Southwestern's

Brandy

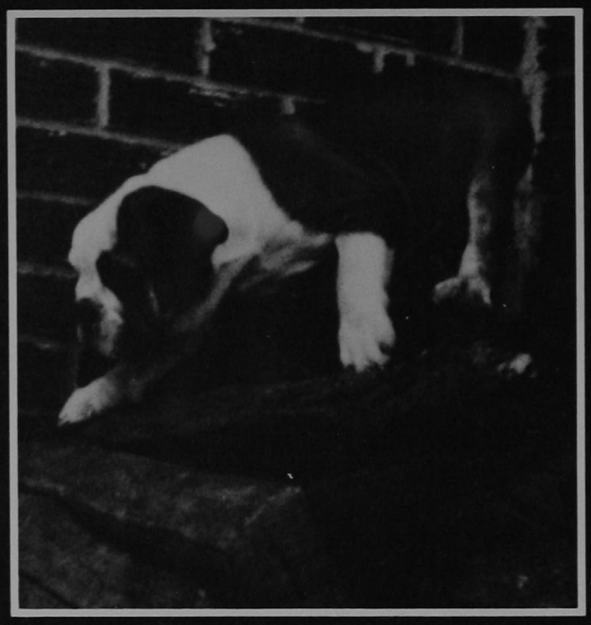
A dog is man's best friend and Brandy, the mascot of Southwestern, is one of the most popular personalities among the Bulldog fans. And a personality he does have. His easy-going disposition depicts the spirit of the typical Southwestern student. Yes, he is a real champion among champions.

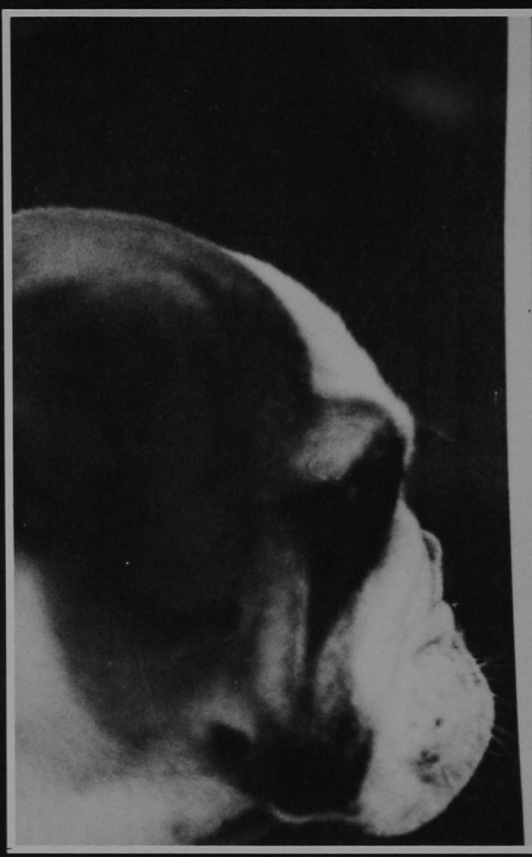
Brandy was purchased by a special committee of the Student Senate who, after a long and tedious search, found "the pup" in Ada, Oklahoma. He was bought as a puppy for a good reason; the committee wanted him to grow up with Southwestern and its people.

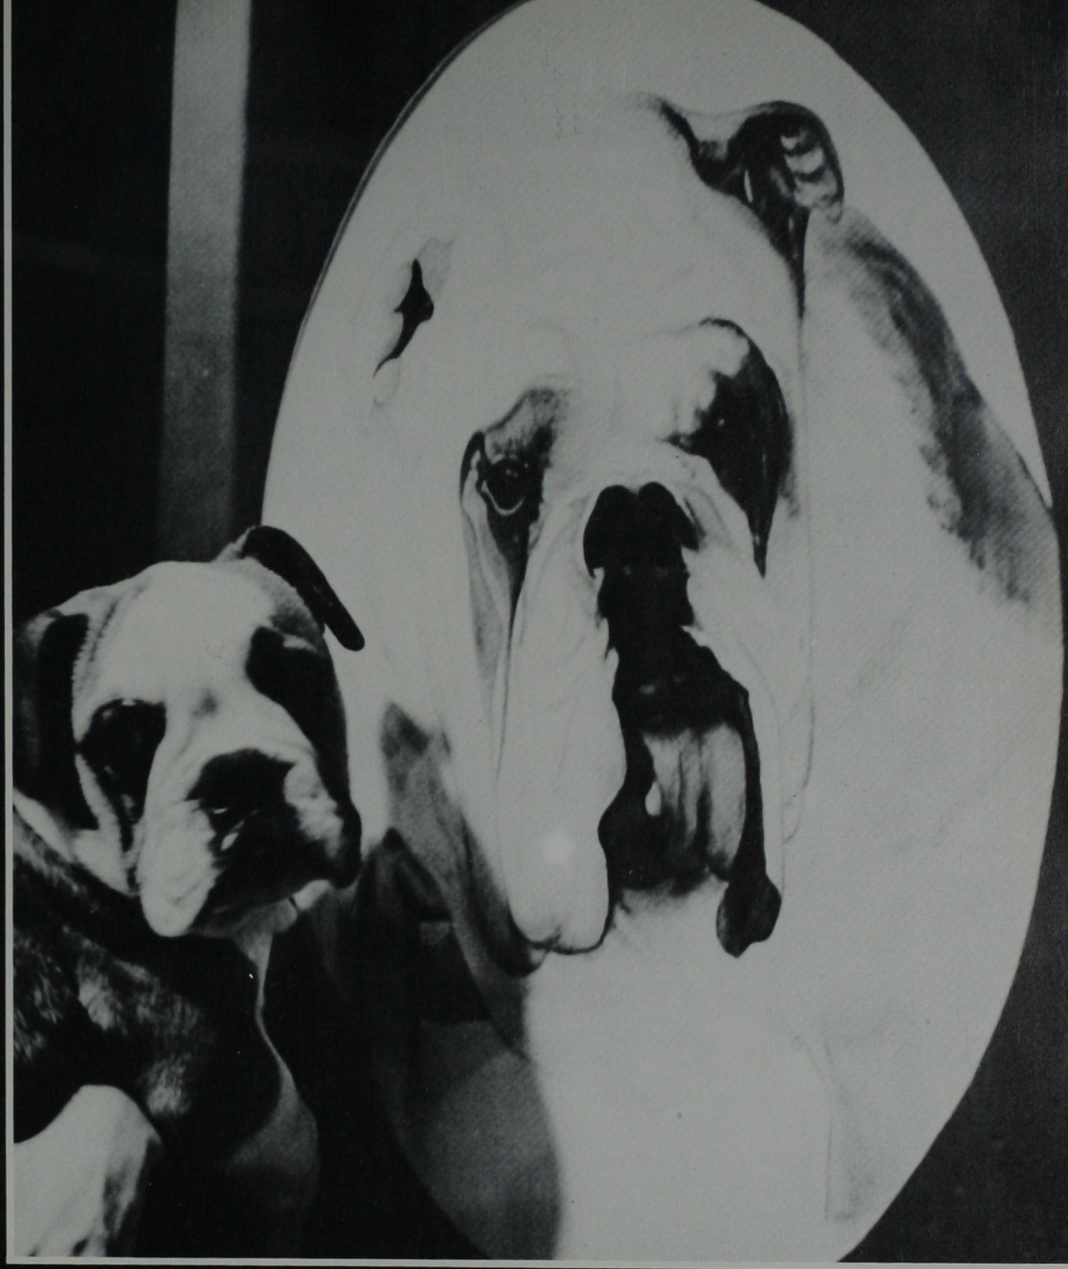
His first week in Weatherford was spent with the Rodney Corley family. Our fearless mascot made his debut at the Homecoming Queen Assembly where he captured the hearts of all. His next appearances were at the homecoming parade and game. His representation of the Bulldog spirit was highlighted when Southwestern challenged Northeastern and was victorious. Brandy's permanent residence is with the Southwestern Basketball coach, George Hauser, and his family.

The head of the Student Senate committee said "He's a real ham. He was born to be a mascot." He knows his territory, and a friendlier, smarter dog you will not find. In fact, he loves people as much as people love him.

Not only does he represent and uphold the spirit of our school, but he is a part of each one of us. Our spirit made the dream of a mascot a reality; and our student fees made his purchase a possibility. He not only belongs to each of us as individuals but is a very essential and vital part of Southwestern Oklahoma State University as a whole.







Turning Point

My first day of college was about to begin and the knot in my stomach was proof of how really frightened I was. The ringing bell told me that if I wanted to get to my first class on time, I'd have to hurry. So with my hands full of books and supplies, I turned and headed down the hall.

The sounds of clomping feet, chattering voices, and opening doors filled the air as a wave of students came toward me headed for their next class. I quietly stepped closer to the wall, out of the way of the crowd, ready to duck into the doorway a few feet ahead into my own class.

