THE NEW U . . . As the world outside our campus changes, so does Southwestern.

As an educational institution, Southwestern State College was recently transformed to Southwestern Oklahoma State University — and with that came more changes.

In July of 1975, Dr. Al Harris, president of Southwestern for over a decade, retired. Dr. Leonard Campbell took over the position, and students as well as administration have found him to be not only very capable, but willing to meet the needs of an ever-growing campus.

Leaders from outside the campus have recognized Southwestern's contributions to a changing world also.

Governor David Boren spoke to the 1975 graduating seniors, and emphasized the need for reform in education as well as in government.

Recognizing the need for more efficient learning facilities with added comfort, administrators have brought about renovations in older campus buildings — installing central air and heat in both the Old Science and Education buildings, and modernizing the Music building. The Pharmacy School was improved with the construction of a Pharmacy Annex. Changes from the time of the horse and buggy housed in the barn are indeed great, and quite prevalent on this, our university campus.

College students themselves have gone through dramatic transformations. Drastic changes in ideas, morals and customs have shocked our parents. However, these new rules for living might well be the turning point in the destiny of our world.

Interaction with others is an important facet of all our lives. The interchange of thoughts helps make the final goal more appealing to the majority. Organizations at Southwestern are not small nor few in number, by any means. They are the life-blood of accomplishment, and these organizations depend on change to thrive and survive.

Competition . . . it is the stimulus of any athlete. In any sport at Southwestern, one can see the desire to win in the eyes of each participating athlete. And now, athletics is not confined to men only. Women have shown their competitiveness in the world outside, and that same drive is evidenced in the women who actively participate in sports on campus. Male athletes have continued to be top-notch as is substantiated by Tom Bergman who was named First Team NAIA All-American Defensive Tackle.

The excitement of having faced a challenge and conquered it . . . that's what honor is all about. In our unpredictable society, one never knows what the fad will be from one day to the next. However, we can be certain that humans will always desire and need to be honored or praised in some way. Southwestern meets that need in a variety of ways — from the presentation of Duke Awards to the crowning of Miss Southwestern by Jane Jayroe, former Miss America.

DUKE AWARD F

DEAN JANZENS BY A

Have we been conditioned to change by the time we graduate? Hardly. But at least we have become more able to accept and cope with it — and maybe even like it a little. Some will hate us for our education — others, like these capturing the beautiful memory of a friend's or relative's graduation, will admire and respect us. Whatever our fellowman's evaluation of us, SWOSU has played some part in shaping that evaluation, and that's something we can all be proud of.

President

Serving his first year as president of Southwestern, Dr. Leonard Gene Campbell fulfilled the expectations of faculty and students alike. The former superintendent of the Western Heights school system in Oklahoma City, he also served as assistant superintendent and principal for the Moore Public Schools.

Dr. Campbell earned his BA in social studies and physical education from Southeastern State College and his MA and doctorate of Education from the University of Oklahoma.

He and his wife Linda have one daughter, Kristi.

Deans

The Dean of Instruction holds one of the most important administrative positions on campus. This position is held by Dr. Louis Morris, who is directly responsible for the employment of highly qualified faculty members. He works closely with department heads, division chairmen, faculty and students and in curriculum development. Dean Morris assists administrators, faculty members, and students with any problems that might arise. All division and department chairmen are directly responsible to Dean Morris.

Louis Morris

Supervising one of the largest schools of study is Walter Dickison, Dean of the School of Pharmacy. He is responsible for maintaining a highly qualified faculty and supervision of the pharmacy curriculum. Dean Dickison is also one of the staunchest recruiters for the school. His ideas for a pharmacy program have proven successful, as the school is recognized as one of the finest in the nation.

Graduate School Dean Harold Massey controls the advanced professional program leading to the Master's of Education degree. He works with all departments implementing new graduate courses and programs and in formulating schedules of graduate school offerings. Dean Massey also serves as chairman of the policy-developing Advanced Professional Council and as chairman of the three-person Administrative Committee of the Council.

Deans

Supervision of student affairs is one of the many tasks performed by the Dean of Students Fred Janzen. He supervises social affairs, campus organizations, student housing, campus security and the student health program. Maintaining student personnel records, supervising student counseling, and serving as executive secretary for the academic advisory program, are just a few of the Dean's duties.

The Dean of Men, the Dean of Women, the college nurse, and the supervisors for the residence halls are responsible to the Dean of Students.

Aside from controlling the whims of the "Women's Libbers" on campus, Dean of Women Freda Johnson is a member of the Department of Student Personnel Services, and is responsible for these services as they relate to women students. Also testing programs, freshman orientation, women fraternities (sororities), and on campus housing are responsibilities of Dean Johnson.

