Hittin' the HIGHLIGHTS

It seems, college life is one highlight after another. For some the highlight might be acing a test; for someone else it might be the Freshman Mixer. Whatever the case may be, college life is invariably eventful.

Weatherford itself usually seems drab to the city folks and it possibly will seem drab to a few smalltowners, but these people just need to look for something that is right for them. The city and its people offer tons of support to the university; they know a good thing when they see it. The university is one of Weatherford's main heartbeats, it boosts the city's population quite a bit and it brings in large amounts of business.

Nate Bowen's confidence oozes before practice, but is it this way afterward?

Kim Fennelly, Diane Johnson, and Stacy Kelley are caught up in the excitement of the Hats Off Dance.

Greg Hinkle leads Mongo's Army in their imitation of Rockettes.

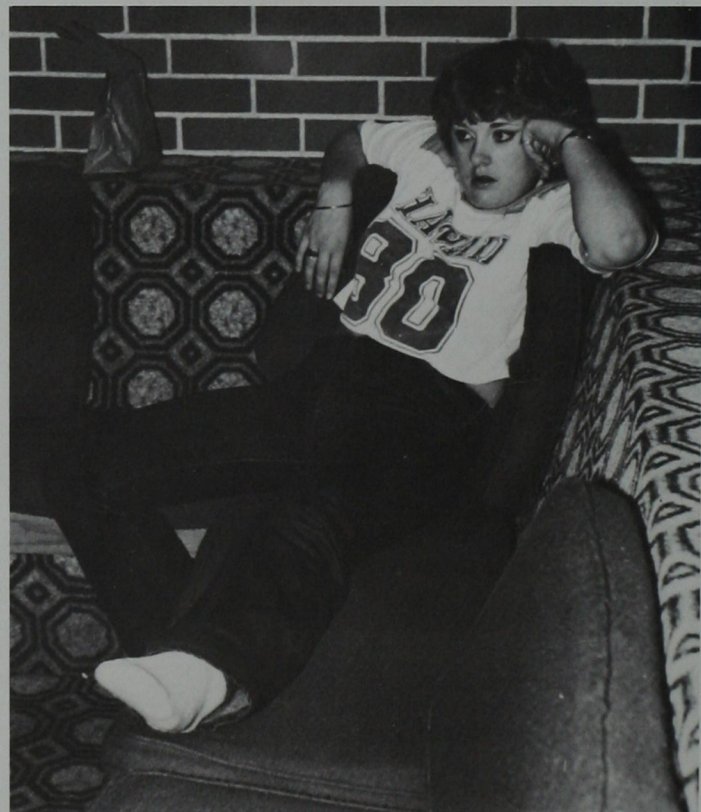

Good friends are the greatest highlight. Tim Beauchamp and Tod Nix both seem to agree.

The odd Spring weather brought about many questions concerning whether or not to wear a jacket, but the Miller Twins had no doubts about sporting their all-state jackets.

Kathy Foster and Brandie add lots of smiles and adventure to the ball games.

Stacy Shephard relaxes while watching television on a free afternoon.

Highlights Cont.

On campus there are approximately eighty organizations, each one having high points to offer. The social groups look forward to meeting new faces on a carefree, friendly basis. Their groups build family-like friendships that will last forever. The service organizations are looking for people that have the desire to work hard for the happiness of others. The religious groups are willing to openly share their faith with others. The departmental organizations are concerned with the student's future and of course this should be the primary reason everyone is in college.

David Thompkins and the rest of the "Fantasticks" cast highlighted the spring with their performances.

Highlights Cont.

Rose Ann Rhodes, an R.A. at Oklahoma Hall, offers her advice to all residents that pass by.

Bright days are taken advantage of by ROTC.

Southwestern has four schools. These schools are strong with faculty ready to share their knowledge.

I guess all of these examples should be called high points. If this is so, then what are the highlights? Possibly Freshman week, Homecoming, the Alpha Gamma Delta Manhunt, or to many it is the Lady Bulldog basketball team displaying their awesomely graceful talents. Or Remember the spirit Mongo's Army impressed into the crowds at the basketball games. Besides getting the fans revved up and entertaining, Mongo's Army had to have lifted the team's morale. To know that you have 100% support is the ultimate Highlight.

Greg Ellis leads Mongo's Army with the Southwestern Flag.

Chief Worley grimly gives another ticket.

Robert Kevakian practices toward becoming computer genius.

Highlightin' STUDENT LIFE

Highlights of the Student Life on campus include being a Greek, hanging out at the dorm, and joining specific organizations. Of course, the 4,500 different students can all find something to do: many of them look for a friend to do it with.

Studying keeps students fairly busy, but occasionally they break away for some fresh air. The kind of air found in the Student Union, Zak's, or maybe, if they are old enough, J.C. Cowboys. Needless to say, not everyone spends their spare time in these places. Some look forward to meeting new friends in a religious organization, at the dorms, or just wherever and however possible.