In one earthshaking moment I felt myself lifted up, knocked sideways, and bounced against the wall by someone that was moving so fast he appeared blurred. With a desperate attempt to balance myself I released the tight hold on my books and felt them slip from my hands to crash resoundingly on the tile floor. Books of every color, pencils, and paper all scattered in every direction.

"Oh, darn," I muttered silently, just knowing that this would take longer to pick up than the last bell would allow. So I bent down and began picking up the strayed parts of my school supplies.

Much to my surprise, two beautifully tanned arms with brown curly hair appeared in front of me. I lifted my head to see the face of a dark haired, handsome young man to whom the arms belonged. His mouth was tilted into a shy smile. He had knelt down and was helping me pick up the mess spread out around me.

"I'm terribly sorry," he said in a warm voice. "I really wasn't looking where I was going — trying to hurry, you know."

Yes, I knew, and now with my anger gone, I felt bad because he was going to be late too.

"Thanks for your help." I said as I finished and stood up. "You had better get to class."

"Yeah, I know and I'm really sorry. But before I go, tell me your name."

"Julia Gregg," I said in answer to his question.

"Well, I'm Brad Hill, and I'm sorry if I've made you late," he said and turned to leave.

I turned to leave, too, smiling to myself and heard him call my name. "Julia, would you like to go out Saturday night?"

A little embarrassed, I nodded "Yes" and smiled, then stepped into my class just ahead of the bell. And as I took my seat, I felt a short twitch of pain in my arms where I'd hit the wall, but the knot in my stomach was gone. Smiling to myself, I thought, "perhaps college won't be so bad after all."

Aardvark for Lunch

Every day he stood in line at the cafeteria racking his brain to find a way to become acquainted with her. Wasn't he the most avid student physicist on campus? Didn't his grades show that he was intelligent enough to figure out how to get in line at precisely the right time? If he could only get to the place either directly in front or directly behind her at least she'd have to acknowledge that he existed. She was always talking to those around him. Why not to him?

Maybe if he dropped his tray and the silverware scattered to where she stood in line, she'd notice him. Maybe he should just simply say, "Hi." No, she'd think that was dumb.

Then one day it happened! He was right behind her in line. A day never to be forgotten! Oh, he felt lighthearted and ready to burst out singing. What would he say? "Hi?" "Hello?" "How're things going?"

She turned around and looked up at him and smiled. He gulped. As he gazed into her eyes, his heart beating wildly, he very calmly and quietly said, "I hear they're serving Aardvark for lunch."

A twinkle showed in her eyes, and as she continued to look up at him, she said, "I've always wondered what the stuff is that they serve here."

"If we sit together for lunch, do you think the food will taste better?"

"We can give it a try."

She turned to the girl behind the serving counter and pertly said, "I think I'll have Aardvark today."

CLASSROOM CRUSH

I sat at a small table in the corner of the student union, amid the lunch hour rush of students gobbling hamburgers, studying for tests, or relaxing with friends. I was acutely aware of the couples in the crowded room, for I felt as if I stood out like an orange in a bowl of apples because I didn't have a boyfriend by my side. All the other girls seemed to. The boy and girl at the next table especially caught my eye. I couldn't hear what they were saying, but I could tell that they were accustomed to being together and immensely enjoyed each other's company. Pangs of envy shot through my heart as I noticed how easily the girl talked with the boy and how she lightly, but intimately, touched his arm as she talked — without spilling her Coke or bumping the edge of the table with her elbow.

"If I only had long blond hair and a smashing figure like that, I'd have guys tearing my door down!"

I pried my gaze away from the next table and bitterly peered around the crowded room. In my mind's eye, I pictured my Prince Charming — his name was Alex and he sat directly in front of me in my history class. I knew exactly where he parted his soft, shiny, brown hair and had memorized the curve of his tanned neck and the powerful build of his shoulders. I was always careful to comb my own thin hair and pop a breath mint into my mouth before I walked into class, just in case he ever turned around to talk to me. Only once had this happened — I had the day marked with a big red heart in my pocket-calendar. He had half-way turned around in his seat, flashed me a smile that belonged on a toothpaste commercial and asked, "Do you have an extra pencil?" I fumbled in my overstuffed bag, finally came up with my only pencil, and shyly handed it to him.

"Here — you can have it."

I hadn't been able to take any notes in class that day, but it had been worth it — he actually spoke to me!

Because I was still in my dream world, I didn't notice at first the tall, swarthy young man who was approaching my table. He put his hand on the empty chair next to me and said, "Excuse me, Helen, isn't it?"

"Oh, Alex! How are you doin' today?"

I blushed as I looked up into those beautiful cocker-spaniel eyes.

"Pretty good. Uh, is anyone sitting here?"

"No, go ahead!"

My heart was doing flip-flops as he started to pull the chair away from the table.

"Hey, thanks a lot!" Alex called over his shoulder as he dragged the chair to a nearby table and sat down with the university queen.

I sighed, shrugged my shoulders, and gathered my books. My departing thought was, "His ears were uneven, anyway."

Hair's A New Idea!

"Hair today — gone tomorrow!" Short hair made its debut on the Southwestern campus and cut its way into the hearts of many brave souls. Chris Rodriguez, an RA in Oklahoma Hall, joined the courageous troops of short hair styles. When asked her feelings about this drastic step, she said, "I love it! It's much easier to care for; I just wash it and comb it back."

"Easier" the key that unlocks the mysterious door to this new fad. The year 1980 was one of a fast pace, life ran with full force; yet no one wished to give up their well-groomed appearance to a busy schedule. Short hair did not play upon the female gender alone; it made a home in the hearts of many males. The harem-scarem styles of yesteryear were replaced by feathers, poodles, and other various short styles.

Though more and more Bulldogs turned to shorter styles, many SWOSU students chose to simply add some spice to their long hair. Braids, combs, and ribbons were only a few accessories of excitement used by these pioneers of new fashions.

Yes, hair definitely made an impression on 1980 fads. Bulldogs had to keep their eyes peeled because in this age characteristic of feathers, curls, and kinks; combs, ribbons, and braids, it was . . .

Hair today — gone tomorrow!

Never A Dull Moment . . .

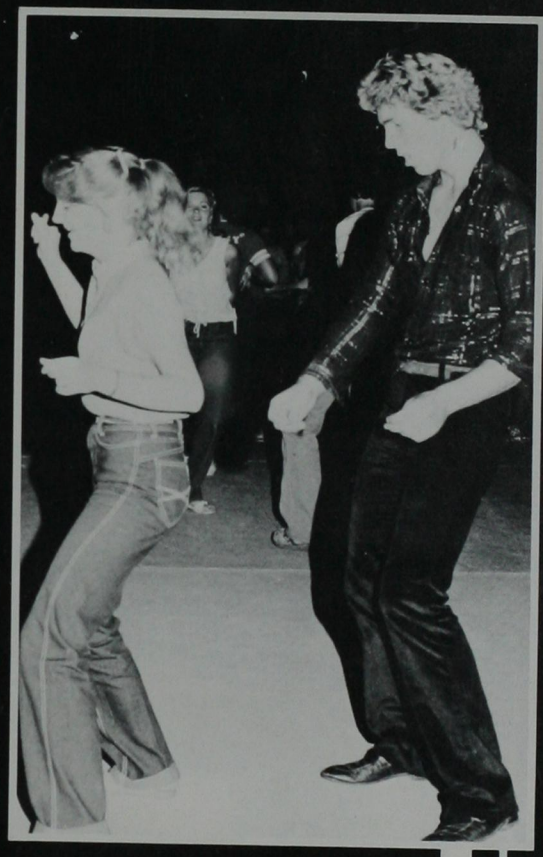
"I love the night life . . ." As night falls on the everyday hustle and bustle of the busy Southwestern campus, the activity shifts to other areas of interest. Dead Woman's Crossing, Little Ruffie's Grave, and Heaven are a few scenes visited by thrill-seeking students drawn by eerie tales of past happenings.

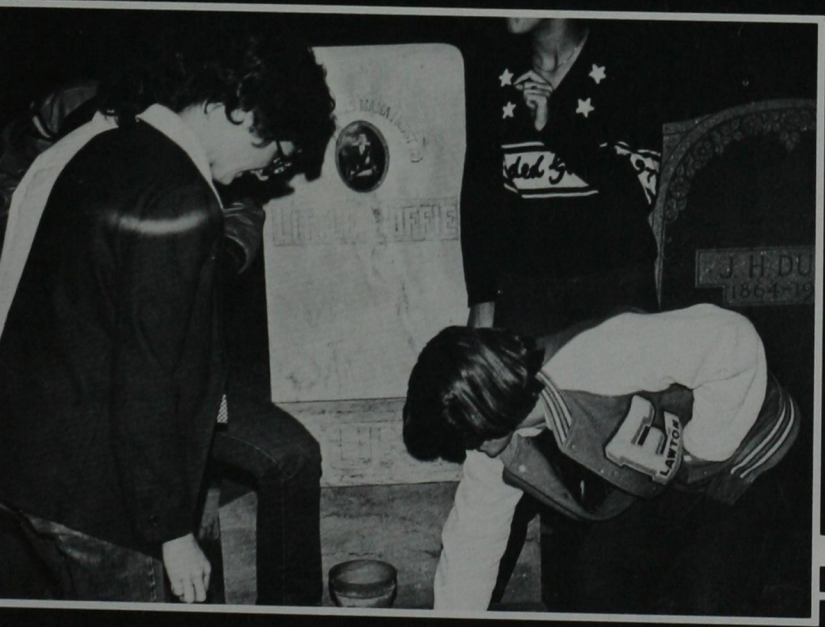
Parties, students gatherings, and other group activities were not the only attractions offered by such isolated spots. With gas at $.95 per gallon, economy proved an excellent excuse to partake of a favorite extra-curricular activity of students — parking.

