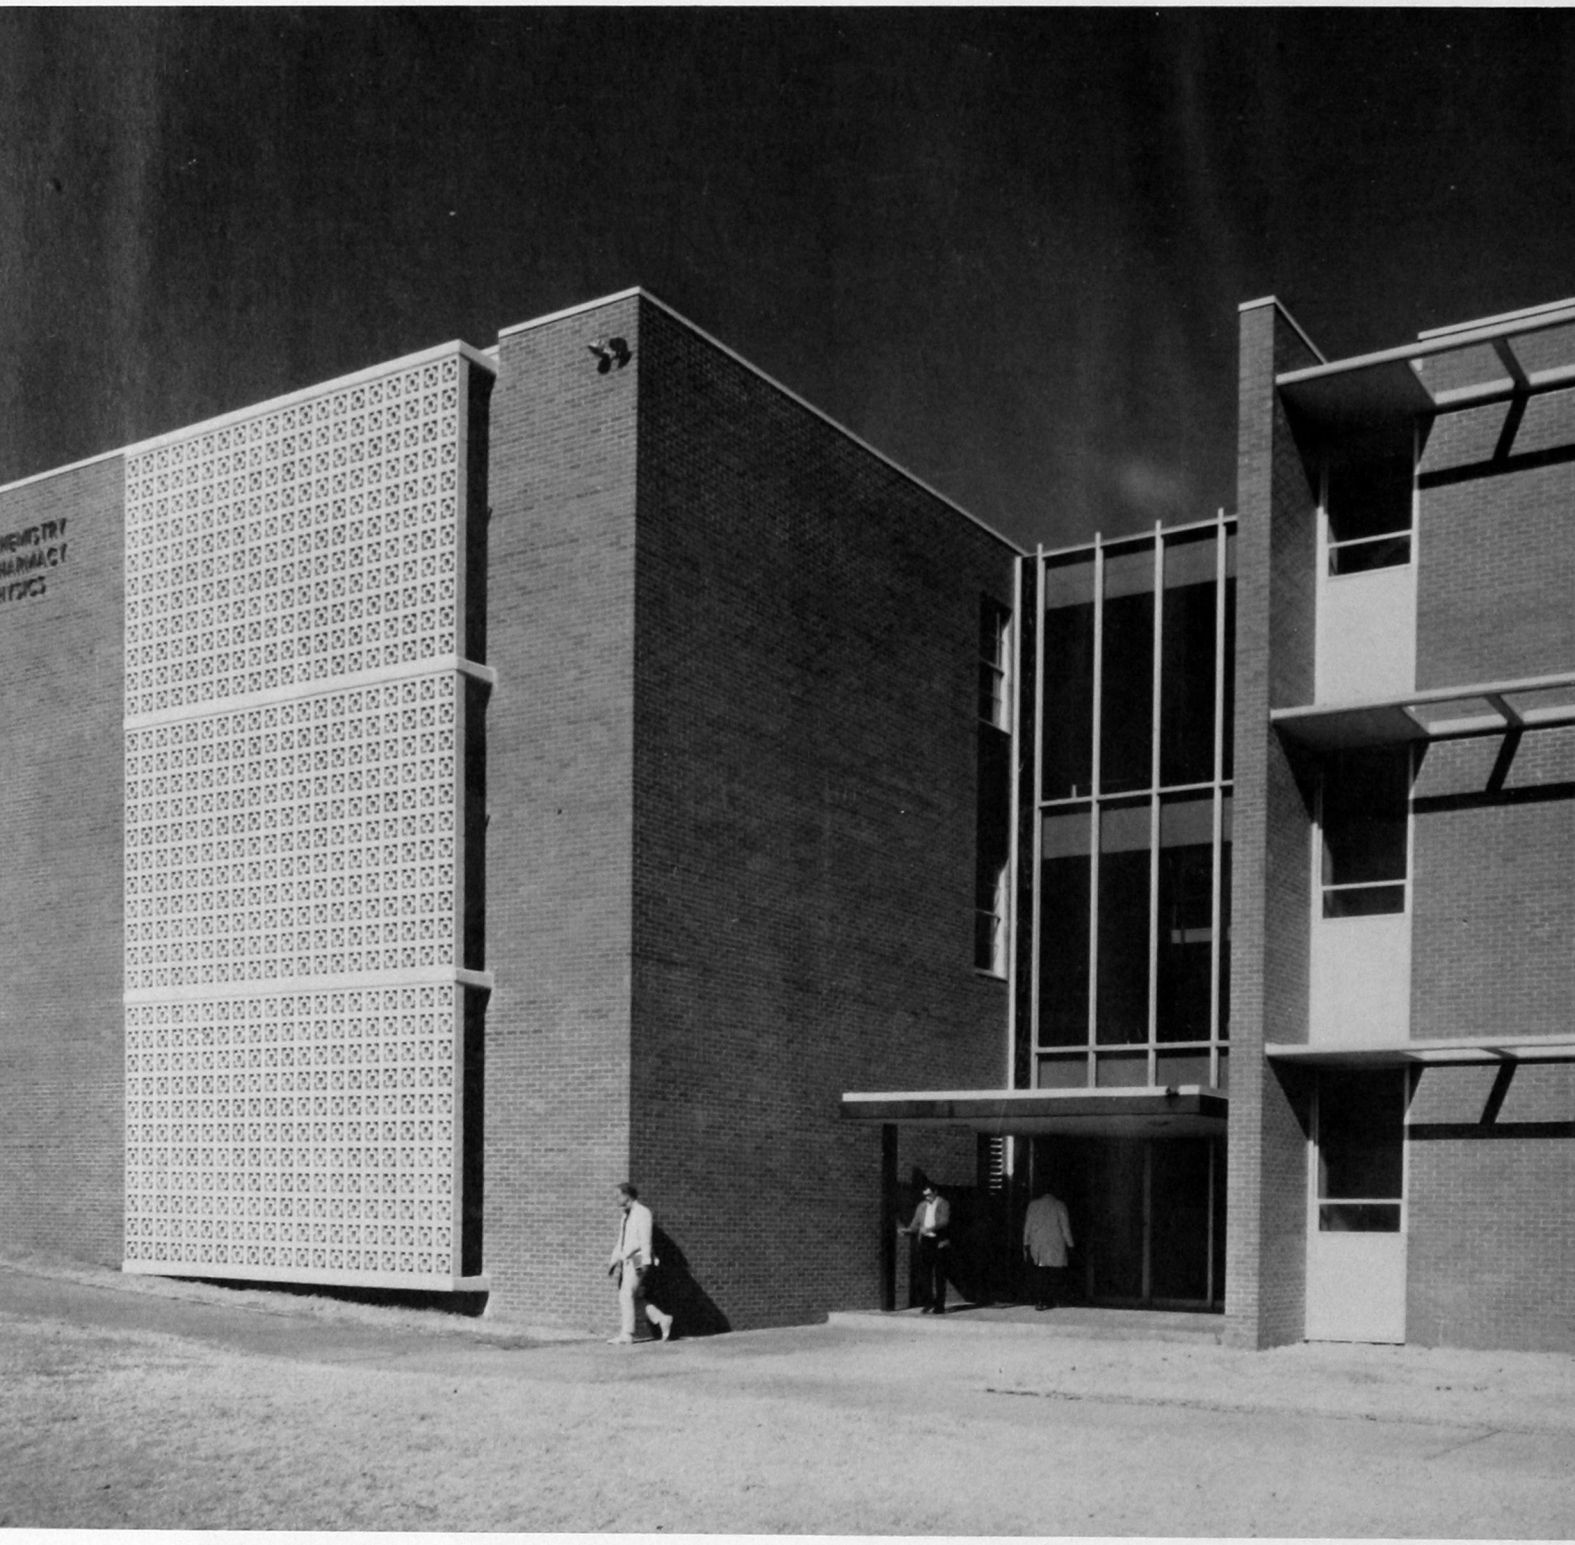
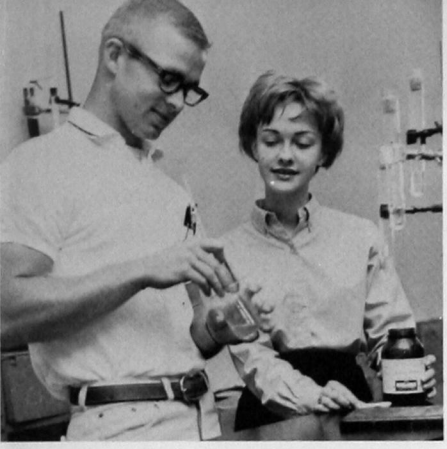
Science Education on the Up-Grade at Southwestern

No institution of comparable size in Oklahoma, or, for that matter, in the nation, has the modern physical facilities, the most recent laboratory equipment, or the top-flight instruction that goes along with the New Chemistry Pharmacy and Physics laboratories at Southwestern State College.





Freshman chemistry research provides the new student with the background for future chemistry courses.

The new pharmacy dispensing laboratory has adequate room and facilities for the study of advanced techniques.

Students work with the latest in scientific equipment.

Campus Miracle

What was once a dilapidated and abandoned gymnasium has become one of the show places of western Oklahoma music centers. Here is one of the outstanding music departments in the Southwest, with spacious rehearsal halls, classrooms, and adequate private practice rooms.

A practice session for Southwestern's future drummers.

Professor Richard Coy directs one of his groups in a new rehearsal hall.

Students find comfortable lounging areas in the lobbies of the Music Hall.

There are 30 such private practice rooms, modern in every respect.

Year for Dramatic Heights

This was the year—1963-64—for the presentation of William Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night"; the movie hit, "Pillow Talk" and the Broadway musical "South Pacific." All were superbly directed and performed.

A climactic scene from "Pillow Talk."

Darlene Heath and Lyn Jarvis in a scene from "Twelfth Night."

Jayne and David Helvey in "Pillow Talk."

Band Spectaculars

In spite of a small marching band, Southwestern's instrumental music director, Dick Coy, always managed to arrange an outstanding football halftime ceremony.

Business Moves Up

With the exception of administrative offices on the first floor, most of the Ad building now includes modern business typewriting, shorthand and office machines classrooms and faculty office space. Centralization of the largest single college department has led to stronger faculty and physical offerings for business students.

One of four billing machines, with a total value of more than $30,000, donated by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company to the Southwestern business department.

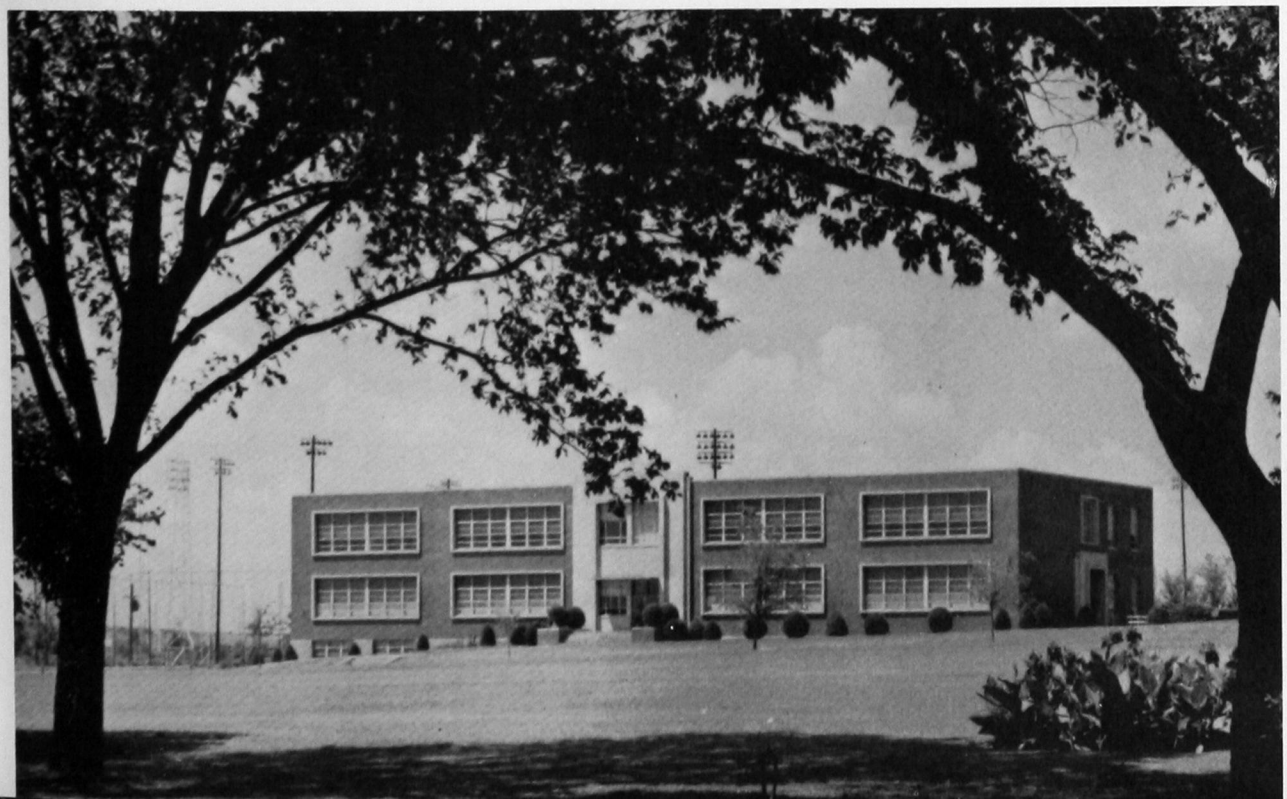
Among the more recent innovations is a special certificate in production of audio-visual teaching aids.

