The world we live in is constantly changing. One noticeable change for Southwestern was from college to university on August 16, 1974.

The 1975 BULLDOG begins a new world for Southwestern Oklahoma State University — "The World We Live In." The world at Southwestern is not unlike the way of life at thousands of other colleges and universities the world over.

Everything done here prepares individuals to go forth in the world; a world that shouldn't be so different from what each person has learned to cope with in college.

The ideas and realities each student is exposed to in some way relate to the facts in that outside world. The events at Southwestern are representative of like events that take place all over the world we live in — students enjoying life, making the most of it, and getting the most out of what they do.

Every college year begins with enrollment, a usually dull procedure livened up by Dr. L. J. Van Horn wearing a gorilla suit. Of course, students still had to stand around, waiting to get into classes and were sometimes turned away with the sad message that a particular class was closed.

Some events cannot be made fun, no matter how hard a person tries. Long, hard hours of studying had to be endured to reach the end. But the end comes, and rows of chairs patiently await the lucky graduates of this year.

Students made the most of their time outside of class by participating in everything from streaking to sunbathing. Rain or shine, there was something to do at Southwestern — picnics, carnivals, and dances.

Many Southwestern students were only spectators watching others participate in activities such as plays, concerts and volleyball games.

Not all spare time could be spent for fun. A large percent of the student body held down part-time jobs involving work from pumping gas to selling cosmetics.

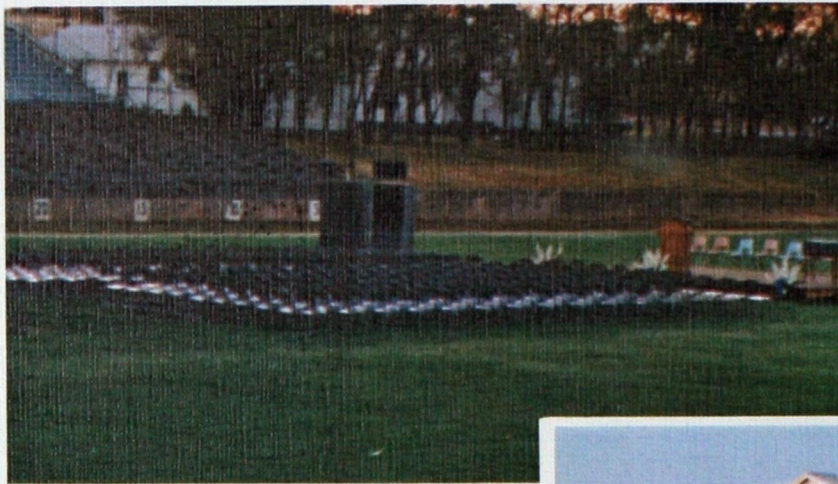

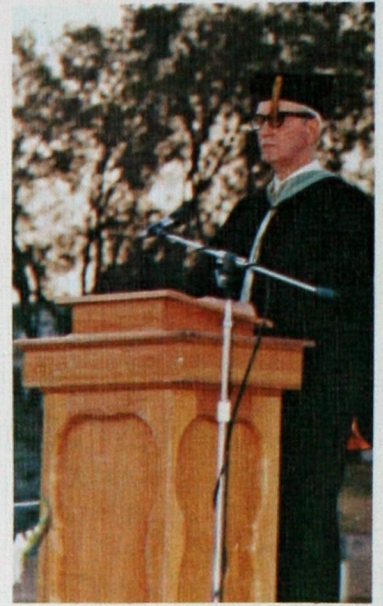

Not all time was spent leisurely. Classes took up a major portion of each student's time. Classes were met, come rain or shine. However, class was not a bad word to everyone. Some students enjoyed swimming, bicycling, bowling, and band.

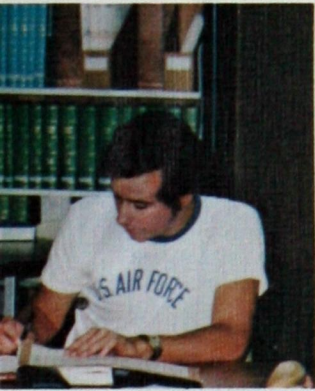

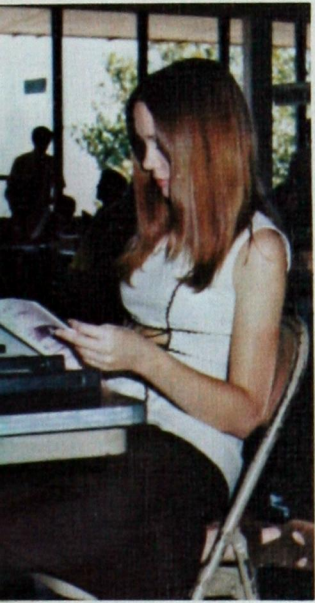

Many Southwestern students combined summer fun and physical education by enrolling in sailing and canoeing classes at Fort Cobb lake. Others went to Crowder Lake for their water sports, parties and sunburns.

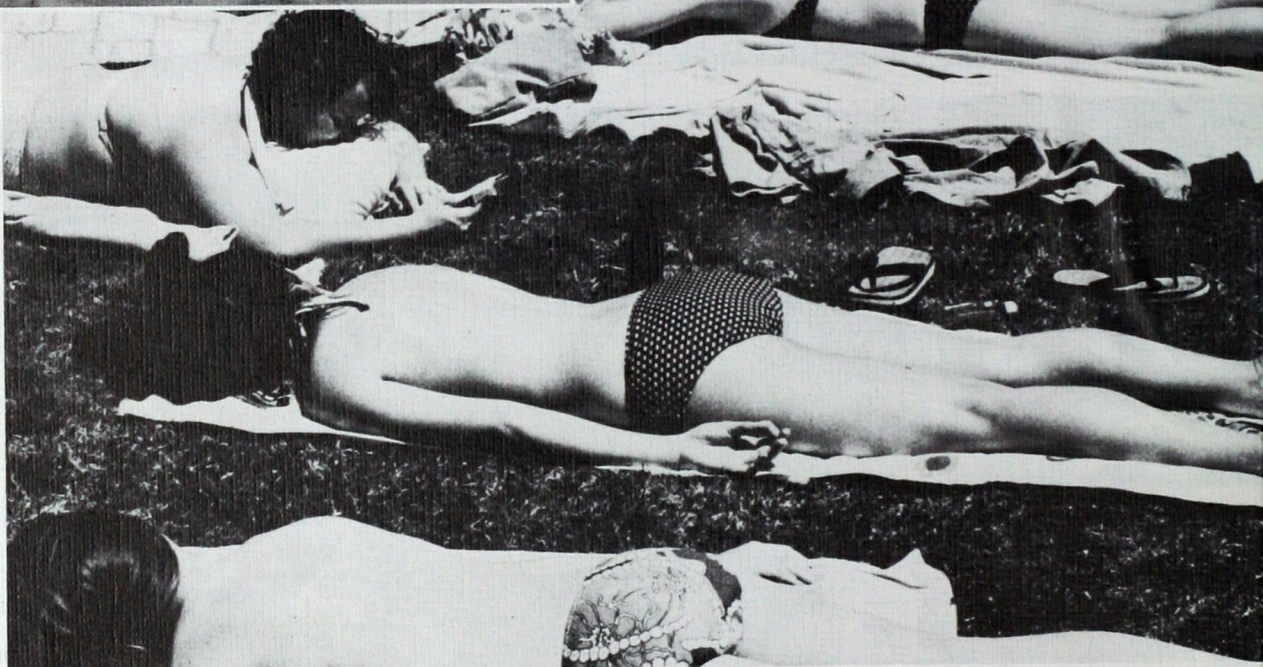

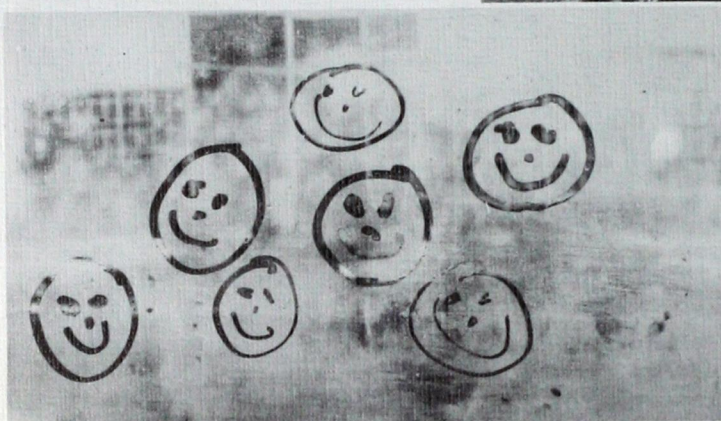

The red roses in the president's garden provided pretty floral scenery for some, while others thought the red of watermelon was much more appealing.

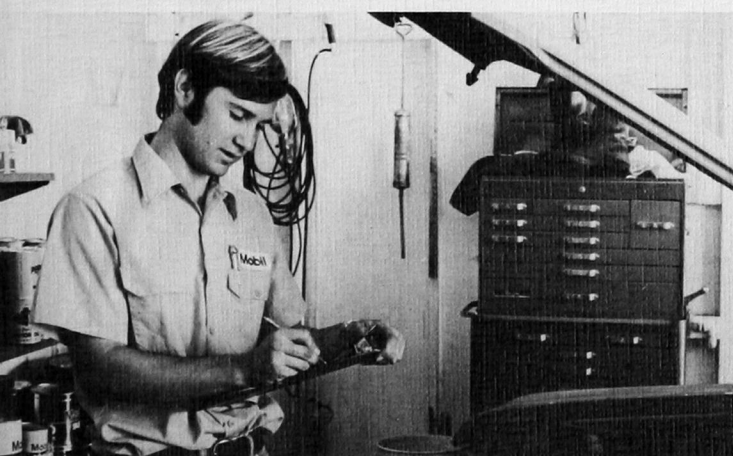

Homecoming 1974 was begun with the traditional crowning of the Homecoming Queen. This was followed the next morning with a parade in downtown Weatherford. Participants carried out the "Land of Oz" theme in their parade entries. In the afternoon, thousands of people watched the Bulldogs prove that practice pays off as the scoreboard displayed victory.