Keeping over two thousand men in line is no easy task. Dean of Men Lee Ash accomplishes just that each year, along with his numerous other duties. Dean Ash is a member of the Department of Student Personnel Services, and is also involved with campus fraternities and freshman orientation.

Administration

Director of Placement, Mark Mouse, is showered with information daily about prospective employment for Southwestern students. The Placement Office also houses confidential credentials used for evaluation by employee seekers.

The Student Aids Office is of great value to many students, as financial problems are universal in the lives of most. Dr. Warren Wilson, director, provides some relief for the omnipresent dilemma by way of campus employment, including the work study program, loans, grants and scholarships.

Although some students would just as soon not see their transcripts, Registrar Bill Wilmeth and Assistant Registrar Harold Jackson make sure they are up-to-date for the concerned student to view. Other duties in the Registrar's Office include guiding the student through the maze of hours required for graduation, and keeping the records straight.

Classroom aids are vital to the over-all instruction effort. Instructional Media Director David Gwinn provides Southwestern classrooms with such items as tape recorders, projectors, video tapes and many other inanimate teaching assistants.

Reporting to the entire state and many parts of the nation what Southwestern students are doing is no easy task. But Jack Shelton, Director of Public Relations, does it and does it well. Along with his other duties, Mr. Shelton keeps alumni informed about fellow students through the newsletter "Echoes From the Hill" which is printed periodically.

It would be safe to say that the Business Office is simultaneously the most popular and unpopular place on campus. Here, students pick up their payroll checks, only to turn around and pay bills accumulated through the course of the semester. Business Manager Cliff Camden, Assistant John Hays and the rest of the staff keep the office in smooth running order.

Health Services Center

Facing daily barrages of fake illnesses and occasionally, the real thing, is Nurse Frances Sill. It is her duty to check out the complaints of the students and give them advice on health problems. Also, Nurse Sill is responsible for the "note to the teacher" in case a class is missed.

Frances Sill

Upward Bound

Upward Bound has been a thriving program on campus since 1966. Its main objective is to provide motivation for individuals who want to help themselves. Kathryn DeFord and Assistant Wilmer Cooper have kept the program alive and well at Southwestern.

Student Union

The Student Union — a great place to go when cutting a class, meeting a friend, or flirting with the opposite sex. Whatever the reasons for visiting the Union, it is, without a doubt, the most popular place on campus.

Student Union manager Virgil Downing keeps things in tip-top shape. H. R. Gandy keeps the Snack Bar full of all sorts of goodies, and Bill Henderson, Food Services Director, provides the Union Cafeteria, as well as the Rogers-Jefferson Cafeteria, with tasty, nutritious food for students.

Library

A building on campus avoided by some and virtually lived in by others, the Al Harris Library, is one of the most beautiful structures on campus, as well as one of the most useful.

Head Librarian, Shelia Hoke, and her able staff, reshelve books after a stampede of students, keep up to date periodicals, provide check-out services, and perform other duties, too numerous to mention here. Knowing where thousands of books are kept is enough to fill anyone's mind to the brim.

Dorm Parents

The job of a dorm parent does not begin at 8:00 AM and end at 5:00 PM. It is an around the clock affair.

No one knows that better than the six sets of dorm parents at Southwestern.

From Neff, to Parker, to Jefferson, to Oklahoma, to Rogers, to Stewart, earth-shattering crises arise, only to be quelled by the firm but soothing hands of dorm parents.

It could be said that they set the trends for actions of the entire student population through their influence upon resident individuals.

Dorm parents and their respective dorms are: Billy and Kelly Ryan, Jefferson; Mike and Sharon Mills, Oklahoma; Jimmy and Dorinda Reynolds, Rogers; James and Sandra Davis, Parker; Pat and Lynn Jordan, Stewart; Daniel and Darla Anderson, Neff.

ART

By walking into the plaza of the Southwestern Art Building, anyone can determine within a short time much about the department itself and its goals in education. The subject matter of the students' paintings on display indicate the wide spectrum of classes offered. On a given day, graphic designs, life drawings, and mobiles are all seen in the gallery. In a corner is a display case filled with the products of the jewelry and metal design classes. Another display case holds the end results of another facet of the Art Department curriculum — ceramic and pottery designs.