In the industrial arts department, a course in arts and crafts is one of the more valuable for Southwestern's future teachers.

Best of the Profession

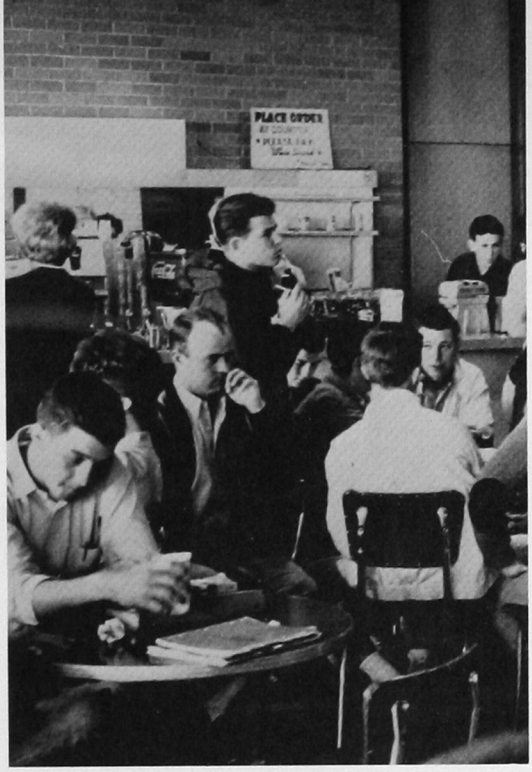
As the years pass, Southwestern State College increases its stature in training outstanding public school and college teachers; their reputation for ability and dedication is recognized from coast to coast. Each year more modern approaches and techniques add to this production of young men and women professionally desirable.



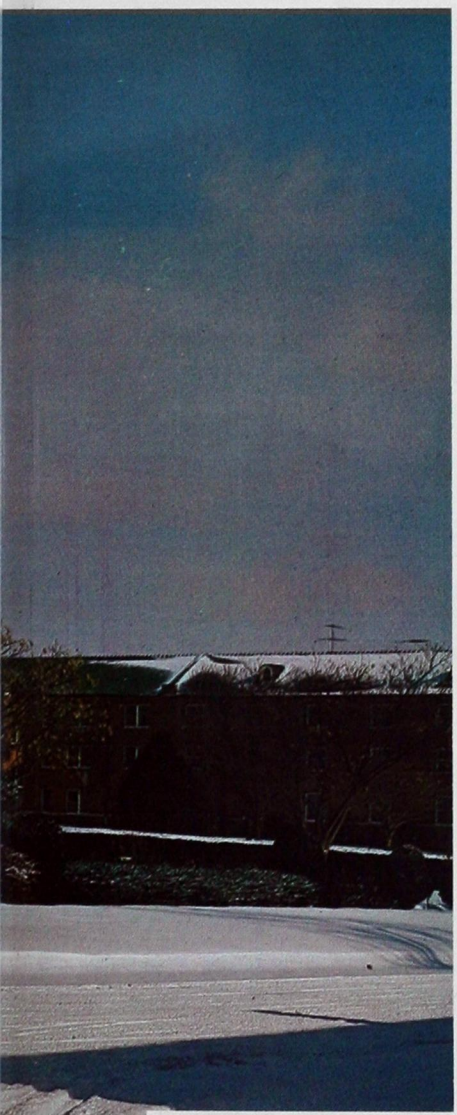
The Growing Heart of a Campus

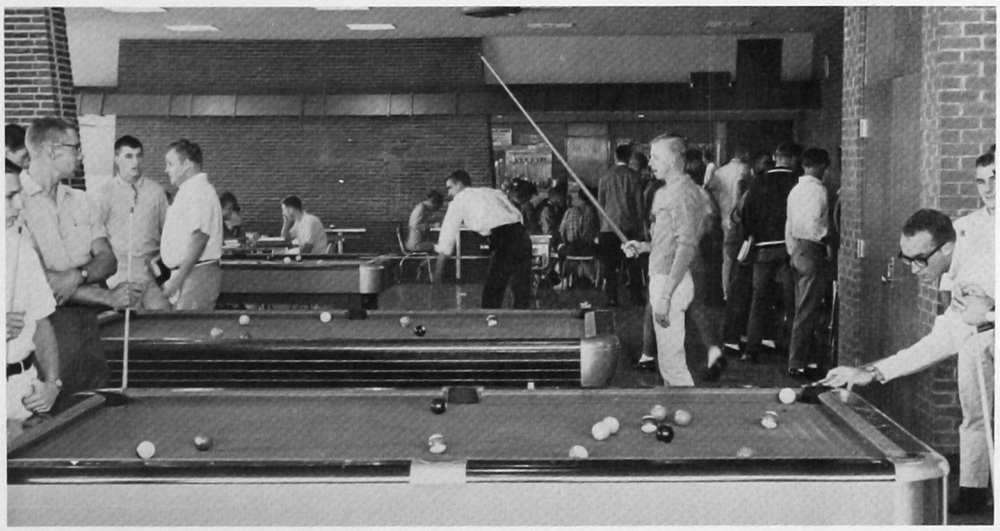
Dedicated to all the brave men and women from Southwestern who gave their lives for their country, the Memorial Student Center is becoming more and more a symbol of the growth of a great institution. With its beautiful modern architecture, it is also so constructed that it is expanding over a wider and wider area of the quadrangle in which it was constructed. During the past year cafeteria dining areas, the kitchens and other facilities have been greatly enlarged and a second snack bar, "The Blue Room," has been added.

In the Blue Room friends can gather from crowded campus areas for visits, games and quiet sessions.



The campus' most popular spot, the snack bar in the student center, serves many purposes, not the least of which is the developing of lasting lifetime friendships.



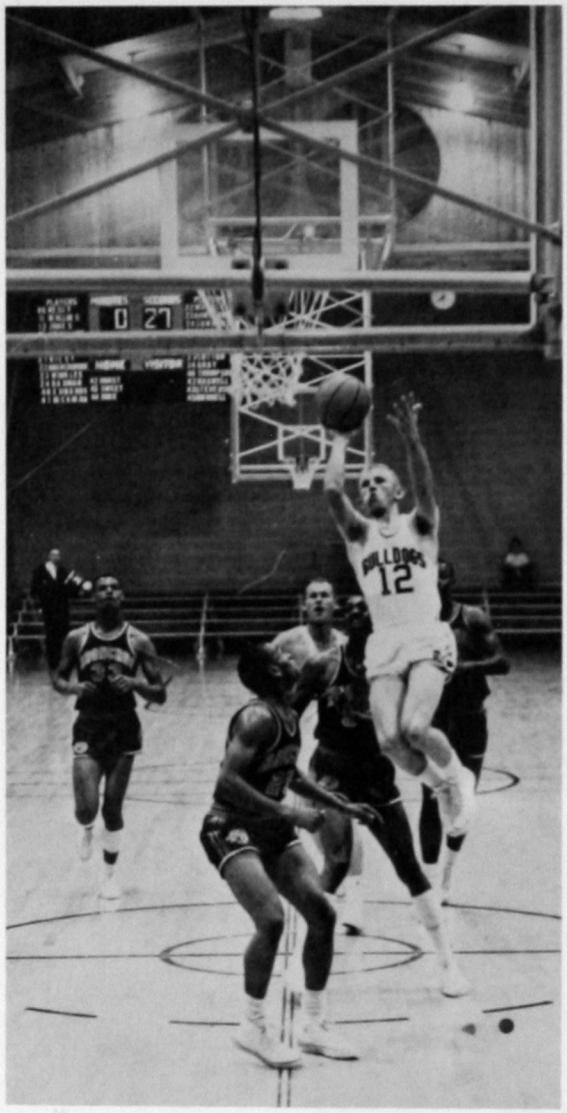


The Center has many forms of relaxation and one of the more popular is in the pool room facilities of the snack bar area.

Health, Recreation and Varsity Sports

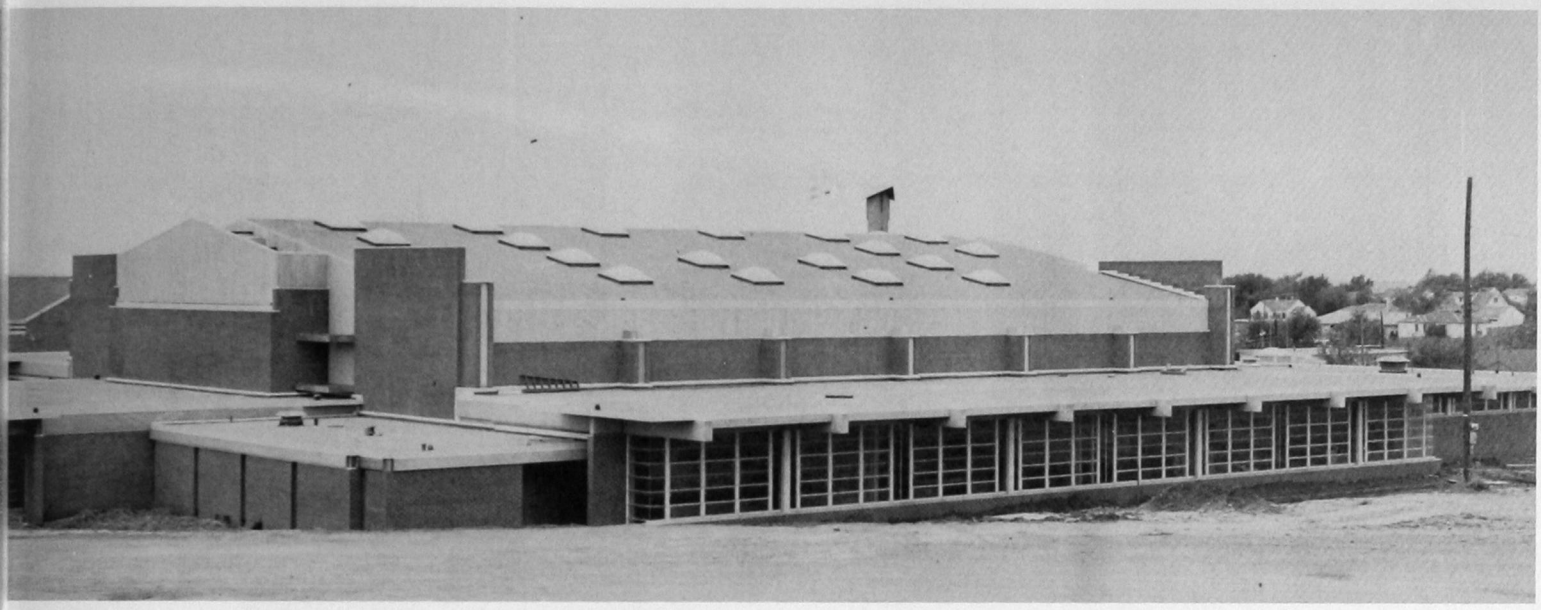
Southwestern State College has a balanced program of recreation that appeals to all students, either as spectators or as participants. Major sports are football, basketball and baseball, with track, tennis and golf also sponsored by the college.