Making friends is a highlight in one's college time. The Greeks make their group of friends seem like a family. They have open arms to anyone who would like to be a part of their family. Organizations have much to offer people with the same interests — such as religion, politics, and professions. Sometimes the main purpose for gathering is just to help others.

Whatever the case may be, making friends is the highlight of campus life. Keeping them is the ultimate treasure of life.

Kevin Matt and Santos Diaz broke away from their studies to play pool in the Student Union.

ORGANIZATIONS

Campus organizations are developed from many areas including pharmacy, service, religion, and profession. This variety gives the students a wide range to choose from. The reason for joining a specific organization is to meet people with the same ideas as your own. Often times, students belong to several groups which gives them the opportunity to meet many people.

Campus organizations let the students occasionally break away from their cliques. A club might also pull a person out of a rut, like staying in the dorm all the time or keeping only to their close-knit group of friends. Having old friends is very important, but making new friends is equally as important.

O'Club

Troy Oglesby relaxes before the first O'Club meeting.

Mike Shelton, Trent Perkins, and Mickey Geurkink wait in line to eat at their meeting.

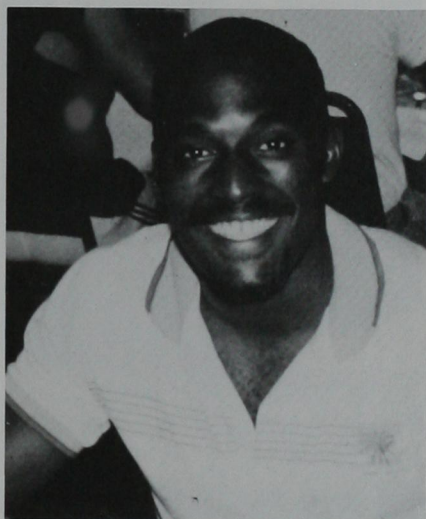

Mark Hoffman, president of the O'Club, and Coach Larry Geurkink go through the food line before a meeting.

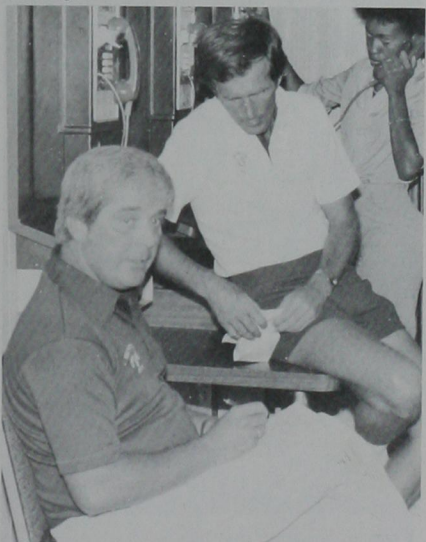

One of the most prestigious athletic clubs on our campus is the O'CLUB. This club consists of all the athletes who have received a hard earned letter in at least one sport.

This group works hard selling programs at the football games, along with their monthly meetings at the Mark Restaurant. In the spring, the members have fun initiating the new members with a week of embarrassing but fun activities.

The O'CLUB succeeds in getting together all the great athletes of Southwestern to learn from each other and to have some fun.

Terry Johnson smiles about his meal at an O'Club meeting.

Coach Geurkink and Coach Buffum take roll at a monthly meeting.

Marketing/Management

Bringing together many of our business students with similar interests is the MARKETING/MANAGEMENT CLUB. This club is busy throughout the year with fund raisers such as bake sales and monthly meetings featuring guest speakers. Some fun activities are planned for the members such as picnics and other outings. During October the MARKETING/MANAGEMENT club joins the Phi Beta Lambda club to travel to Dallas to Observe activities at market.

The Marketing/Management club officers are: Teri Moore, secretary; Laurie Shafer, president; Lorie Ernst, treasurer; and Kim Eyster, vice-president.

Laurie Shafer discusses the results of the first meeting with other members.

Teri Moore, Lynne Mason and Robyn Bustin play some Haki Sac at the picnic.

SME

Scott Swan and Mike Mounts slave over the hot coals at the hamburger cookout.

Society of Manufacturing Engineers is a student organization at SWOSU sponsored by Industrial Technology in the Department of Industrial Education. SME is one of only eight American members of the World Federation of Engineering Organizations.

Members attended weekly meetings on campus as well as meetings in Oklahoma City where the latest advancements in manufacturing technology were discussed and displayed.

A number of SWOSU SME members attended the Joplin Leadership Conference each year. At this conference, students attended sessions ranging from presentations on fund raisers to motivation. Representatives from each of the attending schools were in charge of the different sessions.

Roy Gillaspay, Steve Archer, and G. B. Stotts were the 1983-84 SME sponsors.