All of this work insures that the Southwestern graduate can become an important element of the art world. Personalized instruction prepares a portion of the students for a career in the commercial art field. Included in the sixty-hour commercial degree are courses in advertising and layout design and commercial techniques. These classes, along with many others, yield students that can work well in journalism, advertising, and even photography. By coupling his art interest with a teaching degree, a Southwestern student can obtain a bachelor's degree that will qualify him to teach art in the public school.

Life — the very essence of it is studied by hundreds — even thousands — of students who frequent the campus of Southwestern. Mysticism becomes realities right before their eyes as they peer into a microscope that can magnify a cell over one thousand times its normal size. Everyday events suddenly take on new meaning as pupils begin to discover what actually goes on in the process of living each day. Indeed, each class offered in the biological (life) sciences field opens a multitude of doors to new discoveries taking place every day.

In order to help each of us learn a little more about what is going on around us continuously, the biological sciences curriculum has been included in the general education requirements for this institution.

Individuals have the alternative to delve into the study of life and living things in the area of biological concepts. They learn in this course about the basic functions and materials of all living substances. Surprisingly enough, biology students soon find that they are not worth as much as they thought they were. Actually, the chemicals that compose the human body can be salvaged at a price less than five dollars.

More detailed studies are also offered in the form of botany (plant life) and the behavior and characteristics of animals (zoology).

As more advanced studies are conquered, students encounter genetics and biochemistry. The studies of botany and zoology are utilized in the laws of heredity in genetics. Life processes in relation to chemistry are applied in biochemistry.

Opportunities for biological sciences majors are unlimited. Every minute that passes unveils a new discovery in the land of the living. Never will everything be known about life, but we can continue searching and learn all we can about ourselves and our environment.

BUSINESS

With new and better machines coming into the department, the Business Department at SWOSU is progressing by leaps and bounds.

As chairman, Dr. W. W. Ward maintains high standards set by the department. In addition, he instructs several courses in accounting.

The modernization of the university's Business Department has transpired through the acquisition of several new business machines such as the "Memory Typewriter," which is capable of storing several letters at a time.

Business machines are maintained primarily on the third floor of the Administration Building. Frequently heard there are the sounds of over eighty typewriters working, adding machines computing and an instructor's chalk pecking the blackboard as he pounds ideas surrounding accounting into the heads of his students.

Major and minor fields of study are offered in the many and varied aspects of the field of business at SWOSU. In addition, a forty-hour short course is offered to supply the background for a career to the student interested in secretarial and clerical work.

Upon Dr. Ward's retirement at the end of the school year, Dr. Roger Egerton will become department head.

CHEMISTRY

The field of chemistry began its growth many years ago with the crudest forms of experiments, but the discoveries that were made then led to the highly technical science that chemistry is today.

With this growth has come change, and with every change chemistry produces more knowledge of how to cope with the future problems.

The chemistry courses provided by the Department of Chemistry at SWOSU range from the basic courses required for industrial careers to the required courses necessary to prepare students to become professional chemists.

The Department of Chemistry also offers the most modern equipment available at any university.

The student who graduates with a chemistry degree at SWOSU is specialized so that one day he may become the man or woman who brings about a discovery that could change the condition of the world.

General Education

The General Education Department of SWOSU is concerned with educating students in the major areas of knowledge and experience. General Education, sometimes called lower division work, consists primarily of basic courses for all students. These courses are designed to provide students with understanding, awareness and appreciation of areas other than their fields of specialization. All students must complete 32 hours of requirements and 15-16 hours of electives of General Education in order to obtain baccalaureate degrees from SWOSU.

Whether pharmacy, medical technology, business administration or commercial art is one's chosen major, communicative skills are always a valuable asset; that is why English and speech courses are part of the G.E. requirements.

To develop a deeper understanding of physical and biological phenomena, a variety of subjects are offered, such as biology, geology, astronomy, physics, and chemistry.

Beneficial to all students are the Health, Physical Education, and Recreation courses. Not only learning how to remain healthy and physically fit, but also learning lifetime recreation skills is important now and in the future.

American society today is concerned with making its citizens aware of their cultural, social, and political heritage. SWOSU does its part by requiring students to study American history and government.

Becoming more important in our industrialized, computerized society is the field of mathematics. Students may fulfill math credits by taking any type of college mathematics or computer science.

An educated person is one who is well-versed in many areas, not just one specialized field. Southwestern Oklahoma State University has for its basic aim the establishment and maintenance of well-rounded education for all students to its various programs. The General Education Department serves this purpose well.

Health, Phys. Ed. & Recreation

Planning the "program of tomorrow" is the new outlook that HPER Departments of many colleges and universities across the nation are taking. Providing students with lifetime leisure skills is what this new program is all about.