In addition, the health and physical education division, through a strong intramural program, appeals to both men and women. Some 500 students participate in winter basketball leagues alone.

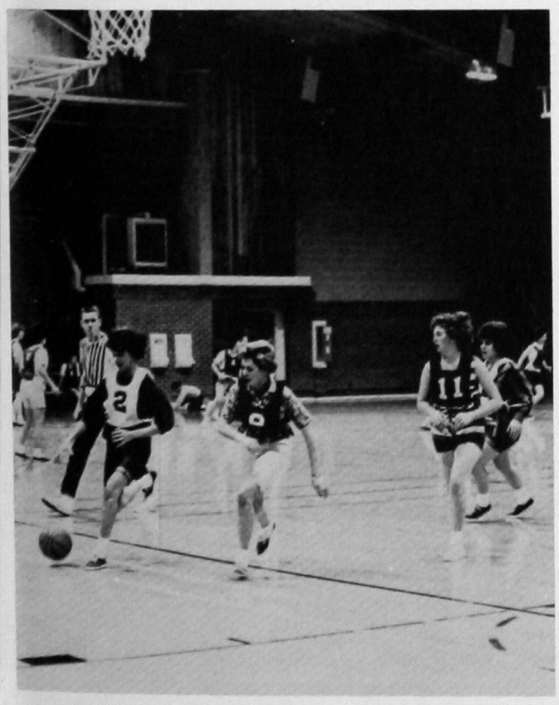


Southwestern's all-conference Jimmy Jones (12) makes one of his great plays as he scores 27 points against the Central Bronchos.

Southwestern students actively support their team.



Cage ball is one of dozens of games taught as part of the preparation of graduates who will be qualified to carry on physical fitness and physical education programs.



Women enjoy intramural sports, too, through the efforts of a well-organized Women's Recreation Association.

Old Science

Still the "fairest of the fair" to former students is the remodeled "Old Science" now properly designated as the Biological Science Classroom and Laboratory Building. In addition to its services in the science areas, it houses office space and classrooms for language arts, home economics and dramatics.

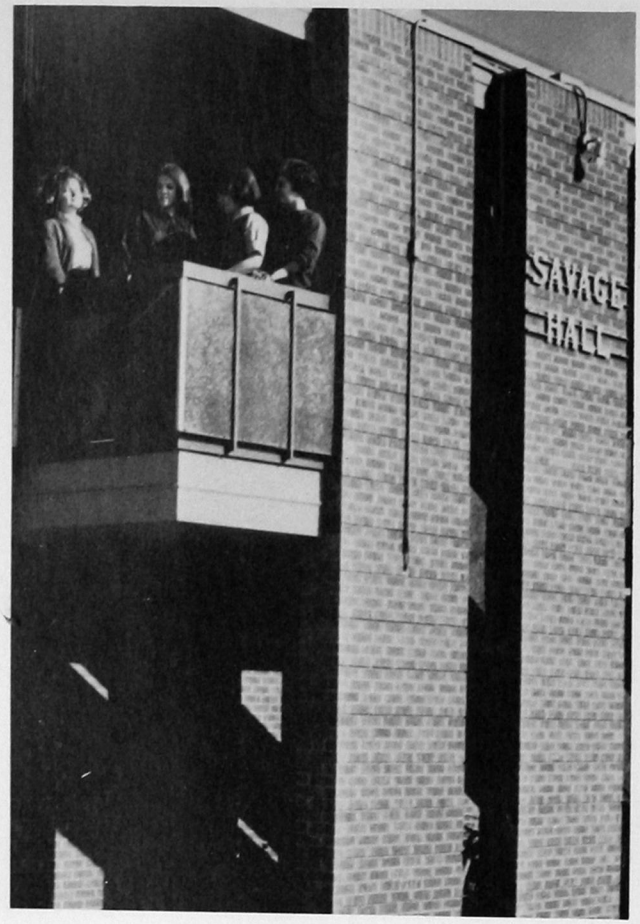
The Campus Home

The best of college life is often found in the dormitories and apartment houses where students live together and form the friendships that endure for many lifetimes.



"Romeo . . . Romeo . . ."

Ideal setting for Romeo and Juliet balcony scenes in the Shakespearean tradition is the second floor of Savage Hall, women's dormitory.

Chess, Too

At Neff Hall, men's residence center, nearly 300 men enjoy the relaxation that comes after a long day on the campus.

Since 1937

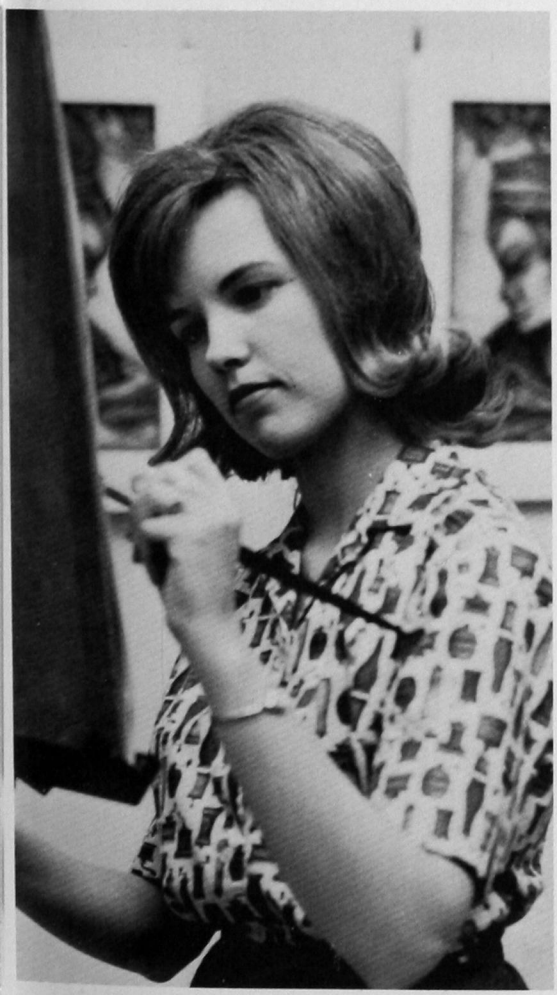
This is a familiar entrance to a campus dormitory that has changed little at this point since it was built in 1937. However, two airconditioned wings have been added.

Library Among the Best

With a staff of four full-time librarians and an ever-increasing volume of modern reference books and materials being added, Southwestern's library has made significant progress during the past year.

Charming and Talented

Alma Tisdal, Clinton, is typical of an ever-increasing number of young artists who are finding the art department at Southwestern second to none in the state.



Professional Development

Students Don Vernon and Sandra Espy pack a shipment of paintings to a Kappa Pi fraternity exhibit at Nacogdoches, Texas.

STATE OF OKLAHOMA
OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
OKLAHOMA CITY

Congratulations

Congratulations to the Seniors of Southwestern State College and best wishes to all underclassmen as you record the end of another year of educational achievement.

Soon you will assume positions of leadership in our great country. You may be confident of success due to your efforts, your ability and the thorough training you have received.

Wherever you go, go proudly and confidently, as one of Oklahoma's ambassadors of good will.

Sincerely,

Henry Bellmon

Al Harris

President

To the Students of Southwestern State College:

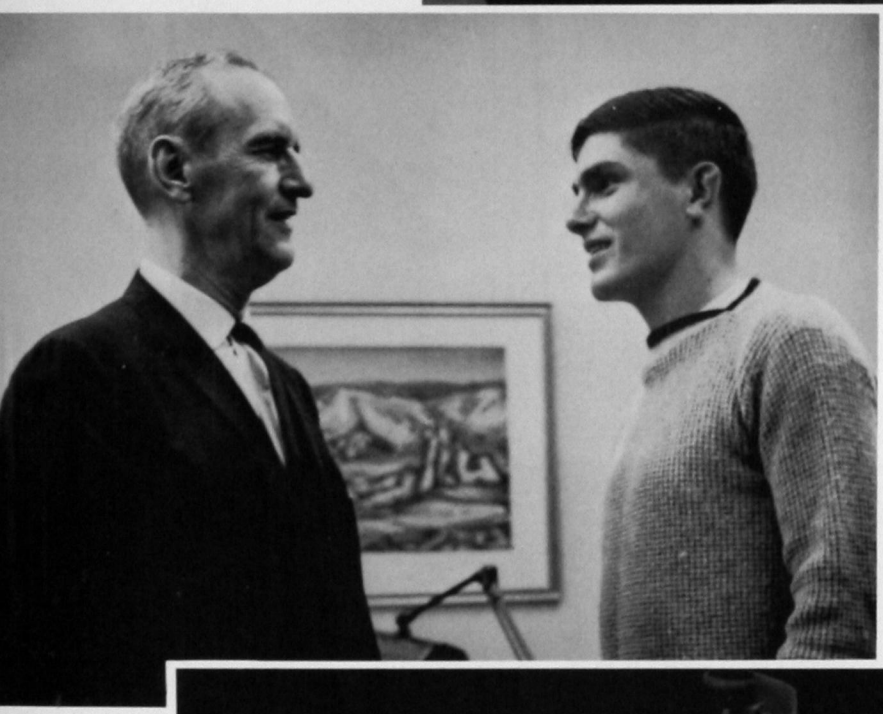
In a fast-moving and unpredictable world, knowledge, understanding, and an open mind are basic requirements for a full and satisfying life. At Southwestern the opportunity to attain these attributes is offered. Your accomplishments will be measured by the use you make of the energies, the powers, and the talents at your command.

Both pleasant memories and future attainments must be arranged for in advance. It is now during your years at Southwestern that you have the opportunity to build the future while you are enjoying the present. May these be years of fulfillment for you!

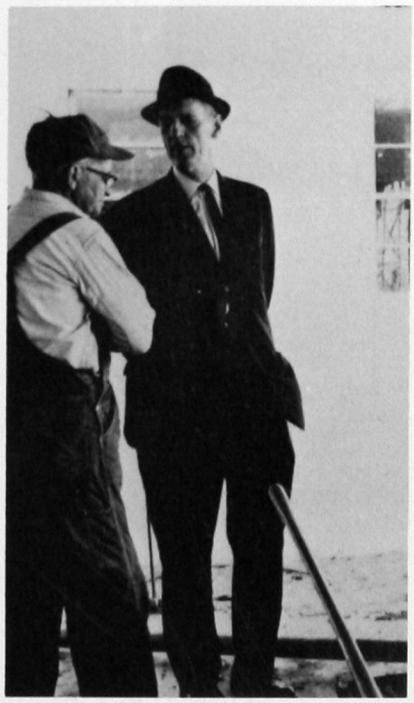
Al Harris

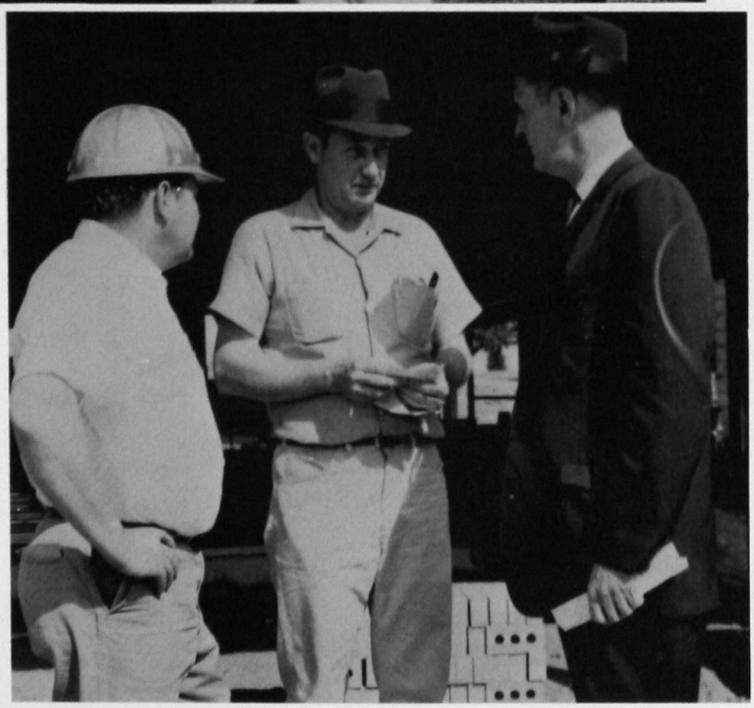
A President's Average Day

He dictates letters to his secretary, Mrs. L. J. Van Horn, and looks after the many problems that involve administrative action and decision.