SWOSU SME members attend the Joplin Leadership Conference with other SME students from Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma.

Mu Rho Alpha

As one of the Medical Record Administration clubs, Mu Rho Alpha added to our campus the understanding of medical records and health care. This club had programs every week with special speakers to teach them more about their field and related fields of study. Throughout the year they held fund raisers such as bake sales. At homecoming, a special Alumni Day was held for the graduates of this organization. They had an annual Christmas party and a banquet with the Allied Health and the Medical Technology clubs at the end of the school year.

Mu Rho Alpha Members. FRONT ROW: Glenda Conner, Karen Bolding, Leona Ramon, Lynda Parkey, Lisa Lovett. # Physics Club

The Physics Club is an organization which promotes interest for those interested in Physics or related subjects.

It strives to provide social, professional, and career information for the members of the organization.

Bible Chair

Director J. Ritchie Hamm leads the group in a meeting.

Tim Beacham and Paul Johnson listen carefully to what's being said.

The main purpose of the Church of Christ Bible Chair is evangelism. The Bible Chair offered a variety of activities which focused on this aspect of the program. Some of these activities were devotionals, singing, discipleship classes, and volleyball.

The Bible Chair also had potluck suppers, various parties, and participants in intramural sports. They also participated in homecoming with a float.

Some of the service oriented activities included singing at Littlebird's Nursing Home, and some of the students helped with the Youth Services Center in Clinton. Many of the young men helped area congregations by assisting in preaching, teaching, and song leading, while many of the women helped teach Bible classes at the Church of Christ in Weatherford.

The joyful group of people at the Bible Chair.

English Club

The English Club, which consists of students who are interested in English, literature, and writing, promotes the field of English to majors and minors in both education and non-education programs.

During their monthly meetings, the club plans activities and fundraisers. Among the activities is the fall faculty/student picnic. This picnic gives the students a chance to meet and get acquainted with the English teachers.

In the spring semester, a formal banquet is held at which several scholarships are given to outstanding English students.

Mrs. Eleanore Waggoner is the club sponsor.

The mascot of the English Club is this little green dragon named "Ing".

Mrs. Aghavni Armoudian, Mrs. Eleanore Waggoner, and Mrs. Leroy Thomas make sure the hot dogs cook up just right.

These Cheerful Officers Are: (L-R) V. President Rose Ann Rhodes, Secretary/Treasurer Angie Kemp, and President Debbie Duerksen.

German Club

The German Club gathers for another meeting.

The German Club consists of students who are interested in Germany and the German way of life. The group studies the culture of the German people.

During their meetings, they sample different German foods and learn to play German games, as well as view films and listen to speakers. Occasionally they have speakers who have been to Germany, or are even from Germany.

At the annual Christmas dinner they eat a variety of German dishes and sing traditional German songs such as "O Tannenbaum."

Dr. Clarence Sturm is the German Club sponsor.

Accounting Club

One of the largest groups on our campus consisting of approximately 70 students is the Accounting Club. This club is useful in informing students not only about accounting principles but also about changes in accounting procedures. Students are also given leads on how to get jobs in the accounting field and where to apply. The group has monthly meetings and social functions including an annual Christmas party for its members.

The Accounting Club Officers Are. Vanda Ingram, president; Carol Hughes, vice-president; Cindy Barber, secretary; Carol Conklin, treasurer; Deborah Cook, public relations; Ron Oldfield, advisor.

Dwight Yokum waits anxiously to eat his hot dog at the Accounting Club picnic.

PEMM Club

An important club at Southwestern for the athletic minded is the PEMM club or Physical Education Majors and Minors club. This club strives to show athletes other aspects of sports they may not know. It encourages good sportsmanship and self control. Agility is improved and leadership is encouraged.

The PEMM club meets periodically for ideas, planning and recreation. The members attend labs to round their sports skills.

ROTC

Many students think Reserve Officers Training Corps is only carrying flags, marching, saluting and saying, "Sir." What many would-be cadets don't realize is that ROTC is also rappelling, rifle and pistol marksmanship, map reading, hand to hand combat, canoeing and fun. Southwestern's Military Science Department exposes the student to a capsulized view of Military life while building leadership capabilities, and possibly opening up lifelong career opportunities in the Military.

Phi Beta Lambda

Phi Beta Lambda lets students interested in business actively participate and learn about the business world around them. During the year they toured market in Dallas. They also attended a Tulsa Leadership Conference. The State Leadership Conference was held in OKC with finalists in the competition traveling to Atlanta, Georgia for competition against other students in the nation.

Uniting students with high academic standards that are also interested in medical technology is Lambda Tau. This organization is an honor society that helps their members with the professional aspects of clinical laboratory science. To do this they invite special speakers, including SWOSU graduates, to speak at meetings about their careers. They also have several social functions throughout the year.

Nikki Ross has a good time laughing and relaxing at the cookout.