Places such as Dead Woman's Crossing do prove to be good sources of excitement; however, some students find their action in town on Main Street. Dragging Main fills many hours of time in the night life of excitement-hungry co-eds. The monotony of the unbroken pattern is interrupted at least once to stop at a local drive-in for either a bite to eat or an opportunity to talk with friends.

Still other students spend their evenings with a twist of constructive activity. These energetic people can be found in such places as the laundrymat, grocery store, or car wash. Still closer to home, they are found hiding behind piles of books in the library. On-campus activity does not just consist of the drab everyday duties, good times can always be found at Student-Senate-sponsored events.

EARL





. . .On Or Off Campus

Dances, a watermelon-seed-spitting contest, and ballgames are only a few examples of close-to-home fun found practically at the student's back door.

We must remember, however, that the whole purpose of college is studying. At any given time during the day or night, students can be found cracking the books. From dorm rooms to apartments, restaurants to drive-ins, libraries to reading rooms, every space is a potential place of study.

Yes, the day in the life of a SWOSU student is full of activity, but when the sun goes down and the moon begins to shine, students can be found in various and sundry places fulfilling their needs — exciting or constructive activities.

1980 BULLDOG Provides Varied Memories

"I don't have ANY candids!" "Who was supposed to take this group shot?" "I have NO copy on any of these organizations!" "Can anybody tell me who this is a picture of?"

Thus the staff of the 1980 BULLDOG spent countless nights of coffee-drinking, No-Doze-popping, and panic-button pushing as last-minute deadlines were barely met. In spite of everything, however, that last troublesome print always managed to get cropped, the last cutline was composed and typed, and the beloved pages reached the publisher in time.

Chi Alpha Spreads the Gospel

Picnics at Red Rock, intramural softball games, and noon-day services at the Chi Alpha house — these are just a few of the fun and meaningful activities offered Southwestern students by the Gamma Delta chapter of Chi Alpha, a student association sponsored by the Assemblies of God.

Chi Alpha Gamma Delta meets regularly on Tuesday evenings at the chapter's house at 806 N. Bradley, and meets yearly with other Chi Alpha chapters at a Turner Falls retreat. The chapter's choir performs throughout western Oklahoma, Texas, and southern Kansas, spreading the gospel in song and testimony.

Chapter members work to provide outreach to the campus, a mission which teaches Christian maturity through worship, service, training, and fellowship.

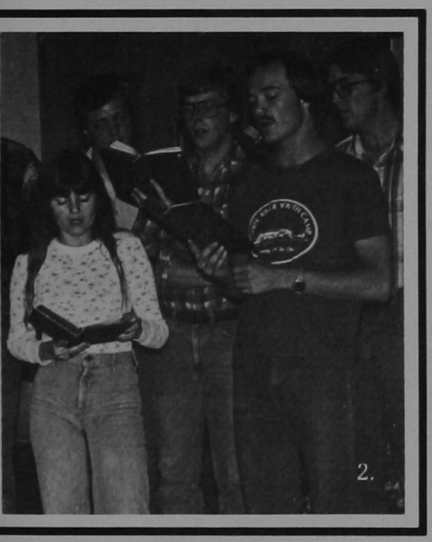
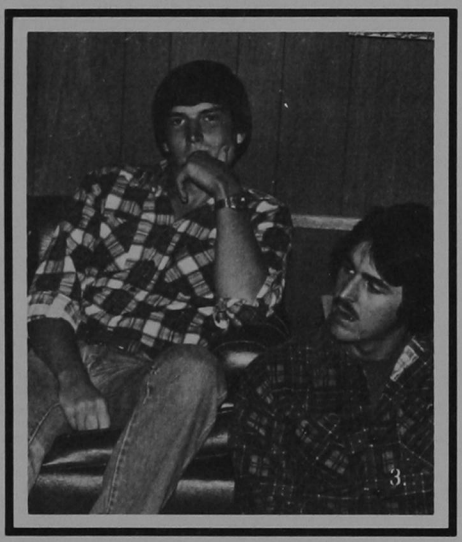
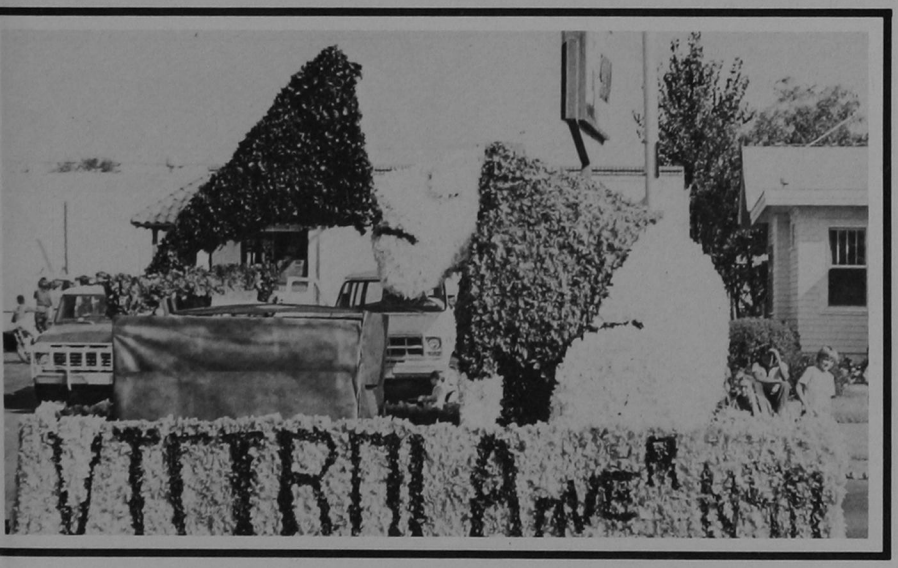
Chi Sigma Omega Known as Bible Chair







The SWOSU Bible Chair managed to spread its influence far beyond southwestern Oklahoma. Members took time out of their spring break to make a campaign trip to Apple Valley, Minnesota, and also made a special trip to Springfield, Missouri.

In addition to their out-of-town jaunts, Chair members managed to find time for weekly devotionals, dorm Bible studies, singing at Little Bird Nursing Home, and a number of dinners and parties.

The Church of Christ-affiliated organization was founded in 1967 to provide service to God through service to the community and the campus. The extraordinary closeness which grows between members through the organization's labors brings each individual closer to God.

English Club Goes National

For a young organization — only four years old — the English Club has grown into one of Southwestern's most active and involved student groups.

This year's English Club started the year out with a fall picnic co-sponsored by Alpha Psi Omega drama fraternity. The busy year continued with a pizza party, career nights, a gag-gift Christmas party, and a spring awards banquet featuring guest speaker Frosty Troy.

Money-raising projects during the year included concession stands at drama productions, garage sales, and a Valentine's Day bake sale. The funds gathered through the club's efforts are used to sponsor scholarships for the most active members.

Membership in the club, which was formed in order to provide a forum for cultural discussion and to increase interest in and understanding of the study of English, is open to all students having a major, minor, or concentration in English. Plans for affiliation with Sigma Tau Delta, a national English association are in the works.

1979-80 English Club officers include: Pam Robison, president; Angie Sanders, vice-president; Suzanne Cox, secretary; Kathy Penner, treasurer; David Wilson, historian; and Sheryl Suter, public relations. The club is sponsored by Jeanne Ellinger, Con Hood, and Joanna Roper.

Members and Dr. Mel Fiegel enjoy discussion and pizza at one of the monthly meetings after which the members attended a Southwestern drama program.

Economics Club Tours Neiman-Marcus

Where in the world can you buy a gift for the man who has everything? Where else but the glittering, gleaming, high-priced shelves of Neiman-Marcus — just one of the businesses the Economics Club toured during its October trip to Dallas.

The Economics Club began five years ago to promote understanding of economics among interested students.

1979-80 Economics Club officers include: Becky Baker, president; Diane Maupin, vice-president; Dana Rogers, secretary; Rhonda Lawson, treasurer; Vic Cawdle, public relations; and Dale Forrest, reporter.