Students like James Dickson (left) always find the President's door open to them when they have problems.





During the past two years there has rarely been a day when President Al Harris was not inspecting a building job under the great period of physical expansion.

The Campus Year

September

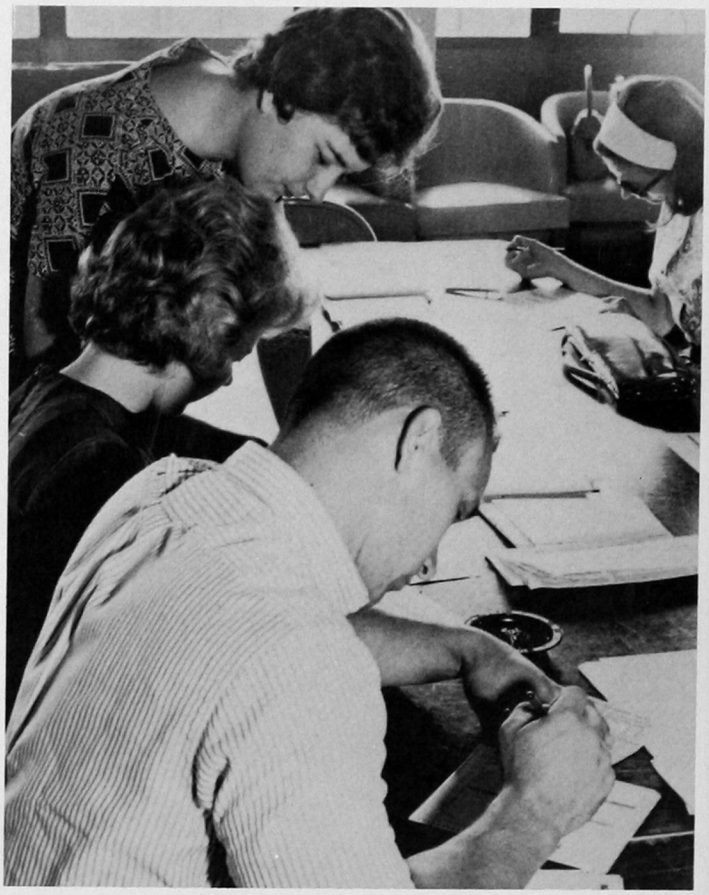
Southwestern State College continues to grow with on-campus enrollment of 2,588, largest in history . . . Construction begins on new million-dollar men's residence hall . . . Remodeling of the second story of the Administration Building for business offices and classrooms starts . . . Rankin Williams announces his retirement after 42 years as coach and athletic director . . . Tri-J, after 38 years, announces colonization with national sorority, Sigma Kappa . . . Music students meet in new, ultra-modern quarters . . . New science laboratories building upgrades pharmacy, physics and chemistry courses . . .

It's Registration Time for the Ingles

Jack Ingle and his wife, Doloris, begin the rounds of registration by taking their places in a line forming in the lobby of the student center.

Once up the stairs to the second floor, they check trial study cards (below).

Then the trial study card is converted into a permanent record of enrollment.



There's a waiting period to get more approvals and, finally, class cards.

Here's the start of Jack's and Doloris' journey down the Ad Building hallway as they pay student senate fees.

And after buying a yearbook, checking with the college nurse and a few other way stations, they make the big payoff to Sophia Payne in the business office.

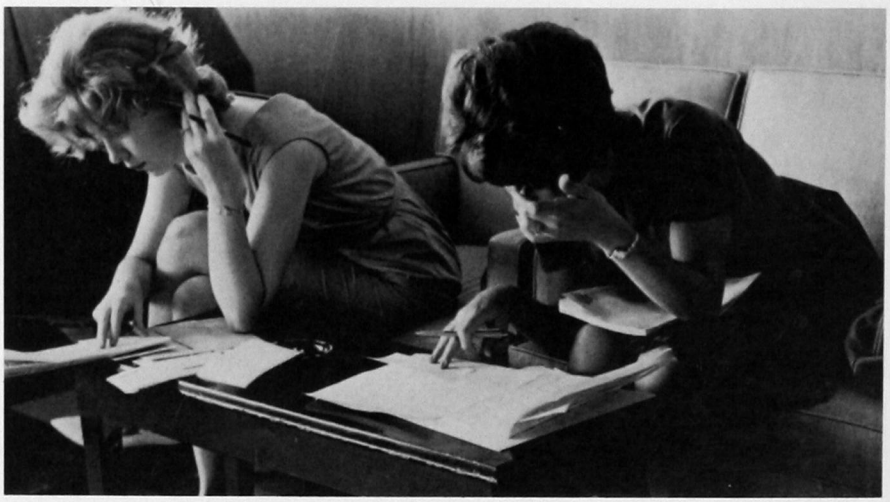
Of course, there's the final chapter and the final payoff when the Ingles buy textbooks for a semester at Southwestern.

Southwestern's Many Faces

During registration, as at no other time, can the Bulldog photographer record so many varied expressions as students go about the business at hand.

At the left is a study in patient waiting at the foot of the stairway in the student center—a stairway leading to the labyrinth of advisers, checkpoints and information on the second floor.

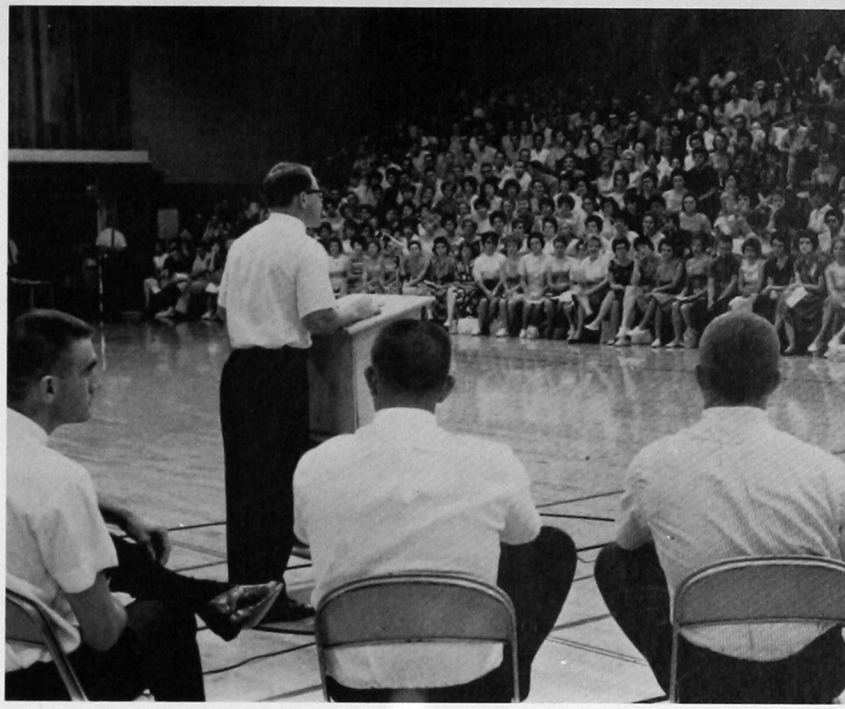
And never again during the next five months will there be so many serious faces in the ballroom, a place more often used for music and dancing.

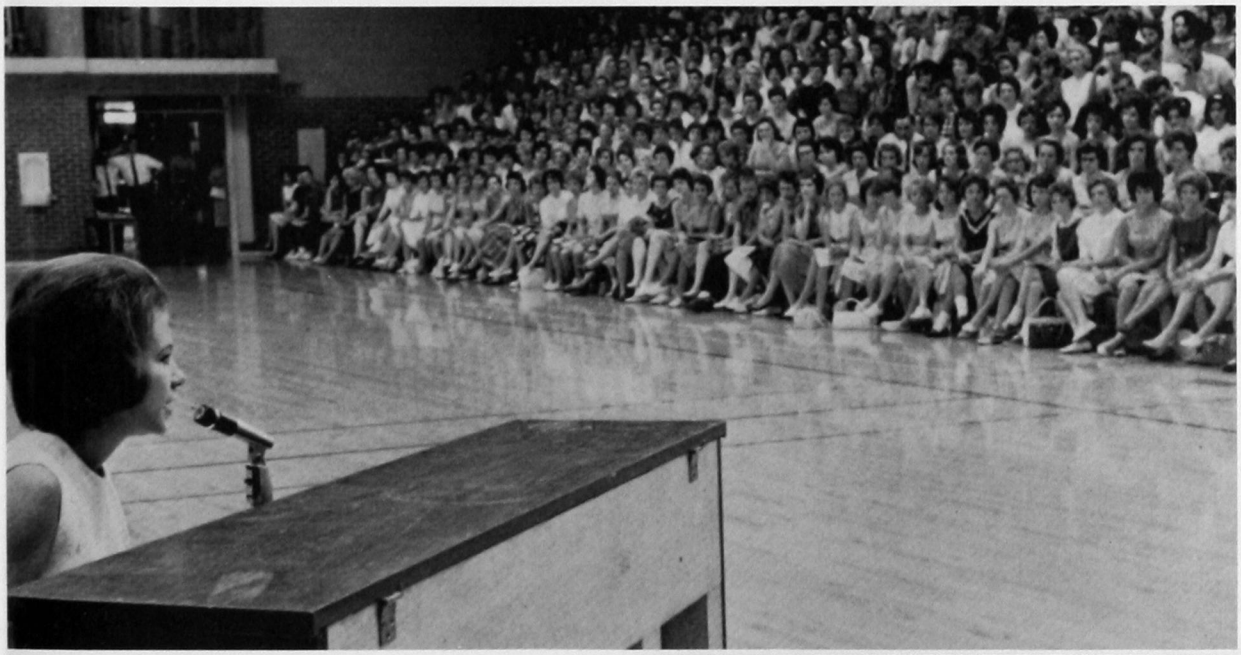


While in just about every nook and cranny can be found absolute concentration as portrayed by these two attractive co-eds.

Freshmen Find a New World

Their first week of college life begins for several hundred freshmen at a general assembly with Don Groves, student senate president, as chairman. They hear talks from other student leaders and from faculty members.





Later there is entertainment, including music by Karen Bloodworth, Miss Southwestern of 1963 and first runner-up in the Miss Oklahoma pageant.

Then, only three days later, they go to Milam Stadium to watch the Bulldogs defeat the Tarleton State football team and add their volume to the cheering section for the first time.

Construction begins on North Hall, a new residence center for 318 men to be opened in September, 1964. The architect's drawing is of a building that will cost in excess of one million dollars.