These HPER programs are designed to teach students how to spend their leisure time wisely, how to perform the skills of the physical arts, and how to apply their own creativity and energy to recreational activities. Having fun, while still getting plenty of exercise, is the name of the game.

Dr. Van Horn, department chairman, says that SWOSU is planning programs for adult student, and community education. Already incorporated into Southwestern's HPER program are basic scuba and snow skiing. New courses anticipated are fencing and mountain climbing.

Although this new program of tomorrow for the HPER Department is part of THE NEW UNIVERSITY here at Southwestern, the old still survives. This department provides its major and minor students with general knowledge and skills and also intense studies in the specialized areas they choose.

Health, Physical Education and Recreation are areas which should not be overlooked by anyone. Mental and physical knowledge gained within this department can be beneficial throughout life.

Home Ec.

As far back in history as one cares to delve, home economics has always been important. Even in the most primitive of homes, the basic aspects of home economics — preparing food and clothing for the family — were always found.

Today in our more modern life style, especially in a time of economic inflation, home economics takes on a much broader range of activities than simply knowing how to prepare food and clothing. The college graduate who has a degree in Home Economics is specialized in the business aspects of running a household. She also has a ready knowledge of child care and guidance.

All these aspects are witnessed when one observes the courses offered in the Home Economics Department at Southwestern Oklahoma State University. There are a broad range of classes supplemented with laboratory work in cooking, sewing, and working with children.

Department Chairman Helen Brown and the entire Home Economics faculty work to bring about these interesting and useful classes and laboratory experiences so that they will appeal to potential Home Economics majors. Their realization of the essential need for this type of training prompted the inclusion of this learning process in the department.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

Many students skillful in hand work and crafts have found a home on the northeast side of the Southwestern Oklahoma State University campus. Here is found the building that houses the Industrial Arts Department.

The department offers courses in woodwork, drafting, metalwork, and electronics. Engines of various nature are studied, with the addition of a new rotary engine furthering the learning possibilities.

Many students take Industrial Arts courses only for the personal knowledge to be gained, and expect only to use this knowledge in their homes. On the other hand, many students seek Industrial Arts as a major, planning to pursue a teaching career or looking for professional careers in their fields of interest.

The staff of this department has proven successful in producing many talented teachers and professionals and is looking forward to the same measure of success in the future.

e. Industrial Arts is not just for men, as this coed proves.

Language Arts

Working with words can be truly interesting for the naturally-inclined and gifted person. The Language Arts Department strives to create the proper atmosphere in which to train just such an individual.

Beginning with course work in fiction and poetry and progressing to more difficult studies of recent authors, the English major or minor graduates with a well-rounded background.

Still another major offered by the department is Speech-Theatre. This growing field of study lets students learn the finer points of costume design, make-up application, and stage construction while they are acting in campus-produced dramas.

Labs are an integral part of the Foreign Languages major's life. By devoting many hours, Southwestern students master Russian, Spanish, and German.

In the course of attaining their minor, journalism students acquire skills to further their chances for careers in the communications field. Both the campus newspaper, THE SOUTHWESTERN, and the annual, THE BULLDOG, offer practical experience in compiling publications.

MILITARY SCIENCE

When the Southwestern Military Science program began in 1971, it consisted of approximately fifty students. It has since doubled in enrollment, with about ten percent of those enrolled being women.

The program now consists of a detailed plan that has the overall aim to produce leaders from the students enrolled. The first semester course work introduces students to the military — both its design and customs. With a basic knowledge of the military, students then learn about the role of the Army in society and its importance in the national defense. The second year's instruction deals with the history of the American military, map reading, and tactics.

Advanced course work begins on the Junior level, with leadership seminars taking up a good part of the year's work. This emphasis on leadership continues into the final year, along with instruction in the advanced philosophy of tactics.

In addition to class work, members of the program take part in adventure training, which consists in part of water survival, rappelling, and orienteering. The Military Science students also have the opportunity to join organizations pertaining to their field. All of these factors help to make each student a leader, capable of conducting himself well in the Army today.

MUSIC

Having built a phenomenal reputation in the American Southwest, the SWOSU Music Department continued this year in their quest for better qualified music graduates.

Under the directing hand of Dr. James Jurrens, the constantly growing department has broadened its horizons to appeal to a wide variety of musical tastes. Jazz, modern, classical, pop, folk, and other types of music classes are provided for the music major, as well as the student trying to satisfy the General Education requirements.

Although the Music major spends endless hours wrapped up in practice, lessons, recitals and classes, he still benefits in a magnificent way — acquiring the ability to provide instruction for the music student, or pleasure for the listener.