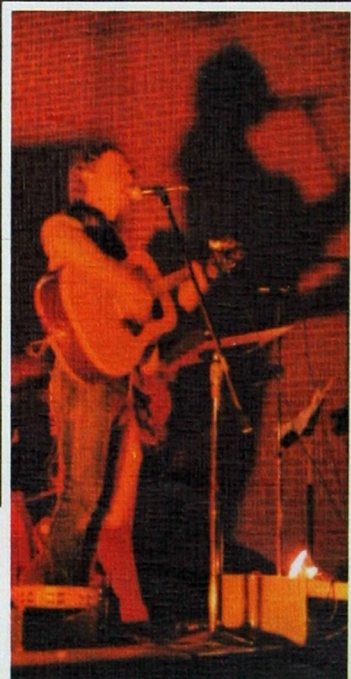

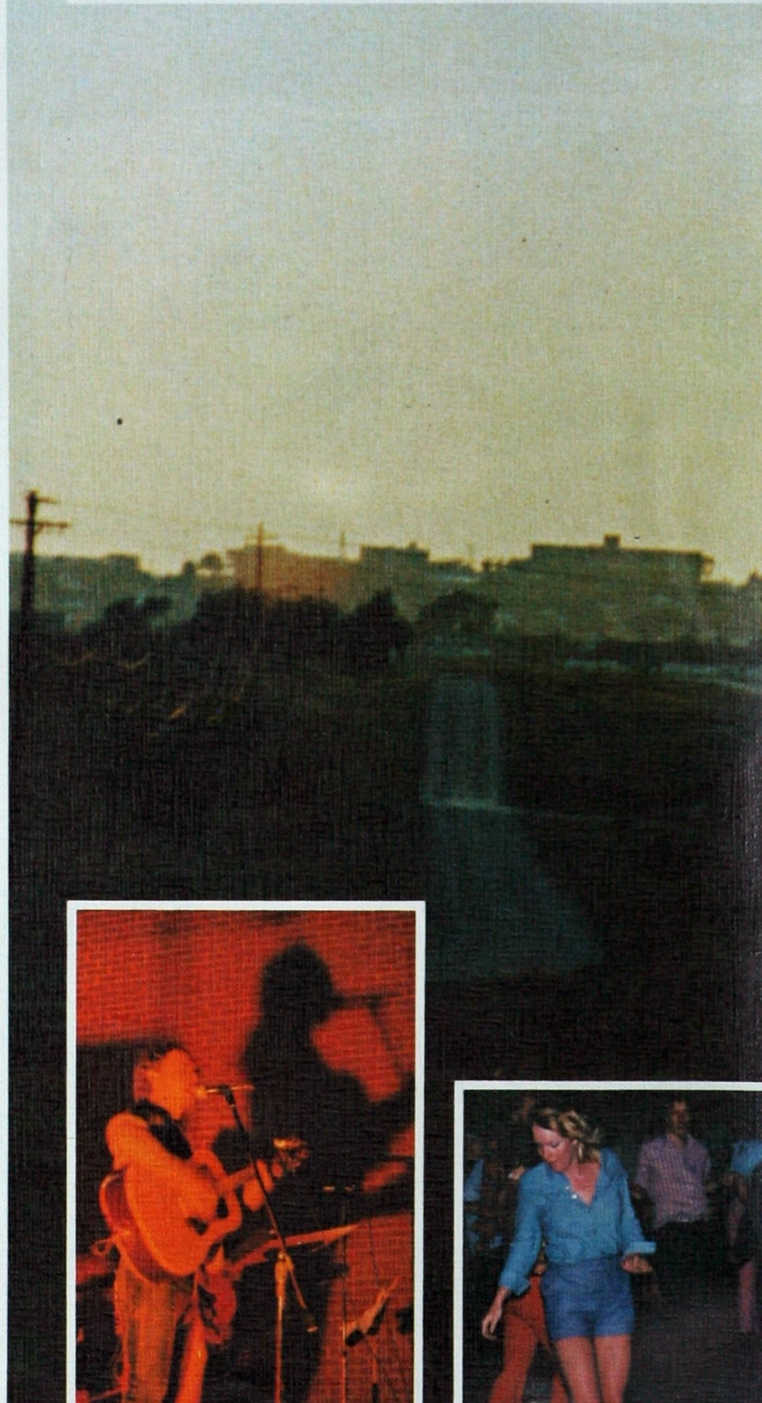

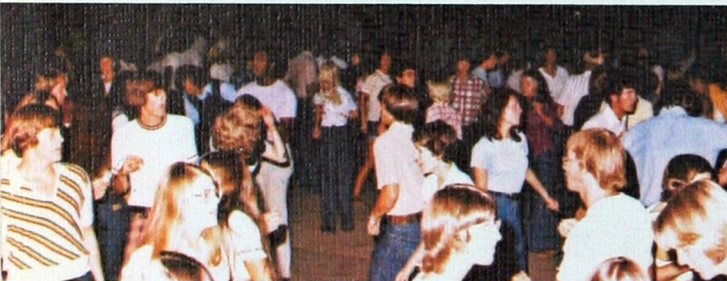

Nighttime signified an end — looking forward to the changes in the days ahead. We live in a constantly changing world. Individuals such as the students at Southwestern contribute small, but essential, parts to the whole . . . to the world we live in.

Organizations

Student Senate

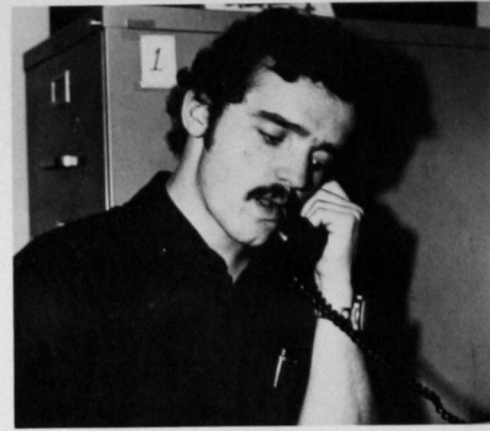

Getting students involved in campus activities was the major objective of the Student Senate this year.

During the fall, Senate sponsored a Student Blood Drive. Competition was held between dormitories, clubs, and organizations, with prizes and cash awards going to the group with the largest donation. Delegates were sent to the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Legislature to represent Southwestern November 20-24. Senate also voted to assist in the community fund drive, which sponsors summer programs, Red Cross, the Heart Fund, Boy Scouts and other Weatherford organizations.

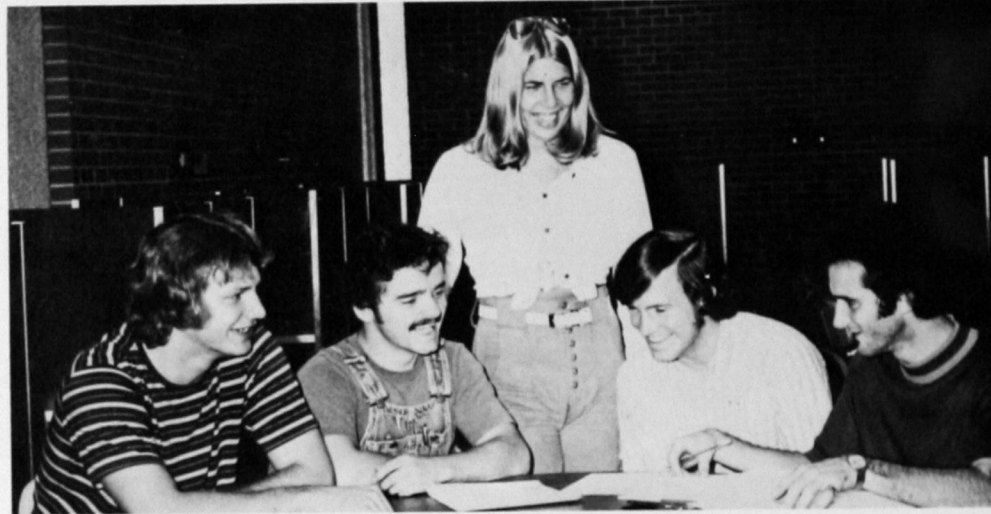

Another project was the Cultural Awareness Week. Its purpose was to make the student body and community more aware of the various cultures in this area. Demonstrations on culture, background, and beliefs, from past to present were given by the four participating groups — International, Afro-American, Indian, and Caucasian. Exhibits, art displays, dances, speakers, panel discussions, movies, and cultural dinners were some of the activities that made the Cultural Awareness Week a success.

The officers of the Student Association were Pat Cowan, president; Butch Williams, vice-president; Jacki Seirer, secretary; Ed Allen, treasurer; Kent Baker, executive secretary; Debbie Lawless, assistant executive secretary; Melody Troop, executive vice-president; Linda Moehrle and Robin Weatherly, public relations.

The Council set up opinion polls to see how students felt about certain campus-related issues, such as admission costs to big name entertainment, dance bands, and location of dormitory security police. Free movies such as Hospital and Bunny O'Hare were offered to the student body. The Council was also responsible for engaging bands, which included Escape and Pumpkin, featured at dances held after home football games. Other projects were the investigations of a possible campus radio station and new basketball and tennis courts.

It is sponsored by the Oklahoma Commission for United Ministries in Higher Education and the Methodist, Lutheran, and Federated Churches in Weatherford. It is ecumenical in ministry, supported by many different denominations to serve the diversity of the university community.

UCM seeks to serve all segments of the campus. It has designed programs of study, worship, fellowship, and services for Students, Faculty, and Administration. Activities include: Sunday School for college students, Sunday morning, from 9:30 to 10:30 AM; Study and Worship, Sunday night, from 7:00 to 8:30 PM; Tuesday Study Group for Faculty, 12:00 to 1:30 PM; Wednesday night fellowship, 6:30 PM; and Friday Faculty Lunch, 12:00 noon.

Campus pastor is Reverend George L. Miller. His time is devoted to UCM programs, counseling, and working alongside the local churches that support UCM.

The modern university is not immune to the troubles and strains of today's busy world. The United Campus Ministry is on campus to witness to the power and love of God in Jesus Christ, and to share the search for enlightenment that is truly human, truly divine. UCM believes that God is alive and well, and in our midst. Reverend Miller says, "Through UCM we hope to make His presence felt at Southwestern Oklahoma State University."

Both young and old responded enthusiastically to the eerie talents displayed by members. Other activities this year included traveling covered dish suppers held once a month for members and pledges to get acquainted and discuss mutual interests concerning theatre. Alpha Psi Omega members participated in money making projects such as variety shows, melodramas, and garage sales in order to finance the Teddy Awards Banquet, Southwestern's miniature Academy Awards Presentation. This banquet is held annually for all people who participate in Southwestern drama productions. Teddy Awards were presented at the banquet to those who excelled in theatrical work this year.

Lambda Tau

Lambda Tau, a national honor society of Medical Technologists, is experiencing its first year as an organization on the Southwestern campus. Last May the first officers and members were initiated into the Beta Alpha Chapter of Lambda Tau by Dr. Cluff Hopla, the National President.

Lambda Tau is composed of students who have chosen medical technology as a career. Its purpose is to inform these students what they must do to achieve the status of medical technologist and what they should expect from a career in this field. The campus chapter carried out this objective by taking field trips to various hospital labs throughout the state, viewing slide shows on related topics, listening to guest speakers, and participating in panel discussions at their monthly meetings.

A degree in medical technology can be achieved by three or four years of college work and one year of medical training as an intern in a hospital. The Beta Alpha Chapter of Lambda Tau is affiliated with fifteen hospitals located in Oklahoma and Arkansas, where most Southwestern students serve their internship. Dr.

Mesmer and Dr. Wolgomott, sponsors of the group, feel that Lambda Tau received a good start this year and fulfilled its purpose in providing new opportunities for med tech students.

During the fall the club enjoyed a watermelon feed, took a field trip to the Wichita Mountains wildlife preserve, planned a drug abuse program, heard Dr. Gary Hayes speak on the subject of cancer, and sent a group of representatives to the Oklahoma Academy of Science in Durant. Christmas was celebrated at a Biology Club Social held before the holiday break.

Spring activities included a field trip to the Planetarium in Oklahoma City and the annual Awards Banquet, at which past Biology Club officers were recognized. Students who qualified for Beta Beta Beta were honored, and outstanding biology student awards were given.

Dr. Gary Wolgomott assisted the group as faculty sponsor. Officers were Roger Umber, president; Cliff Acuff, vice-president; Susan Casteel, secretary; Eileen Wiegel, treasurer; and Charles Trobeck, historian.

Serving the interests of students in the area of chemistry, the club sponsored speakers from such places as the Noble Foundation and other industries where chemistry majors may find job opportunities. Chemistry graduate programs were also discussed by visiting professors from major universities. Also at their bimonthly meetings, members enjoyed films on chemistry and nature subjects. Field trips to such places as the FAA Center in Oklahoma City, OU and OSU Graduate Schools and various chemical plants were also a part of this year's activities.

The club also promoted recreational meetings this year, which included miniature golf, picnics and a pool tournament.

The Chemistry Club helps finance the John T. Cronin Scholarship Awards, which it gives to two outstanding chemistry students each year. It also sponsors the Outstanding Freshman Chemistry Student chosen each year.

Accounting Club

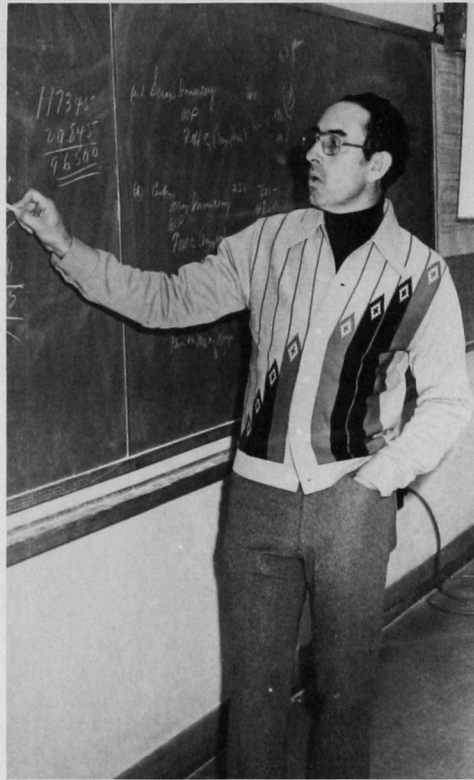

The Accounting Club began the year with their annual watermelon feed, which was a booming success. This event gave members an opportunity to meet new members and have a good time.

This year's fund raising project consisted of selling calendars. These attractive linen and felt pieces made excellent Christmas gifts and helped raise the amount of cash in the treasury.

A host of speakers from the accounting profession presented students with talks on many aspects of the accounting field.

Activities for the year included preparing a directory of prospective employers for use by accounting graduates. Also, a list of available speakers was compiled for use by various business clubs.

Money from that booth went to a scholarship fund to be used for tuition and/or art supplies.

Making students aware that art is a reality at Southwestern is the main purpose of the Guild.

Also, members of the organization visited museums in this and other states to study various forms of Art. Leroy Schultz and Jim Terrell were sponsors of the club, with Paul Davis serving as the President.

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia

The Tau Phi Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia on the Southwestern campus continued their tradition of serving musical organizations and individuals the past year.

Each year for the past five years, the local chapter has been awarded seven out of seven possible citations for achievement in promoting music in America, and is often considered the strongest chapter in its province.