Kathy McCoy relaxes by the pool at the party.

Chemistry Club

A student affiliate of the American Chemical Society, the Chemistry Club serves to encourage the chemistry profession. The club hosted guest speakers from the chemistry field at their bi-monthly meetings. Speakers this year included Dr. Elizabeth Holt, OSU; Dr. Dale Teeters, Tulsa University; and Dr. Jim Randall, Phillips Petroleum Company.

Chemistry Club involved themselves in a number of campus activities during the past year. These activities included a cookout featuring Chef Dill, a joint watermelon feed with the Biology Club, and their annual Christmas banquet.

1983-84 Chemistry Club officers were Andy Slagle, president; Dayle Frame, vice-president; Ann James, treasurer; Becky McClellan, activities chairperson; and Vicki Taylor, activities chairperson.

The Biology Club members are students seeking to be involved in biological research and related topics. At their monthly meetings, guest speakers are often featured. One of the hosted speakers this year was Frank Bryce who is with the United States Department of Interior at the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge in Lawton, Oklahoma.

The Biology Club actively supported the activities on campus. They sponsored a Homecoming Queen candidate and were active participants in the Senate-sponsored blood drive. A back-to-school watermelon feed was held at the beginning of the fall semester.

In September, a field trip was taken to Tahlequah, Oklahoma. The club camped out and took a float trip down the Illinois River. An October campout was held at the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge. A spring and fall plant sale were held to help finance the Biology Club trips.

Dr. Harry Henson is the Biology Club sponsor.

Kappa Epsilon

Kappa Epsilon is the only professional pharmacy fraternity for women at SWOSU. This fraternity serves to promote women who have been admitted to the school of pharmacy. The Alpha Beta chapter of Kappa Epsilon is in its twenty-third year on campus. Each spring a Founder's Day Banquet is held to commemorate the founding of their chapter.

Throughout the year, Kappa Epsilon sponsors numerous activities. They coordinate a drug fair that involves the participation of Allied Science and Pharmacy students. Over 350 students were in attendance at the Fall 1983 Drug Fair. A Homecoming Tea is organized for all Kappa Epsilon alumni.

A car wash and their annual spaghetti supper serve as fund raisers. Each spring Kappa Epsilon sponsors a Rock-A-Thon that is open to any student who wishes to participate. Pledge money raised through the Rock-A-Thon is donated to the Heart Association.

Wesley Foundation

The Wesley Foundation is a religious organization sponsored by the United Methodist Church and open to anyone at Southwestern.

The Wesley Foundation had many activities for the students to participate in. They included weekly meetings where the students had a chance to listen to a speaker, hold discussions and just relax. Also the group had a Wesley choir, prayer meetings, meals, fund raising events, retreats and service projects.

One project was Wesley Week, a week at the beginning of school semester in which many activities are planned to get everyone acquainted and start the school year off on the right track.

Student Senate

The Student Senate is the governing body of SWOSU Student Association. Through the planning of campus activities, Senate serves to control the budgetary needs of the Student Association treasury.

On a routine basis movies were shown and dances were sponsored. New to campus dances was the use of specific themes. The "Wear your favorite Hawaiian outfit" dance was quite a hit with the students. Each year a campus-wide blood drive is sponsored. Senate received an award for the most pints donated by an Oklahoma university by donating over 600 pints in one year.

An addition to Senate-sponsored activities was Freshman Week. This was a time for new students to acquaint themselves with the SWOSU campus. A freshman/faculty mixer was held to allow students the opportunity to meet their advisors along with other faculty members. The Street Dance, the first dance of the year, welcomed the student body back.

Student Senate did its part to support the cheerleaders through financial aid and assistance in organizing pep rallies for the athletic teams. Senate played a vital role in Homecoming activities. They also sponsored a parade float competition and had an excellent turnout. The theme, Homecoming Fiesta 1983, proved to be a big success.

Senate also provides financial support for the SWOSU Oklahoma State Fair booth, the SWOSU rodeo, Religious Emphasis Week, and the Miss Southwestern Pageant.

Senate officers, Kurt Winden and Krista Blanding, assist students in voting during the 1983-84 Student Senate elections.

Kappa Psi

Kappa Psi is the oldest national pharmaceutical fraternity in existence. The objectives of the Delta Beta chapter are to foster high ideals, scholarship, pharmaceutical research, and to support all projects that will advance the pharmacy profession.

Members of Kappa Psi were active participants in intramural sports such as football and basketball. The intramural football team made it to the fall playoffs.

To add to their activities on campus, a Homecoming banquet and dance were held with Kappa Psi alumni to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the Delta Beta chapter.

Kappa Psi provided hypertension screening at the Senior Citizens Center and at Wal-Mart as a service to the community.

Alpha Psi Omega

Alpha Psi Omega is a group open to anyone interested in participating in theatre.