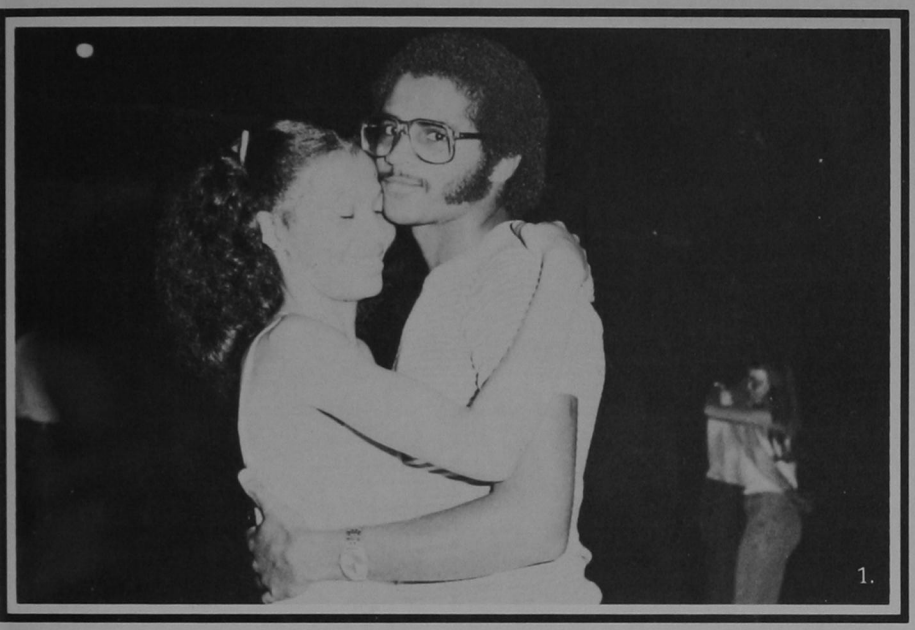
Exodus Emphasizes Black Fellowship



Exodus is becoming one of the busiest organizations on campus.

Social activities such as dances, a banquet, an annual basketball tournament, and black men's and women's intramural basketball teams are sponsored by Exodus. The organization contributes academically by providing scholarships for black high-school students and also aids the entire community and campus by sponsoring hypertension screening clinics.

1979-80 Exodus officers included; Michael B. Bailey, president; Alan Blaylock, vice-president; Rodney Johnson, secretary; Vincent Harris, treasurer; David Washington, parliamentarian; and Ray Ureuku and Gary Cooper, activity directors.

1. Ladonna Hayes and Carlos Hobart enjoy a slow dance during the the watermelon feed and dance, held during the fall. 2. Exodus club members are: Front Row: Jakie Crane, Linda Lane. Second Row: Carlos Harbert, Ray Ureuku, Allen Blaylock, Gary Cooper. Back Row: Vincent Harris, Edward Tyson, David Washington, Rodney Johnson, Mike Bailey.

Gamma Delta Kappa, Oldest Organization

Being the oldest organization on campus, Gamma Delta Kappa women's honor society has a reputation to uphold — a reputation of integrity and service to the campus and community. Donations to the Children's Hospital in Oklahoma City, the American Cancer Society, and helping with both the Special Olympics and Muscular Dystrophy Dance-a-thon take up most of the girls' time. However, they still manage to hold pot-luck suppers, ice-cream socials, and the annual honors banquet.

Gamma Delta Kappa officers include: Becky Hedges, president; Brenda Cheatham, vice-president; Linda Whaley, secretary; Linda Headlee, treasurer; Emma Alonzo, reporter; Georgianna Wilson, historian; Denise Wilson and Becky Thomasson, publicity chairmen; and Gina Meharg, refreshments chairman.

Industrial Arts Student Association Formed

Tours of Oklahoma industries provided members of the newly-organized Industrial Arts Student Association, formerly known as Iota Alpha, with opportunities of fulfilling the organization's purposes of increasing knowledge and understanding of our technical society and inspiring respect for the dignity of labor and appreciation for craftsmanship.

Club members visited the General Motors plant in Oklahoma City, Weatherford's 3-M Company, Woodworld Furniture Manufacturing of Geary, the Acme Brick Company in Clinton, and the Southard Gypsum Plant, in addition to attending regular meetings which featured special programs and guest speakers.

Banquets at Christmas and in the spring furnished members with a chance to socialize and honor outstanding industrial arts students.

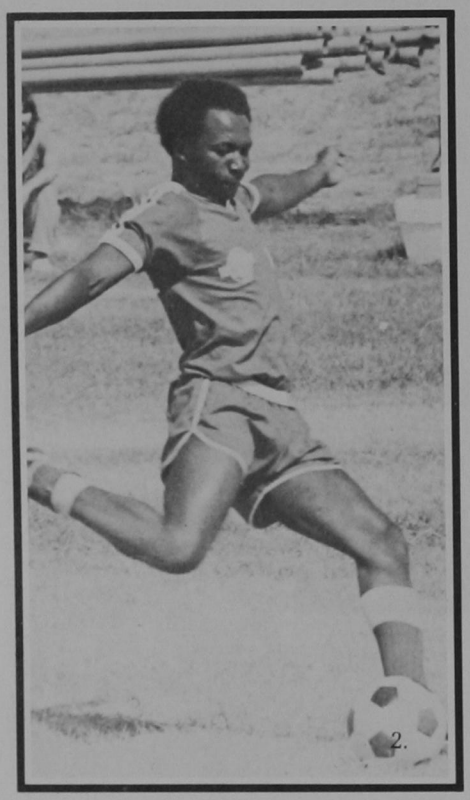
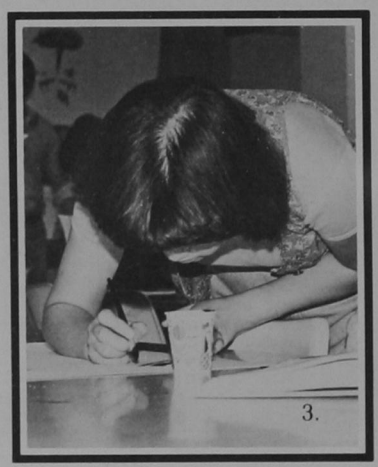
International Club Promotes Understanding

As varied as Southwestern's student body itself, the International Club brings together representatives from such countries as Kenya, Sweden, Iran, Jordan, Taiwan, and Afghanistan — in short, a miniature version of the United Nations.

In order to promote better understanding among all nations, International Club sponsors a town-and-gown coffee to which members wear their native costumes, a travelogue side show of their native countries, and an international tasting supper featuring foods from each country.





1. International Club stresses understanding among different nationalities. 2. Soccer is enjoyed by many international students. 3. Hard work went into making the float a reality. 4. IPA Hosts State Pharmacy Meeting

A student affiliate of the Oklahoma Society of Hospital Pharmacists, the Institutional Pharmacy Association is open to any pharmacy or pre-pharmacy student interested in hospital, nursing home, and institutional pharmacy.

IPA members participated in monthly meetings, attended Oklahoma Society of Hospital Pharmacists meetings and conventions, and held a picnic at the end of the spring semester.

In the fall, the IPA hosted a joint meeting of two state pharmacy organizations and sold ivy plants in IV bottles to raise money.

This year's IPA officers include: Molly Wilson, president; Susan Albus, vice-president; James Young, secretary-treasurer; and Nancy Coslow, reporter.

Kappa Epsilon Combines Work and Fun

Coke parties and kidnap breakfasts, sneaks and songs — pledging Alpha Beta chapter of Kappa Epsilon professional pharmacy fraternity is plenty of work and plenty of fun.

SWOSU women pharmacy students who emphasize high standards of scholarship and lasting bonds of loyalty and friendship have been uniting in Kappa Epsilon since Alpha Beta chapter's organization on January 28, 1960.

Kappa Epsilon members entertained and visited residents of area nursing homes on a regular basis, held their second annual spaghetti supper, hosted the Province H Convention in the spring, and celebrated Founder's Day with a spring banquet and dance.

Kappa Kappa Psi Keeps Band Movin'

Did you ever wonder how all of the instruments and equipment it takes to put on a half-time show are kept in order? The members of Southwestern's chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi know all about it. The men of Kappa Kappa Psi load and haul equipment for half-time shows and especially for the long-distance trips taken by the Bulldog band.

Members of Kappa Kappa Psi have participated in marching band for a full semester and have proven themselves outstanding band members, in addition to fulfilling eleven weeks of pledge requirements.

Kappa Psi Emphasizes Community Services

Members of Delta Beta chapter of Kappa Psi professional pharmacy fraternity served the community of Weatherford through their hypertension screening clinics for senior citizens.

Community service is an important part of Kappa Psi, as is the promotion of scholarship and the profession of pharmacy. The members have been admitted to the School of Pharmacy and are noted for their scholarship and character.

The chapter, which was formed at Southwestern in 1963, also finds time to participate in intramural athletics and hold dances at Homecoming and Valentine's Day.

