.

SPORTS SPOTLIGHT

Superstar Kelli Litsch Jersey Retired

The standing ovation lasted over five minutes on Wednesday night, Nov. 20, in Southwestern's Rankin Williams Field House as the basketball jersey bearing the number "30" was retired in honor of its wearer for the past four years. Southwestern basketball superstar Kelli Litsch.

Litsch, the only four-time All-American basketball player in the history of the NAIA, was presented the jersey by her coach, John Loftin. While at Southwestern, Litsch led her team to a 129-5 four-year record, as well as three NAIA National Championships. Litsch is now serving as the Lady Bulldogs' graduate assistant.

The jersey was retired during half-time ceremonies of the Southwestern Lady Bulldog-Panhandle basketball game.

Bulldog Roundballers Continue to Roll

The Bulldog basketball teams at Southwestern, both the men and the women, started their second semester of play on winning notes, with both teams winning two straight to make their records stand at 11-3. The Lady Bulldogs defeated Phillips 56-50 and USAO 61-60, while the Bulldogs took Phillips 66-64 and USAO 56-52.

The Lady Bulldogs, the defending NAIA national championship women's basketball team, received the news as the semester began that they were rated #1 in the Sempert, the ratings system that determines the season play-offs.

The women won their first three games of the season, posting wins over Langston, Panhandle, and Cameron, before suffering their first loss in over 60 games, that a 69-71 contest with Oklahoma Christian. Next for the Lady Blues was a tournament at Wayland Baptist, where they suffered at the hands of Texas Wesleyan 53-57 and Louisiana College 70-78, before avenging their loss to Oklahoma Christian 77-70. After a 65-66 win over Bethany Nazarene, the team travelled to Midwestern University for yet another tournament, blowing out Texas Wesleyan 63-41 and Oklahoma City University 71-44. The final two games of the semester, both at home, gave the team their best of three with Oklahoma Christian, winning 80-77 and a 96-51 semester finale against Midwestern.

Leading statistically for the Lady Bulldogs is junior guard Donna Douglas, averaging 18.3 points per game, with a 54% field goal and a 90% free throw average. Shelly Brown, a first-team All-American last season, has 14.1 points per game with 7.2 rebounds.

The Bulldogs, a surprise contender in District Nine, suffered their first loss of the season to Oklahoma City University 62-66, after two early wins against Arkansas Baptist and Schreiner, TX. The Bulldogs then went on the road, where they would remain for most of the semester, taking Oklahoma Baptist University 78-63, winning both games of the Northeastern tournament, against Arkansas College 45-44 and Oklahoma Baptist College 78-41, deflating Cameron 85-60 and losing two heartbreakers, to Bethany Nazarene 65-66 and Oklahoma City 58-70. The Bulldogs then finished the semester 3-0, taking USAO at home 47-44 and winning both games in the Bethany Nazarene tournament, against College of the Ozarks 72-71 and, in their final game of the 1985 semester, avenging two earlier losses to Oklahoma City, winning 77-58.

The Bulldogs have four players with double-figure scoring averages--Russell Arms with 12; Nathan Mitchell with 16.5; Brian Baca 11.2 and Jeff Hudson 10.2. Mitchell and Arms lead all rebounders with five and six respectively.

The Bulldogs entered their Spring 1986 semester with the news that they were rated fourth in the Semperts, an important position in that the top four teams have the home court advantage over the bottom four for the NAIA District Nine post-season play-offs.

Coach Loftin Honored

John Loftin, coach of the Southwestern Oklahoma State University Lady Bulldogs women's basketball team, was one of six coaches honored for outstanding accomplishments during the Panhandle Sports Hall of Fame ceremonies, held in Amarillo, TX, on Jan. 19.

Loftin, a Tulia, TX, native, is in the midst of his fifth season as mentor of the Lady Bulldogs, compiling in that time 139 wins versus eight losses. In the four previous years, Loftin has led his teams to four straight NAIA District Nine Championships, followed, in three of those years, by NAIA National Championships. In 1982, 1983 and 1985 Loftin was named the NAIA national "Coach of The Year."