Pledges must participate in all of the different aspects of the theatre such as acting, stage props, and publicity.

Alpha Psi Omega stayed busy with all of the many activities that the members participated in. Some of the members were with "Rapid Reactions," a theatrical group that works with New Horizons on different community projects. Other members performed at grade schools doing clown and puppet shows for the children. They also assisted back stage with the "Miss Southwestern" pageant. During the year members worked the east concession stand at football games so that money could be raised for scholarships and the "Teddy Awards Banquet."

The Teddy Awards include a formal banquet in which awards are presented to the students for their acting of different roles in the plays. The "Teddy" awards can, in a way, be compared to the all-famous "Oscar" awards.

IPA

IPA, The Institutional Pharmacy Association, is a group for students in Pharmacy and Pre-Pharmacy. It strives to provide professional help for those interested in Nursing Home, Institutional and Hospital pharmacy.

The IPA keeps busy with many activities including tours to different hospitals and Drug information centers. Monthly meetings are held for the members to listen to guest speakers that cover subjects which are important to their field of study.

All IPA members are also members of OSHP and are entitled to attend OSHP functions.

Rho Chi

Rho Chi is a national honor society for students in the school of pharmacy. The fundamental objective of Rho Chi has always been to promote the advancement of the pharmaceutical sciences through the encouragement and recognition of sound scholarship.

High standards of intellectual and scholarly attainments have been demanded for the election to membership. The students must have at least three semesters as a full-time student in the school of pharmacy, and an overall grade point average of at least 3.20 in the school of pharmacy. They also must rank in the upper 20 percent of the class.

IASA

The Industrial Arts Student Association promotes fellowship and a more unified, professional atmosphere among its members. It serves to instill a greater appreciation of the fields in industrial education. Through IASA, members gain a close association with the industry via field trips and guest speakers. The IASA motto is "Learning to Live in a Technical World."

Two of the major events sponsored by IASA were the Metric 500 and the Industrial Arts Exhibit Fair. The Metric 500 is a contest for Industrial arts students. A carbon dioxide powered race car is featured at this event. The Industrial Arts Exhibit Fair consisted of students bringing projects they had built to SWOSU for competition. The type of projects ranged from grandfather clocks to leather artworks to pictorial drawings. Each of these activities allowed students the opportunity to come and look over the university campus.

Highlighting one of their general meetings was a lecture given by a representative from the Tandy Leather Company who informed students about the availability of contracts in the industry. A field trip was taken to Halliburton in Duncan, Oklahoma.

IASA was an active participant in the Homecoming festivities. The IASA/SME float tied for third place in the Homecoming parade competition. The Christmas banquet was the highlight of the IASA social calendar. A watermelon feast started off the social activities of IASA this past year which were concluded with the annual IASA/SME picnic.

The Professional Business was started in January, 1983. It is open to all majors/minors in business related fields. In the future, the club hopes to secure a charter from Alpha Kappa Psi, the oldest existing business fraternity.

Aims of the club include the encouragement of self-development; the development of leadership, organization, and public-speaking skills; and the ability to work with and cooperate with others. The club promotes observance of high ideals by its members and in business, loyalty to the school, and serves to further the individual welfare of its members.

Many activities were sponsored by the club during its first year. Speakers at the general meetings included Greg Motley and Lamar Crall. To start off the fall semester an ice cream social was held at Means Park. A business field trip was taken to the Phillips Petroleum Company in Bartlesville, Oklahoma. Skiing and a cookout highlighted the trip to Fort Cobb Lake.

SHEA

SHEA, the Student Home Economics Association is an organization open to all home economics majors, minors and graduate students. It is affiliated with both the Oklahoma and American Home Economics Association.

It is designed to initiate a professional attitude and promote a better understanding of Home Economics.

The SHEA tries to present both serious subjects and recreational times to the members. The club has been busy this year with many club meetings and special events. A few of the business matters that the SHEA participates in are the installation of new officers at the Home Economics Banquet, the initiation of new members and guest speakers at the monthly meetings that represent different areas such as the Women's Political Caucus, the New Horizon's Mental Health Center and a Home Extension Agent.

On the lighter side of SHEA the members have a Christmas decorating party, a get acquainted party, also a treasure hunt and miniature golf.

Tau Beta Sigma

Jana Bass, Christy Snyder, Marilyn Hollingshead, and Kara Timm await the start of initiation.

Tau Beta Sigma is a national band service sorority. Members of the group supported the Marching Band through various activities during the year. Not only did they alter band uniforms, but they also supplied band members with breakfast and other meals during trips.

When Kappa Kappa Psi, the group's brother fraternity, supplied entertainment at dances, the members of Tau Beta Sigma were there to provide refreshments.

As well as their supportive duties, the women of the sorority brought band members a little bit of fun during the year with a baby picture contest. Baby pictures of band members were displayed and the person who was able to name the most members was declared the contest winner.