Officers of Delta Beta chapter of Kappa Psi include: Dr. David Coates, grand council deputy; Randy Felder, regent; David Doherty, vice-regent; Greg Brooks, secretary; Bob Fancher, treasurer; Greg Greenlee, historian-reporter and social activities; John Johnson, chaplain; Steve Carter, sec. of prof. affairs; Rick Swearingen, alumni; Joe Forcum, athletics; Larry Gudgel, rush; and Brent Thacker, parliamentarian.

Member Mike Sayers listens intently to the monthly program.

Marketing and Management Clubs Unite

The Marketing and Management Clubs joined forces this year to organize one club. The organization is for those students who are interested in the fields of marketing or management. Visits to Oklahoma City to tour the Liberty Bank and Xerox Company gave members an opportunity to witness the business world.

1979-80 officers include: Richard Storts, president; Mike Smith, vice-president; Eric Sieber, secretary-treasurer; and Tammy McKeeman, public relations.

1. Marketing and Management members. 2. Tammy Randolph and Steve Miller enjoy a picnic at Means Park. 3. Richard Storts addresses members at the club's October second picnic. 4.&5. Members listen to discussions at the first meeting.

Marching Band Provides Half-Time Pageantry

"Tweet-tweet-and-up!" "Pr-r-resenting the Pride of the Great Southwest — the Bulldog Marching Band!"

The over-150 membered Bulldog band, under the proud direction of Dr. James Jurrens, marched, danced, and oom-pahed its way into the hearts of SWOSU football fans, managing to keep the stands filled even during halftime.

And band proved to be more than an activity — for band members, it became a lifestyle. Band members held their own dances, roomed together in the dorms and apartments, ate at their own "reserved" table in the cafeteria, and even published their own newspaper — the HTLITMOYF.

PSA Interested in Political Affairs

Political Science Association is an organization of students and faculty who are interested in political science and public affairs. Monthly meetings are often used to listen and discuss with selected guest speakers.

Their main objective is to promote fellowship and scholarship and to develop a more intelligent, aggressive and dedicated citizenry.

With the help from sponsors, Dr. Ed Rolinson and Dr. Robin Montgomery members hold a "Law Day" in late spring and put out a newspaper called "THE BROADSIDE."

1. Political Science Association members are: Front Row: Janet Shelby, The Broadside editor; Robert Walker, president. Second Row: Allan Bryson, Jeff Penner, Joan Thomas, secretary; Robert Campbell. 2. PSA members and Professor Wininger share views on current world affairs. 3. Dr. Ed Rolison tends to the grill at the PSA membership-drive picnic.

Rho Chi Maintains Scholastic Achievements

Scholastics and participation in service projects are stressed in the activities of Rho Chi national pharmacy honor society.

High admission standards of a 3.2 overall GPA and a school of pharmacy GPA of 3.2 typify the emphasis placed by the group on the promotion of pharmacy as a profession by maintaining an image of scholastic excellence.

The Rho Chi key, awarded upon a member's acceptance into the organization, is recognized as a symbol of achievement, professionalism, and scholastic ability.

Rho Chi officers include: Mark Lovell, president; Randy Felder, vice-president; Ella Stoddard, secretary; Tim Sampert, treasurer; and Ann Schaefer, reporter.

Song-and-Dance Returns With Jazz Show Choir

Broadway musical numbers and good ol'-fashioned blues, soft-shoe routines and the best of rock 'n roll — the newly-organized Jazz Show Choir crooned and tapped and smiled its way into the hearts of every member of its audiences.

The eight-voice ensemble, chosen by audition, was directed by Dr. Lloydelle Herring and Dr. Charles Chapman and accompanied by pianist Clark Huey and a selected ensemble of brass and percussion performers.

The choir presented a special concert featuring solos, duets, group song-and-dance routines, and other specialty numbers each semester, and participated in the two choral concerts given at Christmas.

With its bouncy choreography, outstanding vocal work, and varied repertoire, the Jazz Show Choir proved a matchless addition to SWOSU's choral department.

Jazz Show Choir members included: Mike Battles, Kaye Hildebrand, Rod Marcha, Rhonda Milton, Jean Perdicaris, Nan Puckett, Larry Walker, and Dennis Wearmouth.

SEA Supports Student Teacher Program

The Student Education Association (SEA) is a student division of the Oklahoma Education Association and the National Education Association.

The pre-professional organization for all education majors promotes education and prepares students for student teaching and their eventual entry into the teaching profession.

SHEA Gets It Together

With 53 members, the Student Home Economics Association, a collegiate chapter of the American Home Economics Association, is among SWOSU's largest and most active organizations.

Meeting programs on such subjects as aerobics, women in law, family planning, and foreign domestic cultures provide information and insight into the club's four major areas of concern — legislatism, consumerism, professionalism, and human relation.

Social activities are not neglected by the organization, however, as chapter members manage time to participate in an annual style show, banquet, and a pot-luck supper.

SHEA officers for 1979-80 included: Debbie Miller, chairman; Barbra Burgess, first vice-president; Lita Mosburg, second vice-president; Kimberly Kendall, secretary; Cheryl Vaverka, treasurer; Tammy Perkins, historian; Debbie Blazer, ways and means; Recia Poulson, parliamentarian; Sherri Strobal, publicity chairman; and Tammy Morgan, legislative chairman. SWPhA Has a Very Busy Year

Southwestern's largest professional pharmacy organization is also one of the campus' busiest groups. The Southwestern Pharmaceutical Association's activities began the first week of summer school with its second annual Ice-Cream Social, featuring not only ice cream but frisbee-throwing and volleyball.

The fall semester was kicked off by a hamburger fry at Rader Park and continued with the District VII Oklahoma Pharmaceutical Association meeting in Elk City.

Homecoming festivities became even more festive as the SWPhA's entry in the parade, a float entitled "If You've Got the Fever, We've Got the Cure," nabbed the first-place trophy.

A weiner roast and the annual Awards Banquet honoring pharmacy seniors were highlights of SWPhA members' spring semester.

This year's SWPhA officers include: Melodee Vines, president; Nancy Coslow, vice-president; Barbara Tauriello, secretary; Bill Carroll, treasurer; and C. D. Parks, historian-reporter.

The Southwestern, a Paper of People

Á little creativity, a bit of nerve, a great deal of insanity, and the ability to hunt-and-peck — the staff of The Southwestern managed to pool its efforts and produce a weekly newspaper . . . or whatever.

Through The Southwestern, with its Friday afternoon panic sessions and last-minute snack bar survey articles, students were provided with information on recent and upcoming events, entertainment in the form of feature articles, and a chance to air their views in the forum known as "Letters to the Editor."

Thus, weekly, the students of SWOSU were miraculously presented with a newspaper . . . well, whatever . . . composed not merely of paper and ink, but of blood, sweat, tears, a little creativity, a bit of nerve, a great deal of insanity . . .

¡El Club de Español Come Bien!

Highlights of the year for the Spanish Club included two Spanish dinners, a get-acquainted social at Means Park in the fall, and Spanish oriented meeting programs.

One of the main events of the year was a covered dish Christmas party to which all members brought their favorite Mexican foods.

An interest in the culture and events of the Hispanic world is the only membership requirement for SWOSU's Spanish Club, although officers must at least be enrolled in the intermediate course in Spanish.

Officers of this year's Spanish Club include: James Leonard, president; Cathy Blakley, vice-president and reporter; and Christi Steen, secretary-treasurer.

Student Association Purchases "Brandy Duke"

Gripes and groans and, once in a great while, a little glory — members of Southwestern's Student Association tasted a little of each during one of the organization's most active years ever.

Anyone who has lived through last-minute-panic committee meetings, long hours of I.D.-punching at the voting booth in the Student Center, and the constant wail from the constituents of "Can't you do SOMETHING about the cafeteria food?" understands what being a Student Senator is all about.

Of course, the 1979-80 Student Association managed to have its good times and glowing successes. The purchase of Southwestern's Brandy Duke, the new, live mascot of SWOSU, certainly proved a highlight of the Association's year.

A wild and woolly Homecoming Week, crammed chock-full of good times for the entire student body, also ranked high among the Senate's list of accomplishments.

Several Senate-sponsored dances, including a '60s dance, and a number of free movies were also presented.

And so, in spite of the gripes and groans, the many successful projects and student activities brought about due to the pains and efforts of the 1979-80 Student Association were well worth it.

Tau Beta Sigma Chapter Rated in the Top Ten

"Can you hem my pants?" "Shine my shoes!" "Do you do laundry, too?" Every fall, the ladies of Gamma Phi chapter of Tau Beta Sigma pin and hem and let out and tape and polish and marinate in K2R the 150-some-odd uniforms worn, torn, and mutilated by "the Pride of the Great Southwest, the Bulldog Marching Band."

The Tau Betas also manage to serve breakfasts before the Saturday morning band rehearsals, award a freshman scholarship, and present an award to an outstanding band member, definitely earning their ranking as one of the top ten chapters of Tau Beta Sigma in the country.