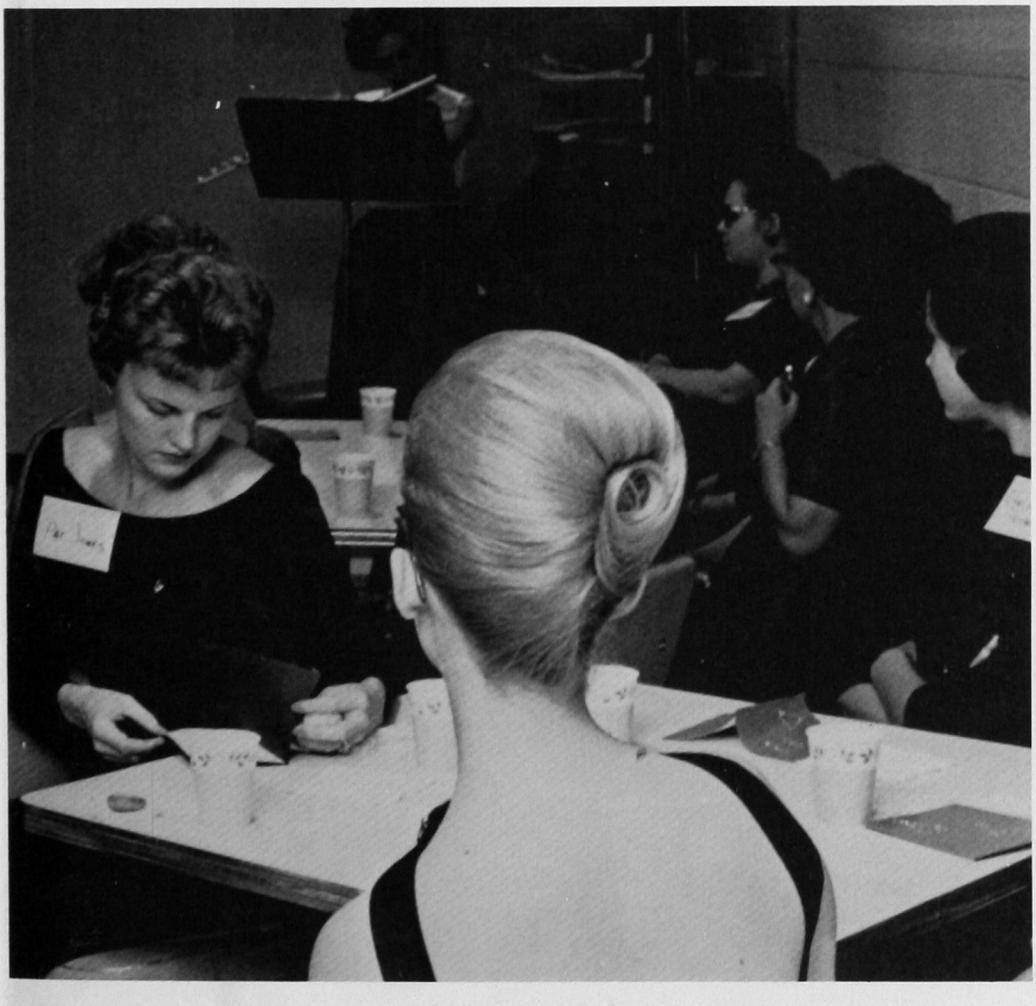
New Campus Look

Back from two years' leave of absence, band director Richard V. Coy finds a modern rehearsal hall constructed during his absence. It is located in the old college gymnasium after a remodeling job.

There's a new look, too, to lecture rooms for general chemistry students in the new million-dollar science laboratories building.

Marking the end of another era on the Southwestern campus was the colonization of the oldest campus fraternity, Beta Tau Beta, by Pi Kappa Alpha. PiKA officers visited the campus to assist in rush activities of their new colony.

With six national fraternities and sororities participating, rush activities took on a new phase. Below, Delta Zeta honors its pledges at a party.

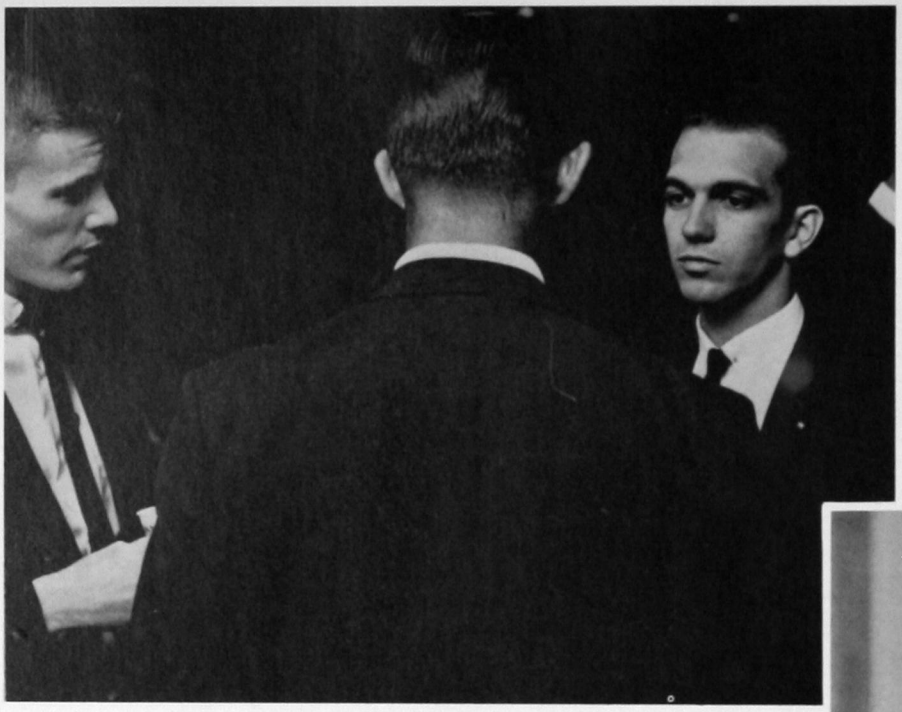


October

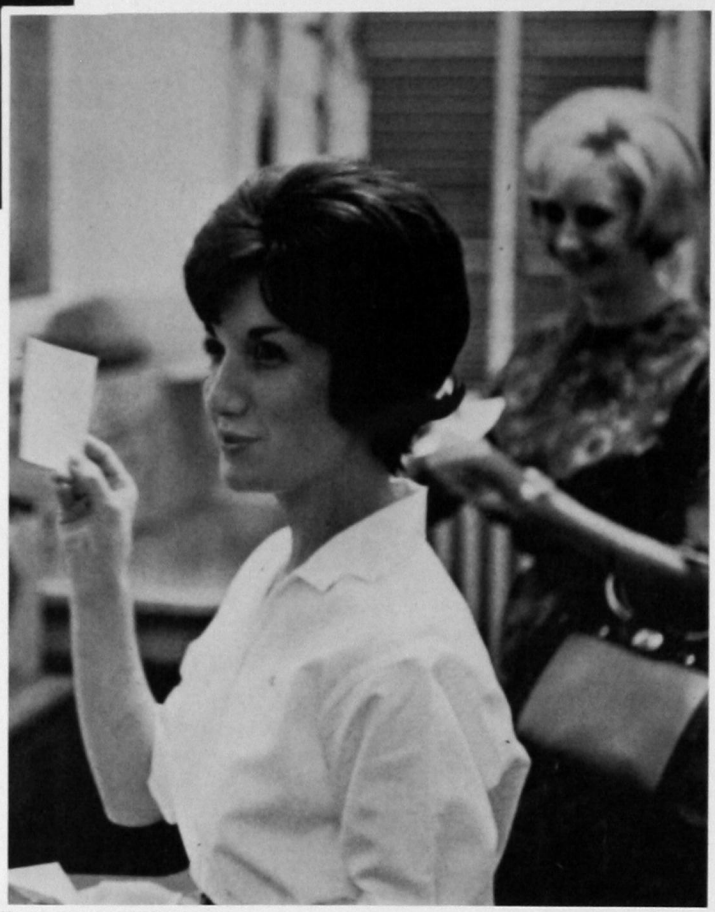
Rush week found its climax in bid house . . . Probably the greatest Homecoming in history . . . Hall of Fame banquet for Rankin Williams, Lee K. Anderson and J. E. Simmons . . . Nova Vick Homecoming Queen . . . Phi Delta Chi-Kappa Epsilon float wins . . . Open house for new buildings . . . Beta Tau Beta becomes new Pi Kappa Alpha colony . . . Auda Marie Thomas elected state president of Music Educators National Conference . . . Thirty seniors named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities . . . Ninety apply for mid-year degrees . . .

Bid House

After rush activities had ended, 77 Southwestern State students accept bids to become pledges of three fraternities and three sororities. The exciting climax for all organizations comes during bid house.



New pledges are welcomed by Sigma Tau Gamma (left).



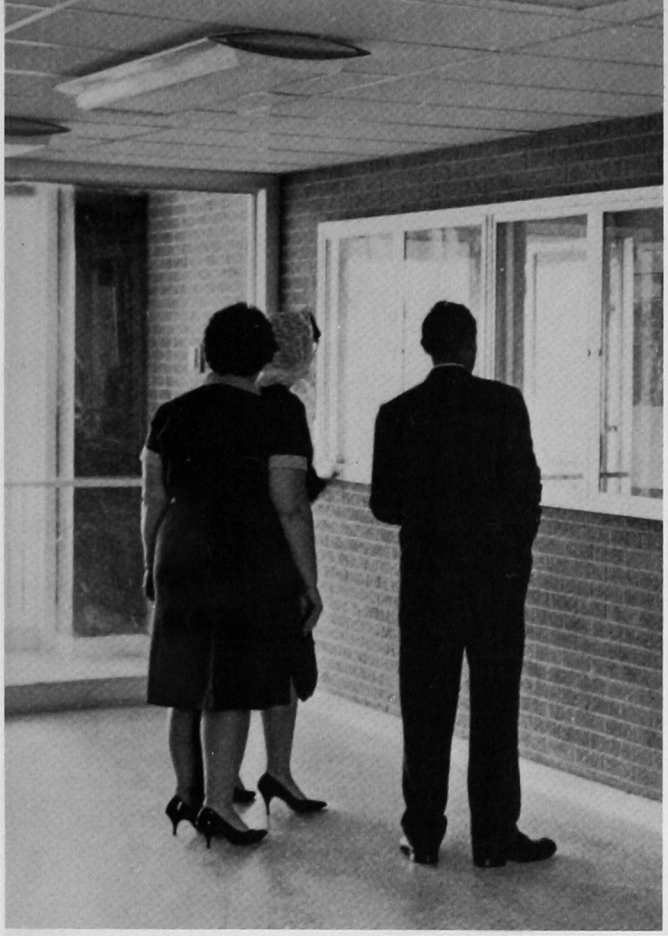
Sigma Kappa pledges radiate their own excitement as they accept bids to the sorority.

After pinning ceremonies, Delta Zeta pledges are in a more serious mood as they learn more about the chapter.

Homecoming — Two Days to Remember

Friday and Saturday, October 11 and 12, 1963, will be long remembered by a great many people as the most important reunion they ever attended at Southwestern, where such events have always been colorful and exciting. Activities began Friday morning and continued until the last dance Saturday night. There were many "firsts": a Hall of Fame banquet, election of a Homecoming Queen by the student body instead of the football team, an organized open house of new campus buildings.

The theme of the celebration was "Sixty Years of Progress" recognizing the growth of Southwestern State College in the 60th year since it had opened its doors in 1903 as a two-year territorial school to train teachers.



Hundreds of former students and other visitors took a long look at the new science laboratories building (left), and the remodeled, modern facilities of the old science hall and the music hall.

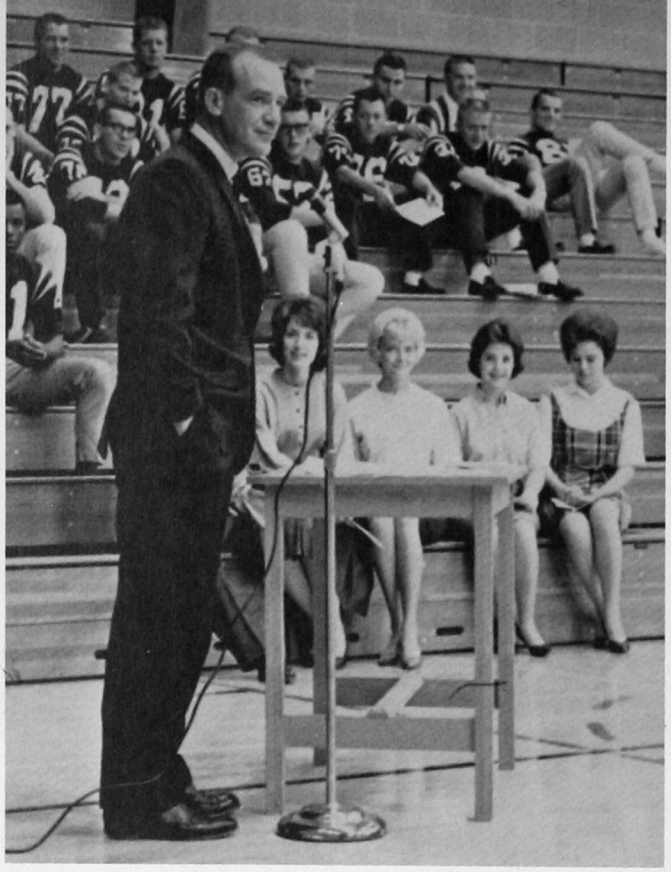
Friday was a day, too, for students to put the finishing touches to floats that would feature the big parade Saturday morning.

And Saturday morning there was more than a little nostalgia when Tri-J sorority, already well under way to become a chapter of Sigma Kappa, held its last Homecoming breakfast under its 38-year-old name. At the right, seeming to symbolize a fleeting mood, is the last Tri-J president, Mary Lynn Alley.