This year, as always, Phi Mu Alpha ushered all musical recitals and supplied the man-power and accompanying musicians to make many junior high and high school choral festivals possible. Tau Phi continued its scholarship program with a scholarship to a freshman music major and with various money making projects to support this fund.

The forty-three active members of Tau Phi supplied the necessary people for Southwestern's Annual Day of Jazz, and hope to continue to financially, as well as physically, support several well-known musicians on the Southwestern Oklahoma State University campus.

"O" Club, the "Fraternity of Athlete," was established on the Southwestern campus over six decades ago. Surviving two name changes and hundreds of athletic seasons, club membership is limited to men who have lettered in a varsity sport.

Promotion of good fellowship and understanding among the athletes on campus is the purpose of "O" Club.

During the year, members helped with the blood bank, held a monthly meeting where they enjoyed a dinner, and sponsored an orphan at Christmas. Faculty sponsor is Coach Jerry Jobe.

They sponsored SWOSU "Career Day" in March, attended the Regional Convention in Monroe, La., Homecoming Ball, Spring Formal, Participation in National Pharmacy Week, National Convention in Georgia, and National American Pharmacy Association Convention in San Francisco.

All and all the 1974-75 school year was exciting, tremendously successful, and brought the brotherhood closer fraternally. That, in essence is what the fraternity is concerned with. They are looking forward to 1976 with anticipation as they expand Southwestern, and help to expand the nation.

Phi Delta Chi demands a standard of excellence of its members, and is constantly striving to advance the science of Pharmacy and the institution at which they prepare themselves for the future. Phi Delta Chi is on the move at SWOSU!

Phi Beta Lambda

Phi Beta Lambda is a professional business organization for the encouragement of interest in business and related fields. Throughout the year, this organization had speakers from the business world who helped the students get a feel of the real work-a-day world. The club sponsored Business and Professional Day where the business students had a chance to hear speakers in many different areas at one time, attending the interest sessions that pertained to their field.

PBL participants competed at State Leadership Conference and in past years have had first-place winners in Parliamentary Procedure, Mr. Future Business Teacher, Junior Secretary, and Business Administration. These first-place winners at the state level went on to compete at the National Convention where the chapter has been proud to have first-place winners and others in the top ten.

Other Phi Beta Lambda activities included the annual awards banquet, picnics, and Christmas parties.

Political Science Association

The Political Science Association of SWOSU is open to all students but represents primarily the principles and aspirations of the Political Science Department. It functions to stimulate and encourage interest in the local, state, and national political institutions.

The year began with excitement over the elections being held within the state and local governments. Several PSA members played important roles in campaigning both on and off campus. The PSA publication, The Broadside, contained many paid political announcements, and frequently contained informational articles for the students to assess.

The PSA also has two annual events that are widely appreciated. The United Nations Day program is newly sanctioned but was attended by several non-member students and faculty. It serves as an informational program to familiarize students with the purpose and actual functions of the UN, and includes international politics.

The yearly Law Day festivities have become as much at home at SWOSU as the Bulldog. It presents many distinguished speakers from various sources. The main topic of discussion is the law schools and their recommendations to those wishing to attend, along with a discussion and analysis of the present legal system.

Another purpose of the Martial Arts Club is to expand interest in the arts, not to instruct the students. Therefore, members are not required to participate in the actual activity.

Southwestern Wranglers

The Wranglers Club has as its primary purpose the promotion of Western Heritage on campus. Also, members serve the Rodeo Team and sponsor the annual College Rodeo.

A club similar to the present Wranglers was established at Southwestern in 1962, but dispersed. However, in 1967, it appeared on campus once more, and has been a growing, thriving organization ever since. Last year, it was one of the largest groups on campus.

Activities for the Wranglers this year included sponsoring a girl for Homecoming Queen, enjoying the annual spring picnic and banquet, and selecting a Rodeo Queen.

Tau Beta Sigma is a women's service sorority on campus. They serve the band, raising money for band trips, serving breakfast at rehearsals, and raising money for a music scholarship that is given to a deserving student.

Tau Beta Sigma members also sponsor occasional dances to give band members a rest from the constant rehearsals.

Meetings are held weekly for the organization, with Janet Wernly presiding over them as president this year.

Other officers included: Jeanine Miller, First

Vice-President; Pam Cole, Second Vice-President; Helen Huesel, Recording Secretary; Janice Wernli, Corresponding Secretary; Donna Cheatham, Treasurer; Debbie Clingman, Historian; Sharla Duncan, Assistant Pledge Trainer.

Women's Recreational Association

The Women's Recreation Association consists of a large group of women who are interested in physical fitness and who enjoy diversified sports activities. The purpose of WRA is to promote a higher physical efficiency among the women of Southwestern. Also, WRA membership helps students to get acquainted with more students on campus.

Intramural sports range from table tennis to tennis, and extramural sports range from basketball to field hockey.

One of the biggest assets of WRA is that one does not have to be a polished athlete to participate.

Activities of the group include OAPFCW campout at Arrowhead State Park, the Christmas Party, and a spring picnic.

Panhellenic Council

The Panhellenic Council of Southwestern Oklahoma State University is the governing body of the three Greek sororities on campus — Alpha Gamma Delta, Gamma Phi Beta, and Sigma Kappa. It consists of members of each sorority, with officers being rotated among the groups each year. In addition to serving as the regulatory board of rush activities, Panhellenic also aids in the planning and preparation of homecoming activities.

Social activities sponsored by the 1974 Council included a picnic and a Halloween dance. Assisting Linda Hamilton in her presidential duties were Dean Freda Johnson, sponsor, and Lynn McWilliams, secretary-treasurer.

Interfraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council works to provide Greek service to the campus and community.

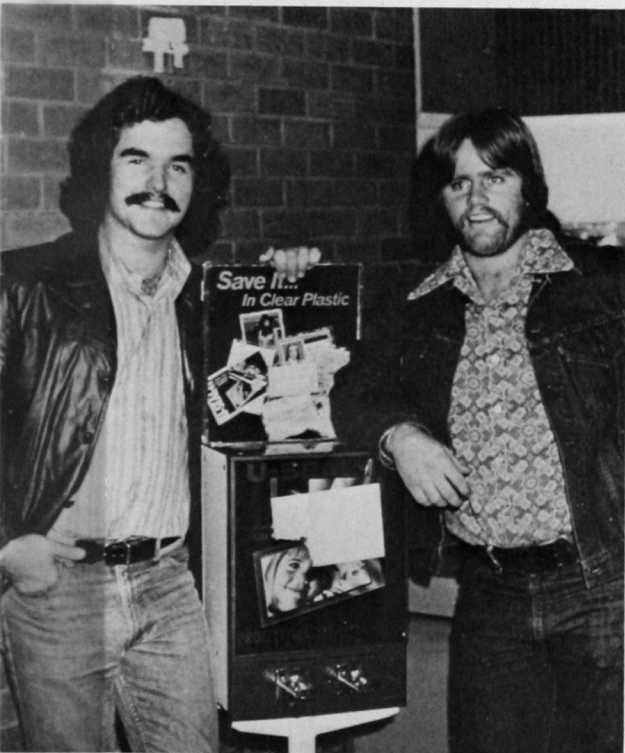

Formed approximately ten years ago, the Council upholds rules and regulations that pertain to Southwestern Greek students. Each of the four fraternities on campus — Phi Delta Theta, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Tau Gamma, and Tau Kappa Epsilon — selects representatives from their respective organizations to speak for them.

The past year, a special leadership group was formed with the Panhellenic Council. Initial goals of the group included the formation of better relationships between Greek men and women and the continuation of Greek Week. Representatives from the Council also attended the Midwestern Interfraternity Council Association Convention in Kansas City. Leading this group was President Mark Mattison, with the assistance of Jim Johnston, secretary.

In the future, IFC members plan to revise the constitution and by-laws and to form an InterGreek Alumni organization.

Pi Kappa Alpha

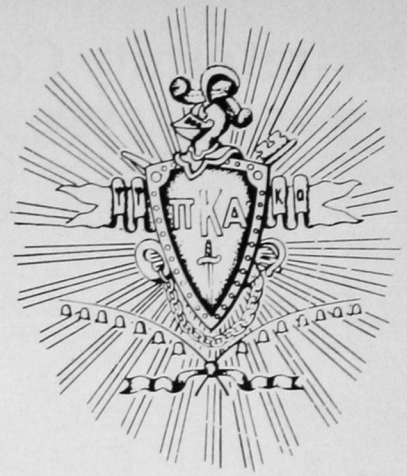

Pi Kappa Alpha has made great strides in improving its chapter. With plans underway for the purchase of a new house, the outlook for Pike's in the future is bright.

Chapter members form an important part of the university enrollment. Two seniors — Mike Jordan and Craig Puckett — were selected as outstanding seniors and were named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

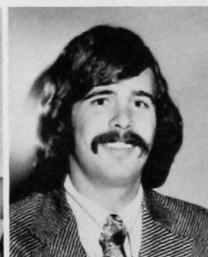

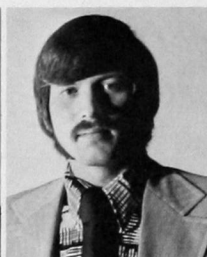

The fraternity sponsored an intramural football team and three intramural basketball teams. 1974 officers were: Craig Puckett, president; Tom Slaughter, vice-president; Kent Avery, secretary; Jerry Grizzle, treasurer; and Scott Caffey, pledge trainer. Janet Slaughter was selected as chapter sweetheart, and Dr. Albert Gabriel served as faculty advisor.

The chapter was assisted in its activities by its auxiliary organization, Sisters of the Shield and Diamond.

Sigma Tau Gamma

The Beta Phi Chapter of Sigma Tau Gamma was founded in 1962 on the Southwestern State campus. Since its formation, the fraternity members have sought to build binding and long-lasting friendships among their group. Each pledge initiated into membership has been done so to offer each individual a chance to grow within the group.

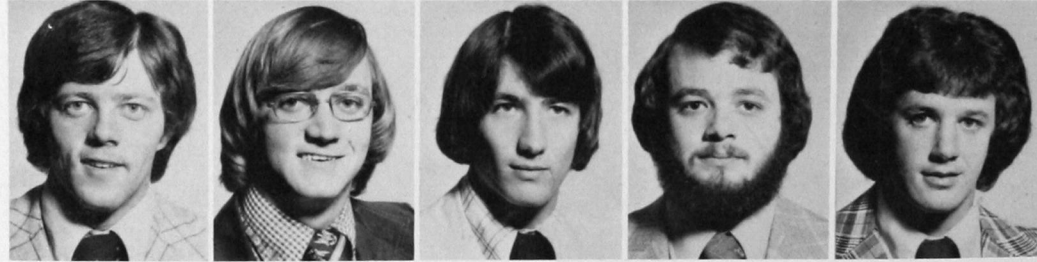

Sigma Tau Gamma took an active part in the social functions of the university, including the intramural competition program. The highlight of the spring semester was the White Rose Weekend, at which time the White Rose Queen was chosen. Selected to represent the fraternity for the past year was Gayle Burrows. Other social activities included a ski trip and a softball tournament.

Sigma Kappa

On November 9, 1974, the national organization of Sigma Kappa celebrated its 100th anniversary. The local Epsilon Gamma Chapter observed the national celebration in its annual activities.

Service to others is Sigma Kappa's main theme for existence. The sorority visited the Weatherford Nursing Center many times during the past year. Another community project was helping collect contributions for the Weatherford Community Fund. Hard work by the twenty-four members netted $1,500 for the city.

In addition to its local work, Sigma Kappa helped with the State Meet of the Special Olympics for the Mentally Retarded and Physically Handicapped.

A long-time dream was fulfilled last summer when the sorority moved into a house near the SWOSU campus. Renovations were started on the house, with new rushees assisting in the planning and work.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Fine rush results for the fall semester insured the continuance of the fine traditions of Tau Kappa Epsilon, Southwestern's oldest fraternal organization. Penny Propp, Canton freshman, was chosen as chapter sweetheart. Officers for this year were Mark McAlister, president; Jim Johnston, vice-president, Steve Holloway, secretary; Johnny Beech, treasurer; Joe Wittrock, historian; and David Reid, pledge trainer.