The efforts of Tau Beta Sigma members helped make the year both fun and rewarding for band members.

SWAPHA

SWAPHA is one of the largest pharmacy organizations on campus. They hold monthly meetings at which they discuss business and listen to speakers. Among the activities was the annual fall hamburger cookout. This was provided for all pharmacy students and faculty to allow them a chance to get acquainted.

The club also had an indoor winter picnic, and a Christmas social.

SWAPHA has various service projects. They helped with the SWOSU booth at the state fair, sold lab coats to students, and sometimes provided speakers for other groups.

The organization honors the pharmacy seniors with a banquet each year and helps in the preparations for the award convocation in the School of Pharmacy.

The Southwestern

Staff members of THE SOUTHWESTERN struggled through the year, trying to scrape up news; which they, as well as other students deemed important enough to be permanently recorded as the year's weekly highlights.

Editors tried to prevent mistakes from cropping up in the week's edition of the paper, but found the task to be impossible. Unfortunately, when a mistake was discovered, unlike other human shortcomings; there was no way in which it could be swept under the rug, since it was recorded in print.

Despite this minor inconvenience, the year proved to be rewarding for editors and reporters. Under the supervision of editor, Debbie Duerksen, the stories written by staff members proved to be rewarding for the writers as well as the readers.

Feature Editor Janelle Randall cautiously measures her empty space, hoping that there's enough copy to fill the blank spot.

1984 Bulldog Staff

This year was one of the most exciting ever for the yearbook staff. Hard work, self-determination, and a lot of encouragement were the major forces behind this team of students.

Some worked from dawn to dusk, others worked from dusk till dawn; but everyone worked. This group of go-getters attempted to canvass all the fraternity, sorority, club, and group meetings. Football, softball, and basketball games, as well as all the functions, rallies, and get-togethers, were permanently captured through the staff's work. Staff members traveled to these functions, in order to get pictures and stories of: the best, the worst, the most unusual, the many, the few, the least suspecting, and everyone in between.

Luckily, the photographers were good natured, because they were often put to work on short notice, when pictures were absolutely necessary. Members were also fortunate in having a forgiving editor, since mistakes were rampant among staff members.

SCEC

The Student Council for Exceptional Children has worked on several projects which aid handicapped youngsters. The Special Olympics was the highlight of the year for the organization.

Not only did the group work to gain funds for this event, but they also helped with athletic clinics, such as one devoted to basketball, for exceptional children.

Buttons were sold as a project to raise funds for Camp Happy Hollow, as well as the Special Olympics.

Serving as a time keeper or a hugger during the Special Olympics left members feeling rewarded and appreciated.

Pre-Med

Pre-med officers: Tim Nicklas, historian; Brenda White, vice-president; Johnny Rodriguez, treasurer; Donna Brister, secretary; Joyce Mathews, president.

A new group on our campus unites our medical students and teaches them things out of the class room. The Pre-Med club had monthly meetings with special speakers like the Director of Admissions from the OU Med school, the Air Force Physician Recruiter, and medical students from OU. This club did volunteer work at the Clinton Indian Hospital. The Pre-Med club also visits medical schools all over the state. This year was a great start for them!

MBA Club

The MBA Club was organized during the summer of 1983. This organization is open to all students who have an interest in business. The purpose of the group is to promote a better understanding of business and business-related fields. This new understanding was facilitated by field trips and guest speakers.

The MBA Club was composed of a wide diversity of students. Part of the members were full-time students working on their master's degrees, while others were in the working world full-time and striving for their degrees on a part-time basis.

One of the busiest organizations we have is the one spreading God's love across our campus. The Baptist Student Union constantly has something going on for a positive kind of fun or learning for everyone. Annual events are a fall retreat in a Baptist Camp by Sayre, a spring retreat at Falls Creek, a summer missions banquet, an international students banquet, and an alumni banquet at homecoming. The girls have a retreat to themselves in November. Every day noonday is held from 12:30-12:50 for all the students of SWOSU and any others are invited. This is a small relaxing service with testimonies and special music and fun. The BSU adds an indefinite amount of love and friendship to our school.

Alpha Phi Omega

Alpha Phi Omega is a national service fraternity that is in its tenth year on campus. This fraternity is open to any student who has an interest in serving their school and their community. The Psi Upsilon chapter of Alpha Phi Omega promotes leadership and friendship as well as service projects.

This chapter was very involved with scouts throughout this area. They painted the scout house at Dripping Springs and also sponsored a scouting camporee. At the camporee there were nearly 500 scouts in attendance. The Halloween Spook Trail was the highlight of this campout.

On campus, Alpha Phi Omega had the responsibility of running the concession stands at the football and the basketball games. The care of the fiberglass "Brandy" was in the hands of the chapter members who took it to the football games and to the Homecoming parade. On National Service Day, club members along with other students picked up trash around the buildings on campus.