Tau Beta Sigma's officers include: Debbie Johnson, president; Laurie Mickow, 1st vice-president; Susie Lewis, 2nd vice-president; Vickie Snider, secretary; Kari Avey, treasurer; Gayla Brakhage, historian; Tammy Stewart, parliamentarian; and Debbie Nance, sgt.-at-arms.

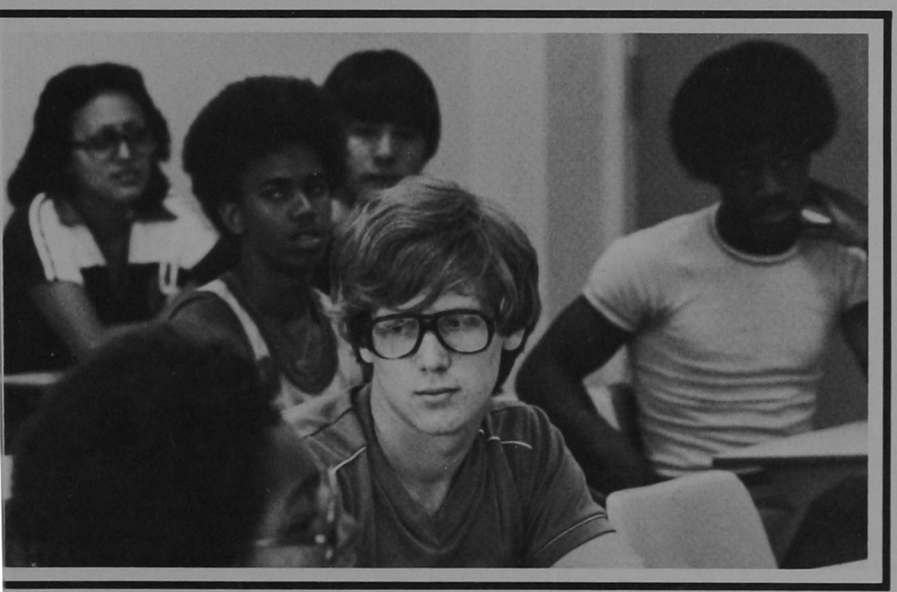
Upward Bound Serves High School Students

Upward Bound is a federally funded program for selected high school students within a 50-mile radius of SWSU.

Among the services offered by Upward Bound are: career and academic counseling and guidance, assistance in completing financial aid forms, tutoring, career orientated field trips, and an on-campus summer-school program.

The goal of Upward Bound is to guide students to a post-secondary education.



Wesley Foundation Provides Spiritual Growth

Outdoor activities such as a spring break skiing trip and camp-out retreats in the summer, fall, and winter help provide opportunities for Wesley Foundation members to grow spiritually through fellowship with other Christians of all denominations.

The Wesley Foundation, which is affiliated with the United Methodist Church, provides students not only with a home away from home, but even with grandparents away from home, as the older members of the Methodist Church adopt individual students.

In addition to regular activities, such as Sunday-evening dinners and devotions, Tuesday-evening Bible studies, Thursday-night choir rehearsals, and sessions with prayer partners, Wesley students participated in a get-acquainted "Wesley Week" during the first week of school.

Through fellowship opportunities with other students and the members of the United Methodist Church, Wesley Foundation members learn how to better serve God while exploring and learning about themselves.

Wesley's 1979-80 officers include: Paula Jones, president; Robert Glander, vice-president; Steve Roberts, secretary; Rick Jones, treasurer; Nancy Froh, worship chairman; Steve Burdick, building and grounds chairman; Paul Beach, choir director; Jane Dumler, newspaper editor; and Renee Rorabraugh, evangelist. Brett Collin serves as the group's director.

Women's Glee Perfects Performances

Under the direction of Dr. Merle Taff and accompanied by pianist Valerie Wilkins, the Women's Glee Club presented a concert of both sacred and secular choral material each semester in addition to its participation in two choral Christmas concerts.

The group, which is open to any interested campus woman, held rehearsals twice a week on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons to perfect its performance skills.

Women's Glee Club members included: Sunnie Cusick, Becky Darter, Alyson Davis, Vickie Downey, Margaret Durr, Roxane Green, Kari Guinn, Beth Harris, Karma Ingraham, Jeannie Langmacher, Carolyn Lewis, Sandy Mathews, Shelly Maupin, Lana Pankratz, Audrey Peterman, Lynne Stewart, and Linda Williams.

Women's "O" Club Stresses Sports Involvement

1.

Women varsity athletes are given an opportunity to build friendships and promote sportsmanship in the newly-formed Women's 'O' Club.

Active members of the club have lettered in one of the many women's sports offered by SWOSU — field hockey, volleyball, basketball, tennis, softball, or track and field.

Candy sales, a Dad's Day bake sale, and a spring awards banquet keep members busy between practices, games, and earning their letter jackets. Ms. Dianne Busch is the club's sponsor.

WRA Promotes Women's Athletics

Sponsorship of the women's intramural athletic program is one way in which the Women's Recreation Association accomplishes its goal of promoting higher physical efficiency among SWOSU women through sports, games, rhythms, recreation, and athletics.

Intramural sports sponsored by WRA this year included basketball, volleyball, and co-ed. softball.

The members of WRA, who must participate in at least one intramural sport, also attended a watermelon party in September, a Christmas party, and a spring picnic.

Cheerleaders Boost Teams to Victory

The Bulldog cheerleaders, headed by Carolyn Allen, did a fine job keeping the spirit going during football and basketball games. With pom-pom routines, cheers, and chants, they made an eye-catching picture in their blue and white uniforms.

Following the departure of Sue Stone, first alternate, Lee Ann Strong stepped in and filled the vacancy.

FOOTBALL

SWOSU Football Ranks 19th in Nation

Some pain, a great deal of effort, hours of hard work, and plenty of just plain guts — that's what it takes to get your team rated nineteenth in the nation and second in the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference.

Add to that lots of football know-how, a great coach, and some good, old-fashioned brute force and you've got a pretty good picture of this year's Bulldog football team — a group of men willing to put forth what it takes for a truly outstanding season.

Bulldog Gridders Receive Honors

Many of the Bulldog gridders were honored for the parts they played in this year's 8-2 season. Alfonzo McMillian, who led the team with five interceptions, was named "Defensive Player of the Year" by both the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference and the NAIA District 9.

Several Bulldogs were named to the All-Conference and All-District teams. Gary Harper and Willie White, both seniors, were chosen for the first defensive team and Carl Birdsong, a junior, was picked for the first offensive team.

Chosen for both the All-Conference and All-District second teams was defensive player Don Bentz, a senior. Named to the second All-Conference team were offensive players Myron Cook, Mike Meinert, Joe Quinn, and Brian Vaverka, and defensive players Biff Beard, Don Bentz, Jim Blake, Rocky Powell, Herbert Watson, and Mark Williams.

Southwestern's Carl Birdsong finished the season as the NAIA's leading punter, averaging 45.6 yards per kick. Placing seventh in the conference in scoring was Birdsong's teammate, Joe Quinn.

Leading the team in tackling was sophomore Gary Harper, who made 70 solo tackles and 37 assists. Myron Cook led the team in rushing with 547 yards for 136 carries and fellow Bulldog Al Kilgore caught 24 passes for 382 yards to win the title of leading receiver.

Bulldogs End Season 7-2

The 1979 Bulldogs opened the season against Sam Houston on the road in Huntsville, Texas. Southwestern with a very young, and inexperienced team came from 3 touchdowns behind to win the opener 33-29.

The next week, however, wasn't as cheerful as the Dog's ran up against national powerhouse Central State and lost a 28-0 decision.

The Bulldogs then played three straight home games and delighted the home fans with three straight wins. Panhandle State was the first victim 24-9. Next the Northeastern Redmen came to Milam Stadium on homecoming day nationally ranked and undefeated but left SWOSU with a bruised pride and a 22-13 loss to the Bulldogs. Eastern New Mexico came to town the following week and Southwestern entertained the Greyhounds by beating them 30-6.

The Bulldogs lost their momentum the next week in Ada against East Central in the OIC showdown as the Dogs lost a hardfought game 28-14.

But the Bulldogs fought back to win their final three games. Texas Lutheran came to Weatherford and the Dogs handed them a 16-7 loss. Then it was on to Northwestern where the Bulldogs recorded a shutout with a 27-0 win. Southwestern then finished off a fine 7-2 season at home the following week with a 35-20 thumping of Southeastern on Dad's Day.

1979 was Head Coach Bob Mazie's second season to lead the 'Dogs. He was joined by Bob Densmore, Larry Geurkink, and two new coaches, Woody Roof and Ed Buffum. Graduate Assistant, Louis Mendoza, also helped out with the coaching responsibilities.

