Park-A-Holic Conquers Passion

Parking. At first glance it appears to be a simple word, an innocent looking word. It only has two syllables and it is easy to pronounce. In fact, "parking" happens to be my favorite word of the entire English language.

Unfortunately, I also like to indulge myself in performing this sacred activity. I'm the type that would "pave paradise and put in a parking lot."

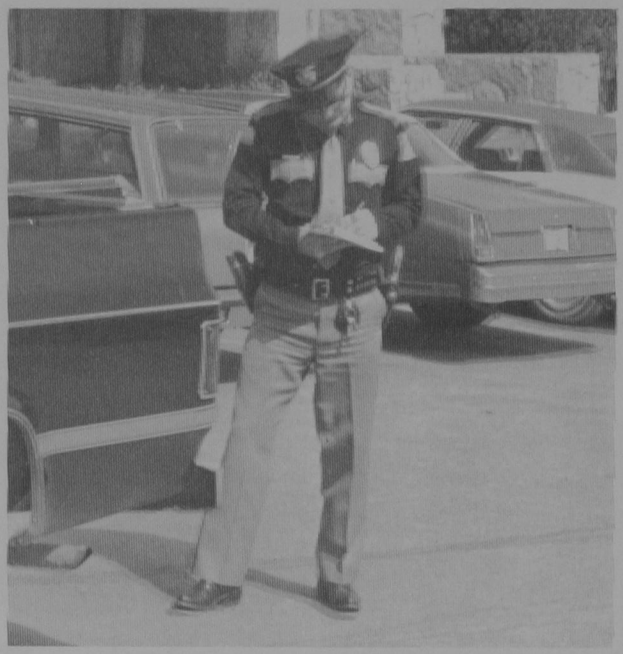
Offer me a place to park, and I'm in heaven. Why, I've been in as many as 200 parking spaces in one day, and I know them all . . . the narrow, lined, metered, covered. Just thinking about pulling in one puts chills up my spine and makes my palms sweat.

Yes, I am a Park-A-Holic, and I am not ashamed to admit it because I am doing something about it. That's why I became a college student.

College has made it easy for me to say, "I no longer need to park." I am free of the temptation of having available parking spaces around me.

However, it wasn't easy at first. I can remember the days when I would get up an hour early, pack a lunch, and begin searching the campus for a parking space. If I missed a class or two, I didn't care. I had this crazed obsession to park that made me forget everything else.

When I started receiving drop slips, I thought I better try something else. This was frustrating, and soon I lost all parking etiquette. I began parking anywhere – designated or otherwise. Usually it was otherwise, and this led to my receiving tickets signed by our friendly campus policeman.



This situation got out of hand, and brought about a personal war between him and me. If I saw a car parked somewhere one day without getting a ticket, and I parked there the next day, I got a ticket! Even if an area was not clearly marked "no parking," it was such when I parked there. To give a clearer example of my dilemma, I have papered an entire wall with parking tickets since school started.

The campus police would wait for me . . . follow me. The minute I would start to park, he would appear, and I would end up parking downtown and walking back to school – great for my health, but bad for my morale.

Then I decided on a brilliant solution. I began camping out on campus. This way seemed to satisfy my "habit" and guard me against any more unnecessary "academic expenses," but it was also impractical, a bit extreme, and I might add; lonely. I had been taking 19 hours in the Fine Art of Finding a Parking Place, and the system was winning.

Now, I can say with all the confidence in the world, college parking facilities have reformed me. However I must admit when I see a vacant spot right by my building, after I have just walked a mile through rain and 50 m.p.h. wind my teeth clench ever so slightly.

I think what really proved to be the final victory in my bout with parking was when the parking lot north of the gym was closed – I just laughed. Thank you Southwestern, for giving a girl with a problem a chance to conquer a passion for her favorite word.

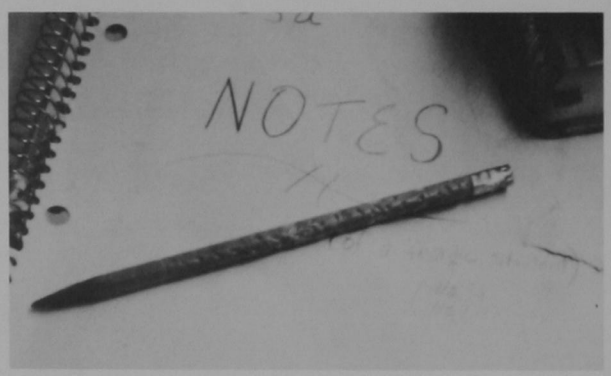
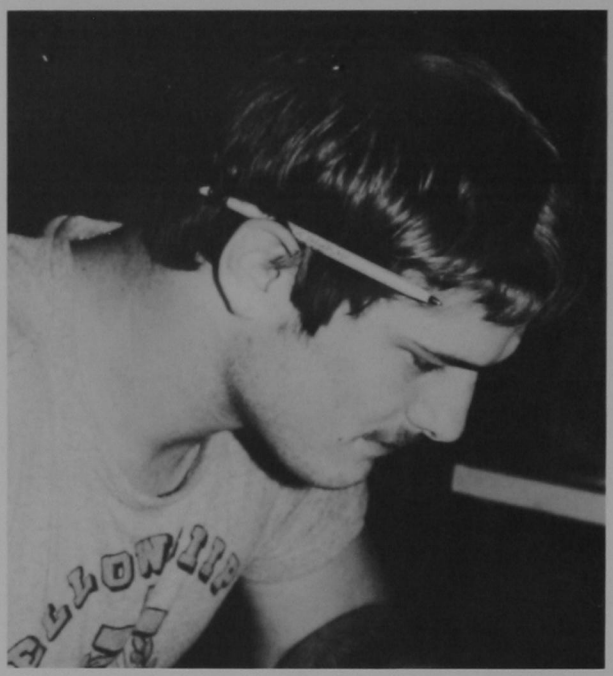
The Perils of Pencils

If anyone thinks it's easy being a pencil, I'd like to dispel that myth right now. Last week some guy named Mark bought me from the University bookstore, and my life has been a nightmare ever since. The first thing he did was to stick my feet into a machine that shaved them to a fine point. Being crippled and unable to defend myself, there wasn't much I could say when he stuck me above his ear into a glob of undistributed Brylcreem. I've always taken extreme pride in my appearance, so think how devastated I was to find my trim and efficient shape being grossly disproportioned by this madman's teeth! I was so relieved when Linda (the girl that sits behind Mark) asked him if he had a spare pencil and he reached for me. Of course Mark had to do me a final disservice by dropping me headfirst onto a cold tiled floor.

As I looked up at Linda I can remember thinking how nice it would be to have legible penmanship, a safe, respected home, and the companionship of a notebook that wasn't mutilated, and had large, comfortable pockets to carry me in. You can imagine just how shocked I was then when Linda smiled demurely at Mark as she ground me under her sharp heel and rolled me within reach of her cat-like fingernails colored a strange shade of red with sparkles so bright they blinded me.

Still I held out hope that my first impression of Linda was false. It didn't take long to realize that again I had fallen (literally fallen) into the hands of another abusive student. Linda must have sensed my disapproval because the first thing she did after class was to slyly, yet deliberately let me slip through the spiral of her notebook onto the sidewalk in front of the student union.





It was really a vindictive thing to do considering the weather – a blistering day outside. And there I lay on the steaming sidewalk burning to death and watching my paint curl with every passing hour.

Occassionally someone would walk my way, but few passed without stepping on me, or rolling my battered frame in all directions. I ended up in the grass and began suffering from the hands of the insect world. Two beetles tried to carry me away, but they finally gave up their efforts after discovering that I had lead inside of me. I was constantly under the fear that a friendly termite might try to make a home out of me, and I was actually relieved when some girl named Pam found me and slipped me into her purse.

Again, my fate was not to be a happy one as I found myself in the bottom of a purse with smashed cheese crackers all over me, a ball point pen arrogantly sticking me in the side and the smothering odor of a Vicks nasal decongestant making me nauseous. The next day when Pam had gym class she left her purse open and I conveniently managed to wiggle out onto the dressing room floor.

If I'd known that the janitor would take me for trash, I'd have stayed in that purse. Anyway, I got swept outside and was abandoned again. Being alone on a sidewalk left me in a vulnerable position. (I knew that from past experience.) Just as I was reflecting on how short the normal life span of a pencil is, some jock approached and used me to demonstrate his kicking potential. He sent me bouncing into the street just in time to get my head run over by a black sedan.

Now I knew that my number had been called in the great schoolroom in the sky.

A True Cowboy Can

Southwestern is made up of a variety of students each with his own distinctive flair. While some of these individuals go through their daily routines of college life relatively unnoticed, one individual easy to spot on campus is the happy-go-lucky member of the rodeo team, otherwise known as a "cowboy."

The outward appearance of a cowboy immediately gives him away. He can be seen wearing a variety of footwear ranging from boots to tennis shoes to Hushpuppy oxfords. However, he only wears one type of jeans — Wrangler cowboy-cut, straightleg jeans, always pressed to perfection and branded on the back pocket by a faded circle left from constantly carrying a can of Skoal. A true cowboy would be seen wearing nothing else. His ensemble isn't complete without a belt of some type attached to a big buckle boasting of his claim to fame of having won some past participated-in event. Every once-in-a-while he will be seen wearing his favorite cowboy hat to further convince you of his character, and a close observer will notice a dip of chew of tobacco in his mouth.

Be Spotted a Mile Away!

His outward appearance is not the only thing that gives him away to others. His character and personality are what makes him unique. There is a carefree attitude about his appearance that can be found in his walk, speech, and mannerisms. He is frank, open, honest and sincere, and he will stand by his friends even if they differ in opinion. He can also bluff his way through any situation, since it is a well-known fact all cowboys have a "BS" degree and excel in this area.

This individual can be seen all over campus, usually in the student union. He can be found in the union before, sometimes during, in-between and after classes talking with his friends, shooting pool, convincing someone to "Help" him with his homework or flirting with a pretty girl at the next table. He seems to know almost everyone on campus — especially the girls, and he generally has a smile and friendly hello for everyone he meets on campus.

Although his outward appearance is the most obvious factor that gives him away to others, and despite the fact many people are trying to copy his appearance — his personality and carefree attitude will give away his true identity to everyone else.

While Southwestern does have a variety of unique students on campus, a true cowboy can be spotted a mile away!

Roommates . . . Roommates

Whether you are going to college or entering the working world, more than likely you will have at least one roommate in your lifetime. (College has made me a veteran, having had six so far. Believe me, computer matching of roommates doesn't always turn out for the best!)

No matter how well you think you get along with people, roommates — like brothers and sisters sometimes manage to bring out the worst in people. (Can you imagine someone dumping cereal in my bed three days running just because my deodorant was faulty?) I got the message alright, but it sure didn't go along with those principles of communication it had taken me a whole semester to master!

Talk in terms of other people's interests, and they will listen, the book said, but somehow I guess the execution was poor, for when I told Diane she would get athlete's foot from stepping in the puddles of water she always left by the tub, the only response I got was a slap in the face with a wet wash cloth.

The response I got from Cathy wasn't much better. After cleaning her beautiful long blonde hair out of the drain for the hundreth time, I diplomatically suggested that it would be more sanitary if she would comb her hair on the back porch. For that, I got my own hair parted with a saw-tooth comb thrown at the speed of a major league baseball.

I'm really not complaining, but some people just don't take hints well. After telling Sally she would take the enamel off her teeth from brushing them so much she replaced my toothpaste with Desenex. My teeth may not be getting much fluoride, but they never get rashes.

The book also said that sharing duties would help to make our lives easier and more organized.

Going upon this rule, Kay and I agreed that she would do the grocery shopping and I would do the cooking. How was I supposed to know she was a peanut butter and jelly addict and thought these were the only items the store sold.

The book never mentioned anything about roommates boyfriends. I had to learn this all on my own. When Caroline casually mentioned that her boyfriend was coming over for awhile — I didn't realize that he would be there practically night and day for six months! Basically, he was a nice guy, but he had a few imperfections — like eating. This guy could demolish food faster than the stores could supply it.

I politely mentioned this to him one day and the only response I got was, "What's for dinner?" . . . I decided it was time to change roommates again.

Now, I am on number six and so far things have been going pretty smooth. I've been able to keep my patience, even when she insists on playing her collection of new wave rock albums over and over all day long. I just simply put on my earphones and smile! As far as I'm concerned — that's communication!

A Unique Love Affair

Nothing is stranger than a person in love.

We have all been overtaken by cases of puppy love, but this past year I fell victim to the real thing.

The first day I went to Accounting, I got a sort of tingly feeling in my bones. After another of our accidental meetings in Business Statistics, I knew we were meant for each other.

Maybe it was because we turned each other on, maybe it was the lit up facial response at the mere touch of my fingers, or maybe it was the deep desperate look I gave as we came close. Never in my life have I been so stricken by such a small fragile object that possessed a figure that wouldn't quit.

At first our meetings were short and we failed to spend enough time with each other. Problems would overtake me after awhile and I would get a reckoning and set up meetings in order to fulfill my needs.

As the weeks passed our relationship grew and we began to depend on each other. We were at each other's disposal 24 hours a day, and it got to the point of not going anywhere without each other. We have been seen together in class, the bank, and the supermarket, since these were some of our favorite hangouts. One night we even went to the laundry together. (They do say that cleanliness is next to Godliness.)