During his term at Southwestern, Loftin is yet to lose a single home ballgame.

1986 Rodeo Season Begins

As the Spring 1986 rodeo season begins, the Southwestern rodeo teams, both men and women, find themselves in comfortable positions atop their competitive region.

After a two-rodeo fall season at Pratt, KS, Community College and Kansas State University, the Southwestern men lead the Central Plains region with 485 points, with Fort Scott, KS, second with 458.3, and Panhandle third with 445. The women, with 360 points, are in front of Western Oklahoma College with 270, and Dodge City, KS, with 160.

Southwestern's Gene Palmer, Weatherford, is currently leading the Bull Riding event with 130 points after the two rodeos, while Marty Musil, Guthrie, leads the Steer Wrestling eveng with 220 points. In the Team Roping event, Southwestern places Rex Penry, Leedey, at second; Ed and Ray Holyan, Crownpoint, NM, in a tie for sixth, and Mack Ford, Clinton, in a tie for tenth. Ed Holyan is also listed as third in the Steer Wrestling.

The Southwestern women dominate their All-Around category, taking three of the top four places. Leading the group is Charlottia Noble, Yale, who is currently ranked third in the Barrel Race, third in the Goat Tying, and fifth in the Breakaway Roping events. Sandra Shipley, Stillwater, holds second place in the All-Around competition based on a second-place finish in the Goat Tying and a seventh-place in the Barrel Race while Monica Bernard, Leedey, is fourth All-Around, after a tie for fifth in the Barrels and a tenth-place finish in the Goat Tying.

The second semester of rodeo action for Southwestern begins on March 13 with a trip to Northwestern. The annual Southwestern rodeo will be held April 10-12.

All-Academic Football Team

Southwestern Oklahoma State University placed two of its football team starters on the second annual NAIA District Nine All-Academic Football Team. Making the grade, so to speak, were Felix Melendez, a tight end for the Bulldogs and a 3.55 GPA English major, and Butch Phillips, an offensive lineman with a 3.15 GPA in social sciences.

The Academic Team is nominated and selected by the District Nine Sports Information Directors.

NAIA All-American Team

RANDALL WEBSTER

Southwestern Bulldog football star Randall Webster received the highest honor in NAIA football as he was named a first-team NAIA All-American for his performances throughout the 1985 Bulldog football season.

Webster, a 6-2, 223 lb. defensive end from Jackson, MS, finished the season with 40 solo tackles and 19 assists. He also broke up eight passes, blocked two kicks, recovered three fumbles, and caused opposing quarterbacks and ball carriers some 70 yards.

The All-American honor was the culmination of two successful seasons for Webster. During the 1984 campaign, Webster was named the "National Player of the Week" for a single-game performance. He was on the NAIA District Nine first team for the past two years and was named the "Player of the Year" in District Nine this past season.

The Bulldogs finished the 1985 season as Co-Champions of the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference.

Highlight

Nov. 1, 1985

Dear Otis:

I want to thank you so very much for your work in helping make "Homecoming" the highlight of my life. I really feel that you people on the "hill" gave me the highest honor that can be given to a graduate, and I am so grateful.

I want to compliment you on the organization of the parade. Your young men who met us at the Student Center were so polite and knowledgeable of what was going on. The young man who drove the car for me in the parade was a delight.

The luncheon was a great success, and I thank you for the complimentary tickets for Pearl and me. The plaque presented to me is so impressive and beautiful. I treasure it very much.

I really loved sitting in the Press Box for the football game and visiting with those other people there. The half-time ceremony was wonderful, and I want you to know I appreciated all the activities of the day.

Then for you to bring me the lovely floral arrangement after the game, really capped the day.

Thank you from the bottom of my heart.

Sincerely,
Grace Burcham