Under the direction of these five coaches, the Bulldogs produced some fine players. Two of these outstanding players were Alfonzo McMillian, a defensive back from Armory, Mississippi, and Carl Birdsong, the kicker, from Amarillo, Texas. Both of these young men were named on the first team of the NAIA All-American team.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Bulldogs Cause Excitement

With a young, inexperienced team, Coach George Hauser and the Bulldogs tackled the 1979-80 basketball season with a lot of courage and determination.

The Bulldogs had trouble with injuries and eligibility all the way through the season, but finished with a season.

Even though it was a losing season, there was lots of excitement. The Bulldogs played hard and fought each game to the wire. With the nucleus of the team returning for next season, Bulldog players and fans are looking forward to the future.

Two Seniors Leave Bulldogs

As one of the two Seniors on the Bulldog basketball team, Kevin Eberhart was once again the floor leader with an average of 11.5 points per game. Ken Trickey, the other senior, also finished his Southwestern basketball career in a fine fashion.

Juniors Rod Turney, Freddie Kibby, Bruce Harrington, Dennis Constein, and Jeff Arnold put in a lot of time on the floor. Turney continued to be one of the toughest defensive players in district nine. Kibby thrilled the crowds with long jump shots and Harrington, Constein and Arnold improved steadily throughout the year.

Future Good For SWOSU Basketball

The Bulldogs used a few underclassmen during the season that really helped the team out, Sophomore Jerry Jones boosted the 'Dogs by scoring 292 points. The younger of the Harrington brothers, Kevin, did a good job after coming off the bench and Mark Peck filled in at point guard in some very tough situations. Freshman Steve Guthrie also saw some playing time.

The Bulldogs final season record did not do justice to the entire season. All the players improved as the season went on. The team more than held their own in a very difficult conference and district. The future looks good for Southwestern basketball.

MEN'S TRACK AND FIELD

Track Team Wins OIC Meet

With a final score of 72-70, Southwestern's track team became 1979's conference champs. Supreme efforts by Farland Dindy and Gary Richardson earned the men Most Valuable Athlete titles in the running events.

Southwestern's entire team did an extraordinary job, however, with first place awards in six events. Biff Beard placed first in the discus throw, J. Odom won the mile race and the 880-yard run, Farland Dindy led the field in the 440-yard dash and the 120-yard hurdles, and Gary Richardson placed first in the 100-yard dash.

Second place awards were won by Alfonzo MacMillan in the long jump and Rick Osborne in the pole vault, while Ferguson in the high jump and Gary Mason in the pole vault placed fourth. Lewis placed fifth in the high jump.

MEN'S TENNIS

Tennis Team has 12-6 Season

1.

Coach Dick Kaiser's men's varsity tennis team wrapped up a winning 12-6 season by placing third in the conference.

Three players — Bruce Bailey, Chris Wall, and Jimmy Wright — were named to the All-Conference team.

Individual records for the season were: Bruce Bailey, 12-6; Mac Morris, 10-8; Dave Natali, 10-8; Laurence Peres, 9-9; Chris Wall, 11-7; and Jim Wright, 12-6.

Golf Team Conference Champs

A winning season was enjoyed by Southwestern's varsity golf team as they bagged the conference championship for the third year in a row and placed third in the district.

Three individual golfers won honors of their own. Bob McAfee won the District 9 Medalist honor as a number one golfer and qualified to go to the National Tournament at Greensboro, North Carolina. Chuck Moyer made the All-Conference team and was a Medalist at the OIC Tourney. Kenny McGee also made the All-Conference team.

RODEO TEAM

Eight Compete in College National Finals

1.

Southwestern's 65-member rodeo team, the fifth team in the nation, has a busy year with four N.I.R.A. rodeos, the Central Plains Regionals, and the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Finals at Lake Charles, Louisiana.

The rodeo team has grown from a membership of three since its founding by Doc Mitchell seventeen years ago. Team members not only compete in rodeos, but must maintain at least a 2.0 GPA while enrolled in at least twelve credit hours and must be members of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association.

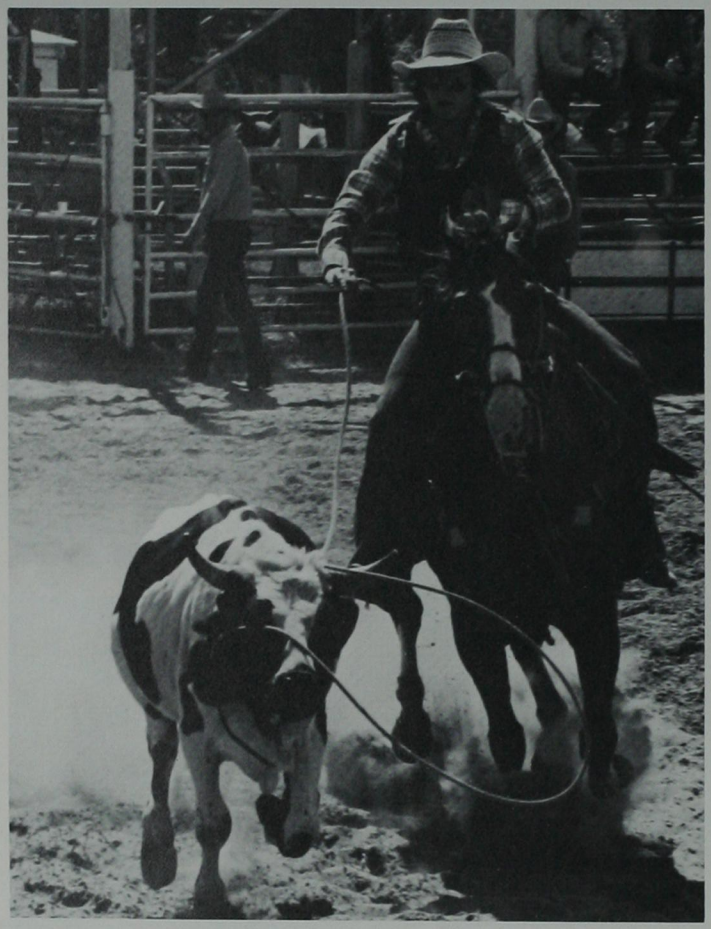
1. Chris Didier rides with a deep seat and a far away look in his eyes. 2. The steer hasn't got a chance when Alfalfa Fedderson takes his head and Paul Duncan gets his heels. 3. Bana Perry runs her horse through the barrels. 4. David Craig gets the loop on his calf.

Rodeo Team Has Outstanding Members



Bana Perry was named champion barrel racer in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association and was Central Plains Region runner-up in women's team rodeo. She also won the championship in the Central Plains Region of the N.I.R.A. in the barrel racing events.

Other SWOSU rodeoers also did an outstanding job in the Central Plains Region of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association. Reid Simmons was the saddle-bronc champion and John Mitchell was a champion calf-roper. Tammy Cleveland won runner-up honors in goat-tying and Gary Toole was a runner-up in bullriding. Cindy Eckert was breakaway roping runner-up and Bob Chaney was a runner-up in steer wrestling.

1. David Craig skillfully slips his loop over the steer's horns. 2. Cole Tindol readies his riggins for another bull. 3. Tammy Cleveland was Central Plains Region goat-tying runner-up.

Volleyball Team Shows Promise

The women's varsity volleyball team did a fine job in competition with the other teams in their conference. Coached by Debbie Vosler, the girls showed striking promise as they volleyed for SWOSU.

1. Pat Jordan, number 32, looks on while Vanessa Janzen bumps the ball. 2. Sharyl Newcomb gets it over. 3. Lady Bulldogs Have Tough Year

The Southwestern lady Bulldogs, led by Coach Laura Switzer, had a tough year in 1980.

Even though Coach Switzer's team was young and inexperienced, Southwestern again fielded a very competitive women's basketball team.

Led by high scorer Elizabeth Phillips and top rebounder Lisa Wiebe, the girls fought out a 5-11 season, making hopes of a better team in the future.

The team was made up of all Oklahoma girls who were mostly from the Weatherford area.

1. Jamie Smith throws up a shot while Rhonda Scott gets position for a rebound. 2. Darla Horst looks for the open girl. 3. Tennis Squad Has Successful Season

Yet another successful SWOSU team was Coach Lin Murdock's women's tennis squad, whose skillful racquet-wielding earned them third place in District 9.

Much of the team's success was due to the efforts of several individual players, including Penny Carpenter, who won a consolation trophy in the regional semi-finals, and Jackie Holman and Melodee Vines, who won consolation awards in the regional tournament.

A consolation award in doubles was also won in the regional finals by Barbara Potter and Melodee Vines.

1. Jackie Holman prepares to return the serve. 2. "If I am going to play tennis, why doesn't somebody throw me a ball?" 3. Members of the women's varsity tennis are — Front Row: Laurie Kluver, Barbara Potter, Sonja Wilburn. Back Row: Coach Lin Murdock, Penny Carpenter, Melodee Vines, and Jackie Holman.

3.

Two Thousand Become Part-time Athletes

Two thousand students took time out from their studies to participate in intramural sports this year. Football and basketball were the most popular sports for part-time athletes of both sexes, who found intramurals an excellent opportunity for relaxation and exercise.