I'll never forget the hours we spent in each other's company. We lay out in the sun together, we shared an occasional breakfast, and we even slept together a couple of times.

Well, all good things must come to an end: (isn't it such a shame!) Since I'm not taking any Business or Math courses this semester, our paths have failed to cross. Seems like only yesterday, that we were with each other, sharing our knowledge and appreciation. In the back of my mind I'll never forget all that we have experienced. You were one of the best calculators I ever laid hands on.

Southwestern Low on Lazies

It is common knowledge that work is not a dirty word to most Oklahoma youth and Southwestern's student population is no exception. With most of the students being from around the state, they are no strangers to the types of work that have made Okies famous the world over. The oilfield industry, wheat farming, and the cattle industry are just a few of the types of work that Southwestern's students have made an integral part of their lives.

Many aspiring students add extra funds to their budgets by moonlighting in unusual jobs that add spice to their educations. Tarena Self, Moore freshman, is a perfect example of the SWOSU student's dedication to the work ethic. In her spare time and during the summer, Tarena, with the help of make-up and baggy clothes, transforms herself into Squirt the Clown. Besides the financial dividends that clowning brings her, Tarena explains that Squirt's primary reason for being is "because of the smiles and happiness that he can bring to others."

Many students take on jobs that benefit others as well as themselves. Jobs in rest homes, day care centers, and hospitals are popular and one student, Chris Campbell, drives an ambulance in his spare time outside of class.

Southwestern's reputation as a family-oriented university appeals to the many students who come to Weatherford from the small farm communities around the state. Wheat and peanuts are often as familiar to these students as the English and biology that they have come to Southwestern to learn. Therefore, it is no surprise when many students are seen rushing through their morning classes and hurrying away during the hot fall afternoons to work on the harvest.

The cattle industry finally came into the world wide prominence that Oklahomans had always given it with the release of such movies as The Urban Cowboy and

The Electric Horseman and the cowboy inside everyone began to make itself visible. This trend is much to the delight of campus cowboys like Keith Weichel who are bent on getting an education along with punching cows. A campus man during the week, Keith spends his weekends "fencing, working cattle, and chasing strays," and has managed to blend his two lives together without much pain.

A few of the more brawny students take advantage of the booming oil industry in Oklahoma to make those extra bucks. For those who can take the long hours and hard labor, roughnecking is a good way to pay for the high cost of a university education. Holidays and summers and even the fall and spring semesters find many young men toiling away on evening or morning towers trying to keep up with the high cost of living. However, while this field of work offers many opportunities and much experience for the male student, it does not appeal to many of the female students.

Many types of work are available to the enterprising student at Southwestern and there is no shortage of people to fill the positions. For those who are not muscle-bound enough for a roughnecking job or are not interested in the harvest, there are still many opportunities to consider. The fast food industry employs hundreds of money grubbing students with the advantage that, from tacos to fried chicken, this type of job can generally be arranged to fit an already overloaded schedule.

One of the most stable work opportunities for the Southwestern student is the on-campus job. Ranging from the study-oriented positions in the library to the grounds-maintenance types of work, Southwestern itself offers employment possibilities that enable the student to work among people he knows and shares interests with.

Whether the student here at Southwestern takes a job on his own, on campus, or for someone else, it is obvious that he has an equal respect for work and study. This becomes a great advantage to the student who realizes an easier transition from school to work because of his years at Southwestern.

Over 50 Members in Accounting Club

Southwestern Oklahoma State University Accounting Club has a large group with a membership numbering over 50. The Accounting Club provides the opportunity for accounting majors and minors to find out what type of jobs are available, the geographic location of job demand and an exposure to people who have been in the accounting field for many years. The club meets monthly and has guest speakers with previous experiences dealing with problems and benefits facing accountants.

1. Officers for the 1981-82 Southwestern Accounting Club are – Ronda Mohring, vice-president; Gay Pratt, president; Darrel Johnston, public relations; Allen Bryson, secretary; and David Morley, treasurer. 2. Underclassmen members of the Accounting Club. 3. Senior Accounting Club members.

Art Guild Parades Prize-Winning Float

The SWOSU Art Guild again shows its expertise in float-making by winning first prize in the Homecoming Parade for the second straight year. Along with float-building, the Art Guild sponsors its yearly Christmas show and sale, encourages students to participate in statewide art shows, sponsors guest speakers, and travels on field trips to noteworthy museum shows. Further educational fellowship of fine art and art education majors comes by being a member of the SWOSU Art Guild.

New Art Club Exhibits at Houston

The newly formed Commercial Art Club, sister organization of the Art Guild, got off to a good start by sponsoring ten students last spring to the Houston Advertisers Convention and Student Grand Prix. The club's efforts were recognized for their professional presentations for all the categories of newspaper and magazine ads, radio and TV commercials, and billboard display. This year they are sponsoring guest artists in the areas of silkscreen photography and painting to further enhance the commercial art students' awareness of materials and techniques. Field trips to Oklahoma City agencies and newspaper plants, as well as a visit to the LeRoy Neiman show are part of the activities of this professional career-oriented club.

Biology Club Is Sponsor of Finalist

Biology Club is comprised of students interested in the study of Biology and related fields. The Club has guest speakers at its meetings and occasionally a film is on the agenda. The club also schedules social events such as picnics. Last fall, one of the five Homecoming Queen finalists was Debbie Miller, who was sponsored by the Biology Club.

Chemistry Club Enjoys Busy Year

The Southwestern Chemistry Club is a very active bunch, involved in many activities throughout the year. Chemistry Club sponsors two annual student scholarships for chemistry majors and the club also invites speakers to their monthly meetings. Speakers are usually selected from the areas of Industry and sometimes educators from other universities speak.

The club's meetings also give the members a chance to get together and discuss their interests. A social event enjoyed by all the members is the "Watermelon Feed" in the fall.

Native Americans Preserve Culture

Native American Club provides a social function for the Indian students on Southwestern's campus. The purposes of Native American Club are to preserve their Indian culture and to be of service to Southwestern. The officers for the 1982 year are – Anita Johnson, reporter; Leona Ramon, secretary-treasurer; Lucy Domebo, Student Senate reporter; Matthew Pena, vice-president; and Cheryl Aitson, president.

Kappa Mu Epsilon Sets Goals High

Kappa Mu Epsilon is a club formed to foster excellence in the field of mathematics. It is open to Math majors and minors. One of the events the club holds is "Math Day."

Math Day is a day for high school students to come to the campus and be taught by various Southwestern students. They are also tested at the end of the day.

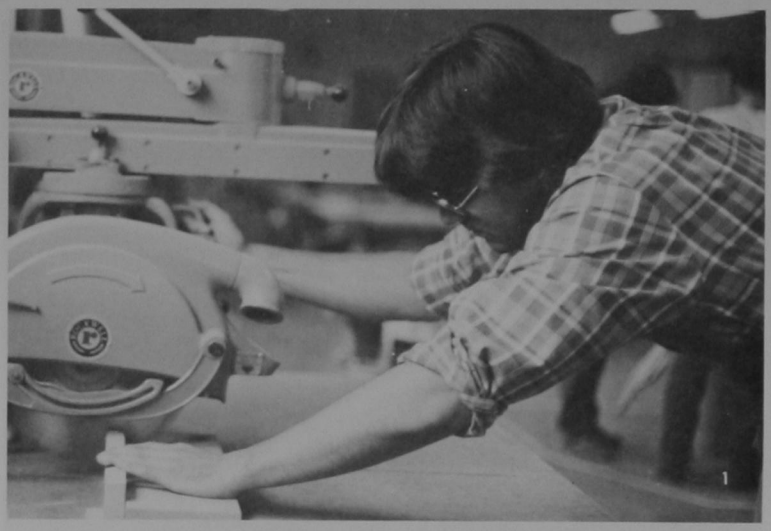
IASA Tours State Industries

The Industrial Arts Student Association is an organization desgined to create a professional feeling for its members about the field of Industrial Arts. Each month the group schedules a field trip to one of Oklahoma's many industries. Some of the trips this year have been to Dayton Tire and Rubber Co., General Motors, CMI, and STAR Buildings.

One of IASA's most popular social events is the fall banquet. Members and their wives or friends get acquainted with each other during dinner and entertainment. The program also includes a guest speaker. In the spring, the club provides its members and the public a cook-out at Means Park.

Representing over seventy members, the club's officers meet every two weeks and the council meets with the officers monthly.



1. Bob Cervi skillfully cuts a piece of wood. 2. Officers for the IASA are – Jimmy Lovejoy, secretary; Troy Fields, sergeant at arms; Bryan Flaming, vice-president; Vicki Taylor, reporter; Bob Cervi, president; and Jeff Short, treasurer. 3. Mrs. Roger Stacy talks with guest speaker Otis Sanders. 4. There is much to discuss at the fall banquet. 5. Instructors are – FRONT ROW: Mr. G. B. Stotts, Dr. Roy Gillaspy, Mr. Steve Archer, Dr. Richard Baugher. BACK ROW: Dr. James Griffin, Dr. Roger Stacy, Mr. Dale Hirschman, and Dr. Don Mitchell, chairman.

SWPhA Has Over 200 Members

Southwestern's largest professional pharmacy organization is over 200 members strong. The officers include Shannon Barker, president; Jim Bob Coates, vice-president; Sabrina Griggs, secretary; Shawn Whittington, treasurer; and Jan Phillips, historian-reporter.

The fall semester was kicked off by a hamburger fry at Rader Park. The faculty cooked while the students enjoyed the fun and fellowship with their classmates.

Fall activities continued with an active group of students attending the Regional Convention in Houston, where Sabrina, the secretary, was elected alternate Regional Delegate to SAPhA.

Students were welcomed in the spring with an indoor picnic. Amidst labs, tests, and reports, students attended monthly meetings and some attended the National SAPhA convention in Las Vegas, Nevada.

As the year drew to a close, SWPhA honored the senior members at the annual Awards Banquet.

1. 1981-82 officers include – Sabrina Griggs, Jan Phillips, Jim Bob Coates, Shannon Barker and Shawn Whittington. 2. Members enjoy the hamburger cookout. 3. The refreshment table seems to be a popular place. 4., 5. and 6. The whole SWPhA group sits in on a meeting.

IPA Participates in OSHP

The Institutional Pharmacy Association is an organization dedicated to the student interested in hospital, nursing home, and institutional pharmacy. IPA is a student affiliate of the Oklahoma Society of Hospital Pharmacists, (OSHP). Student members are invited to attend OSHP functions without charge and to receive all OSHP publications.

Officers this year are Pepper Shapiro, president; Cheryl Linker, vice-president; Pamela Puckett, secretary; Joyce Gesell, treasurer; and David Anpalagan, historian-reporter. The faculty sponsors are Dr. Linda Beasley and Dr. Pete Ratto.

Planned activities included monthly meetings, hosting interesting speakers, attendance of OSHP functions, a tour of a hospital pharmacy, and a winter picnic. As a money making project, IPA sponsors a horror film at Halloween for the university and the community.

Membership was up greatly this year, with pharmacy or pre-pharmacy students being invited to join this professional organization.

Kappa Epsilon Has Exciting Year

Kappa Epsilon is a professional pharmacy fraternity uniting the women who have been admitted to the school of pharmacy.

The Alpha Beta chapter of Kappa Epsilon was organized on Southwestern's campus on January 28, 1960. In addition to uniting the women of pharmacy, Kappa Epsilon emphasizes high standards of scholarship and lasting bonds of loyalty and friendship among the members. Kappa Epsilon promotes these standards throughout the year by sponsoring several activities to get the members involved. Some of these activities are: a picnic in the fall with SwPhA, kidnap breakfasts for the pledges, a car wash and the annual spaghetti supper in November. All the way from pledging to membership, Kappa Epsilon provides happy and exciting times for all of the girls.

Kappa Psi Has Largest Group

Kappa Psi is the oldest and largest Pharmaceutical Fraternity in the United States. Delta Beta Chapter at Southwestern was chartered March 13, 1963. Delta Beta Chapter provides a combination of professional and social activities for its brothers, neophytes, and pledges. The primary objectives of Kappa Psi are to foster high ideals, scholarship and pharmaceutical research, while supporting all projects which will advance the profession of pharmacy.

Professionally, Delta Beta chapter provided hypertension screening services to the community this year. Screening was provided, in cooperation with SWPhA, at the '81 Oklahoma State Fair, where the men of the chapter screened between 900 and 1000 persons. Screening for the senior citizens of Weatherford continued bi-monthly and was also provided at the local shopping center.

Socially, Delta Beta Chapter holds annual Valentine's and homecoming banquets, both of which are attended by the alumni, members, neophytes and pledges. The spring and summer picnics provide an opportunity to get outdoors and away from school for a break.

In athletics, the men of Delta Beta chapter have had basketball teams make it to the finals for the last five years. Twice they placed second and in '81 they took the championship. The '81 football team fell to defeat in sudden-death-overtime in the intramural semi-finals to end the season with a 9-1-0 record. Football is highlighted outside the intramural field when Delta Beta chapter plays Phi Delta Chi in the annual Hygeia Bowl.

The Kappa Psi Wives' Organization is composed of the wives and girlfriends of the chapter's brothers, neophytes, and pledges. This organization supports Delta Beta chapter and is greatly appreciated.