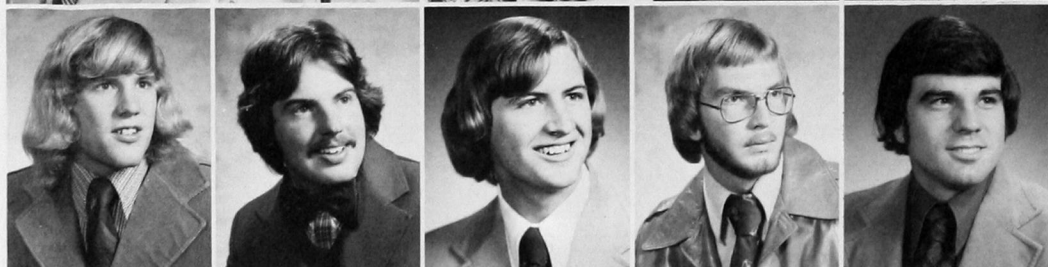

The TEKE's participated in the United Fund Drive as a community service project with the assistance of their sweetheart organization, The Order of Diana. And the TEKE's could always be seen in their customary spot on the 35-yard line ringing their bell, urging the Bulldogs on to victory. The chapter was active in intramural sports competition with all fraters participating.

The social calendar began with the homecoming celebration and a welcome to all alumni, followed by the annual Christmas party and a trip to Mexico. The formal Red Carnation Ball and Shipwreck were the final social events of the year. All awards banquet was held shortly before the end of school, honoring outstanding TEKE's. Tau Kappa Epsilon is looking forward to even greater things next year.

Gamma Phi Beta

This year marked the 100th anniversary of the founding of the national Gamma Phi Beta sorority. In conjunction with the national celebration, Cynthia Butler, president of the local Delta Zeta Chapter attended the national convention in Kansas City.

Assisting Miss Butler in her executive duties were Lynn McWilliams, vice-president; Debbie Bose, secretary; Marsha Caldwell, treasurer; Debbie Stroud, rush chairman; and Steffanie Curren, pledge director. This group of girls led the sorority in sponsoring camps for underprivileged children in Colorado and Canada.

In addition to its charitable work, Gamma Phi Beta also participated in many social activities. It sponsored the annual "Girl of the Year" Pageant and took part in the All-School Follies. Cynthia Butler was the 1974 Follies Queen, and Jan Burkhalter was the 1974 Miss Southwestern. Seven sorority members were active in the Student Senate.

Phi Delta Theta

In a year packed full with drives and social activities, Phi Delta Theta gained national recognition as one of the top chapters in the nation. The Silver Star Award was presented to the Southwestern chapter at the National Convention in Miami, Florida. This honor is the second highest award given by the national Phi Delta Theta organization.

Along with the national recognition, Phi Delta Theta received the President's Trophy for being the outstanding Greek organization on campus. This was awarded on the basis of a point system which emphasized active participation in campus activities.

Community projects were high on the list of fraternity priorities, with blood drives and the Community Fund occupying much of the members' time.

Chapter members were an important part of the campus community. John Trussell and Steve Wilson were named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities for 1974-1975. Trussell also received the Walter B. Palmer Scholarship, one of fourteen given by the Phi Delta Theta national organization. Duke Award winners, class officers, and student senators completed the list of honors held.

Ray Lees, fall semester president, led the fraternity in its rushing activities, which gained the group eleven new members. These initiates were assisted by pledge trainers Scott Emel, Ed Allen, Jim Neighbors, and Steve Wilson.

Alpha Gamma Delta

The newest Greek organization on the Southwestern campus is the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. Chartered on February 6, 1974, the local chapter was started by thirteen campus coeds. Since its formation, the organization has grown rapidly and now has twenty-seven active members listed on its roll.

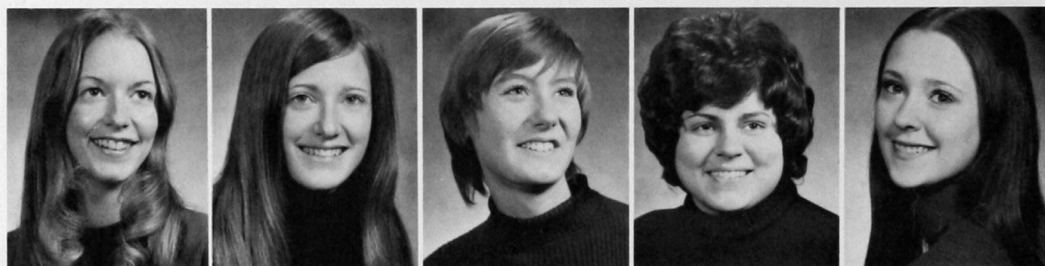

Altruism is a primary goal of the sorority. For example, it helped many groups of underprivileged and handicapped children and spent long hours working in the Weatherford Learning Center and the Bethany Children's Convalescent Home. Other projects were assisting the City of Weatherford in its Community Fund Drive and selling raffle tickets for the local Chamber of Commerce.

Scholarship and friendship are strongly emphasized, with each girl striving to improve as an individual and as a member of the group.

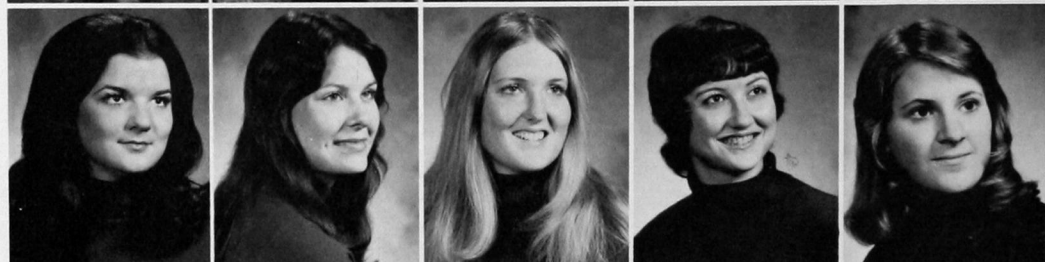

Leading the sorority in its first full year were: Linda Hamilton, president; Joleah Harris, 1st vice-president; Mary Chesner, 2nd vice-president; Becky Brown, recording secretary, and Jean Hall, treasurer.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega National Service Fraternity is new on campus. It was organized at Southwestern in the fall of 1973, and boasts the distinction of being the world's largest service fraternity.

Included in Alpha Omega members' activities are class registration, helping with freshman orientation, and manning the voting booth.

The fraternity urges its members to take advantage of the many opportunities for personal development. Their motto is: Be A Friend — Be A Leader — Be Of Service.

1974-75 Officers were: Glen Bengé, president; Bary Moynihan, vice-president; Jimmy Hatley, secretary-treasurer; Gary Gaunt, pledge master; James Shaw, assistant pledge master. Sponsoring the group were Wayne Parker, Robert Brooke, and Keith Reichmann.

Gamma Delta Kappa, women's honor sorority at Southwestern, is one of the oldest established clubs on campus. It is also the largest organization for women on campus. To gain membership, women must attain a 3.0 or better grade point.

Sponsors for Gamma Delta Kappa this year were Mrs. Lois Fisher and Bonita McCoy.

New officers were: President, Macy Sanders; Vice-President, Pat Burnett; Secretary, Diane Foster; Treasurer, Maryl Thomas; Historian, Dana Phelps; Publicity, Paula Geisinger, Michelle Klaassen, Kathy Brown.

The Democrat-Republican rivalry is not absent from the Southwestern campus by any means. Young Democrats and Collegiate Republicans are constantly sponsoring activities to promote their parties.

Included in the Young Democrat's activities this year were campaign efforts for local and state candidates for office, Democrats of course, sponsoring a float for the Homecoming parade, and luring political figures to the campus, one of whom was Governor David Boren.

The Young Republicans sponsored the Bellmon-Baker speech, chartered a bus to President Ford's speech, campaigned for all county and state Republican candidates for office, which included campus coordinating, and opened and manned the local Bellmon Headquarters.

Both groups are among the most active on campus, and keep the Donkey-Elephant competition very much alive!

Dr. Al Harris, SWOSU President, ends his fourteen-year career as President this year, and states that so many exciting incidents have occurred that he couldn't possibly point to one that stands out most in his mind.

Harris was reared in Jackson county, just outside of Altus. He completed his undergraduate work at Southwestern, and his graduate work was done at George Peabody's College for Teachers and Oklahoma State University.

His wife, Joe de Bob, is a native of Weatherford, and they have one daughter, Ruth, who resides in Tulsa.

The President's secretary, Sarah VanHorn, has served in Dr. Harris's office since 1961.

President Harris enjoys things such as smoking his pipe, walking and reading. He looks forward to many years of health and happiness during retirement, and says he is "hoping each day will produce good enough results that new opportunities will present themselves tomorrow."

Services

Mark Mouse, director of placement, provides service for all seniors and alumni through the Placement Office. Confidential credentials are prepared and made available only to prospective employers. Placement information and literature of various job opportunities are always available in the Placement Office to all students and graduates of Southwestern.

An office that is an aid to a college student his entire college career is the office of the registrar. Harrel Kennedy and his assistants help guide the student with his future at college. Records and transcripts are all a part of the many duties which the registrar performs.

For many of us, the office of Student Aids is one of the first places we come in contact with when entering college. Here is where academic scholarships and the various loan and grant programs are administered. Dr. Warren Wilson coordinates student employment, including the work study program.

The Vocational Rehabilitation area office is supervised by Robert Decker with the on-campus office being maintained by Jay Jones and Ed Hatchell. The main purpose of vocational rehabilitation is to make sure that handicapped students receive the best possible education. Also, the office helps these students when the time comes to seek employment. Reba Bagwell and Nancy McGavock serve as secretaries in this office.

Services

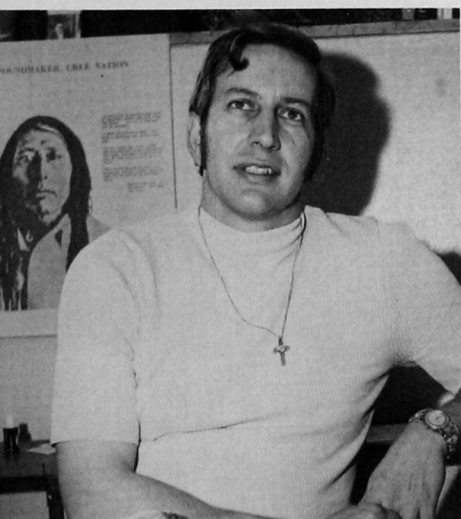

Upward Bound, an organization whose primary objective is to assist those individuals who are striving to help themselves has been on campus since the summer of 1966. New and exciting projects are introduced regularly by this organization, and prove instrumental in giving students experience in possible future careers.

J. R. Cook, his assistant, Mrs. Kathryn DeFord and the staff have made the organization one of the fastest growing on campus.

Many of us have become aware of Southwestern through the visits of Dr. Sill, director of Public Service, to our high schools. Dr. Sill represents the university in speaking assignments for educational organizations, service and civic clubs, and related groups. He assists in arranging for additional speakers and other programs from the university.

Another department that helps get SWOSU in front of the public is the Public Relations office. Director, Jack Shelton, supervises campus publications, and is responsible for all newspaper, television, and radio publicity concerning SWOSU. The department also links the university with its alumni and former students through periodic publications.

The Business office is one of the most frequently visited offices on campus. It's here that payroll checks are issued, student fees are collected, bills are paid, and numerous other activities take place. Mr. Camden, Business Manager, his assistant, John Hays, and staff are always available to the student.

Campus Centers

The Memorial Student Center has as its goal making a home away from home for Southwestern students. The union can accommodate parties, dances, and other diversified functions as the occasions arise. Mr. Virgil Downing remained this past year as manager of the facility.

Robert Brooke, manager of the snack bar, and Minnie Smith, director of food services, also work to make the center a more pleasant place to "hang out."

While the union provides a great place away from school work, the library provides the ideal surrounding for cracking the books. The present library facility was erected in 1968, and has numerous modern features. The lounge areas make studying a little less tedious, and the typing room for student use is quite convenient. Boasting a selection of 200,000 hardbound books, the Southwestern Library is indeed worthy of praise.

Headed by Library Director Shelia Hoke, the individualized learning center can mean the difference between a dropout and a successful student.

Dorm Parents

Riding herd on close to 1500 rambunctious students takes lots of time and patience, and the current dorm parents will certainly attest to that fact.

Maintaining a certain amount of discipline, as well as providing good times are the primary functions of dorm parents. They sponsor dances, parties, and Christmas programs, and their youthful vitality makes for many fun-filled hours.

On the serious side, dorm parents are often called to cheer the coed whose heart has been broken, or reassure the young man full of doubts.