School of Pharmacy

The School of Pharmacy at Southwestern added to the image of "The New U" with the completion of the construction of a new annex across from the present Chemistry, Pharmacy, and Physics Building.

With the addition of these new facilities, the faculty members have heightened the quality of graduates from the School. These high qualifications help some SWOSU graduates to find employment in one of the many community pharmacies. Still others gain employment in chemical and pharmaceutical manufacturing industries, drug sales work, government service in various state and federal agencies, public health service, and as commissioned officers in the armed forces.

Student pharmacy organizations help increase professional spirit among their members. The five publications of the School help to keep students, faculty, and alumni well informed about the School itself and changes in the profession.

Members of the Pharmacy School faculty are:

Dr. Walter L. Dickison has guided and directed the School of Pharmacy since his appointment to dean in 1957.

PHYSICS

Visiting a college campus can be an exciting event in the life of a high school senior, and a trek through the Physics Department can make it even more so. Mini-tornadoes have been created in the Physics laboratory, and this in itself can be a breathtaking experiment to witness.

Physics courses offered in the General Education field include astronomy and geology. Occupations in the fields of electronics and engineering are becoming more popular, and the needed background for both of these fields can be obtained at SWOSU.

Dr. Benny Hill, department chairman, and the Physics faculty provide classroom, lab and field experience to students. Together with thousands of dollar's worth of sophisticated equipment, they make the department a well-run part of "The New U."

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Facts and figures, dates in history — this is not all that is incorporated into the area of the social sciences at Southwestern. Geography, history, political science, and sociology are all offered to enable students to better understand their problems and the problems of the world.

"A chronological record of significant events, usually with an explanation of their causes," is a good interpretation of history. Much can be predicted about any country from reading about the previous occurrences recorded in its history.

Studies of the earth are made in all phases of geography. Not only does this include land locations and types of earth structures, but it goes into much greater detail.

Another area of social sciences is displayed most relevantly in everyday life. The foundations for American laws are discussed in the area of political science. Government institutions and judicial processes are explained in depth.

Who cares that in the 1930's the United States underwent a great depression such as the world has never seen before? It has often been said that history repeats itself and this is manifested most clearly today as the United States is in the midst of both inflation and recession. Economists today are examining the situation and seeking solutions to a problem that seems to be endless. Students in economics learn why this system operates in the manner it does and what can be done to improve it in the future.

Teacher Ed.
Psychology

Not until the end of the nineteenth century did colleges establish a division for teacher education and begin giving bachelor degrees for both elementary and secondary education. Oklahoma is now ranked second in the nation in the qualifications students must meet before becoming qualified teachers. Needless to say, Southwestern takes pride in its Teacher Education and Psychology Department.

This department includes many different programs for students at SWOSU. The Teacher Education Program provides students with appropriate experiences in orientation to teaching, child growth and development and educational psychology. There are thirty-six areas of specialization from which students may choose, including business education, English, industrial arts, German, mathematics, social sciences and many more. Applying the knowledge one has gained about his major-minor field to a classroom situation is what the Teacher Education Program is all about.

Psychology courses contribute to teacher education, especially child and adolescent development. Students may also be certified to teach psychology on the secondary level.

The Teacher Education and Psychology Department accounts for a large amount of SWOSU's curriculum. Many students on campus are involved with TEP and take advantage of its excellent staff and facilities.

ORGANIZATIONS

Accounting Club

Accounting Club is a growing organization which helps accounting students find employment opportunities and gives them a more well-rounded viewpoint of accounting as a profession. The membership grew to approximately seventy-five members this year, a considerable increase over last year's membership.

As added incentive to accounting students, the Accounting Club presents a W. W. Ward Accounting Award each year to a senior outstanding accounting student. This award is given in honor of the Chairman of the Division of Business W. W. Ward.

As a money-making project this year, the accounting students sold candles. They participated in the annual Business and Professional Day which was sponsored by the mother business fraternity, Phi Beta Lambda. The sessions were held in November and speakers were available to talk with students about business and its role in industry. They informed students of job placement and interviewing techniques used when they are seeking employment.

The fraternity was also involved in college-sponsored activities by playing intramural sports and being active in student government. Members Barry Smith, Joe Epperson, Rory Poulain, Doug Brewer, and Ben Allison were elected to senior class offices; while Charles Durbin served as president of Southwestern Pharmaceutical Association.

Margaret Park, Miss Southwestern, was sponsored by the Phi Delta Chi fraternity, one of the largest organizations on campus with 35 active members.