This year Delta Beta chapter wishes to extend a special thanks to Dr. David Coates, who is the chapter advisor and Grand Council Deputy, for his dedication and hard work for the chapter this year and in all the years past.

Phi Mu Alpha Supports Activities

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia is a music fraternity rather than just a band fraternity. Therefore, they are involved in both instrumental and choral music. Phi Mu Alpha is supportive of choral festivals, band festivals and other related activities in the field of music. They provide ushers at all musical events on campus and provide funds for school functions, such as band trips, Jazz Ensemble tours and the SWOSU Percussion Ensemble. They also sponsor artists, in the field of music, to perform on campus and provide a taping service for various festivals that are presented on Southwestern's campus.

Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia fosters the mutual welfare of music and upholds its highest standards of performance.

This year's officers are Loren Pettys, president; Kevin Worley, vice-president; Danny Wyatt, secretary; Don Miller, treasurer-chaplain; Vance Black, executive alumni secretary; Randy Overstreet, associate alumni secretary; Terry Barbre, warden-faculty advisor-parliamentarian; and Mike Jones, reporter-historian.

Tau Beta Sigma Works for Band

Tau Beta Sigma, a women's service fraternity on Southwestern's campus, puts many hours of work into helping the SWOSU Marching Band to look its best. The flags that are used in the band's routines are just one of the many projects put forth by Tau Beta Sigma.

In addition to making the band look nice, Tau Beta also helps the band members to feel good. Before early morning band trips, such as those to San Diego, Tau Beta is up and hummin', fixing breakfast for all the band members.

Tau Beta also helps the band's financial situation by having many fund raising events throughout the year. Selling cookbooks, candy, and t-shirts are only a few of the events that keep the members of Tau Beta busy. This devoted group will even go as far as washing airplanes for the band. One thing for sure, they really move their tails for the band.

Marching Band Visits California

During half-time at Southwestern's football games, the announcer calls, "The Pride of the Southwest, Southwestern's Marching Band," as the band marches in formation onto the playing field.

Being a band member involves many hours of hard physical work as well as deep concentration. Although the band must work hard, there are many fun times spent together — times such as the country and western dance and breakfasts before early morning band trips are examples of exciting hours spent together.

Each year the band travels to a special, out-of-state game, such as the game between the Seattle Sea Hawks and the San Diego Chargers held in San Diego. The band also attends a game at Central State University.

Drum majors for the SWOSU band are Terry Barbre and Debbie Tapp. Assisting the band as twirlers are Sherree Webster and Georgia Garner. Also helping the band in their formations are the flag girls Kelly Jackson, JoAnn Clark, Kathy Kelley, Sandi Booth, Sandra Hill, Brenda Jehlicka, Karen Seeberger, Kimi Evans, Dianne Roberts, Terri Patton and Toni Splane.

CHARGER POWER

BSU Is Opportunity for Christian Growth

The Baptist Student Union presents the students of Southwestern a commitment to Jesus Christ as a viable addition to their university experiences. The BSU also offers an atmosphere of opportunity for growth in Christian development and ministry.

"Noonday" devotions are a part of the daily routine at the BSU and there are vesper services held every Thursday evening. This gives the students time to fellowship together. Every day the BSU serves as a home away from home for those students that are staying in the dorm or just want some good 'ole fashioned fellowship.

The BSU offers many other activities that the students can become involved in. Some of these such activities include fall and spring retreats, intramural sports, mission conferences and two singing groups, the "Missionaires" and "Sonlight," which involve the students in various area churches.

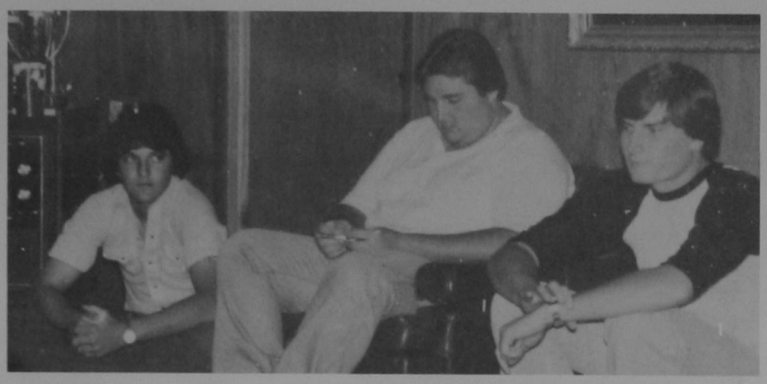
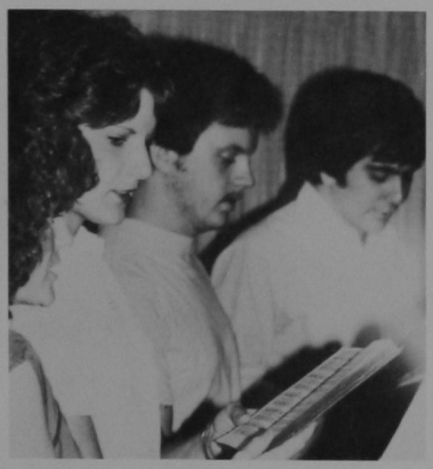
Chi Sigma Visits Missouri Seminar





Chi Sigma Omega is a religious organization on SWOSU's campus that spreads its influence far beyond the campus and even farther than southwest Oklahoma. In the fall, the Bible Chair visits the Mid-American Mobilization Seminar in Springfield, MO, which includes fellowship with Bible Chairs from other colleges in other states.

Other than its out-of-state activities, the SWOSU's Bible Chair is involved with other universities around the state. Fellowship with other universities after football games is one event enjoyed by the Bible Chair group as well as many activities with Panhandle State University in Goodwell. The SWOSU group visits the Panhandle State campus in the fall for the annual Bible Chair state retreat and also takes a ski trip with the Panhandle group during the Christmas holidays.

Chi Sigma is also involved in activities locally. The group meets for a devotional every Tuesday and also hosts singing at the Littlebird Nursing Home every Thursday.

This Church of Christ organization is open to all those interested in having fellowship with other Christians and the closeness between the members brings more closeness with God.

Chi Alpha Ministers Through Choir

Chi Alpha Gamma Delta, a Christian organization for Southwestern students, means lots of fun and fellowship for its members with an opportunity to reach out to others on campus through worship, witnessing, training and fellowship.

Chi Alpha is a student association sponsored by the Assembly of God Churches. They are involved in many weekly activities such as noon-day devotions held at the Chi Alpha house, which is located at 806 N. Bradley, and also meetings on Tuesday evenings at the house.

The SWOSU chapter of the Chi Alpha ministers throughout the state as their choir travels to various churches and youth rallies.

Wesleys Plan Many Activities

Year-round activities such as spring and fall retreats, a Halloween hayride, a treasure hunt, a mystery dinner and the annual float trip keep the members of the Wesley Foundation busy and provides them the opportunity to grow spiritually through fellowship with other Christians of all denominations.

Being affiliated with the United Methodist Church, the members of the group are able to make their college days seem more like home by adopting families and getting together with friends at Ernie's Polka Palace.

The members of the foundation are well taken care of and are sure not to starve. The Wesley's prevent this by having special meals such as the Thanksgiving dinner, the progressive dinner, the faculty-student dinner and the lake picnic throughout the year.

The Wesley Foundation brings each school year in with "Wesley Week," a week of getting acquainted. Throughout the rest of the year weekly activities such as Sunday evening dinners, Tuesday evening Bible studies, Thursday evening choir rehearsals and sessions with prayer partners take place.

This foundation provides for the interaction of Christians through fellowship and various activities. This allows for the members to learn how to serve God better while meeting new friends and learning about themselves.

FCA Welcomes All College Athletes

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a student organization that enables the athletes of Southwestern to gather together for weekly bible studies, testimony sharing, praying together and listening to special speakers.

The group is interested in everyone that is an athlete, not just great football players, great basketball players or great bullriders. Anyone who can throw a frisbee or ride a bike is an athlete and is welcome to attend in the eyes of the FCA.

In the spring, the SWOSU FCA has a spring rally in the Weatherford high school auditorium. This rally includes FCA groups from several state colleges, universities and high schools.

1. Diane Johnson, Keva James, Rhonda Martin and Julia Branch have a laugh at one of the FCA meetings while Kim Davis and Barbara Earp look on. 2. Everyone listens as Rod Jordan speaks at a meeting. 3. Officers for SWOSU's FCA are — Doug Schumpert, vice-president; La-Deana Matteson, secretary-treasurer; and Rod Jordan, president. 4. Vicki Stowers and Jenae Smith share a joke while Laura Jones and Kim Davis look at The Southwestern. 5. Wednesday evening meetings keep the members of FCA interested.

Gamma Delta's Promote Integrity

Gamma Delta Kappa, the oldest sorority on campus, upholds the reputation of the integrity of its members and service to the campus and community.

To devote its activities to public service, higher ideals and more friendship is the goal of members of Gamma Delta Kappa. Gift donations to the Children's Hospital in Oklahoma City, donations to the Shrine Burn Center in Houston, TX and having a turkey raffle to donate money to the Weatherford Community fund are only a few of the activities that keep the girls busy. Gamma Delta Kappa also provides an annual scholarship to a deserving member.

Gamma Delta Kappa began as a literary and debate club for girls in 1910 and has evolved into an honor society. A girl may become a member by having 30 semester hours completed and having a 3.25 GPA for one academic semester. After initiation, the member must maintain a 2.75 GPA each semester.

1. Officers fo Gamma Delta Kappa are — Alaina Anderson, reporter-publicity officer; Mary Koetter, reporter-publicity officer; Brenda McMillin, vice-president; Mitzi Hunt, historian; Nancy Gettys, treasurer; Lorie Sullivan, president; and Melanie Romans, secretary. 2. The Southwestern Accomplishes Goal

At special events, meetings, or gatherings, there can be found a representative of the Southwestern, frantically taking down everything said. One can be walking down the road and find a reporter lurking around buildings, in cracks, and under tables.

The Southwestern staff managed to scrape and dig-up stories for a weekly publication to successfully inform the student body on campus.

1. Rose Ann Rhodes and Donna Porter examine the paper, fresh off the press. 2. Pat Lightfoot, editor of the Southwestern, measures copy. 3. D'Linda Loveless and Max Paty "goof off," as usual. 4. Mike Bowser and Pat Lightfoot lay out a page. 5. Donna Parter, D'Linda Loveless, and David Thompkins work on ways to create an exciting paper. 6. Melody Bird and Debbie Duerksen study secretarial work.

Student Senate Aids School Spirit

Being a member of the Student Senate involves lots of work and lots of fun. Many activities that involve the whole school start at the Student Senate meetings held in the Student Union every Wednesday.

Some of the activities that begin in the Senate are the dances held for the students – dances such as those done by Dr. Rock, Derrel Christy, Omega Entertainment and Kappa Kappa Psi keeping the members hopping.

Along with dances, the Senate also hosts movies during the year such as "The Fog" and "Escape From New York."

Keeping up school spirit is one of the major hopes of the Senate. Homecoming events such as hosting judges for the floats and bands at the parade, coronation of the queen and her court and a dance done by KOFM are only a few of the activities that keep the members busy on the day of the event.

Another special activity sponsored by the Senate is a blood drive in which over 200 pints have been collected for those in need.

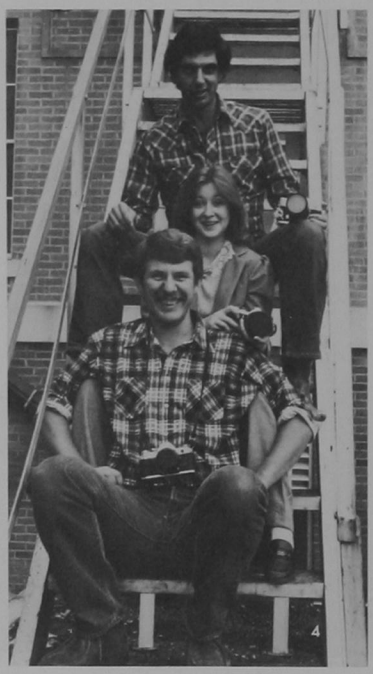
Donna Porter and Penny Martin not only take notes for the track meet story, they also take phone numbers.



Southwestern ROTC America's Leaders

With the Reagan administration pushing for a build-up in the Military forces, Southwestern has a part in that build-up. Each year the ROTC unit from Southwestern sends young men and women, with a variety of college degrees, to fill army offices.

Colonel Hogan, along with a small force of regular army officers, trains and prepares college students to be officers. The four-year program is divided into two phases. Military Science I and II are in the first phase, which provides students an opportunity to learn about army procedures while being involved in many fun activities, and with no obligation.

The advanced program, which covers the junior and senior courses, is for those students who wish to adventure further into the skills that are needed to become an army officer. Training includes a variety of skills which help prepare these students for their tours of duty as army officers. Leadership is stressed as it relates to management of both men and technology.

Senior ROTC Prepares Officers

Being a senior Military Science student means much more than just graduating with a degree. There are seven seniors that Southwestern will graduate and send to the service of their country. Each one of these seniors has been active in college activities ranging from student senate to fraternity organizations, as well as being in ROTC for as many as four years.

Upon graduation, each of them will receive a commission as 2nd Lieutenant in the United States Army. Their training here promises success on their tours as army officers.