Assembly Fires Homecoming Spirit

One of the oldest Homecoming traditions, the Friday morning student assembly, set the stage for two big days. Under the direction of the Senate, it was one of the highlights. Center of attention, as always, were the football team and its coaches. The college band and the cheerleaders, led by Rick Rivers, gave a superb performance.

Special features were recognition of athletic director Rankin Williams and introduction of five candidates for Homecoming Queen.



Rene Huckaba, left, Yukon high school coach and Southwestern alumnus, was a tremendous hit as master of ceremonies. Seated at his left are the football team and the queen candidates.

Rankin Williams, hospitalized the day before, wasn't there, but his son, Bill Williams, was on hand to accept a gift certificate from Don Groves, Senate president, in recognition of 42 years of service to Southwestern.

Here Rivers and Company go all out to light the spark of school spirit.

First Hall of Fame Banquet

Friday night Southwestern State recognized three of its greatest alumni in establishing a Hall of Athletic Fame for the first time. Selected for the honor were Rankin Williams, Southwestern athletic director; J. E. Simmons, El Reno high school athletic director, and Lee K. Anderson, commissioner for the Oklahoma High School Secondary Schools Activities Association.

They were selected not only as among the greatest athletes in the history of the college but also because of a combined total of 140 years of service to youth of the state.

J. E. "Jenks" Simmons, considered by many as the greatest athlete in Oklahoma history: "I am deeply moved that the college that gave me an opportunity to prepare myself for my life's work should confer this honor on me" (top left).

Lee K. Anderson reminisces about the coaches and athletes of an earlier day. At the right in the background is Joe B. Metcalf, master of ceremonies (left, lower).

James J. Craddock (back to camera), Southwestern alumnus and former athlete, makes official presentations to Simmons, Anderson and (right) Bob Williams, who accepted for his father, who was not able to attend because of emergency surgery.

Parade Winners

Placing first in the college float division in the Homecoming parade Saturday morning . . . "Progress Through Education," entry of Phi Delta Chi and Kappa Epsilon, school of pharmacy organizations (above).

A tribute to Weatherford's naut, Captain Thomas Stafford, contributed to the awarding of second place to the sophomore class (left).

Honorable mention was given to this entry by Phi Beta Lambda, business organization (right)

A Queen for Homecoming

With their escorts, five candidates for the royal title arrive on the field for coronation ceremonies: Nova Vick, Jerry Robertson, Jean Harness, Linda Cabaniss, and Ann Ball.

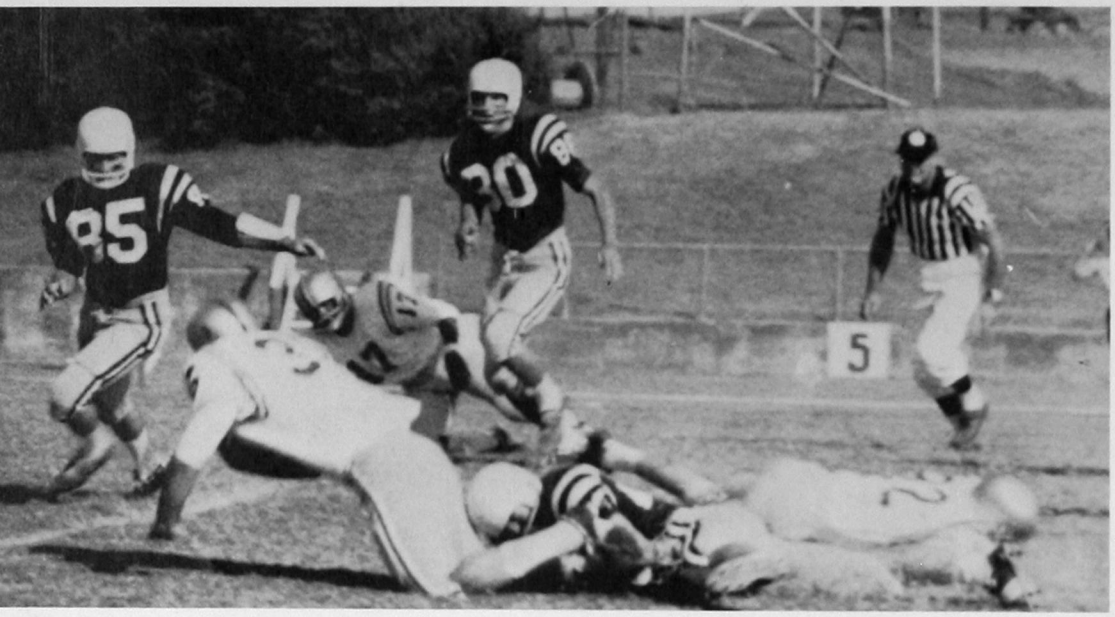
Below: For the remainder of the football game, five of Southwestern's loveliest hold court on the sidelines.



Bulldogs Tough

Southwestern lost its Homecoming game to Northeastern, 7-0, but came out of defeat proudly after a great exhibition of defensive power against the nationally-ranked Redmen.

Half-Time Show

Homecoming Finale

With Southwestern's Collegians performing in their usual superb style, the 1964 Homecoming came to an end Saturday night at the annual dance.

A New Name

Southwestern's first social fraternity, founded in 1945, went national to make one of the big campus stories during October. Beta Tau Beta became a colony of the national organization, Pi Kappa Alpha.

Month for Pledging

Pledging during October was not confined to Greek letter groups. Home Economics club members, right, entertain their prospective members.

Masquerade Party

Prize winners in a masquerade party for members and guests of Phi Beta Lambda, organization for business students: From the left, Jimmy Cabrera, third; Kenneth and Elsie Henry, first; Sharon Parsons, third.

November

Cecille Hodge elected Yearbook Queen . . . Ten Campus Beauties chosen from 41 candidates . . . Tri-J chartered as Epsilon Gamma chapter of Sigma Kappa . . . Gary Abercrombie named to first team of collegiate conference defensive all-stars . . . Bill Barker voted Luttrell memorial football award . . . Parents' Week-End, held for the first time in November . . . Wesley Mitchell elected state vice-president of Baptist Student Union . . .

An honor student in the school of pharmacy, behind the combined support of the American Pharmaceutical Association, Kappa Epsilon and Phi Delta Chi, Cecille Hodge, center, is elected 1964 Yearbook Queen. Runners-up are Yvonne Clingman, left, and Velma Ward.

The grand climax . . . coronation of the Queen by MC Rivers.

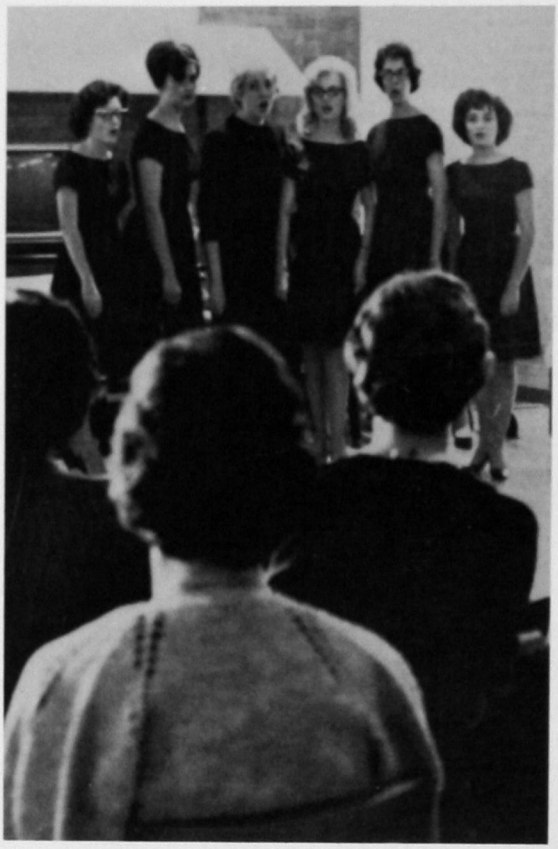
Sharon Arney, right, producer of the 1962 and 1963 Yearbook pageants, briefs one of the Campus beauty candidates.

Parents' Day

This was the year Parents' Day had a change of dates, from May to November, and more visitors came to the campus for two days than under the earlier time. Open house at Stewart Hall, receptions and dinners in the student center, tours of Southwestern's new and old buildings and a Dads' Night football game made it a memorable event.

Southwestern's famed madrigal singers appeared on one of the programs for parents.

Residents of Stewart Hall were gracious hostesses to their visiting families (left).



A college sextet entertained during a reception in the student center.

Fathers of Bulldog football players sat on the sidelines, wearing the numbers on their backs that were on the uniforms of their sons as Southwestern battled the Eastern New Mexico Greyhounds in the annual Dads Night feature.

Many parents found the school of pharmacy in the new science laboratories building appealing.

Students Celebrate

Second annual academic honors banquet; 546 invited guests of 4.0 and 3.0 students . . . J. R. Pratt announces retirement as chairman of physics department . . Freshman Follies play to 500; Marcia Metcalf is queen . . . Al Willingham and Ellen Nelson elected Best Citizens . . . Paul Roesch retires as student center custodian . . . February continues as traditional month for Sweetheart selections by campus organizations . . .

Scene in one corner of the crowded student center banquet hall during the honors banquet . . .

Sweetheart Dance

Oldest traditional Valentine event on the campus carries on at PiKA-Sigma Kappa Sweetheart dance, with Kenny Tooman and Wanda Woodmore as the 1964 favorites.

Rush Week

Second semester rush found 43 pledging campus fraternities and sororities . . . At the left, Tau Kappa Epsilon party for rushees.

BSU Coronation

Verlene Ireton, 1963 BSU Sweetheart, does the honors in the coronation of the 1964 choice, Donna Cooper.

Coronation

Marcia Metcalf is in the center of the spotlight as she is elected 1964 Freshman Follies Queen. Presenting the bouquet is Doneta Harrel, one of the directors.

Freshman Follies

A talented freshman class stages one of the better variety shows. Doneta Harrel and David Grant are directors. Masters of ceremonies are John Gard and Tom Hobza.

Combo

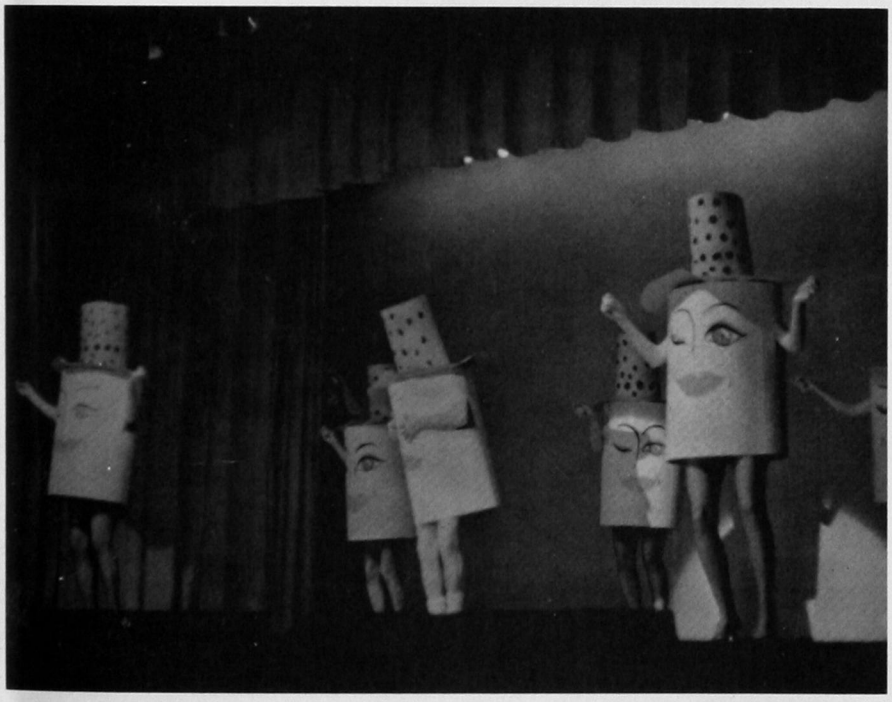
Organized solely for the show, a freshman combo turns out to be one of the most popular features.

Grand Finale

Directors Grant, left, and Miss Harrel and emcee Hobza come in for their share of applause (above).