The fraternity is constantly striving to advance the science of Pharmacy and the institution at which they prepare themselves for the future.

Southwestern Pharmaceutical Association

Southwestern Pharmaceutical Association's new advisor for the 1975-76 school year was Dr. W. G. Waggoner. He was quite helpful and encouraging in all the group's activities.

The guest speaker at the first monthly meeting was Dr. Charles Rogers. His topic for the evening was "Things that Go Bump in the Night." The essence of his speech was the POSSIBILITY of extraterrestrial life.

As customary, SWPhA sold lab jackets this year, along with the traditional Homecoming mums. A new addition was the availability of handsome pharmacy jewelry with the design of the Pharmacy Postage Stamp on it.

At the October meeting, Mrs. Laquita White was crowned Pharmacy Queen for the year 1975-76.

Seven students attended this year's Regional American Pharmaceutical Association Convention in St. Louis, Missouri. One student, Marianne Cammack, was elected regional secretary at the Convention. This is quite a difficult position to win and the Association is quite proud of her.

The other students attending were Charles Durbin, Lugene Ethel, Janet Burt, Len Buntz, Charlotte Simer, and Mike Payne.

Student Education Association

Student Education Association, a daughter organization of Oklahoma Education Association, strives to keep future teachers informed of new and important innovations in the realm of education. Members who participate in this organization are not only members of the local Student Education Association, but also the state and national chapters as well.

Meetings, conducted the first Tuesday of each month, feature outstanding personalities in the field of education. These speakers bring helpful hints for conducting interesting classroom routines and information concerning what is happening in the world of teaching today. They also bring projected data of what will be happening in the future — when many of these students will themselves be teachers.

This year, SEA sponsored a Christmas dance rather than the regular Christmas party held at the meeting. They attend several conventions and represented Southwestern SEA in the best way possible. As one of the largest organizations in Oklahoma, Southwestern's SEA has a powerful voice in elections held at these conventions.

Baptist Student Union

Betty Smudrick, left, was BSU Homecoming Queen candidate for 1975. She was honored at the Homecoming Banquet following the afternoon football game.

The Baptist Student Union is more than an ordinary campus organization. It provides a place for students to break from their normal daily routine and attend a Noonday service. It is also a place for fun and fellowship; a place where one can play ping-pong, practice the piano, watch television, study, or just come to have a lot of fun.

Every Thursday evening, students gather for Vespers. This is a time when different speakers share experiences with the group and give them advice for personal, spiritual, and emotional problems.

Local missions activities that are relatively new are weekly nursing home ministries and Backyard Bible Clubs. Members go at least once a week to visit the elderly in local nursing homes. The Backyard Bible Club teams devote an afternoon weekly to sharing Bible stories and skits with younger children throughout the city.

A fall retreat was held at Lake Altus; and Oklahoma City was the site for the State BSU Convention. Freedom '76 was the theme, emphasizing the need to keep Christ in the new year.

Executive Council Officers for 1975-76 were: David Love, president; Max Simpson, vice-president; Wendy McLaughlin, local missions chairman; Paula Reed, secretary; Sue Dziduck, Noonday chairman; Reka Muse, activities chairman; Charlotte Franklin, summer missions chairman; Beth Brown, publicity; Rick Irby, devotional chairman; Debra Hulbert, music chairman; David Roberts and Sharon Hale, Outreach chairmen. BSU Student Director is Jim Morrison and Mrs. Lois Fisher is faculty advisor.

Bible Chair

As a religious organization sponsored by the Church of Christ, the Bible Chair serves a variety of purposes. In addition to sponsoring Bible studies, the facilities available to students allow them the opportunity for recreation, relaxation and fellowship in general. Basketball courts are nearly always being used when the weather permits.

Planned activities and devotional meetings help students grow spiritually as well as gaining new friendships. A special retreat to Boiling Springs at Woodward this year allowed the group to get away from school for a weekend and enjoy nature.

The group sings at nursing homes and at various churches. Times for fun were plentiful as they served banquets for Homecoming, Thanksgiving and Christmas this year. They also held a Halloween party.

Officers this year were: Rick Ruckman, president; Rolan Monigold, vice-president; Debbie Gage, secretary; Teri Smith, publicity director.

Chi Alpha Gamma Delta

Chi Alpha Gamma Delta, a religious organization sponsored by the Pentecostal and Assembly of God churches, has become quite active this year. They meet regularly each Tuesday night for Bible study and fellowship.