Military Science I Studies Basics

The first two years of ROTC are full of fun and excitement. Canoe trips, trips to Ft. Sill, and learning many new skills are only part of the activities enjoyed by the Military Science I and II classes.

Classes that involve the first and second year ROTC students are pistol marksmanship, self-defense, map reading and general courses about the army. In these courses, the students learn how to correctly shoot a .22 caliber pistol, defend themselves, read a map correctly and the skills it takes to be an officer in the United States Army.

There is no obligation during these first two years of Military Science. After two years a student can feel free to finish training.

1. One of the learning activities is rappelling. Lindy Ledbetter joins the group in rappelling down a cliff near Weatherford. 2. Before going to the canyons, two Military Science members practice on a cement wall. 3. Judy Walker takes a few hints from Captain Magnum on rappelling. 4. SWOSU's ROTC defeated Central State University's Army ROTC in the annual "Bedpan Football Game." 5. One of the classes for the Military Science I and II classes is learning how to tie the seat correctly.

The third year ROTC program at Southwestern is devoted to developing the skills of students they will use as army officers.

ROTC Shows Skill at College Contests

The ROTC shows the skills of rifle and pistol shooting by entering their teams in college contests in the state of Oklahoma and surrounding states.

The rifle team from Southwestern has five members that compete in the tri-state competition. Coached by Sergeant-Major Bevans, the team enters competition at Panhandle State University in Goodwell, Oklahoma State University in Stillwater, and Cameron University in Lawton. The out-of-state competition includes meets at Midwestern State Univeristy in Wichita Falls, Texas and the Tri-state Shoot-off at Eastern New Mexico University. All of the meets are sponsored by the National Rifle Association.

The SWOSU Pistol Team, coached by SFC Duke, is highly ranked in the university pistol competition. The team members use a specialized .22 caliber pistol for the meets. The team has 14 shooters with 9 traveling members. The members of the pistol team took first place at the meets in San Antonio, Texas and the University of Texas at Arlington. All of the events are sponsored by the National Rifle Association.

Oklahoma Hall

Dorms are a great way of life if you like having close friends around at all times, fire drills, rap sessions until 4 a.m., monthly room checks, help with homework just down the hall, somewhat cool showers at times, popcorn parties, open house two times a week, playing shoot-em-up cowboy with your cap guns in the hall, sneaking into people's rooms and short sheeting their beds, secret pals . . .

1. Tracye Kelly is caught at a funny moment as she sits on the floor of the lobby. Cynthia Clay is studiously writing away, she must not have heard the joke. 2. Oklahoma Hall runs smoothly with the help of wing representatives and dorm council. They are — FRONT ROW: Vanessa Tales, historian; Lisa Garrison, Ann Allman, Kristi Hooten. SECOND ROW: Carla Haag, Cynthia Porter, Nikki Ross, Tracye Kelly, secretary; Diane Johnson, president. THIRD ROW: Lisa McAdoo, Teresa Cole, vice-president. BACK ROW: Darla Osmond, Cindy Jackson, Alice Privett, Sharon Spencer, Kim Nemir, and Cynthia Clay, treasurer. 3. Being dorm parents can be quite interesting at times. Janet and Mike O'Day are tackling this job and seem happy doing it. 4. Sharon Spencer, Kim Nemir and Teresa Cole are wearing the latest fashions from Tommy's birdhouse. Notice the dirty worn out tennis shoes, frayed pant legs, flannel shirt and sweat pants. This is what one would call the casual evening apparel. 5. Tune in to Hee Hall next week when Carla Haag, Cynthia Porter, Nikki Ross, Darla Osmond and Alice Privett say, "Please tell us what we just had for supper." 6. Two of the most well known faces in Oklahoma Hall are Steve Chandler and Mandy Marinelli. They seem to be THE couple of the dorm. 7. A lot of things go on in Oklahoma Hall's lobby but studying is usually omitted from the list. Beverly Johnson is trying to go for the world record of studying for more than thirty-two whole minutes. Will she make it? Join us for another continuing episode.

having your clothes stolen from you while you are taking a shower, having to get security to let you in when the doors get locked at 3 a.m., talking to your girl friend in the hall so your roommate won't be able to hear you . . .

1. Jefferson Hall dorm parents, James and Debbie McCoy, are very well liked by the residents. 2. Robert Cottrill, Janet Stupplebeen, Kyle Newton, and Steve Long head back to the dorm after a game of football. 3. Desk duty can be boring, but Tina Robinson, Terri Keyes, Rhonda Travis, Janet Stupplebeen, and Andy Slagle seem like they are making the best of the situation. 4. One might think that there is no studying going on in Jefferson Hall but after months of searching we found one brave soul who had conquered the feat of cracking a book. Brian Swift, are you REALLY studying? 5. Scott Davis and Joe Taylor show the more casual side of Jefferson Hall. 6. Who says Jefferson Hall residents aren't cultured. Interfraternity Council

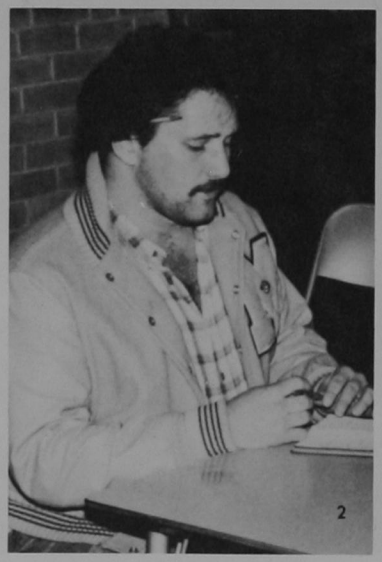
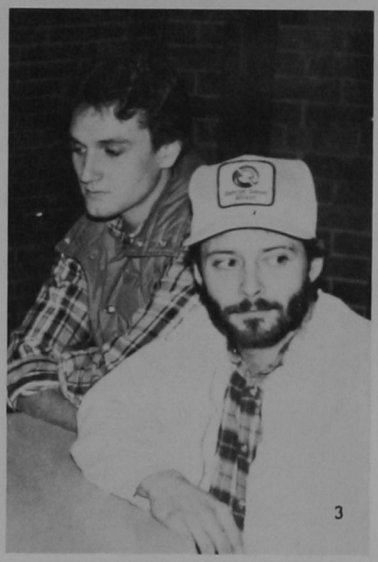
The Interfraternity Council is composed of representatives from three of the men's social fraternities on campus. These fraternities include Phi Delta Theta, which serves as president; Tau Kappa Epsilon, which serves as treasurer; and Pi Kappa Alpha as a member.

They meet every Monday to discuss the problems of all the fraternities, what activities each of them are participating in, and to organize all Greek functions. Some of these Greek functions include intramural sports, the superstars competition among the fraternities, blood drives and the planning of major parties.

The Interfraternity Council also has as its purpose, the organization of rush and Greek week. During this week, the Greeks have special parties and participate in community services to help promote the Greek system and the Greek image on the Southwestern campus.





1. Teed Bishop and Larry Burgess seem to have found something funny. 2. Bruce Randolph makes sure all activities are scheduled. 3. Bulldogs Practice For Perfection

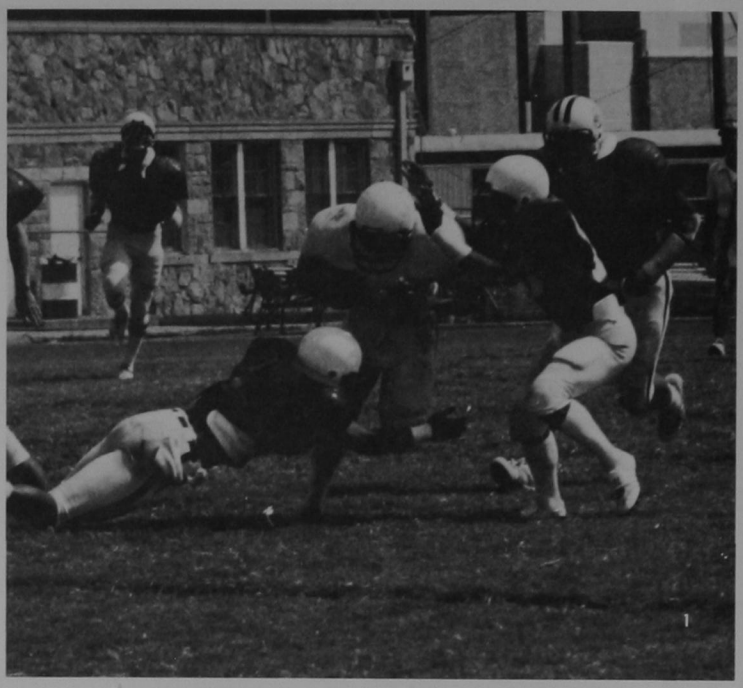
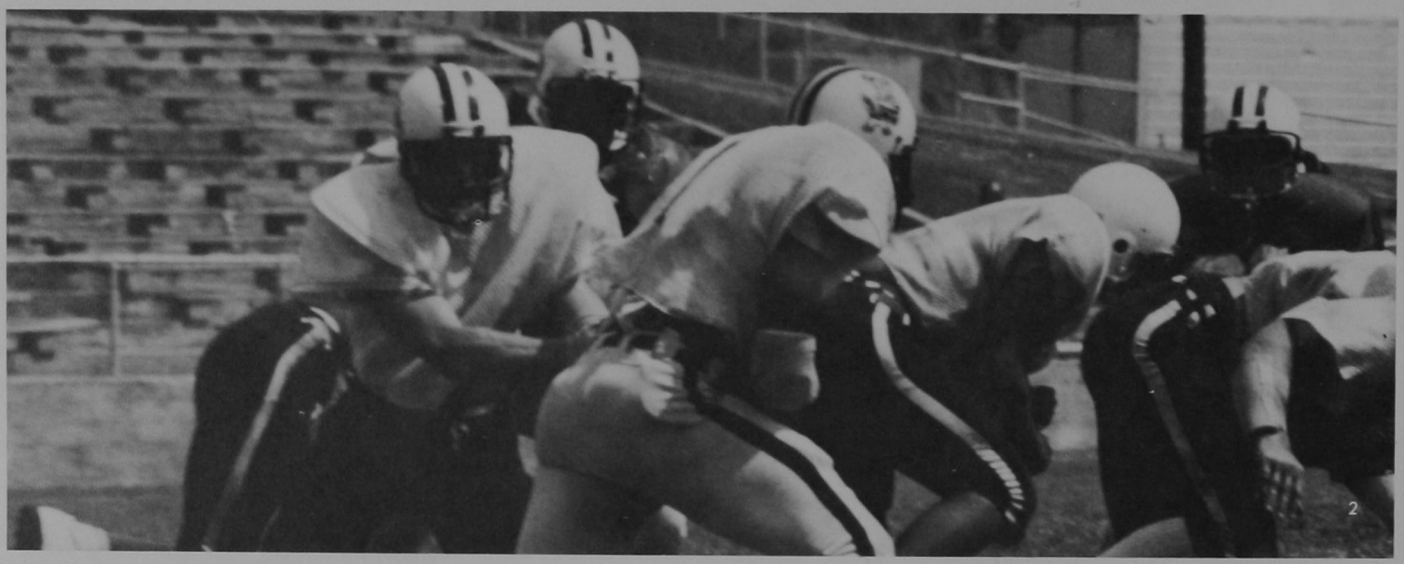
The Bulldog football team started their preparation for the upcoming football season with summer drills. The reporting date was the second week in August. The two-a-day drills ended with the annual blue and white scrimmage. There was a total of twenty-four returnees, nineteen transfers, twenty freshmen, and one new coach. Also we added a new trainer, and a new athletic director.

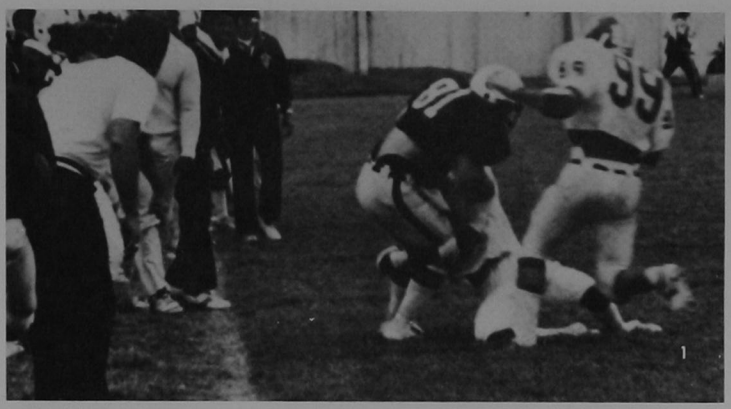


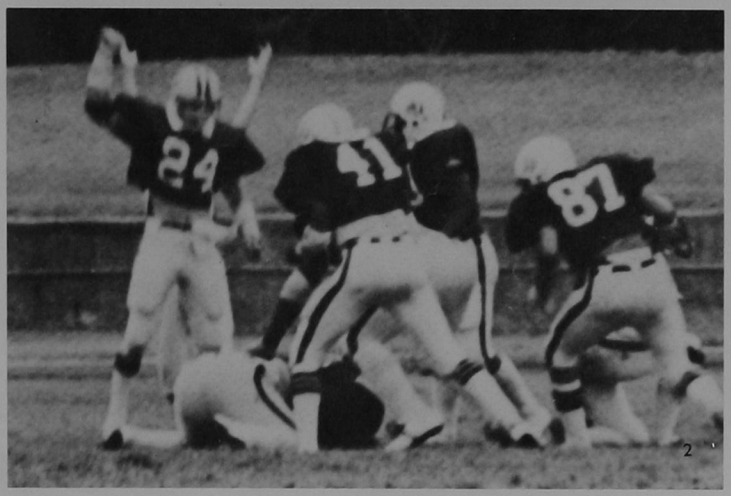
1. Dwaine Guyton and Tony Shelton make a tackle on tailback David Carter. Mark Daniels, Clay Loosen, Neal Armstrong, and Cedric Bowman pursue the action. 2. Steve Price, sophomore quarterback, hands the ball off to J. J. Johnson, a junior fullback, in the blue and white scrimmage. 3. WATER BREAK. No it isn't a water break. It is everyone going after a fumble. Eric Slaughter, with feet in the air, comes up with the ball.