Thirteen hundred male students and seven hundred females managed to take advantage of the offered programs through Greek or independent leagues.

4.

1. Number 13 feeds the ball in. 2. Girl's intramural basketball was very popular. 3. Some guys preferred intramural baseball. 4. It's a hit!! 5. Football games had a tendency to get rough. 6. "Flash Pack" was first place intramural football team. 7. The "Guys and Dolls" co-ed softball team were first place for the second year in a row. 8. Some people took a more passive role in the games. 9. The girls games were just as hard fought as those of the boys. 10. The "Hotshots" won the championship in intramural basketball.

Duke Awards Honor Outstanding Students

Only at Southwestern could outstanding student leaders be honored to receive awards named after a dog. Of course, the dog was the school mascot, and the awards are the coveted Duke Awards, presented during the annual Duke Awards Honor Assembly held each May.

The assembly, which also included the installation of the 1979-80 Student Association officers, was presided over by Mike Calvert, Student Association president.

The recipients of the awards included: Dana Breeze, K. B. Cornell Accounting Award; Mike Warkenton, W. W. Ward Accounting Award; Jayme Johnson, Accounting Club Award; Donna Vowell, NBEA Merit Award; Mark Baker, Chemistry Award; Gary Durbin, Computer Science Outstanding Student Award; Bob Dick, Theatre Achievement Award; Susan Younkin, Grace Jencke-Gladys Bellamy English Award; Cynthia Schilling, Harry C. Mabry Forensics Award; Susan Jackson, Kathy Olds Foundation Scholarship; Janet Hawkins and Melissa Outhier, Home Economics Awards; Toby Hawkins, John L. Cermak Award; Sherry Caton, Dr. Clarence McCormick Outstanding Math Award; Rob Scott, George C. Marshall Award; Linda Perryman, Music Award; Cathy Sauer, Journalism Award; Ken Shaw, Newspaper Award; Ben Williams, Outstanding Pre-Medical Student Award; Kimberly D. Taylor, Social Sciences Academic Excellence Award; Chet Hundley, Debra Harris, and Teresa Tenney, Teacher Education Awards; Peggy Haller and Marilyn Massey, Kappa Delta Pi Awards; and Mary Jo Schanz, Yearbook Award.

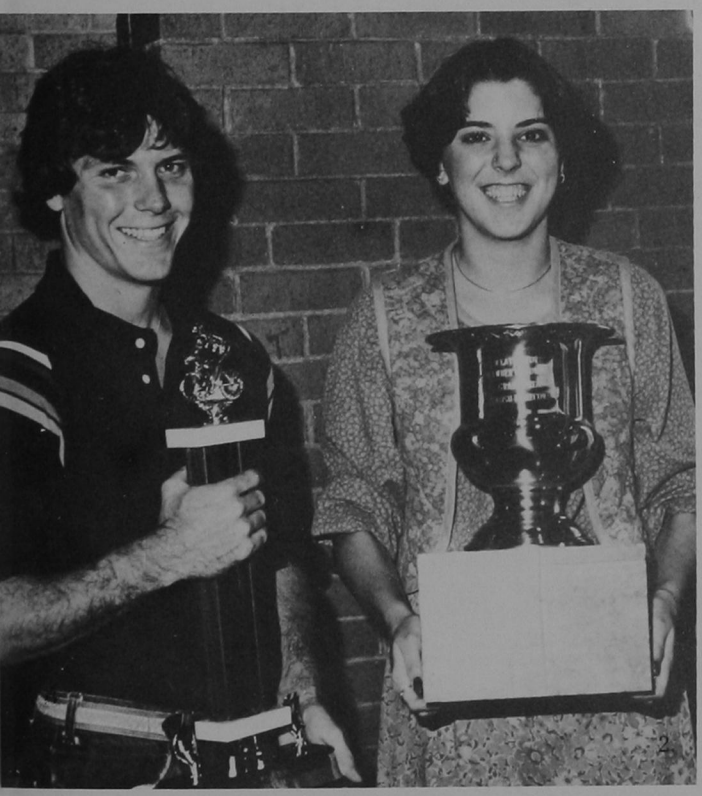
1. Happiness is apparent on the faces of Mike Calvert, Tim Hutto, Jo Ann Epperson, Mike Riley, and O'Dellas Murrell as they receive their Outstanding Student Leader Awards. 2. The coveted President's Trophy is cheerfully accepted by Lynn Eby of Gamma Phi Beta.

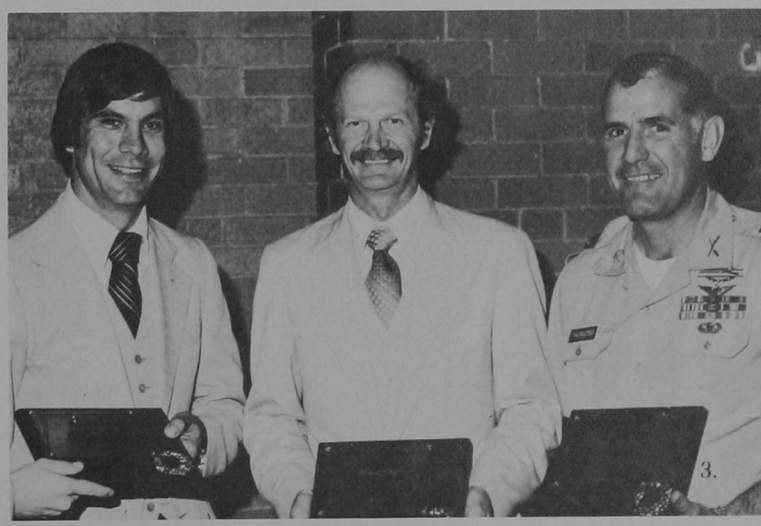
First of several awards presented by the Student Association were the Best Citizen Awards, chosen by the student body in a general election and presented to Melinda Berousek and Tim Hutto at the assembly. Outstanding Student Leader Awards were received by Mike Calvert, Jo Ann Epperson, Tim Hutto, O'Dellas Murrell, and Mike Riley.

Outstanding students in each class were: Paula Smith and Rocky Lee, freshmen; Mary Jo Jones and Mark Province, sophomores; Barbara Burgess and Steve Goulding, juniors; and Colleen Hacker and Tim Hutto, seniors. Melinda Berousek, Barbara Burgess, Brenda Cheatham, Steve Haenchen, and Mark Province received Special Service Awards.

Appreciation Awards were presented to Mr. Dan Foreman, Mr. Dave Kelley, and Lt. Leon Thurgood.

Phi Delta Theta won the Blood Drive and Bike Marathon Awards, the Homecoming Float Trophy was presented to Bible Chair, and the President's Trophy was awarded to Gamma Phi Beta as outstanding organization.





1. Outstanding class members were honored with Duke Awards. 2. Tom Estep accepted the Bike Marathon Award for Phi Delta Theta and the Bible Chair's Homecoming Trophy was presented to Michelle Riley. 3. Mr. Foreman, Mr. Kelley, and Lt. Col. Thurgood smile as they receive their Appreciation Awards.

The 1980 BULLDOG could have never been produced without the help and support of many special people. These people include the BULLDOG staff and editors who gave up every kind of social life, skipped meals and sleep, and sacrificed grades in order to take up permanent residence in the journalism room.

Special thanks to Mike Riley and Teri Emel for all their help and encouragement. What you lacked in experience was greatly made up for with your optimistic enthusiasm. The fine arts of cropping, copy and cutline writing, and layout design can be learned, but good attitudes are hard to come by.

To everyone who volunteered time to help type, draw layouts or run errands, I would like to express my sincere appreciation. There are too many of you wonderful people to name, but I would like to recognize a few. Thanks to Teresa Moore for her brilliant sports layouts, Saundra Rinerson for being "Resident Comic," Janet Shelby for being ready to help everyone come deadline time, David Burlison for stepping in at the last moment as a photographic wonder, and Jan Buschman for being the perfect non-grumbling secretary.

I would also like to thank the Registrar, Mr. Bill Wilmeth, and all his fine people for the extra work they did to help promote the sale of this book. Also thanks to Jack Shelton and the Public Relations Department for prompt aid during our photographic crises.

Probably the biggest thank you of all goes to the greatest yearbook advisor in the world, Mr. Richard Wilson. Thanks for being so patient and lenient with me. I appreciate your letting me try all kinds of ideas and letting me make so many changes in this year's BULLDOG. Thanks also for all the nights you've stayed up, patiently waiting for us to finish quad packs so they could be rushed off to the publishing company. The pizzas and hamburgers you provided helped nourish us and get us through many a deadline. Thanks a million!

Another thank you is in order, and it goes to all the students of Southwestern Oklahoma State University. Thank you so very much for allowing me the privilege of editing your yearbook, the 1980 BULLDOG.

May this book, in years to come, truly "reflect" life at Southwestern, and evoke some of your most pleasant memories.

Thanks to you all,

Pam Robison