In addition to their group Bible studies held each Tuesday, they also have individual Bible studies. The group enjoys being together just for fun and also to learn more about God's work and the commandments He has given them to follow. Each day a noonday service is held to let the group take time from their busy day and gather together to praise the Lord and relax for a time of fun and fellowship.

Gamma Phi Beta

The year 1975 was packed full of drives and social activities for the women of Gamma Phi Beta. The Delta Zeta Chapter here at Southwestern originated in 1973 and since then has upheld the highest type of womanhood through education, social life, and service to country and humanity.

Marsha Caldwell served as president for 1975 and assisting her in her executive duties were Lee Ann Corbin Kirsch, vice-president; Debbie Rylee, secretary; Sherri Judd, treasurer; Steffanie Curren, rush chairman; and Karen Clark and Sherri Choat, pledge trainers. This group of girls led the sorority in sponsoring camps for underprivileged children in Colorado and Canada.

In addition to its charitable work, Gamma Phi Beta also participated in women's intramural sports with three basketball teams, one of which competed in the finals. They also took part in the All-School Follies.

Several members of the sorority took individual honors, Connie Oswald, 1975 Sigma Tau Gamma Queen; Cynthia Butler, Duke Award winner, Michaela Green, winner of swimsuit competition in the Miss Southwestern pageant 1975; Jan Burkhalter, Girl of the Year and Steffanie Curren, Miss May in the Girl of the Year pageant.

One of the main projects of the sorority is sponsoring the annual Girl of the Year Pageant. This year the sorority was honored to have Steve Davis, University of Oklahoma, as pageant master of ceremonies.

Fall rush proved a success for Gamma Phi Beta with thirteen new members initiated in December.

SPORTS

Cheerleaders

A vital part of success in any sport is support. Southwestern's Bulldog cheerleaders provide that aspect through thier undying loyalty to varsity teams.

In 1975-76 fans saw all new faces as far as the rah-ers were concerned. The cheerleaders spent most of their time practicing and traveling. Theirs is truly a time-consuming task, and the cheerleaders never failed to give that extra added boost just when it was needed most.

Head cheerleader this year was Elizabeth Fullerton.

Football

The Bulldogs had a rather disappointing season in '75, ending up with a 5-5 record. However, they showed signs of "Bulldog Spirit" in several games, crushing some opponents with an impressive defense.

Perhaps one reason for the mundane season was the fresh crop of players, including a number of first-time starters. But, the Bulldogs were in a building year, and can look forward to some winning seasons, in the years ahead.

Seven men were named to the Oklahoma Intercollegiate All-Conference Team, including Willie Lee, Tom Bergman, Scott Hallman and Lloyd Dismuke on the first team and Fred Bangs, Ron Morgan and Tom Randolph on the second team.

The Southwestern State University Bulldogs were: Row 1: L. Dismuke, D. Litsch, M. Fike, J. Coker, A. Scott, S. Delozier, D. Ream, M. Stanbrough, W. Crews, B. Moore, J. Palmer, K. Laubhan, G. Stallings, B. Harper, D. Shaw, Graduate Assistant Tony McFarland; Row 2: C. Reynolds, D. Perry, F. Bangs, B. Groves, R. Sloan, M. Little, T. Reynolds, B. Jump, W. Lee, D. Lindsay, G. Nipp, G. Calip, M. Brown, J. Newry, D. Hubbard, Wade Walling — Manager; Row 3: Coach Van Wilhelm, R. Hinton, H. Johnson, S. Hallman, H. L. Washmon, S. Miller, A. Walz, G. Donley, D. Cocannouer, L. Mendoza, K. Randolph, T. Bergman, J. Mjoseh, P. Ogden, D. Dunlap, D. Brown, F. Perkins, B. Rose, J. Cooper, S. Burnett, Coach Otis Delaporte.

Basketball

With an all-new coaching staff and a different playing strategy, the Bulldog roundballers gave the fans another exciting season. Head Coach Gene Robbins and assistant Stewart Marquis guided the team to a 12-12 record.

With an apparent slump coming on at mid-season, and Chuck Johnson, the Bulldogs center, leaving the team, the tables turned. Team revisions were made, and they proved to be rewarding. The Bulldogs went into a six-game winning streak, with their scoring averages jumping to a phenomenal 90 points per game following Christmas Break. That was a 21 point leap from their previous average.

Junior guard P. J. Simmons picked up most of the scoring load. He had been averaging 14 points per game, but after Christmas he began averaging 24 points per game.

Another guard, junior Matt Bush began to be a regular on the court. He picked up his scoring pace, along with sophomore center Eli Parnell, who became a starter this season for the first time.