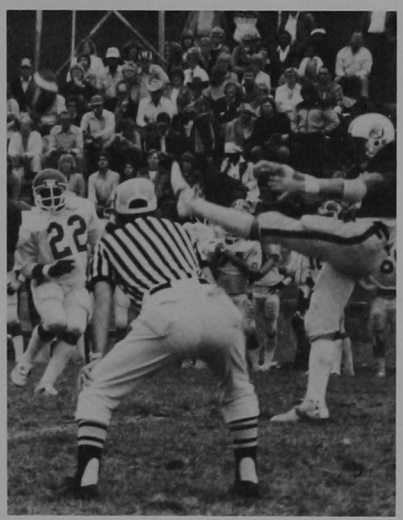


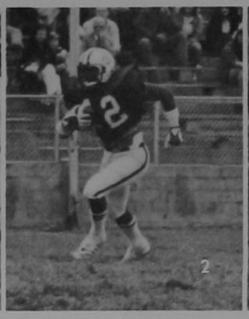
Bulldog Gridders Play With Pride

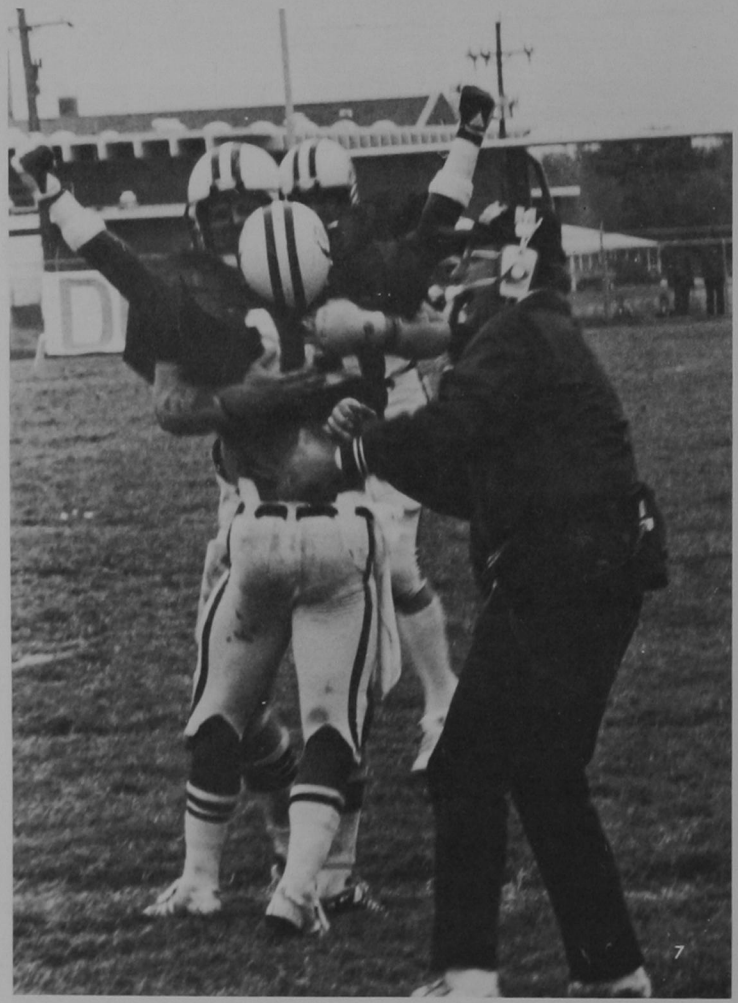
1. Senior Rick Leutjen catches a pass for a first down from reserve quarterback Tommy Middlebrooks. 2. Jerry Williams scores from a blocked punt by David Thompkins. 3. Pat Lewis is one guy short of scoring a long touchdown. 4. Tommy Middlebrooks boots the ball through the uprights. 5. Steve Price shows his form in punting. 6. D. K. Guyton and Mark Williams go up high for an interception. 7. The bulldogs take the field enroute to a homecoming victory.



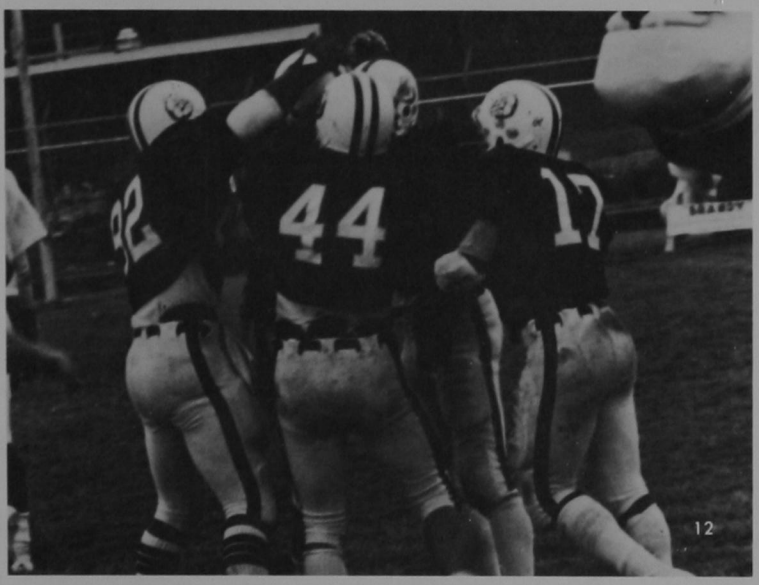


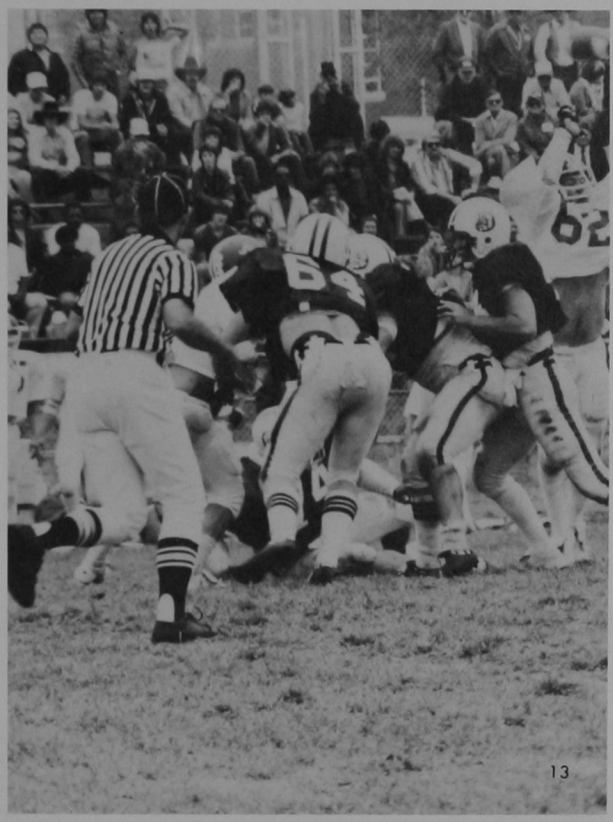






Dogs' Homecoming How Devastating





1. David Thompkins, Greg Henkel and Don Graybill block for Tony Shelton. 2. Tony Shelton receives the punt, then breaks for the outside. 3. He turns on the speed. 4. Then, Tony glides into the endzone for the touchdown. 5. Randy Roberts intercepts a pass and gets help from Reggie Giddings. 6. Tony Shelton, Ed Farmer, Mark Williams and Reggie Giddings celebrate the touchdown. 7. Coach Mazie gets excited over Tony Shelton's run. 8. Lee Washington and Randy Roberts put the crunch on an Eastern New Mexico player. 9. Tom Middlebrooks, Steve Price and Amos Tate show the proper way to execute the fake field goal. 10. Wayne Ellenberg gets a super block from Carl Fields on a long gain. 11. Amos Tate reads the blocking of Pat Lewis and Dan Walker. 12. Al Kilgore, Wayne Ellenberg, Amos Tate and Steve Price congratulate Pat Lewis on his touchdown pass reception. 13. Todd Nix, Dan Walker and Wayne Ellenberg show pass blocking. 14. Pat Lewis, Rick Leutjen, Billy Richardson, Todd Nix, Butch Mongo and Richard Lockman relax on the side-lines. 15. Amos Tate gets a good block from Pat Lewis, then turns the corner for a good gain against Eastern New Mexico.

Bulldogs Win 9, But End 3-8

The football team had a very successful season with a 9-2 season. On the other hand they had a 3-8 season because of an ineligible offensive lineman. They had to forfeit all of the games they had previously won. Although they faced three games remaining on their schedule, they stuck together and won the OIC outright.

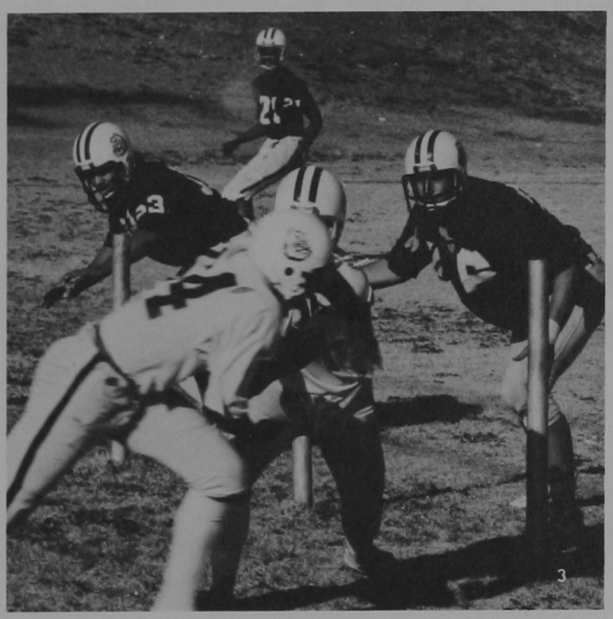
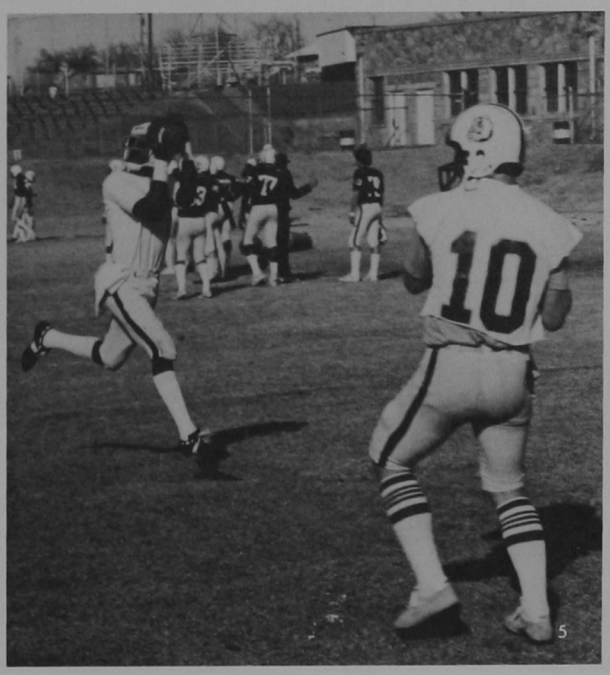
Spring Drills Keep Bulldogs in Shape

Football games may begin at the kickoff, but the players start much earlier. In fact, February is the month Southwestern football players get their first taste of action for the coming season by starting spring drills. Their "off season" workouts consist of physical conditioning and improving timing and coordination.

1. Stretching muscles keep down on the number of playing injuries. 2. Players use partners in exercising. 3. Backfield works on timing handoffs. 4. Blocking is a key to the offense. 5. Offense works on passing and receiving.





Bulldogs Battle Tough Schedule

Entering his sixth year as head basketball coach at Southwestern, George Hauser has another fine team on tap. The Bulldog squad again has fine shooters, terrific jumpers, and a strong will to do their best in representing Southwestern on the court.

This year the Bulldogs participated in tournament action here at Southwestern and at Oklahoma Christian College. The team won its own Tip-Off Tourney by defeating Southwestern Assemblies of God by the score of 129-80, in the first round, then defeating Langston by the score of 91-78, in the second round of play. In the Oklahoma Christian Classic, the Bulldogs finished in second place by winning their first game against Central State 69-67, but dropping the second game to OCC 68-79.

Besides tournament action, the Bulldog schedule led the team onto the courts of two NCAA Division I schools. The Dogs lost both games against Baylor and West Texas State, but put on a fine showing for Southwestern.