Art Department

Richard Taflinger, Chairman

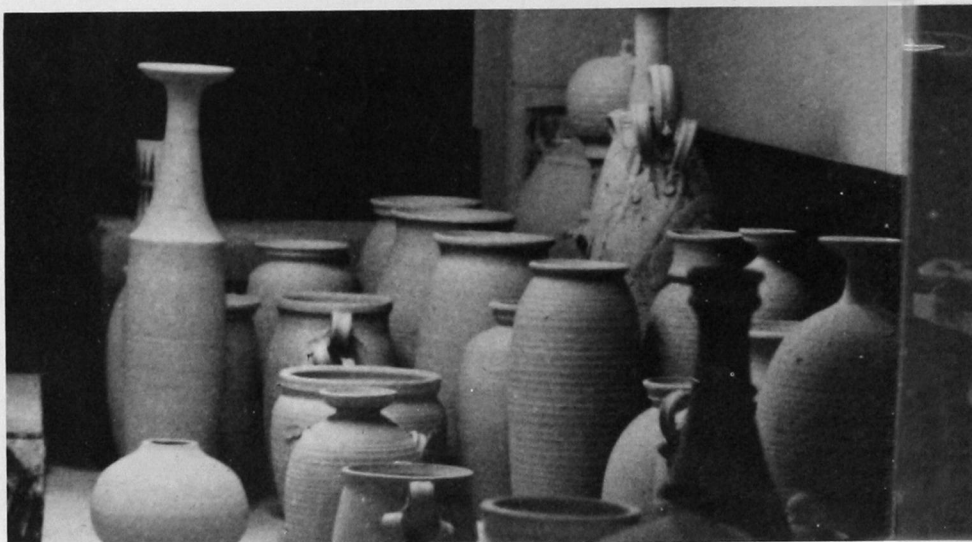

One of the older departments on Southwestern's campus is the Art Department. As head of the department, Richard Taflinger helps to encourage students in the advancement of all phases of art. The department includes facilities for classes in ceramics, graphics, sculpture, and painting.

The Commercial Art program is patterned after realistic situations and problems. Mr. Carley, commercial art instructor has had 13 years of experience in commercial art dealing a great deal with advertising, marketing, and business.

The department is increasing the Art History and is working to get Art History as a degree on SWOSU's campus.

Several one-man shows were done by faculty members in 1973 all over the state. Those were: Mr. Taflinger, Mr. Calvert, Mr. Hoke, Mr. Schultz. Also, one-man shows are done by students such as Ron Morris in the College Library.

Kappa Pi, an international art fraternity, promotes interest and recognizes potential professional ability among students. Also it exhibits the work of students.

Biological Sciences

Today, over 1,000,000 men and women are engaged in one or another aspect of biology in America. There are over four or five thousand new job openings each year.

Although Southwestern's Biology Department has had a few minor setbacks such as a fire and flooding in the Old Science Building, it is doing its part to train men and women in the field to fill the need.

Basic courses in Botany, Environmental Sciences, Allied Health Services, Microbiology, and Zoology are offered. Majors can be obtained in such areas as, Biological Sciences, Teachers Education, and Medical Technology.

Chairman of the department is Dr. James Lovell. There are fifteen faculty members, all well-trained biologists and educators, who emphasize undergraduate education. Every laboratory is taught by a full-time faculty member with student assistants.

Dr. G. Wolgamott was honored by being a member of the biomedical team for the Apollo Sky Lab program.

Two societies, Beta Beta Beta and Mu Rho Alpha are sponsored by the department.

Business

Graduates of Southwestern's Business department are everywhere in the United States, holding both public and private offices.

Accounting, Economics, Marketing and Teacher's Education, are just a few fields offered. The department also provides a short course of forty semester hours in secretarial training and general business.

The annual Business and Professional Day was held November 21 this year with speakers at all sessions. Interest sessions were accounting, marketing, management, office administrations and business education.

Several clubs stem out of this department — Phi Beta Lambda, Accounting Club, Secretarial Club, Marketing Club and Management Club.

Dr. W. Ward is chairman of the department.

Phi Beta Lambda small business helpers.

Dr. W. Ward, department head.

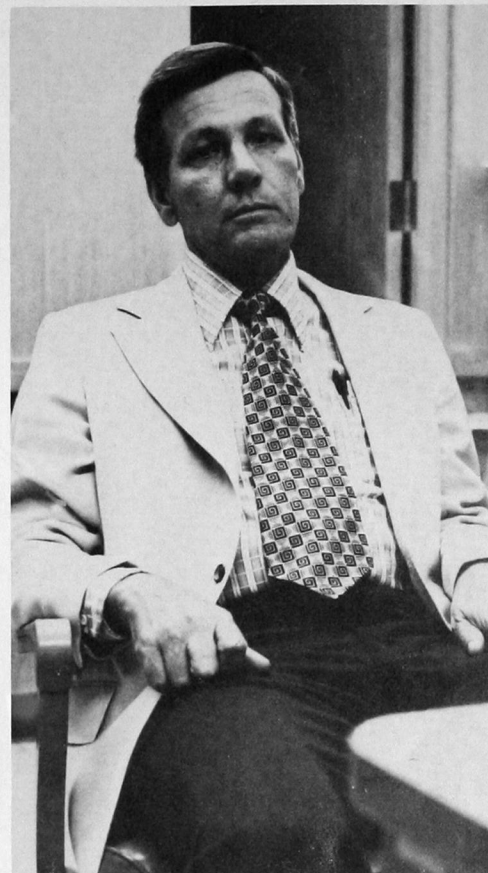

Chemistry

The Chemistry department at Southwestern is a vital part of the college. Mainly a service department, courses interrelate with several other departments. Home economics, nursing, pre-med, archeology, sales, and library science are just a few. Three degrees are offered, a Bachelor of Arts and two different Bachelor of Sciences. The Professional program is approved by the American Chemical Society.

Last year more chemistry degrees were given at Southwestern than any other college in the state.

Dr. Donald Hamm has been chairman of the department since 1970.

Dr. Donald Hamm, department head.

General Education

As a result of recommendations submitted by a General Education Study Committee of the Faculty Senate, a General Education Standing Committee was authorized effective August 20, 1974. Members of each department were selected to make up the committee.

The committee is charged with a continuing study, evaluation and upgrading of Southwestern's General Education Program.

Serving with Department Head status, is the Director of the General Education Program, Dr. James D. Sill, who also acts as chairman of the committee. In addition to those faculty members teaching primarily in General Education, are Mr. Leon Dennis, Dr. John Abel, Mrs. B. Fiegel, and Mrs. Jan Lovell.

One of the aims of General Education is to introduce students to subjects other than their primary fields of interest. All degree-seeking students must complete 32 hours of General Education and 15 hours of electives.

Not only does the department set basic standards, it also helps set departmental requirements.

Reimer, mathematics; Miss Gloria Ardueser, pharmacy; Cheryl Golightly, secretary; Dr. Virginia Dick, home economics; and Dr. B. Ballard, biological sciences. Standing: Dr. R. Egerton, business; Dr. M. Fiegel, social sciences; Dr. Harold Budde, teacher education and psychology; Dr. G. Armoudian, physics; Mr. Denny Carley, art; Dr. Donald Hamm, chemistry; and Dr. Don Mitchell, industrial education.

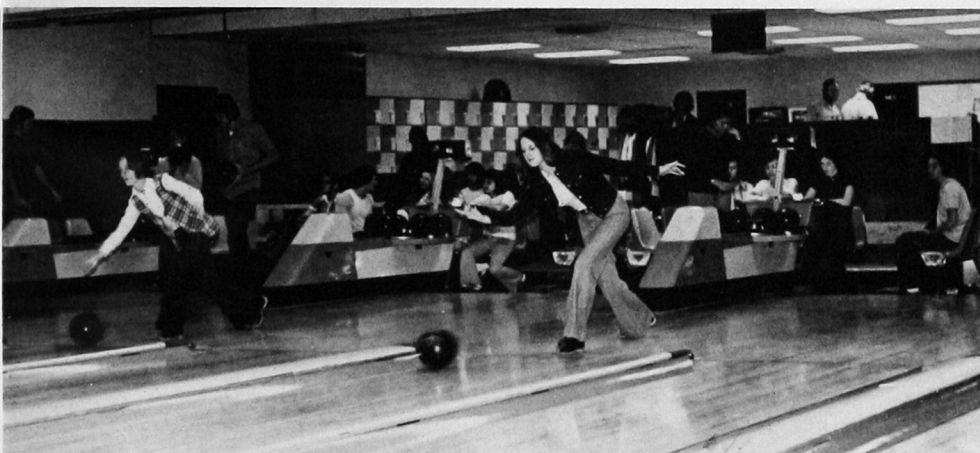

Health, Physical Education and Recreation

The principal objective of the Physical Education Department is to promote good health and physical fitness. The department attempts to prepare teachers in physical education through courses offered for those who plan primarily to do athletic coaching, teach physical education or direct health work in schools.

Under the watchful eye of Dr. L. J. Van Horn, the physical education department is moving right along. The Physical Education Building received some improvements, new lights and air-conditioning in the front office and acoustical tile blocks for the gym.

About seventy-five students signed up for a ski trip to Santa Fe, New Mexico over Christmas break, receiving two hours credit. Santa Fe students came down over spring break for a course in sailing and canoeing. Students participated in such intermural sports as football, basketball, volleyball, and field hockey.

Home Economics

Southwestern's Home Economic department received an honor this year by being the first small college to be accredited by the American Home Economics Association.

The department, under the direction of Mrs. Helen Brown, took on a new look with new drapes, carpet and furniture. The department is equipped with such conveniences as an electronic oven, sewing machines, dishwashers and laundry appliances.

Graduates can go into education, extension home economics, home services, advisors for utility companies, welfare agencies and child development, a new program.

Right: Mrs. Helen Brown.

Industrial Education

The objectives of the Industrial Education Department are to train students to teach in public schools, to provide job-related training for students pursuing careers in selected industrial fields, to provide instruction in the use of tools and processes, and to train teachers in career awareness activities in elementary teaching.

With a degree in Industrial Education, one can go into several fields — junior or senior high teaching, physical therapy, teaching in hospitals, engineering, and drafting are just a few.

The department at Southwestern offers Bachelor of Science degrees in Liberal Arts and Teachers Education; a Major-Minor degree, and Masters in Teacher Education.

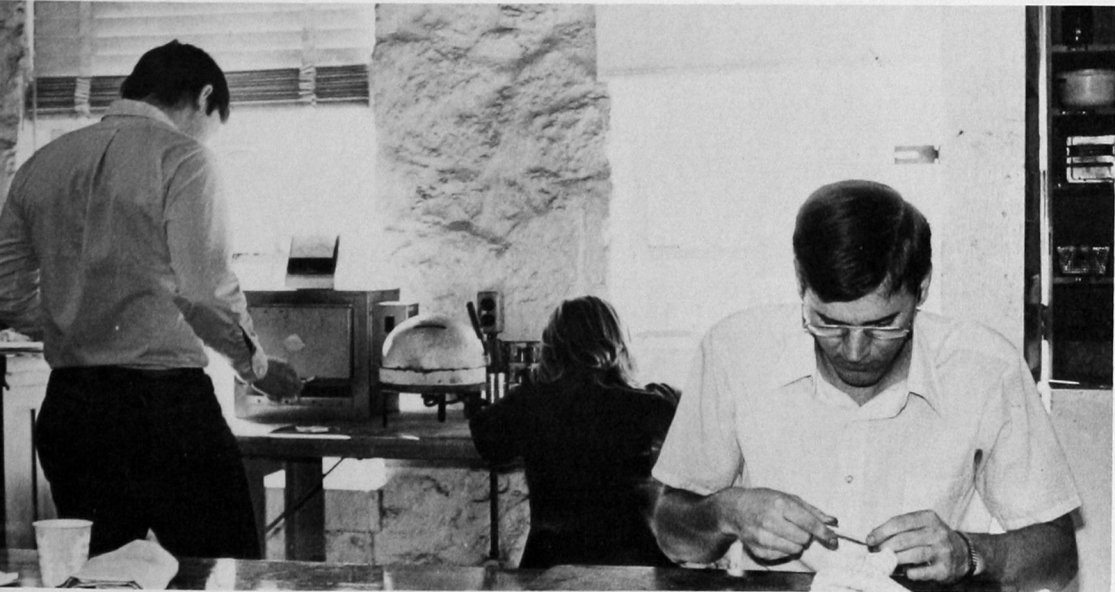

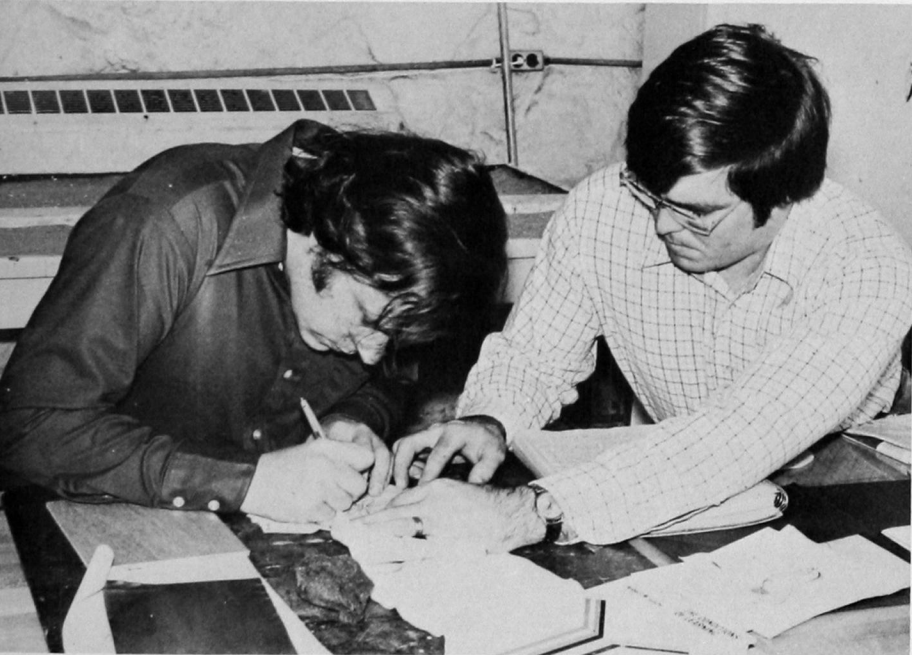

Dr. James Griffin is head of the department with six staff members under him.