Jack Coody, guard, seeing his last season at Southwestern, led the team in assists.

Seniors, Mancell Durrett, forward, and Ed Hayes, guard, made many contributions to the team particularly with their rebounding.

Individual honors were bestowed upon P. J. Simmons. He was named first team All-Conference and first team All-District at the close of the season.

The end of the season also saw Head Coach Gene Robbins turn in his resignation. He decided to leave coaching for other job opportunities.

Women's Extramural Sports

Women's sports at SWOSU? That's right. And from the looks of things, women will play a big part in sports from now on at Southwestern.

Field Hockey, Volleyball and Basketball are just a few of the sports pictured on these pages in which women have become involved.

These teams are considered "extramural," as they compete with other women's collegiate organizations.

Southwestern, as yet, does not have varsity sports for women, but hopefully, it is not far in the future.

Women — they're a "big thing" at Southwestern.

Baseball

Coach Cecil Devine, along with graduate assistant, Denver Riley, continued the winning tradition that has made Southwestern a leader in collegiate athletics, finishing the 1975 season with an over-all record of 23 wins and 12 losses.

Ron Kassanavoid, the ace pitcher for Southwestern's Bulldog baseball team last spring, led the 1975 squad in receiving honors. He was recognized as the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference Player of the Year for 1975.

Kassanavoid was also named to the All-Conference and All-NAIA District 9 teams, and joining him on these squads was Johnnie Burris, left fielder for the Southwestern team. Jerry Kurtz, first baseman, was selected for the All-Conference team also, along with Willie Lee and David Bugg who received honorable mentions.

In conference play, the Bulldogs were 16-4. A conference crown came within their grasp, but it was lost to Southeastern in a playoff game.

Despite that heartbreaking defeat, Southwestern was selected to participate in the District 9 tournament. In double elimination play, the Bulldogs were defeated twice during the tourney at the hands of Southeastern, again, and OCC. The championship was eventually captured by Phillips University.

The outlook for the 1976 Bulldog team is bright. Transfers from junior colleges around the state will be an added spark to the squad.

Although some of the 1975 team will be lost due to used-up eligibility and graduation, fresh faces will try to fill their shoes and hand Southwestern an even better team next year.

Tennis

Tennis has become one of the most popular and fastest-growing sports in the nation.

Recently formed at Southwestern was a school tennis team which competes throughout the state.

Being a fairly fresh organization, the team has not been able to recruit as many members as it would like. However, it is hoped that in time a following will be established which will gain support for the tennis team at Southwestern.

Team members this year included Mark Schones, Mike Stuart and Phil Kanelakos.

Golf

Golf is no stranger to Southwestern. The ever-increasing popularity of the sport has migrated to this campus in the form of a Golf Team.

Team coach Doug Bayliss along with faculty sponsor Coach Gene Robbins have seen to it that those students interested in golf have the opportunity to compete with other schools as well as among themselves.

Track

Run . . . Jump . . . Throw . . . those are the three basics of track. But as simple as they sound, they require plenty of skill and practice to master.

The Bulldog Track Team won two meets during the 1975 season, the Northwestern Invitational and the East Central Invitational. Also, they finished 2nd in the conference behind Central State University.

Coach Jim Thomas reports that "everybody is back" which makes the prospects for this season look promising. Five freshmen will lend more support to that bright outlook, and make the chances for winning the conference crown in 1976 better than good.

Rodeo Team

Southwestern's Rodeo Team, consisting of 36 men and 10 women, competes in the Central Plains Region of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association (NIRA).

In 1975 the team finished 10th in National rankings — the only Oklahoma school to do so. Team member Dean Richardson earned the runner-up title in steer wrestling at the National finals which was held at Montana State University in Bozeman, Montana.

Dr. Don Mitchell, Rodeo Team faculty advisor since the program began in 1968, has been one of the agents for the team's continued success.

Intramurals

Shattering the idea of the unprecedented, the "Flashpack" intramural football team battled its way to the intramural championship for the second consecutive year.

Led by player-coach Sam Vaverka and quarterback Jeff Pierce, the "Flashpack" defeated Phi Delta Theta fraternity in the final game of the season, scoring 14 points while holding the fraternity team scoreless.

Each team's players received individual trophies for making the final game, and also recognized were those doing outstanding jobs on offense and defense.

Intramurals

Basketball is another popular intramural sport at Southwestern. Although the prestige may not be equal with that provided the varsity team, playing intramural basketball is a serious thing for those who participate.

In the spring of 1975 the men's intramural champs for roundball were the Washita County boys.