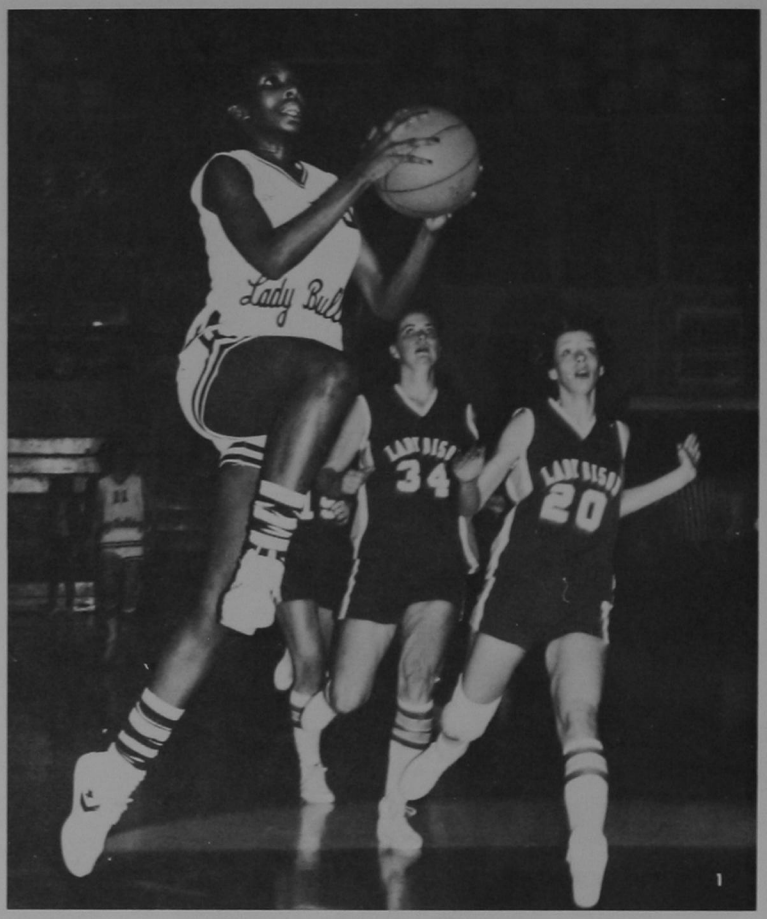
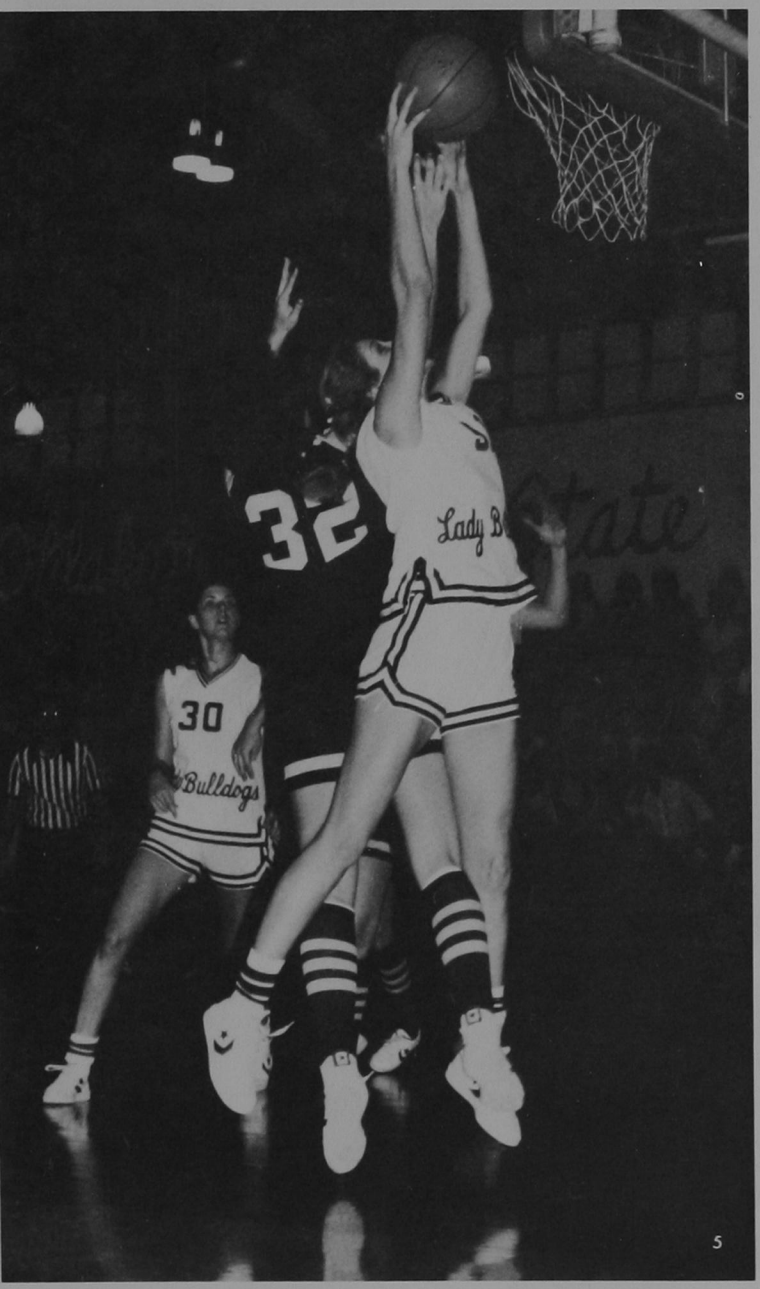
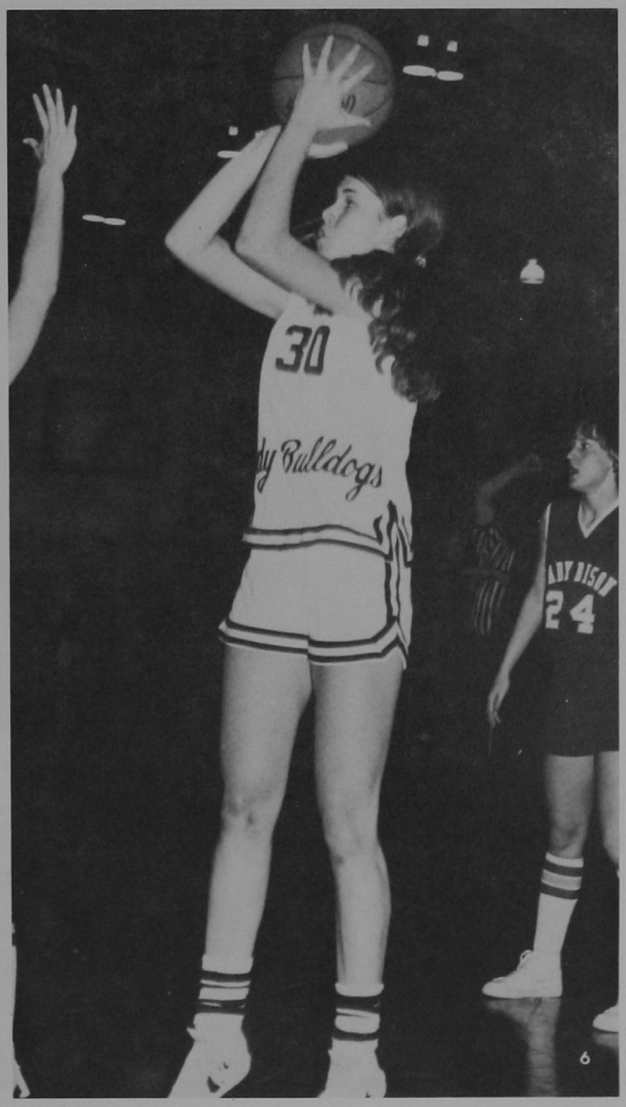
Lady Bulldogs Ranked #1

The Lady Bulldogs began their season mysteriously because no one knew what to expect. "A new coach, new players, it will take 'em a year or two to rebuild." These words were commonly heard about the campus, but this new coach, a few new players, and several returning players made this SWOSU's best year ever! Their hard practices and boundless spirit shot them straight to the number one position in the national rankings. Our hats are off to you Lady Bulldogs!



1. Valencia Douglas, a Junior from Chicago, Illinois, is one of Southwestern's strongest players, and she shows her determination to win as she goes up for two. 2. Lady Bulldogs are – FRONT ROW: Thel Shelby, Dixie Cooper, Pat Jacques, Mary Champion, Susan Pueschel, Janneth Cheadle, Jo Lusk, Cindy Adair, Mindy Mayfield. BACK ROW: Coach John Loftin, Betty Winesberry, Chelly Bellanger, Vickie Seal, Shorna Coffey, Anita Foster, Kelli Litsch, Susan Mounts, Deana English, Valencia Douglas, Letha Mosley, and Damita Johnson. 3. Coach Loftin's intense instructions and the teams undivided attention keeps Southwestern on a winning streak. 4. Cindy Adair, a Senior from Milfay, gives one of her lightning fast fakes on her way to the bucket. 5. Vickie Seal from Childress, Texas, brings down one of her many rebounds in the Lady Bulldog's victorious game against Oklahoma Christian College. 6. The awesome Thomas Freshman, Kelli Litsch, leaves a Lady Bison grazing as she gets off a quick shot.





Lady Bulldogs NAIA Champions

The Lady Bulldogs worked hard all season and came home from Kansas City with the National Championship in their pockets. As the final buzzer rang in Kemper Arena, the Lady Bulldogs ended a perfect 34-0 record and had secured the title.

On the way to the final victory, Southwestern beat Spring Garden, Pa., 77-43, in the first game of the national tournament and defeated Saginaw Valley State College, Mich., 84-70, in the second game. The finals matched Southwestern with Missouri Southern State College. The Lady Bulldogs came onto the floor and used some Oklahoma wind in blowing Missouri Southern out of Kemper Arena by the score of 80-45.

Coach John Loftin was voted NAIA "Coach of the Year," and Kelli Litsch received the "Most Outstanding Player" trophy. Anita Foster and Kelli Litsch were selected to the All-Tournament first team and Chelly Belanger was selected to the All-Tournament second team.

Bulldogs Work Hard in Practice

Southwestern's baseball team practices long hours to establish ability and teamwork. They practice in the cold weather as well as on the warm spring days enabling them to be ready for play in their first game at the beginning of March. Conditioning of the athletes centers on skill, endurance, and quickness. Good heads-up ball is the goal. Remember, practice makes perfect.

1. Jim Zickefoose shows his concentration on fielding the ball. 2. Looks like this Bulldog needs more practice on catching the ball and less on waving at the camera. 3. Bruce Williamson guards home plate as Bobby Buck tries his luck at batting. 4. Todd Henshaw shows his form at the batter's box.

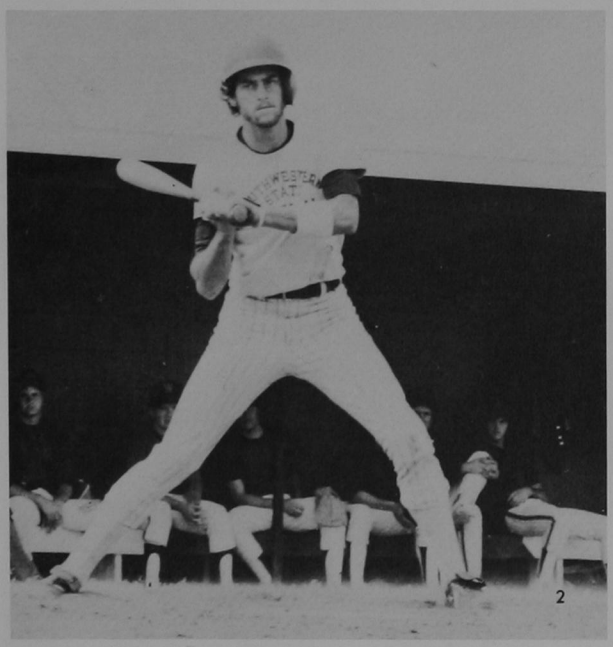
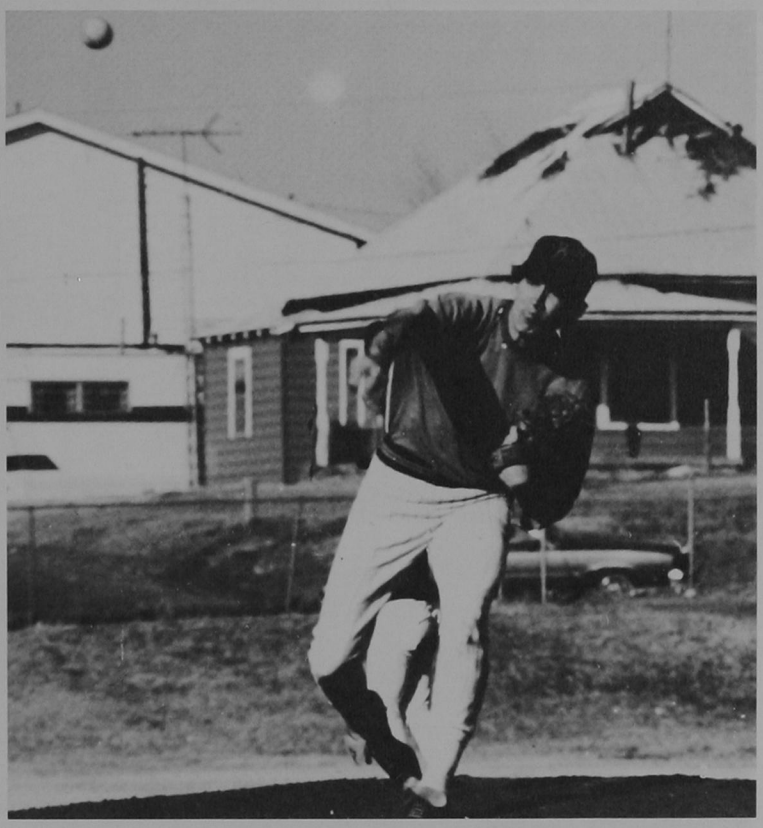
Fall Baseballers Practice for Spring

The Southwestern baseballers start their practice early in the fall. This year, as in every year, there were a lot of freshmen and junior college transfers trying out for the team. Also in the fall, the baseball team had several scrimmages, but the one that players looked forward to was the mini world series, which is an inner-squad game.