Two faculty members and three students were given high recognition in two state organizations. Dr. Don Mitchell was elected president of the Oklahoma Industrial Arts Association, and Dr. James Griffin was elected to the board of directors. The Industrial Arts College Clubs named Wade Walling president, Jay Rutherford secretary, and Roger Stacy sergeant-at-arms.

Language Arts

The Division of Language Arts is divided into four sections: speech, journalism, foreign languages, and English. The department underwent some changes this year; English Usage became a five-hour course, classes over the study of Shakespeare were changed in format, and the surveys of English and American Literature were eliminated. French was removed from the curriculum and a new class, Introduction to Film, was added.

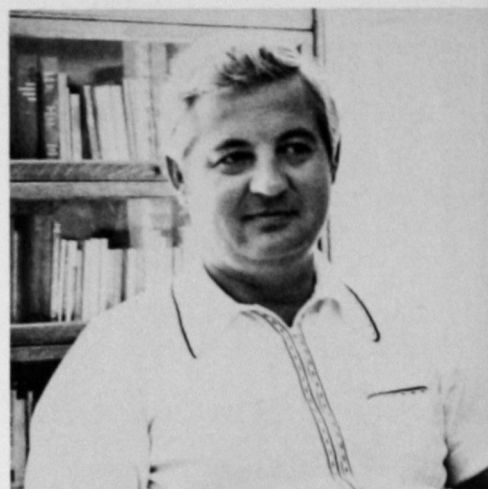

Students can receive a Bachelor of Arts in education with emphasis in a division field, or a Bachelor of Arts in English, Speech-drama, and foreign language. A minor in journalism is also offered.

The English department sponsors a magazine, The Chapbook, composed of manuscripts submitted by the students.

The Drama Department was busy producing plays such as "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "A Whitman Portrait." Tennessee Williams' "Orpheus Descending" was also presented and was entered at the Oklahoma Theatre Center Play Festival in competition against thirteen other Oklahoma colleges and universities.

Yearbook

The BULLDOG staff worked long hours and faced the problems of ominous deadlines, misplaced pictures and non-existent identification sheets in attempting to capture "The World We Live In" at Southwestern.

Editor Cynthia Carpenter, associate editor Susan Regier and staff members Vicki Comer, Penny Propp, Jonell Stehr, and Presse Paul strove to put it all together in a new modified magazine format.

Memories and events on the Southwestern campus were captured by the photographic talents of Joe Dupuy, Chip Latschar, and Ronald Cox. Yearbook advisor is Mr. Richard Wilson.

The BULLDOG has won top honors at the Oklahoma Collegiate Press Association conference for the past two years. The 1973 BULLDOG received third place and the 1974 BULLDOG placed second in the state competition.

Drama

The Drama Department was active once again this year, with six full-length productions, a musical, and the one-act plays performed on the Southwestern stage.

Dr. Irwin Bingham, Claude Kezer, George Hejna, and Mrs. Delenna Williams directed and sponsored the various productions, with Dr. Charles Chapman co-directing the musical.

Directed by students, the one-act plays are always a big hit on campus, and this year was no exception.

Alpha Psi Omega, the drama fraternity remained active supplying fun and recreation for drama students after long hours of play practice.

Newspaper

THE SOUTHWESTERN, campus newspaper, is a product of the combined efforts of the journalism students. The efforts were rewarded when the paper received honorable mention at the fall Oklahoma Collegiate Press Association conference held at Oklahoma State University, Stillwater.

Bonnie McDonald, heading the fall staff, was assisted by Kathy Shugart, managing editor. The editors received contributions from members of the Reporting I, Reporting II, and Editorial Writing classes.

Upon Bonnie's graduation in December, Kathy Shugart assumed the editorship for the spring semester and Steve Lamb acted as sports editor.

Mathematics

The Mathematics Department is nationally recognized as one of the most modern in existence. It is designed to allow students with any background to start at the appropriate level and advance at a pace compatible with their ability. There are two major programs in the department. One is designed to prepare professional mathematicians leading to a Bachelor of Science, the second leads to a Bachelor of Science in Education.

For students planning careers in the field of Computer Science, Southwestern offers a program of study leading to an academic minor. Two options for obtaining a Computer Science minor are offered; students in the sciences who usually receive the required mathematics in pursuit of their major fields, and students in Business and the Arts.

A Drum Computer Plotter was purchased by the Computer Science division of the Mathematics Department. The plotter eliminates much of the busy work involved in plotting tables and curves. A plotting seminar is now being offered through the Computer Science Division.

Military Science

The Southwestern Military Science Department was established on the Southwestern campus in 1971. Colonel Jode R. Wilson, a graduate of Southwestern, was selected as the head of Military Science, and still holds that position.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps Program has been very successful since its inception in all aspects of operations. It has enjoyed exceptional support and rapport with both the academic and civilian communities and has steadily increased in enrollment.

The first year of operation saw the cadet corps consisting of 50 members, with one cadet commissioned at Advance Camp following the school year. In 1972-73 enrollment reached 61 cadets.

The ROTC program was expanded considerably during 1973-74 by the establishment of cross-enrollment programs at Western Oklahoma State College in Altus and El Reno Junior College. During the 1973-74 school year enrollment increased to 81 cadets.

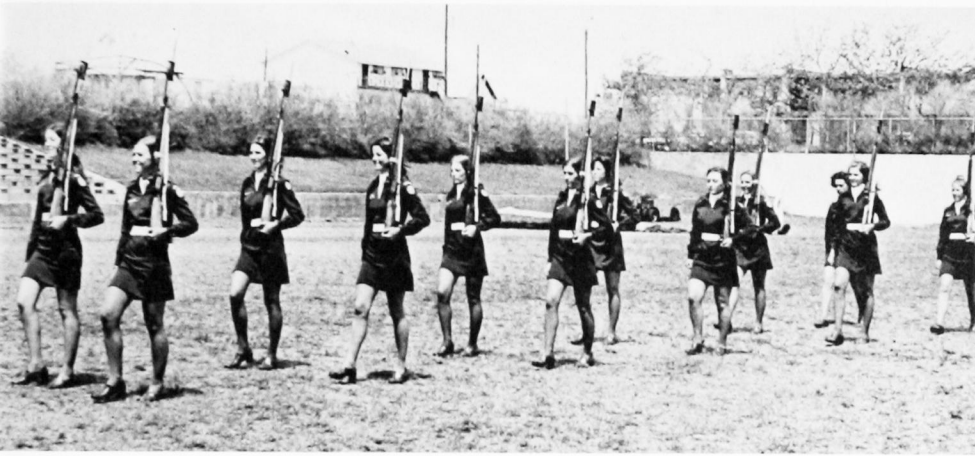

Based on prior experiences, the program is expected to continue to expand.

Music

The Music Department at Southwestern has twenty faculty members and three teaching assistants. Over two-hundred and fifty students are enrolled as music majors or minors. Three degree programs are available from the department — a Bachelor of Arts (Music), Bachelor of Music Education, and the Master of Education (Music).

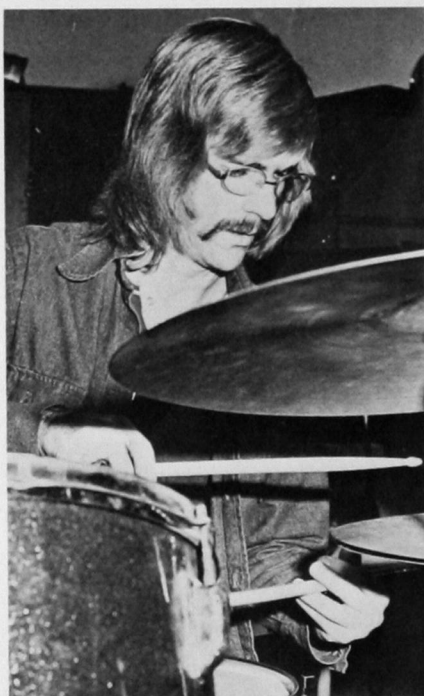

Four choral groups, three concert bands, one marching band, three jazz ensembles, and multiple small performance groups offer all Southwestern students an opportunity for musical participation.

The marching band numbers 250 and performs for all home football games. They have made appearances for professional football games in Dallas, Kansas City, St. Louis, and Denver. The Wind Symphony, the top band of the department, has toured Canada and the northern states. This year they will perform for the Music Educators Convention in Oklahoma City and will represent the state of Oklahoma at the National Music Educators Conference in Omaha, Nebraska. The band also cut two records for national publishing companies in New York and Pennsylvania.

The music building houses the large rehearsal and class rooms, several teaching studios and offices, the piano laboratory, and practice rooms for all performance areas. The pipe organ and two electronic organs are housed in this building as well as the harpsichord, the harp, and a nine foot grand piano. A large record and score library and the listening room are open to students at all times.

A theory laboratory utilized for all theory classes is housed in the Arts and Sciences Building. Several of the faculty members are currently officed in the Stewart Hall basement.

In 1973, the National Association of Schools of Music, the accrediting agency for music departments, recognized Southwestern as a full member. This culminated two years as an associate member.

Dr. Benny Hill

Physics

The Physics Department on SWOSU's campus is presently headed by Dr. Benny Hill. He was a 1957 graduate of Southwestern, and joined the faculty in 1964. J. R. Pratt preceded Hill as head of the department, which was formed by him in 1931.

Courses offered in the department are designed to give a broad understanding of contemporary Physics. These courses are fit to meet the needs of Physics majors, whether they decide to continue their study of Physics in graduate school, go into teaching, or into research. These diversified study areas create a great many courses; from General Physics, to Quantum Mechanics, to Thermodynamics.

The department has sponsored a Physics Day for high school students and industrial tours. Development of computer-assisted instruction is also being done. Research was also made to explore the use of Schlieren Optics to study tornadoes.

Left: Miniature tornadoes created in a laboratory are under study by this group. Dr. Ray C. Jones was advisor for the researching physics students whose proposed study of tornadoes won a Bendix Corp. grant. From left: Dale Boeckman, Tom Leck, Mike Merritt, Dr. Jones, and Tim Hilton.

Newcomb and Story received SWAPA scholarships, while the other students were the recipients of scholarships from an Oklahoma City industrialist who prefers to remain unidentified.

School of Pharmacy

The School of Pharmacy at Southwestern grew even more with the addition of an annex building across the street from the present $1,000,000 Chemistry, Pharmacy, and Physics Building. It has come a long way since it was established here in 1939.

The school has made a distinct service contribution to this geographic area. Its main objective has been to educate and train good citizens for a career of professional practice.

A minimum of five academic years of college work is required for completion of the curriculum leading to the B.S. in Pharmacy degree. This is in accordance with the regulations of the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education.

Southwestern's basic pharmacy curriculum is commonly referred to as a 2-3 program, in which two years are spent in pre-pharmacy, followed by three years in the professional program.

While admission to the pre-pharmacy program here is at the election of the student, admission to the professional program of the School of Pharmacy is only through application of forms prescribed by the faculty of the school.