Their other activities included bicycle safety inspections, sponsoring a Little League baseball team, and helping with Special Olympics.

International Club

The International Club is an organization that is open to all international students. Two major goals of the club are to promote a better understanding and good-will among all nations and to create a deeper appreciation of the nations' cultures. The club also serves to develop the civic, social, and intellectual improvement of its members.

This year they socialized with each other at picnics and potluck dinners. Club members also participated in the Homecoming parade. A Christmas banquet for all international students was held at Mrs. Ellinger's home.

Students also met to view slide shows of member nations. These nations included the following: Nigeria, Iran, Thailand, Zimbabwe, China, Hong Kong, Kenya, Jordan, Australia, Columbia, Ghana, Malaysia, Phillipines, Saudi Arabia, Sr-Lanka, Sweden, Syria, Turkey, United Kingdom, Zambia, Cameroon, Canada, and Korea.

GREEKS

Clubs are one thing, but Greeks just aren't in that category. Greeks have a closer knit group. They are more family oriented; the brotherhood or sisterhood. This is the reason they seem so cliquish to a non-member.

Each "family" is open to new members. They are on campus for people that want this type of relationship or people who want an open group of friends.

The Greek system is made up of three women's and four men's fraternities. The women's are: Gamma Phi Beta, Sigma Kappa and Alpha Gamma Delta. The men's are: Pi Kappa Alpha, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Tau Gamma. Each of these groups have many assets. They are all fun loving groups with their hearts in the right places: Their Fraternities.

Sigma Tau Gamma

After being reinstated on campus this year, the Sig Taus have proven to be a fine group of men. They started the year with twelve members and twelve pledges. They hope to increase their membership in the future.

Their main goal is to attain a house sometime in the near future. The Sig Taus were so enthusiastic about a house that they held several fund raising projects to achieve this goal. Some of them included their annual White Rose Calendar from which their queen for the White Rose Formal was chosen. Another project held this year was a softball tournament in which men's softball teams around the area participated.

Along with raising money, the Sig Taus took time out for recreation. Intramural football and basketball was a favorite pastime not to mention the many rush parties, swaps, the Halloween party, and of course the White Rose Banquet Ball.

Alpha Gamma Delta

Use men as sex objects? Why not. The Alpha Gams did this to raise money for their annual Philanthropy project. The Alpha Gams constructed a calendar of the twelve best looking men on campus to raise money for the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Each year they contribute to this foundation, but never has so much time and hard work been spent.

The Alpha Gams also raised money for their annual Christmas dance and Spring Formal. These were two major events in the social lives of the Alpha Gams. Other Social events included, sneaks, rush parties, and school dances.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Pi Kappa Alpha was very competitive this year. They maintained the highest grade point average of the Greek Fraternities for the third consecutive year. They also, for the third year, walked away with the IFC Superstars Competition. This competition was for the Greek Fraternities to compete in various sports such as bowling, softball, volleyball, and other sports as well.

This year the Pikes held a can food drive for families who couldn't afford Thanksgiving dinners.

In addition to these activities the Pikes raised money for their annual Homecoming and Christmas party. Their main event, however, was held in the spring to honor their Dream Girl.

Sigma Kappa

The Sig Kaps made it through Rush with success. They acquired twelve pledges and brought their membership up to twenty-four. These members raised money for organizations such as Gerontology, the study of the old; The American Farm School, an agricultural school for people in Greece; and the Maine Sea Coast Mission.

The Sig Kaps social lives also kept them busy throughout the year. They held swaps with the other Greek Fraternities, they held their Harvest Moon Masquerade party in November, and they held their Violet Ball Awards Banquet in the spring.

Although the Sig Kaps were active on campus they maintained the highest grade point average among the sororities on campus.

Phi Delta Theta

Starting out the year with twelve members and six pledges, Phi Delta Theta raised money to donate to the Lou Gehrigs Disease Organization. They also had a community service project in which they picked up trash around the Weatherford area.

These two projects are traditions that are carried on each year. Other traditions include, the Halloween Masquerade party, the Hawaiian party, and each year the Phi Delts meet their Alumnae in Altus for a day at the lake. Another tradition is in the making. The Phi Delts have won, for eleven consecutive years, the Greek Intramural Football Trophy and hope to maintain this tradition.

The year came to a close with the Senior Formal Banquet. The members honored their seniors and awarded the outstanding Phi Delta Theta Senior.

Gamma Phi Beta

Gamma Phi Beta is a social sorority that offers sisterhood and lasting friendships. These girls worked hard this year and put together a calendar of the men of Southwestern. The proceeds went to the underprivileged children.

The Gamma Phis had an active social life; they held many functions with the different fraternities on campus, they held their Boxer Rebellion in the Fall, and their Pink Carnation Ball in the Spring. They also participated in many activities on campus.