1. A new pitcher throws his best in try-outs. 2. This batter checks his swing on a ball too high. 3. Blake Stover shows his concentration in his warm-up pitches. 4. All the freshmen sit in the dug-out with coach Geurkink, while waiting for their turn to play. 5. Here a runner slides just under the glove of the second baseman in a scrimmage against Western Oklahoma State College.





Softball Team Moves to NAIA

The Southwestern Women's Softball Team sported a record of 6-14 for the 1981 spring season. The players worked hard and tested their skills against strong competition. Besides playing regular games, the team also participated in several triangulars. One triangular was held at Northeastern and included Southwestern and Northeastern A&M Junior College. Two of the triangulars were held at Southwestern and included Cameron and Central State and Northeastern and Northwestern, respectively.

Since there were four seniors and five juniors, the team was dominated by upperclassmen. Underclassmen on the team included two sophomores and two freshmen. Ms. Busch was the coach again this year and her assistant coach was DeAnn Whitman.

There are eight colleges in the state that participate in Division II of the AIAW. Next year the women's sports program will move to NAIA level.

1. Coach Busch announces the batting order. 2. Southwestern holds a girl on second. 3. Terri Batten and Karen Gray get an out on first. 4. Terri Morgan is the team's pitcher. 5. Golfers Enjoy Winning Year

Winning was the name of the game played by the Southwestern Bulldog golfers as they carried away top honors at the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference golf tournament. Tournaments resulting in second place finishes for the golf team were Joplin, Missouri, South Padre Island, and a second place tie with Cameron in the District 9 Tournament. Fourth place finishes were chalked up in the Central State and Cameron tournaments.

Track Team Runs Second in OIC

The SWOSU Track Team ended a very successful season by capturing second place in the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference. Preceding the conference meet, the team participated in indoor meets at the Myriad and outdoor meets at Tarleton State at Stephenville, Texas; University of Oklahoma at Norman; District 9 at Edmond; and the OIC at Alva.

Gary Cooper was the team captain and was also voted runnerup to Most Valuable Athlete in the OIC Conference. Credit should be given to each individual on the team since track is an individual sport requiring many hours of practice and extreme self-discipline by the participant.

1. Team Captain Gary Cooper clears a high hurdle. 2. Tim Neufeld demonstrates his skill at the pole vault. 3. Like the other track team members, Robin Palesano, Dennis Lettkeman, and Rick North practice daily to stay in condition. 4. Members of the Southwestern Track Team are — FRONT ROW: Carl Hazelbaker, Gary Cooper, Tim Neufeld, Harmon Ray, Kevin Marshall, David Carter, and Jody Randele. SECOND ROW: Dennis Lettkeman, Bret Stone, Robert Allen, Desmond Ross, Reggie Giddings, Paul Johnson, and J. Women's Tennis Has Young Team

The 1981 Women's Tennis Team played hard and worked to build up the young talent on the team. Inexperience followed the ladies around but they proved themselves by posting a third place finish in the State Tournament. There were also a few second round victories in the Bethany Tournament. The regular season matches were tough and the ladies fell short on some occasions but will be ready for the 1982 tennis season.

1. Vanessa Talas makes a nice backhand shot. 2. Elaine Provincio races for an outside hit. 3. Kelly Ives puts strength behind her serve. 4. Members of the 1981 Women's Tennis Team are – FRONT ROW: Vanessa Talas and Vickie Taylor. BACK ROW: Elaine Provincio, Lori Lind, Coach Murdock, Tracye Bradford, and Kelly Ives.

Rodeo Team Gets Bigger and Better

The Southwestern rodeo program began in 1967 under Dr. Don Mitchell. It annually attracts between 40 and 45 men and approximately 15 women for both fall and spring competition. This year was no exception with approximately 68 men and women competing in the college rodeo program. The program has experienced rapid growth and improvement in recent years and has attained status as one of the outstanding programs in the nation. Among SWOSU rodeo alumni are natives of Nebraska, Wyoming, Texas, Kansas, Iowa, New Mexico, Colorado, Missouri, South Dakota, and Canada, as well as Oklahoma.

Members Display Much Determination

Southwestern is no stranger to national championships, having had three national title-winners. Steer wrestler Randy Taylor was the first in 1976, followed by barrel racer Bana Perry in 1979 and bareback rider Joe Eckert in 1980.

Either the men's or women's team qualified for collegiate national finals seven years running from 1975-1981.

1. Kerri Beaman, Bennett, CO freshman, competes in all three women's events. 2. Jan Holley, Pecos, Texas senior, not only has time to rodeo, she is also majoring in Pharmacy. 3. Diane Shirley, Grantville, KS junior, ropes at Western Okla. State's College rodeo. 4. Mike Perry, Enid junior, teams up with Russell Conn, Bethany sophomore. 5. Don Mitchell, SWOSU rodeo coach, has kept the organization alive for fifteen years. 6. Dale Hirschman is assistant rodeo coach. 7. Joe Leonard, Muskogee junior, is one of three members that is scrambling for the bull riding title. 8. Kim Gardner, Wynnewood senior, steps off to tie the goat. 9. Puddin Payne, Stillwater sophomore, is a top contender for the regional calf roping title.

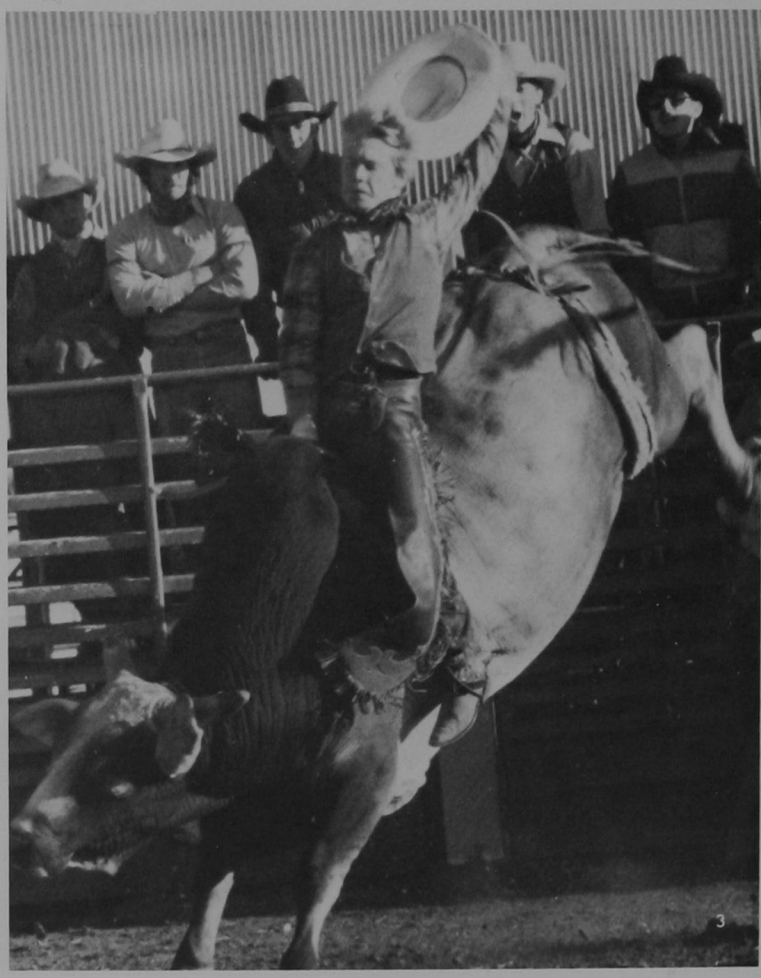
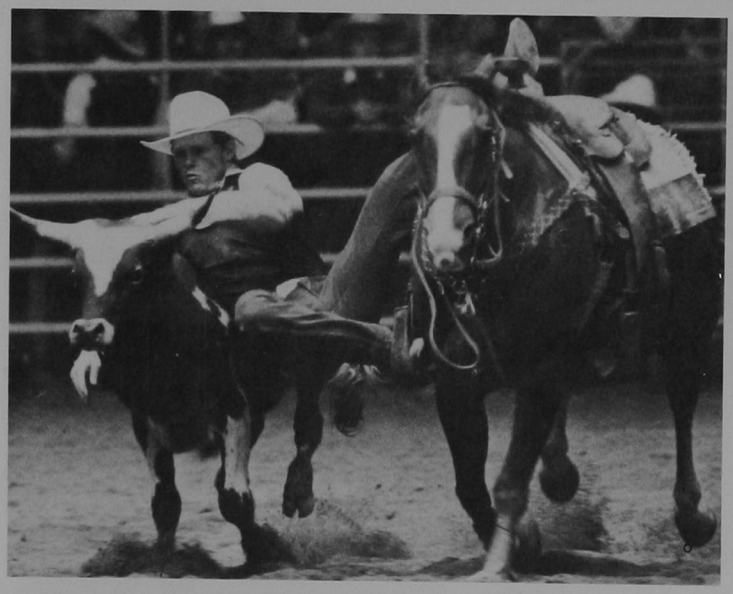
Rodeo Team Shows Skill and Expertise

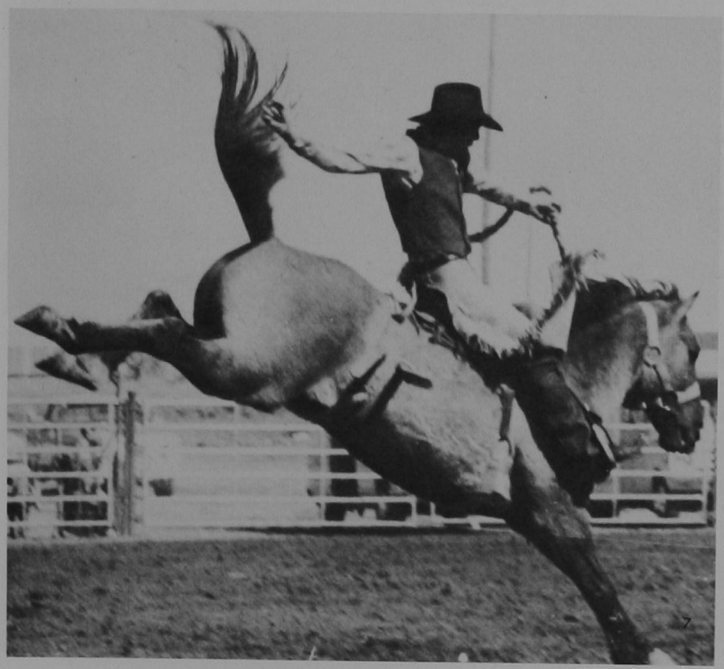
The 1981-82 rodeo schedule is the busiest ever. The team is competing in seventeen college-sanctioned rodeos.

Since 1972, Southwestern's rodeo team has been host for its own rodeo which attracts representatives from 35 colleges and universities in the Central Plains region of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association. The Central Plains region consists of colleges in Oklahoma, Kansas and southwestern Missouri. The top two in each event of all regions will have earned the opportunity to compete in the NIRA finals held in Bozeman, MT in June. Also the top two men's and women's teams of each region will be eligible to compete at the finals.

1. Monty Shifflett, Fay senior, spurs Spotted Cat at the Fort Hays State College rodeo. 2. Penny Hughes, Syracuse, KS sophomore, tucks in the corner as she rounds the second barrel at the Hutchinson Community College rodeo. 3. Jon Greenough, Abilene, KS junior, rides State Trooper for 75 points at the Panhandle State College rodeo. 4. LaDeana Matteson, Mooreland junior, ropes her calf in 4.6 seconds at the Fort Hays State College rodeo. 5. Grant Didier, Fay senior, tries 104 as the clown attempts to make the bull turn back for a better show. 6. Marty Miller, Apache junior, represents SWOSU at the 1981 College National Finals Rodeo as he gets down on the steer to throw him bulldog style. 7. Micah Lynch, Fairview sophomore, puts on a classy ride and places high at the Western Okla. State College rodeo. 8. Marty Cummins, Lexington junior, spurs Geronamo as the wild grey shows his stuff at the Western Okla. State College rodeo.