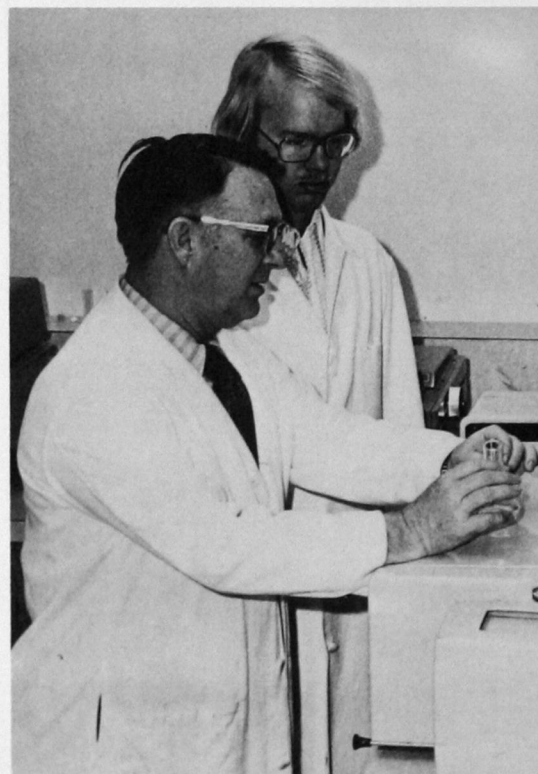

The majority of Southwestern's pharmacy graduates are practicing as either employees or owners of community pharmacies. Others find employment in hospital pharmacies, the chemical and pharmaceutical manufacturing industries, drug sales work, government service in various state and federal agencies, public health service, and as commissioned officers in the armed forces.

Students are required to participate in field trips and annual visitations of pharmaceutical manufacturers, drug wholesalers, hospitals, etc.

Scholarships are available to both the pre-pharmacy and pharmacy student. The college is authorized by its board of regents to offer tuition scholarships to a number of qualified students. Selection is made by a committee headed by the Dean of Students.

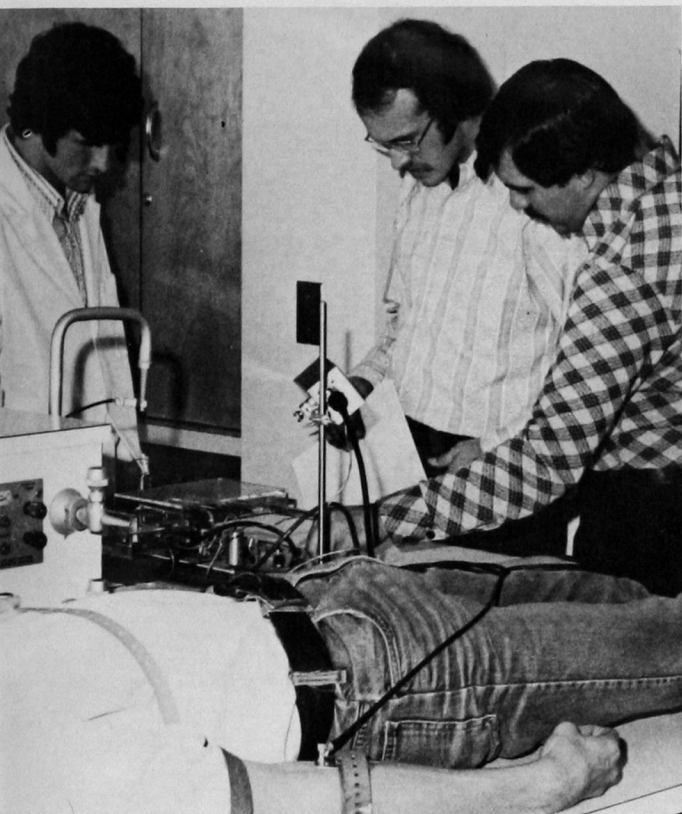

There are many student organizations designed to improve the all-around development of its students. The school also has five publications.

Dean of the School of Pharmacy at Southwestern is Dr. Walter L. Dickison. He has served in this capacity since 1965.

Teacher Education and Psychology

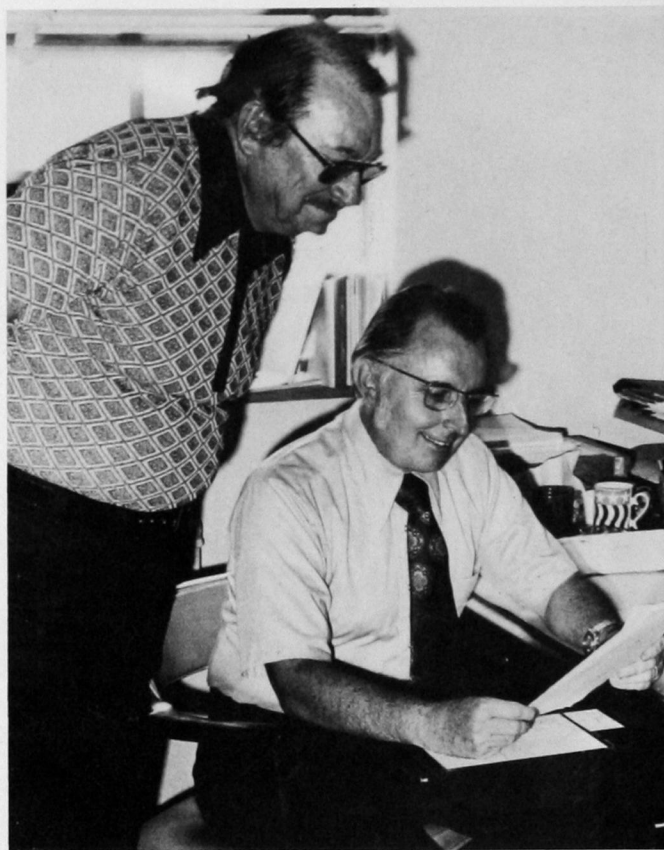

The department of Teacher Education and Psychology covers a wide area on Southwestern's campus. The department offers degrees in elementary education, secondary education, special education, psychology, and a minor in library science. The special education degree is offered in learning disabilities, mental retardation, or a learning disabilities-mental retardation composite. Another responsibility of the department is TEP TV, which is a support facility for Teacher Education. It is affiliated with the cable, and everything including micro-cable goes out over the air.

In addition to these programs are various departmental organizations such as Psychology Club, Student Education Association, and Kappa Delta Pi. Dr. Earl Reynolds has been department head since 1970.

Right: The psychology program received a National Science Foundation equipment grant, and these two men couldn't be happier. Reading the official notification are Dr. Earl Reynolds, seated, chairman of the Division of Teacher Education and Psychology, and Dr. Harold Budde, psychology department director.

Learning Center

A large, white house on College Avenue across from the President's home contains the lab for Southwestern's Special Education classes.

This house, the Learning Center, contains rooms where students in the methods and materials classes are given the opportunity to put together all that was learned in the introduction courses, the testing courses, the psychology courses, and the auxiliary courses such as reading, math, and speech correction.

In the Center, the student is placed in a micro-teaching atmosphere and given the opportunity to operate a special education classroom for one week.

Children between the ages of 6 and 12 with learning disabilities or emotional disturbances come to the Learning Center for these classes. The public school teacher of each child recommends his individual needs.

The Southwestern student makes the lesson plans, plans the behavioral strategies to be employed, chooses the materials to be used and operates a classroom with these children.

After these experiences, if the student has obtained competency she then is allowed to enter the student-teaching program.

The Special Education section at Southwestern is a competency based training program which offers training in the education of children and adolescents with emotional problems, learning disorders, and mental retardation. These programs lead toward either a Master's or Bachelor's degree in Special Education.

Dr. Joe Purdy acts as co-ordinator of these programs in Special Education. Mrs. Barbara Wise was the director of the lab sessions in the Learning Center. Peggy Outhouse was the secretary and Connie Ralston the graduate assistant.

Social Sciences

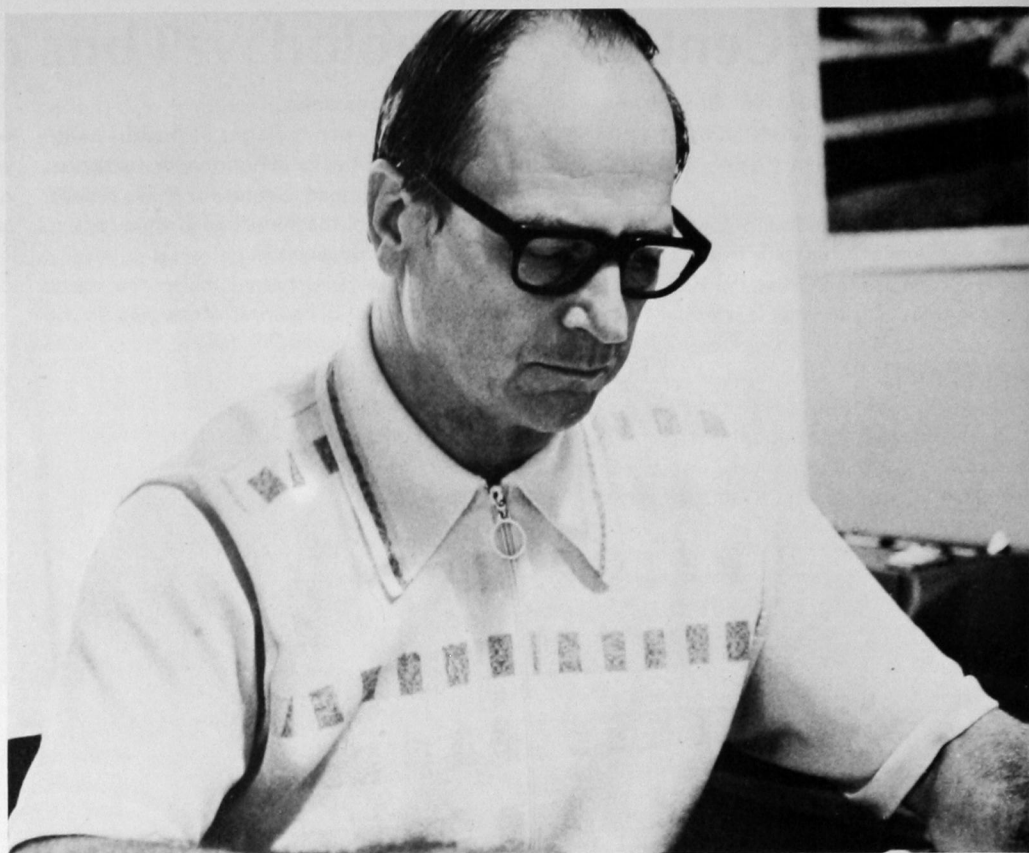

With the remodeling of the Education Building, the Social Science department took on a new face.

Along with this transformation came a string of guest speakers sponsored by the various political science organizations on campus. These speakers participated in question and answer periods to inform students of the current political and economic situation.

The courses offered in this area cover an extensive area. From the required courses in American History and government to the detailed courses in world history; the qualified instructors strive to inform students of the changing world around them.

The department head is Dr. Clarence Petrowsky. Assisting him in his job are other highly qualified faculty members, including a former CIA agent.

The Social Science Department was also responsible for the publication of Broad-side, a current events newspaper.

Sports

Cheerleaders

Boosting Southwestern school spirit were the 1974-75 cheerleaders. Sponsored by the Student Senate, the girls traveled to all out-of-town football and basketball games as well as supporting the teams at home.

Cheerleaders are kept busy with activities such as posting signs to back the Bulldogs, long practices, pep rallies, making surprise packages for team members, and promoting pride in the SWOSU Bulldogs.

Any student, male or female, with a 2.0 grade average, is eligible to try out in the spring. Judged on spirit, skill, personality, and poise, cheerleaders are chosen by the Student Association and faculty members. One freshman is chosen each fall to complete the squad.

Football

Coach Otis Delaporte came to the campus in 1964, and under his guidance the Bulldog record continued to climb. The best record thus far was recorded in 1969, 9 wins and 1 loss. Coach Delaporte was inducted into the Oklahoma Coaches' Athletic Association Hall of Fame early last year. He has served as president of the Oklahoma Collegiate Athletic conference, Athletic Directors Association and as chairman of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, District 9.