"Telephone Hour"

Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Kappa pledge classes make a hit with their act, "Telephone Hour" from "Bye Bye Birdie."



Cylinder Sisters

One of the more novel acts of the Freshman Follies, the "Cylinder Sisters," Janelle Abercrombie, Marjorie Schulle, Marcis Shafer, and Marcia Metcalf. The lone outsider in the middle of the stage is Jerry Kinzer.

Commercial

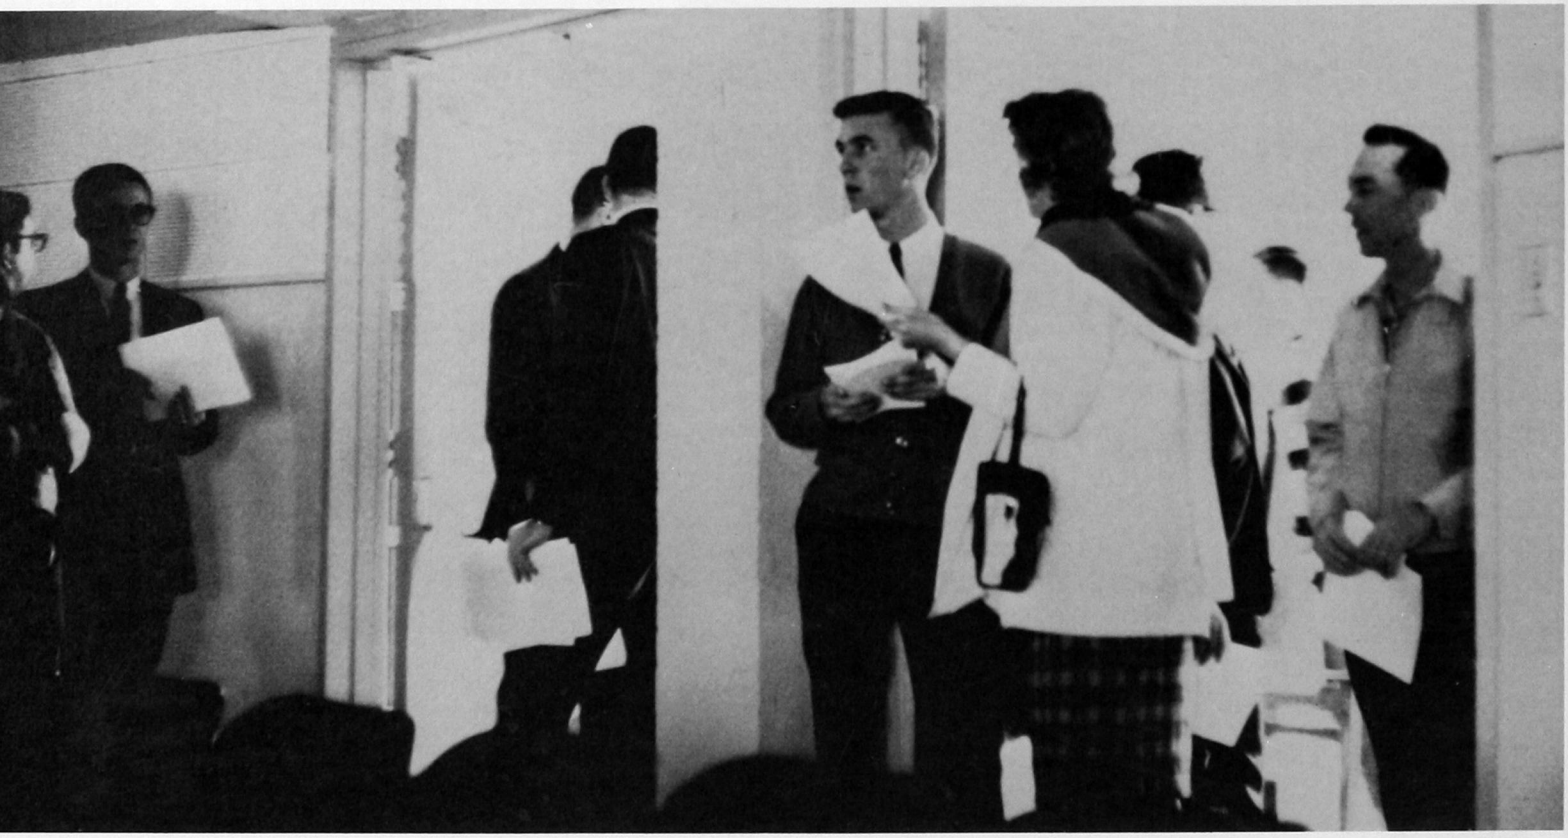
March

Religious emphasis week comes to the Southwestern campus again . . . More than 3,000 teachers attend the district OEA convention . . . and 8,000 high school musicians over-run the campus . . . Al Willingham and Ellen Nelson elected Best Citizens . . . "Twirp" Week . . . Miss Southwestern pageant . . . Drama department presents "Twelfth Night" . . . College choir presents Easter cantata . . . Phi Beta Lambda has its first "college career day" . . . Otis Delaporte named new athletic director and head football coach . . . Jerry Addison voted regional APhA president . . . SEA confers honors . . . Spring recess is welcome break . . .

This Is REW

Class discussions and seminars prove to be popular features of Religious Emphasis Week.

Students of all faiths (below) gather to share religious inspiration at general assembly.



Phi Beta Lambda Career Day

A committee headed by Steve Frans promoted the first business career day for college students ever held at Southwestern and probably one of the few of its kind ever held in the nation. Speakers and consultants were representatives from all types of businesses and industry as well as state and federal agencies. They led discussion groups and held personal interviews, many of which led to employment of graduating seniors. Approximately 500 Southwestern students participated in some phases of the all-day program.

"Ugliest Man on Campus" Gets His Reward

Jim Bird, far left, by popular vote, is declared the 1964 Ugliest Man on Campus and is rewarded by a smack from winsome Pat McDonald. The "superstition dance" was the climax of "TWIRP" week.

Addison Is Honored

Jerry Addison, left, Lamesa, Tex., pharmacy student was elected regional president of the student branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association and the 1965 convention was voted to Southwestern State.

Registration

Southwestern members register more than 300 delegates from all Oklahoma colleges and universities to the annual Oklahoma Student Education Association convention in the Memorial Student Center.

SEA Banquet

A highlight of the convention was a banquet, with Brenda Kennedy, freshman from Geary, as master of ceremonies.

April

Campus hosts state SEA convention . . . Mary Ella Wright is chosen as Miss Southwestern of 1964 . . . First steps taken to organize Independent Students Association of Women Students . . . Phi Beta Lambda wins more honors at state convention in Norman . . . Calvin Allen directs successful 1964 All-College Follies . . . "South Pacific" has big four-night run as premier student production . . . Honors are passed out at annual APhA banquet . . . Otis Delaporte, Cecil Morris and Jerry Jobe named as new athletic staff at Southwestern . . . Candidates nominated for student senate . . . Osteopathic Association entertains premed students . . . formal dances highlight spring social season . . .

Miss Southwestern of 1964 Mary Ella Wright

"Over the Rainbow"

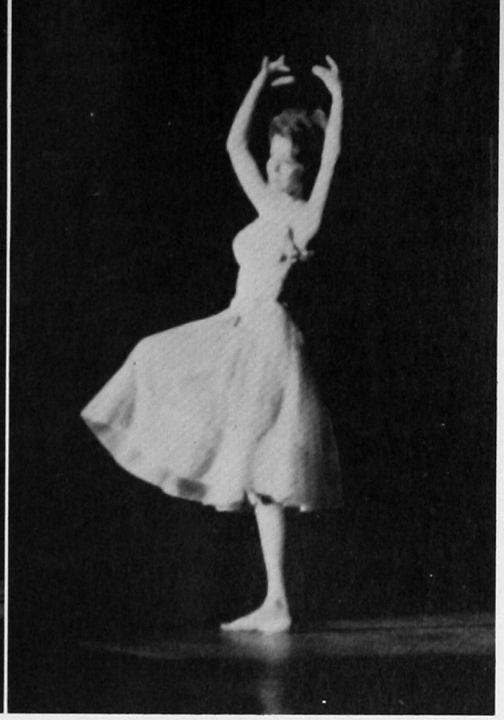
With pageantry and charm, the 1964 Miss Southwestern revue took its place as one of the best of them all. Directed by Karen Bloodworth, Miss Southwestern of 1963, and assisted by Mrs. Sharon Arney, the event ranked as one of the outstanding of the school year.

Finalists

Five finalists, from the left, are Lynn Blalock, Ginger Plott, Joe Rinkle, Karen Taylor and Miss Wright.

Mary Ella Wright . . . the winner

Karen Taylor . . . second



Ginger Plott . . . third

The Judges

Intent on their difficult job of selecting the 1964 Miss Southwestern are the judges, from the left, Ivy Coffey, the Daily Oklahoman; Gaylon Stacy, KWTV, and Dolly Hoskins, Oklahoma City, former Miss Oklahoma pageant director.

Flowers to the Fair

Donnie Groves, president of the student senate, presents traditional roses to the new Miss Southwestern, under the approving smiles of master of ceremonies Charles Rightmer and alternates Karen Taylor and Ginger Plott.

All-College Follies

Pi Kappa Alpha's act wins first place for the second successive year to permit the fraternity to keep the big trophy twelve more months.

Sigma Kappa's act placed second . . .

. . . and Sigma Tau Gamma was third.

More Top Honors

Mrs. Ina G. Black recognizes the Merck and Bristol award winners, from the left, Ronald Nicholas, Kohen Tabor and Ray Downs.

Phi Beta Lambda Tops

Making its greatest showing in history, the Southwestern State College chapter of Phi Beta Lambda, business fraternity, won just about every top honor in state competition, including the gold seal award as the best chapter in Oklahoma.

Left to right, Dave Curtis was elected state president; Steve Frans, Mr. Future Business Executive of Oklahoma, and Eileen Sauer, Miss Future Business Executive of Oklahoma. Frans and Miss Sauer were to compete for national honors in Washington, D.C., June 12.

Tekes Best, Too

Sharing spring honors with Phi Beta Lambda was the college chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon social fraternity, voted the best chapter of the Oklahoma-Arkansas province. Displaying the trophy are, from the left, Eddie Sensintaffar, David Foreman and Dave Hickman.

May

Month of spring fever . . . the May Classic taking the place of May Day . . . Dave Neely, Dave Hickman and Saundra Woody elected to the student senate . . . Duke Awards . . . final examinations . . . and, finally, mixed emotions of joy and sadness as another senior class graduates.

Heavy Vote Cast

More than 1000 Southwestern students cast their ballots as Dave Neely was elected president; Dave Hickman, vice-president, and Saundra Woody re-elected secretary-treasurer of the senate.

The Voyageurs

Popular campus folk-singers, the Voyageurs, from the left, Richard Abel, Porter Harris and Allen Bealmear, are featured in the Spring Classic celebration.

Tug O' War

Male students had no monopoly on contests as these co-ed teams struggled for supremacy in a tug o'war during the spring classic.

Sixty-First Convocation

The largest graduating class in the history of Southwestern State College, 345, enter the gymnasium (left). Included was the largest number to ever receive degrees from the school of pharmacy, 62.
The largest crowd in history was present, too, part of them shown below. Many were turned away for lack of seating space.

"Questions Without Answers"

Charles L. Bennett, right, managing editor of the Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma City Times, the convocation speaker, used the subject, "Questions Without Answers."