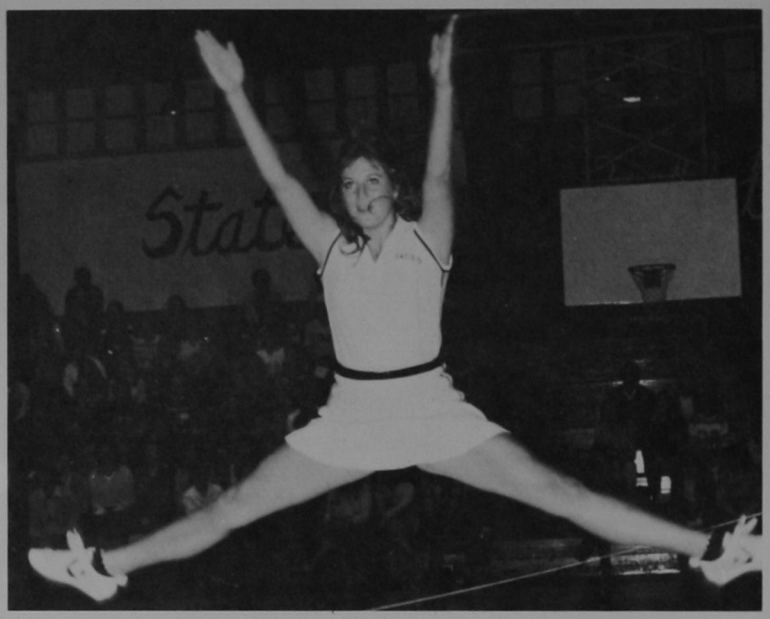


Southwestern's 'LEADING LADIES'

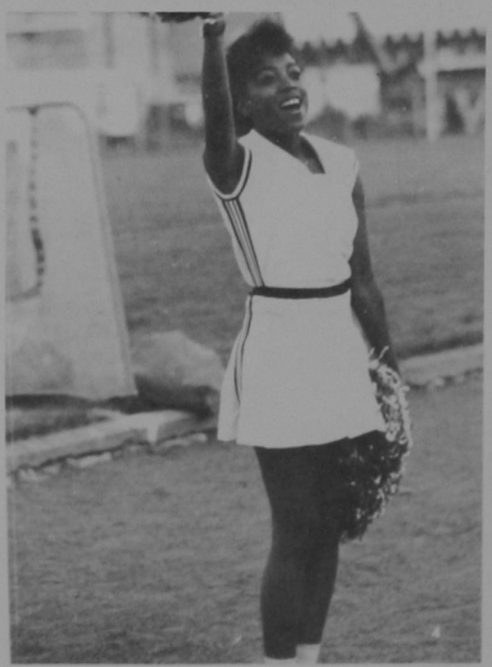
The 1981-82 Southwestern "leading ladies" lead the Bulldogs through thick and thin. Their attendance at all the in-state games brings out that Ole Bulldog Spirit in every Southwestern crowd. The Cheerleaders were unable to attend the out of state games due to insufficient funds, but they were always there in spirit.

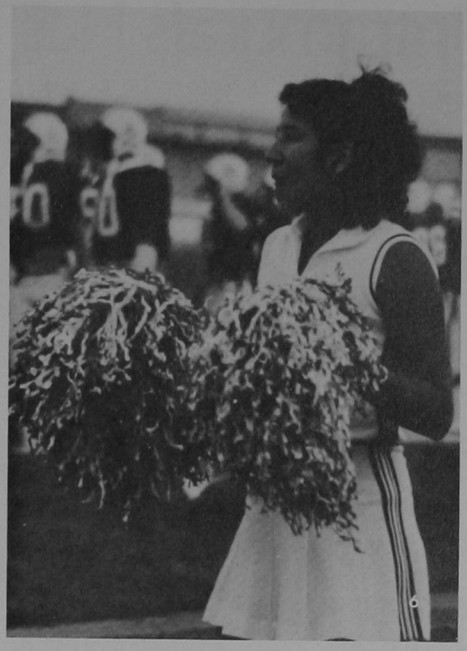
This year Southwestern has two returning Cheerleaders, Ginger Jones, Clinton Sophomore, and Mary Birdshead, Anadarko Sophomore. These ladies have shown tremendous amounts of dedication through all their hours of hard work and practice. Ginger also serves as head cheerleader to the 81-82 squad.

The girls have an excellent sponsor, Faye Henson, a member of the Southwestern faculty. She not only serves the squad as an advisor, but she is also a friend to each and every girl. Mrs. Henson has been the Southwestern cheerleading advisor for the past five years.



1. Miami senior, Vicki Hammons, flies high at the 1981 homecoming assembly. 2. During the assembly, Southwestern's leading ladies provided the entertainment for the student body. 3. The cheerleaders are kicking off the Homecoming game against the Eastern New Mexico Greyhounds. 4. Compton, California's Nesie McKindley displays enthusiasm to a Southwestern home crowd. 5. The cheerleaders lead the Bulldogs to a victory at the first home game. 6. Anadarko's Mary Birdshead displays needless concern for the mighty Dogs. 7. The Bulldogs expect support from the whole Southwestern crowd, but they can always rely on an encouraging cheer from Vicki Hammons. 8. Clinton's Ginger Jones goes to great lengths to perk up the Southwestern fans. 9. Head cheerleader, Ginger Jones enthusiastically displays her Bulldog spirit. 10. Denise Smith of Stroud keeps the crowd alive at the Panhandle football game. 11. The 1981-82 Southwestern Cheerleaders are — Ginger Jones, Denise Smith, Shelley Knightstep, Mary Birdshead, Vicki Hammons and Nesie McKindley.



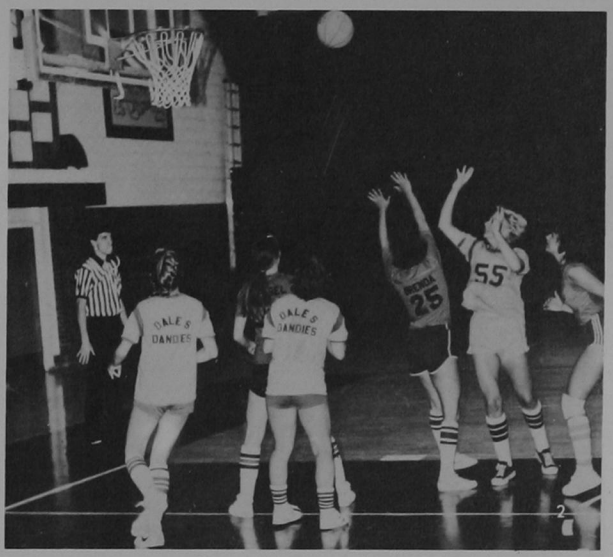


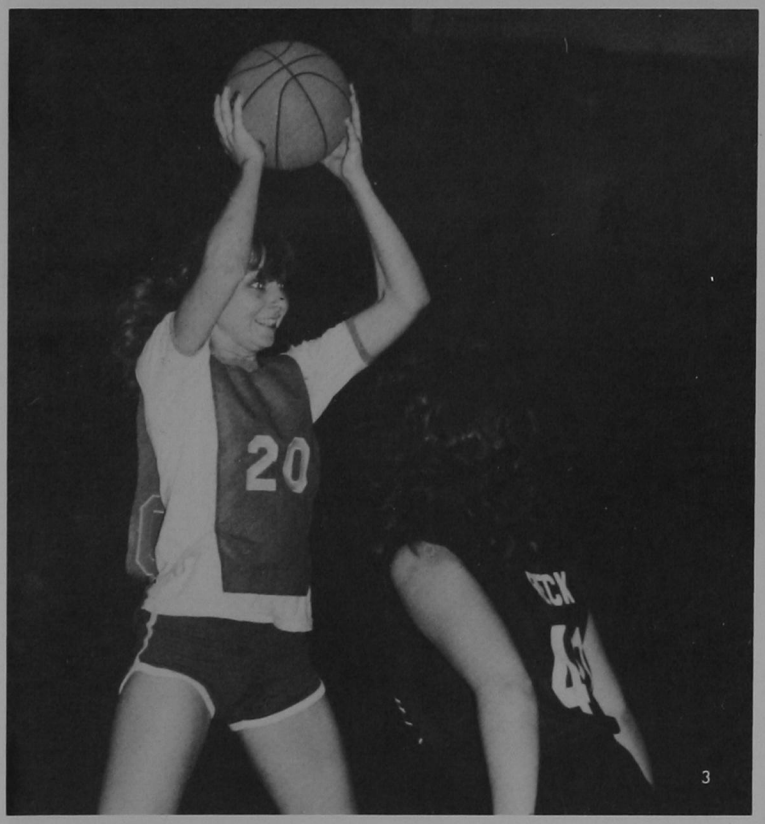
Intramurals Has Something for All

The intramural program provides an outlet for several hundred part-time athletes on Southwestern's campus. There was a total of 744 men participating in basketball, 116 men in football, 312 women in basketball, 140 women in volleyball and 240 men and women in co-ed softball. In addition to the programs sponsored by the school, the Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity sponsors women's powder puff football. This year 105 women played on powder puff teams.

1. A strategic offense and a ready defense make men's intramural football exciting to both the players and the fans. 2. These players anxiously wait for the outcome of the tip. 3. Showing his skills in a lay-up is number 33, Joe Sanders, of the Bombers. 4. These two teams exchange friendly greetings before the game. 5. All eyes have to be on the batter before running.

1. Men's intramurals is full of excitement and high hopes. 2. Women's intramurals are very seldom taken lightly, as all eyes are on the basketball. 3. This lady basketball player looks nervously for a teammate. 4. Jowanna Kuykendall, of Dale's Dandies, takes the ball up court, as Sherry Osmus of the Hots Shots chases. 5. The Bombers start a fast break against an opposing team.





Intramural Sports for Active Students

1. The members of the first place volleyball team are – FRONT ROW: Terri Batten, Karen Huebert, Sheila Bridges, Laynette Regier, Leneta Leibscher, Diane Johnson. BACK ROW: Bobby Batten, Karen Packer, Sharyl Newcomb, and Billy Batten. 2. Diane Johnson goes up to get a tip. 3. These girls go all out when playing volleyball. 4. Kevin Harrington prepares for a spike as Sherri Osmus watches intently. 5. An intramural player puts up a shot as two other players try to block it.

Duke Awards Honor Students

The Duke Awards assembly is held annually at the end of the spring semester to honor outstanding student achievement the past year. The different organizations and departments on campus honor the students for their hard work, achievement and leadership displayed throughout the year to benefit the programs implemented at Southwestern.

The outstanding male and female from each class level is recognized, along with outstanding student leaders on campus. Outstanding freshmen receiving an award was Ken Province; sophomores, Teresa Hedges and Jeff Short; juniors, Debbie Miller and Allen Swanda; seniors, Kathy Penner, Terrill Ashby and Mark Province.

The Outstanding Student Leader Awards were presented to Ann Cox, Lawana Kisinger, Joe Thompson, Rocky Lee, Mark Province, Jim Scott and Allen Swanda.

Special Service Awards went to Scott Clevinger, O'Dellas Murrell and Greg Shaw.

The President's Trophy honoring the most active organization on campus was presented to Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

The assembly was topped off with the swearing in of the new Student Association officers by the past Senate president, who also serves as the Master of Ceremonies for the assembly.

The new Student Association officers installed by past president Allen Swanda were Rocky Lee, student association president, and Clay Scott, student association vice-president.

1. President Leonard Campbell presents Debbie Miller an award for being the outstanding woman of the junior class. 2. Allen Swanda receives an award for being one of the outstanding leaders on campus. 3. The crowd patiently waits for the awards ceremony to begin. 4. Vice-president Reynolds presents Michele Riley an award for her services contributed to the Student Association during the past year. 5. Scott Clevinger presents a Special Service Award to O'Dellas Murrell. 6. Rocky Lee is sworn in as the new Student Association president for the 1981-82 year. 7. Ann Cox proudly displays her award for being chosen as one of the outstanding student leaders on campus.

Congratulations.

If you are a Senior graduating from college this year you have — been around the sun 22 times
— spent 17 years in school systems
— or 153 months
— or 4,590 days in class (counting off for weekends, holidays, summer and hookey)
— or 34,560 hours in class (counting off for lunch, recess and tardiness)
— or close to 50,000 hours studying (counting homework, field trips, and cramming for tests)
— or approximately one-third of your waking life studying
— which is roughly 2,080 times longer than it took God to create a new world from scratch.

Go thou and do likewise.

Another yearbook has been completed, and as usual there are many people that need to be thanked for lending their time and energy to the task. Each member of the staff put in many hours of time to finish their pages for each deadline, and usually put in a little bit extra. Mr. Richard Wilson, yearbook advisor, let me try many new ideas, and always had a word of encouragement for each member of the staff.

The responsibility of being editor has taught me more than any classroom experience could have accomplished. The friends I have made while working in the journalism department have made the task worthwhile; especially, the friendship of Max Paty. He always tolerated my crazy ideas and somehow managed to brighten even the bleakest moments.

As usual, with any new endeavor, there will be mistakes. The mistakes add to the uniqueness of the book, and make this yearbook a little more special to me.

I appreciate all the help given to me this past year, and I hope each of you will enjoy looking at this edition of the Bulldog. Because, I certainly have enjoyed putting this book together.

Thanks to everyone,

Penny Martin

A very special thanks goes to Miss Pat Lazelle, art instructor, who provided the drawing used for the cover.

Also, a special thanks goes to Mr. Dale Hirschman who provided the prints used in the rodeo pages of the sports section.