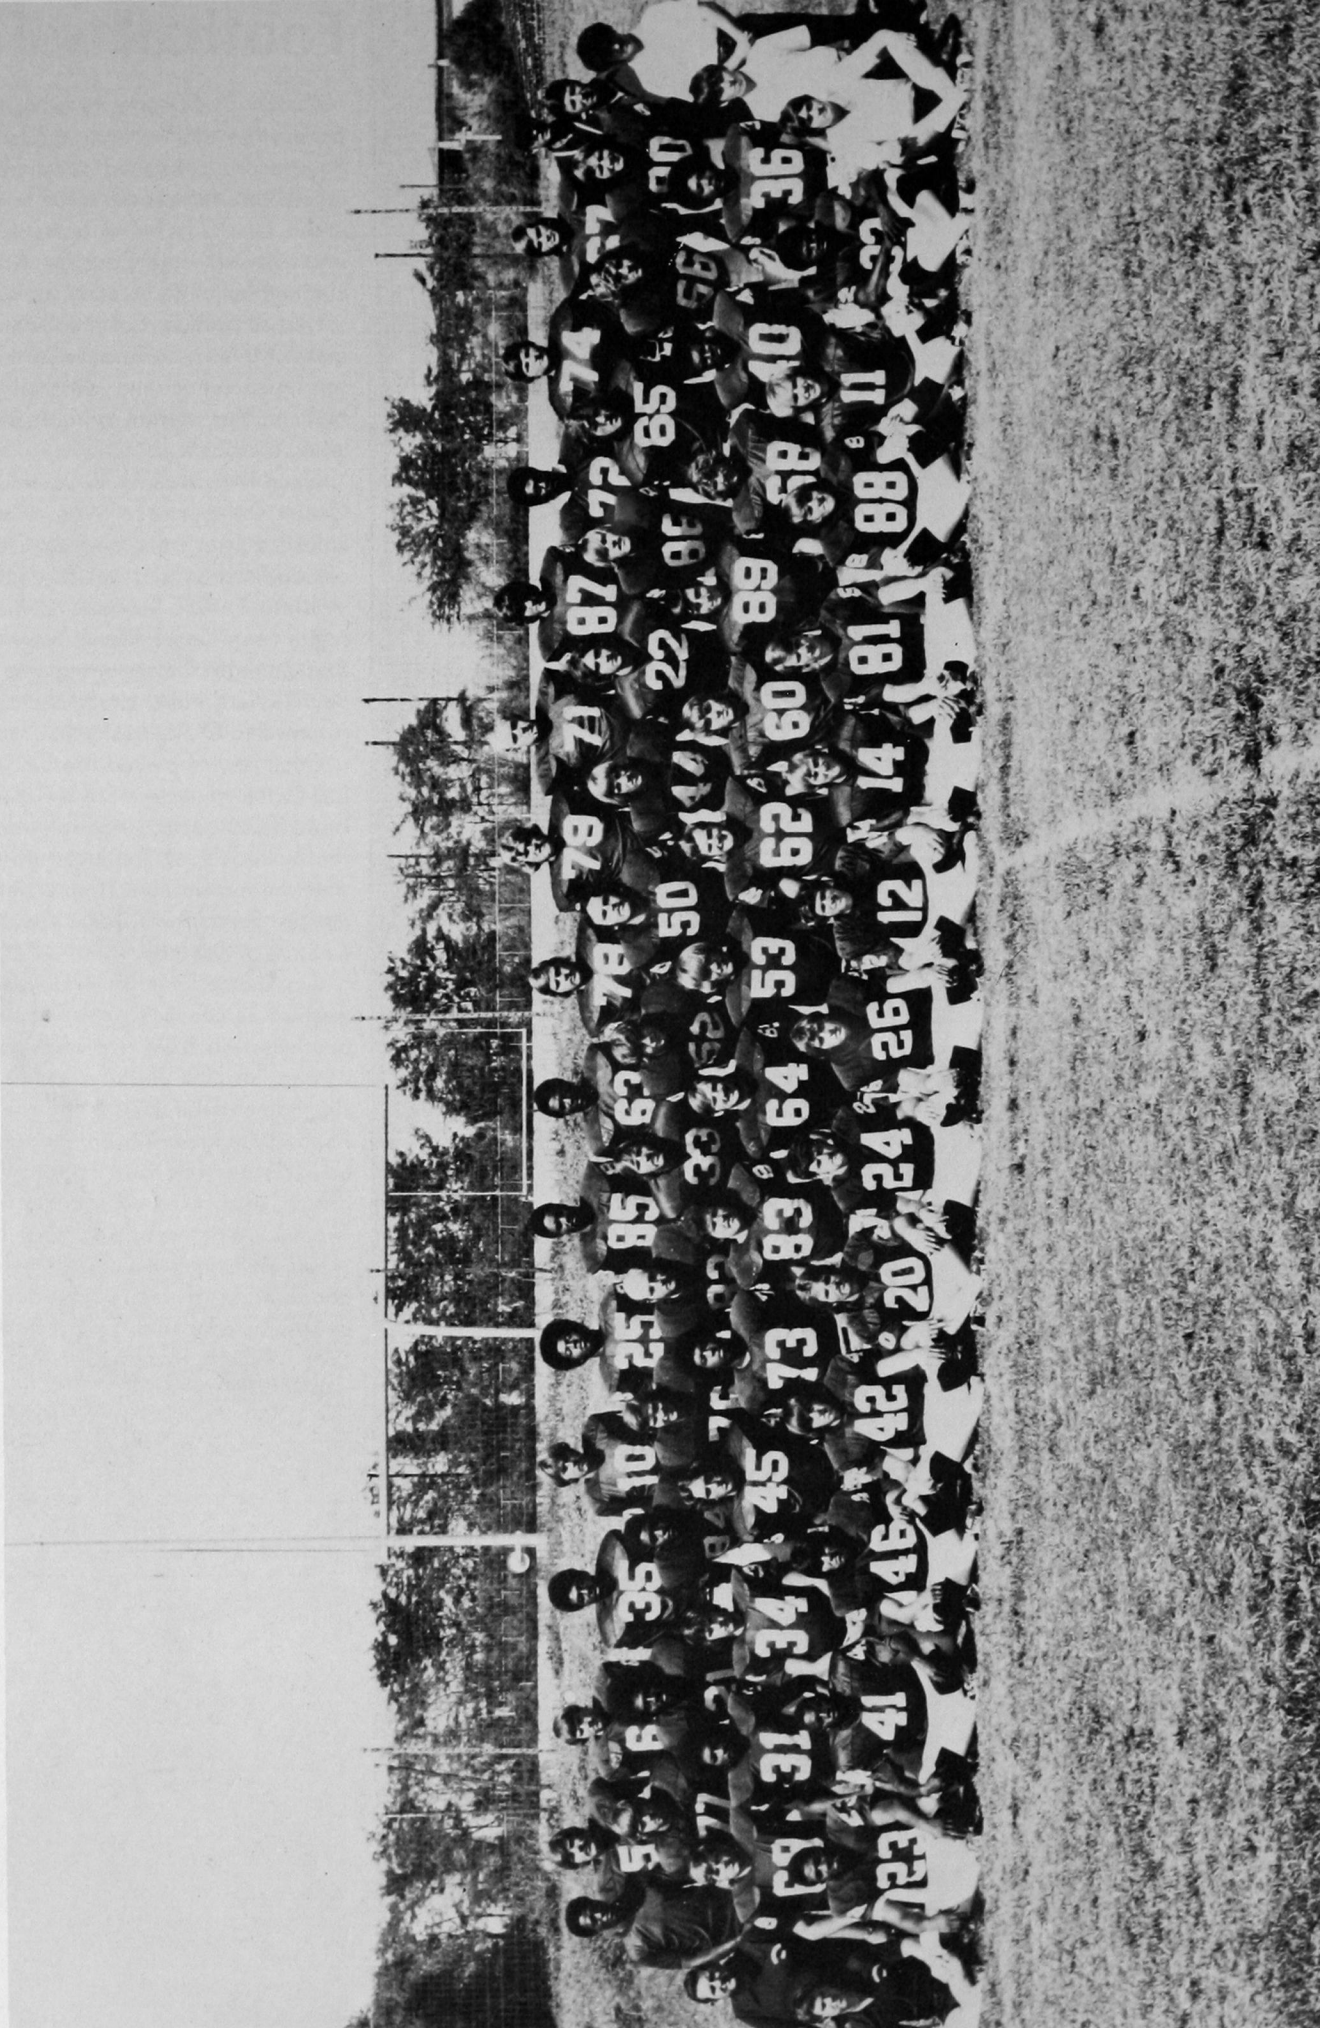

Cecil Morris came to Southwestern with Coach Delaporte in 1964. Coach Morris holds a master's degree from OU, where he played lineman and was tri-captain of Bud Wilkinson's 1955 Sooners. At the end of his senior year, Coach Morris played in the All-Star game in Chicago and was the Green Bay Packers' third draft choice. He later returned to OU as freshman coach.

Cecil Devine played football and basketball for Northeastern State College. He has been head baseball coach and assistant football coach at Southwestern since 1967, when he moved here from a similar assignment at Burkburnett, Texas. Coach Devine is a native of Skiatook.

Jim Thomas is in his third year at Southwestern as coach. Coach Thomas came to Southwestern from a professional football career. For nine years he was halfback with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League. Coach Thomas is serving as assistant football coach, head track coach, and intramural director. Coach Thomas is a native of Columbus, Mississippi.

Van Wilhelm is the newest member of the coaching staff. He received his master's degree in education from Southwestern in 1969. Wilhelm is a native of Amarillo, Texas.

Bulldogs Win Conference

With a win of 28-14 over the Northwestern Oklahoma State University Rangers, the Bulldogs wrapped up their fifth Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference football title in seven years.

The team's only conference loss came during the last game of the season. Central State University blitzed the Bulldogs 14-0.

Seven seniors ended their college football career as Southwestern closed out the season. The list includes: Jeff Troutt, Tony McFarland, Tom McElhaney, Mark Clark, Rick Outhier, Judson McHenry, and Greg McCarty.

Basketball

Head Coach Jerry Jobe guided the Bulldogs through another winning season this year, his last as coach at Southwestern. Under Jobe's tutelage since his arrival here in 1964, the Dogs had qualified, prior to last year, for seven consecutive National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District 9 play-offs, won or shared three Oklahoma Collegiate Athletic Conference championships and competed in one National Tournament.

Southwestern finished the 1974-75 season by compiling a 20-8 record overall, and finished with a 7-3 record in the tough Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference.

Coach Jobe was assisted by former Bulldog guard Ken Turner. Danny Moore, freshman physical education major, held the position of manager. The starting line-up included: Chuck Johnson, 6-7 sophomore, Greg Reese, 6-5 senior, Max Lauderdale, 6-5 junior, Jack Coody, 6-2 junior, and P. J. Simmons, 6-2 sophomore. Coming frequently off the bench were Eli Parnell, 6-9 freshman and Ed Hayes, 6-2 junior.

Chuck Johnson received both the OIC and the District 9 Player of the year awards. There are six OIC teams and fifteen teams in the district.

In tournament play, Southwestern handed Dallas Baptist a first-round defeat in the Cameron Tournament. The Bulldogs then suffered a heart-breaking loss to the Cameron Aggies after fighting back a 20-point deficit.

In the Kiwanis Tip-off Tournament held in Weatherford, the Bulldogs had to settle for third place after losing in the first round to a strong Missouri team. Looking for revenge, the Dogs came back the following night to beat a highly-rated Stephen F. Austin ball club.

The Bulldogs took first place in the Southwestern Classic by defeating American Christian College and Oklahoma Baptist to continue tuning for the OIC basketball race.

Besides winning the Classic, Southwestern got by both Lubbock Christian and Oklahoma Christian to walk away in first place of the OCC tournament.

The 'new' season began when the Bulldogs opened conference play against Northeastern and wrapped up their first OIC win. The Bulldogs kept the winning streak going when they won the next four games to come to the half-way mark of the conference race.

Southwestern narrowly defeated Northeastern the second time around and from then things went downhill for awhile. The Bulldogs first suffered a loss to Northwestern, then was defeated again in a disappointing overtime to East Central. The third losing game in a row was played at Central State.

The Bulldogs picked up again ending the last conference game with a victory over Southeastern, then a non-conference win over Oklahoma Baptist closed the scheduled games.

The 1974 squad had a record of 18-10. The batting average of the team was .374, which was second in the nation. Jerry Kurtz also placed second in the nation individually with an average of .533. He also won the District 3 Batting Championship.

Ron Kassanavoid, pitcher, David Bugg, catcher, Denver Rowley and Gary Crissman, infielders, and Jerry Kurtz, outfielder, all made All-District.

Four starters returned to play for Southwestern this spring. Six men were lost from the 1974 squad. Ron Kassanavoid was the only regular pitcher returning.

The Flashpacks battled its way to victory over the Sigma Tau's for the championship of the 18 teams in intramural football.

Curt Andrews of the Flash Pack was awarded The Most Valuable Player award.

Phi Delta Theta won the fraternity traveling trophy in the intramural basketball association tournament, the Dewey County team won the independent bracket.

Intramural directors for the year were Barry Woltz and Mike Kurtz.

Rodeo Team

During the past five years the rodeo team at Southwestern has made continued progress, and at press time for this Yearbook, the team's chances for winning the regional title looked promising. The region consists of Oklahoma, Texas, and Southwestern Missouri.

The team usually participates in three to five rodeos during the fall, and from eight to ten in the spring. Participants compete in six men's events and three women's events. Approximately 22 men and eight women are in the Southwestern Club. Team standing is based on the performance of six designated men and three designated women in each rodeo. Individual points can be won by both non-team and team members.

Another year has been recorded in the 1975 BULLDOG showing "The World We Live In" at Southwestern Oklahoma State University.

Southwestern, like the rest of the world, is constantly changing. Everyone can look forward to the changes that will come forth in the next year at 'the new university' and remember them in the next volume of the BULLDOG