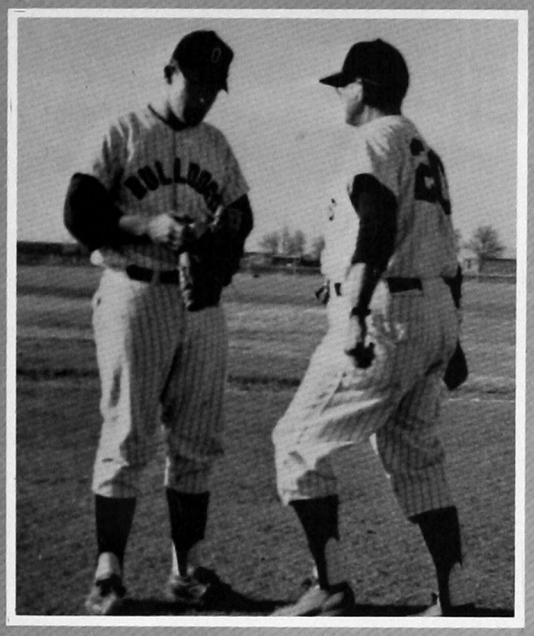
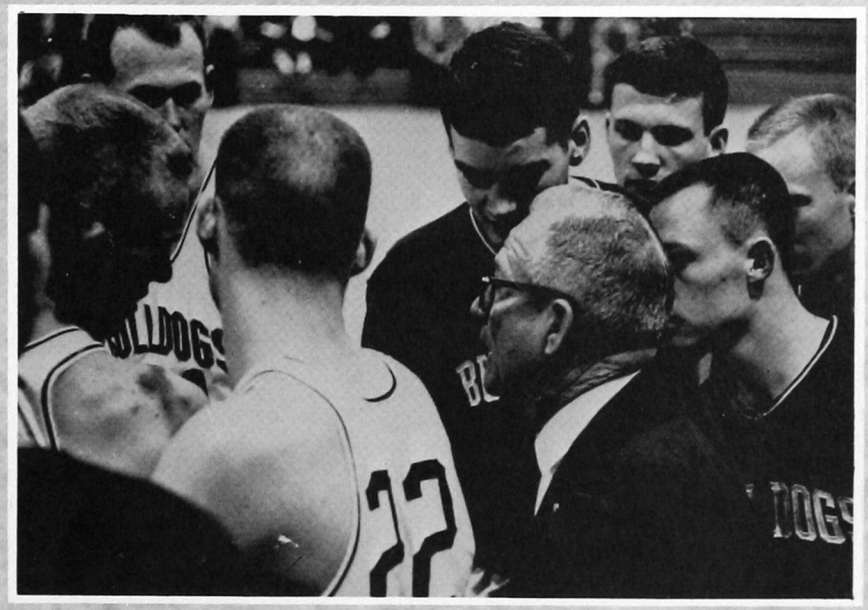
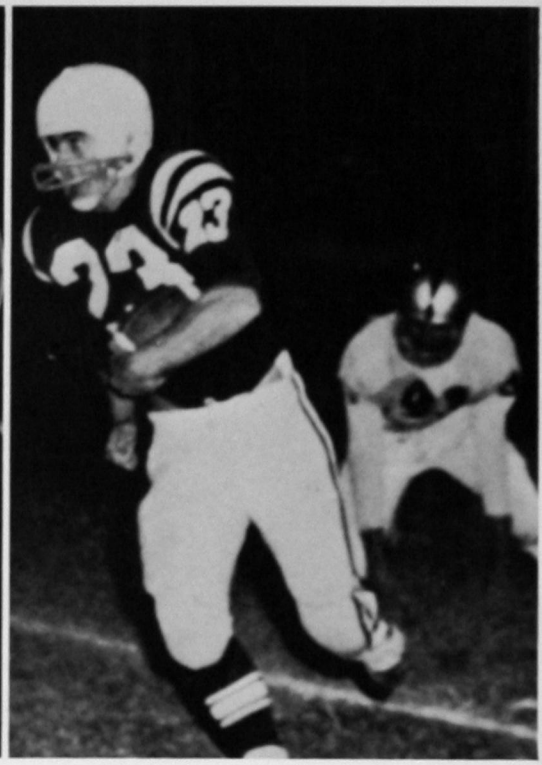
Athletics





Head football coach J. W. Cole and fullback Alford Mitchell intently watch action on the field.



Defensive halfback Ron Polston makes a long punt return against Eastern New Mexico.

Football

It was a strange and often frustrating season for the Southwestern Bulldogs as their record of 3 won 7 lost hardly indicated the high caliber of game they played. Feared by every opponent they came within a bounce of the ball winning five they lost. Over the entire season, they made more first downs, gained more yardage and statistically outdid their opposition in nearly every phase of the game.

Gary Abercrombie was a coaches' unanimous choice as defensive halfback for the all-conference team. Bill Barker became the first recipient of the Robert E. Luttrell Memorial Football Award, voted the honor by his team-mates.

A Great Season Finale for a Great Coach

So close . . . yet just a step away . . . the Southwestern Bulldog baseball team of 1964 almost gave Rankin Williams, retiring coach, a going-away present of a West Side title and a shot at his 30th collegiate conference championship in his favorite sport.

Phillips eked past the Bulldogs, 11-5 to 10-6 for the West Side championship. Late season injuries to shortstop Larry Powers, catcher Bob Vincent and the season-long handicap of catcher Bill Gravitt may have made the difference. A young pitching corps of the Newberry brothers, Junior Waller, Tip Farris, Mike Freeman and others came through in fine fashion and veterans like Phil Burden, Jim Suiter and Jackie Ingle wound up their collegiate competition in grand style.

This was a good, tough ball club that gave all it had against all the bad breaks that plague baseball teams. They didn't get Rankin his 30th championship but they ended a winning seasonwith pride and dignity.

No. 20 in one of its final appearances on a college baseball diamond. That's Rankin Williams at the Southwestern dugout before the start of a game at Alva.

End of a Great Tradition

When the Southwestern Bulldogs blasted seven home runs to earn a 16-11 victory over Texas Tech at Lubbock May 8, there was the same sound that belonged to an artillery salute to a great man.

This was Rankin Williams' last time to wear a Southwestern coach's uniform — the familiar No. 20 in the sport he loved best of all . . . baseball. And the Bulldogs gave him the best farewell of all, a terrific salvo of base hits.

Years will pass and Southwestern will grow but the campus will never be quite the same again with this man retired. As a student and coach his life covered the entire history of the institution. Forty-two of his 68 years had been dedicated to coaching every major and minor sport at one time or another and most of those years as athletic director.

Come September a great tradition will have passed and a great legend will begin . . . the legend of one man who gave so much for so long.

The campus won't be the same again . . . Mr. Southwestern has hung up his spikes.

Coach lends a word of encouragement to pitcher Gary Newberry.

Delta Beta Chapter Places Four in "Who's Who"

Alpha Xi Delta

Typical of the high achievement record of Delta Beta chapter of Alpha Xi Delta is that of 30 Southwestern State seniors included in the 1964 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," four are members of the sorority—Ellen Nelson, Glennda Shelton, Jane Tucker and Joyce Walton. Miss Nelson, an outstanding campus leader in social, professional and religious areas, was voted by the student body as Best Citizen.

The chapter president, Mrs. Shelton, a 4.0 student, was secretary of the Student Education Association, vice-president of the inter-Greek council and a member of Alpha Phi Sigma. Marion Johnson was secretary of Phi Beta Lambda and an officer of Alpha Phi Sigma.

Miss Nelson, a member of the student senate, had served as president of Stewart Hall and of Beta Beta Beta; Miss Tucker was president of the Women's Recreation Association, while Mrs. Walton's influence was felt in the school of pharmacy, where she was president of Kappa Epsilon and secretary of the student branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association.

Special events of the year included a Christmas tea for the faculty, a parents' day coffee and the traditional Rose Formal. The chapter presented gifts to the Weatherford nursing home as its philanthropic project of the year.

Chapter Maintains High Level of Achievement

Delta Zeta

Epsilon Lambda chapter of Delta Zeta, the first national sorority at Southwestern State College when it was chartered in 1939, continued during the past year to maintain its traditions of leadership and achievement. One of its outstanding members, Goldie Mae Ford, was chosen for Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. She was secretary of the Student Senate, secretary of the Student Education Association, both local and state, and won high honors in intercollegiate forensics.

High academically on the college honor rolls were Charlotte Musick, Carole Gipple, Candace Gipple, Linda Downen, Kaye Garrison, Karen Hardy and Miss Ford. Auda Marie Thomas was elected state president of Music Educators National Conference; Saundra Kay Woody followed Miss Ford as Senate secretary; Miss Musick was president of Lambda Mu and vice-president of Alpha Phi Sigma.

Nancy Totten represented Southwestern State in intercollegiate debate and was president of the inter-Greek council. In the fine arts field Doneta Harrel and the Gipple sisters were among popular entertainers as dancers. LaDenta Stevenson was the Young Republicans' Sweetheart.

Talented Delta Zeta, Doneta Harrel, with a fellow-member of the college student entertainers bureau.

Youngest Sorority Inherits Oldest Traditions

Sigma Kappa

This was the year that ended a 38-year-old accumulation of traditions for the Tri-J sorority as it became the Epsilon Gamma chapter of Sigma Kappa. Many of the old carried over as the organization and its individual members continued to make their contributions to campus life.

Mary Lynne Alley was elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. Darlene Heath was student director of "Pillow Talk" and technical director of "Twelfth Night." Joan Higgins and Judy Stevens were members of the student senate. Pat McDonald was a member of the newspaper staff and Suzy Falconer, Ann Awtrey, Carlene Baird, Linda Trentham and Wanda Woodmore were cheerleaders.

Miss Cabaniss was Homecoming Queen attendant; Miss Heath, secretary of the inter-Greek council. Wanda Woodmore was Pi Kappa Alpha Dream Girl and Roberta Williams, Best Pledge of 1964, was on the President's Honor Roll.

Campus Beauties included Jo Rinkle and Miss Stevens. On the activities council were Miss Alley, Miss Cabaniss, Miss Awtrey and Miss McDonald.

Major social events of the year included a Christmas party and dance and the traditional Sweetheart Dance in February. Philanthropies benefited the Maine Sea Coast Mission and the American Fram School in Greece, and locally with monthly projects for Weatherford nursing homes.

Historic Year for Oldest Campus Fraternity

Pi Kappa Alpha Colony

The year 1963 marked a big milestone for members of Southwestern State's oldest fraternity. Known as Beta Tau Beta since it was established in 1946, the organization became a colony of the national fraternity, Pi Kappa Alpha, in October, 1963.

PiKA's outstanding service achievement during the year was to become the first campus or community group to fulfill its pledge in blood bank donations to the Southwestern Memorial Hospital in Weatherford.

Member Hal Vorse, vice-president of the student senate and chairman of the activities council, was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities. He directed the 1963 College Follies.

Others who have earned individual honors include Loyd Russell and Arvin Short, Duke Awards as outstanding members of their classes; Newt Cornwell, vice-president of Kappa Psi pharmacy fraternity.

Other colony projects were the continuation of its annual Christmas party for underprivileged children of the community and publication of the 1963-64 college student directory. PiKA won the 1963 Follies trophy.

With 41 active members, the colony is anticipating receiving its charter in the fall of 1964. On a national basis, Pi Kappa Alpha, founded in 1868, has 130 chapters with more than 160,000 initiates since its founding.

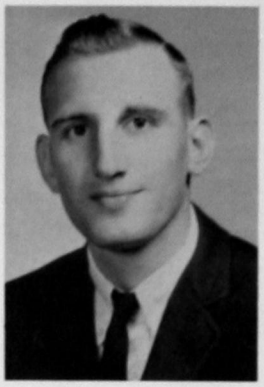
Members High in Campus Leadership

Sigma Tau Gamma



Delbert Schafer

Southwestern's Beta Phi chapter of Sigma Tau Gamma celebrated its best year in 1963-64. Its president, Delbert Schafer, was named to Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities along with members Glen Finley and James Gabehart. Finley was state Phi Beta Lambda president; Gabehart won national recognition as Mr. Future Teacher of America.

Fred Winters was vice-president of the student senate and chairman of the activities council; Allan Covalt was a nominee for the Stan Musial sportsmanship award. On college honor rolls were Don Ritter, Ron Kiehn, Gary Newberry, Max Banks, Ron Kenner, Don Trentham, Tom Johnson, Jerry Kinzer, Gary Smith and Schafer.

Major philanthropic project was again "Toys for Tots" at Christmas; Sigma Tau won their league championship in intramural basketball and were second in flag football.

Membership reached its highest level with 45 on the rolls.

Forty-Three Per Cent of Members on Dean's Honor Roll

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Epsilon Eta chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon is one of over 200 Teke chapters in the United States and Canada. Nationally TKE is one of the largest social fraternities in number of chapters and undergraduate members in the world. Locally, it is the oldest national fraternity at Southwestern State College and occupied the first fraternity house here.

The fraternity stresses scholarship, proved by 43 per cent of its members being on the Dean's Honor Roll during the past year.