The Fall pledges of Gamma Phi Beta became an active part of their organization; they were as enthused about the new house that the chapter acquired this year as the members were. They held many fund raisers to purchase the few things that the house lacked.

Kelley Walls is attentive to the business of their meeting.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Tau Kappa Epsilon had an active Chapter this year. They are the oldest Chapter on campus and also the largest after doubling their membership.

The TKE's held several parties that started with rush and ended with their Red Carnation Ball. Other traditional parties included the Homecoming party, the Ding Dong party, the Halloween party, and their Christmas party.

Besides partying, the TKE's rolled a keg from Weatherford to Edmond that helped raise money for the St. Jude's Children's Home in Nashville, Tennessee.

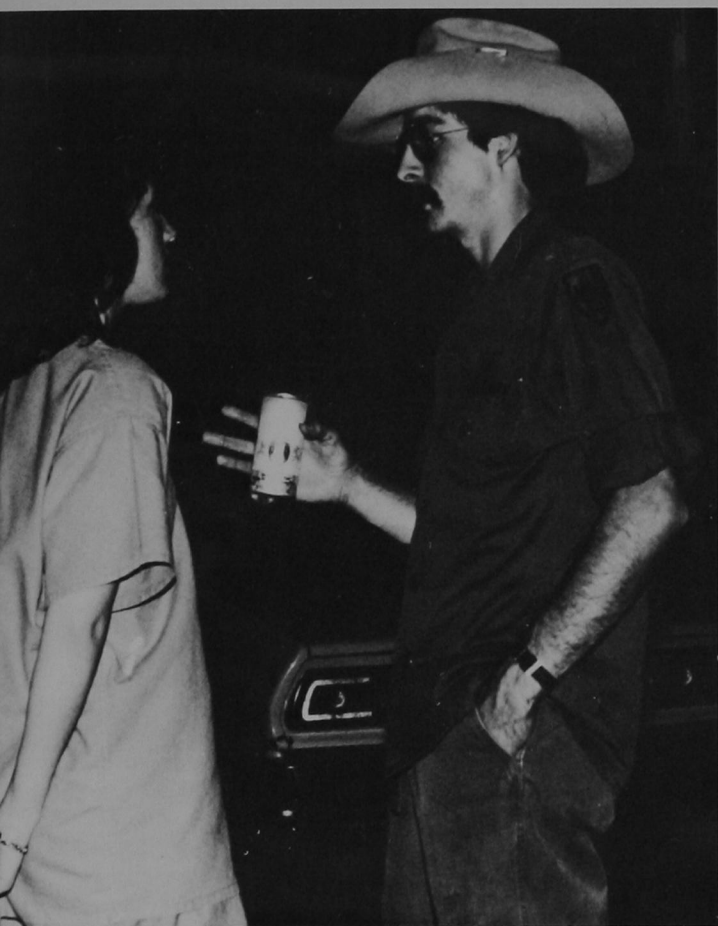

The TKE's also sponsored the women's Intramural football league and the Boy Scouts Box Car Derby.

Panhellenic

Panhellenic is the Greek Council for women. It is governed by the three sororities on campus, Alpha Gamma Delta, Gamma Phi Beta, and Sigma Kappa. This organization arranges formal rush, hosts a faculty tea, organizes salad suppers during Freshman Orientation and Co-sponsors Greek Week and the Muscular Dystrophy Dance-A-Thon, and encourages intersorority harmony. Each December, an awards banquet is given honoring the sororities' achievements. A scholarship trophy is presented to the sorority with the highest grade point, and an all Greek girl is named. Assisting President Sandy Scroggins were: Lisa Bell, vice-president; Becky Barnes, secretary; and Shelley Knightstep, treasurer.

Interfraternity Council

The Interfraternity Council functions as the governing body of the four social fraternities on campus. It consists of three members from each fraternity: Phi Delta Theta, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Tau Gamma, and Tau Kappa Epsilon.

This council co-sponsors Greek Week and holds a fund raising project with Panhellenic each year.

IFC also sponsored several sports activities between each fraternity such as an Interfraternity Volleyball Tournament and the annual IFC Superstars Competition. This competition brought each group together to compete in several sports events.

Alpha Gams Raise Money For Juvenile Diabetes

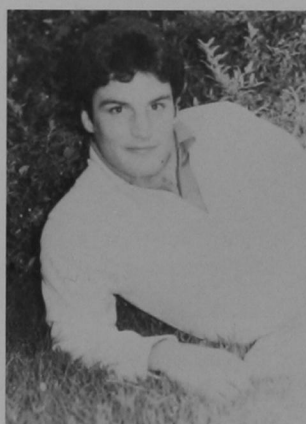

The Greek System is not only a group of social organizations. In addition to socializing, each Fraternity and Sorority has selected a particular philanthropy in which much time and effort is focused. The time and effort put forth is to raise and donate money to their philanthropy. Each group tries for record donations each year.

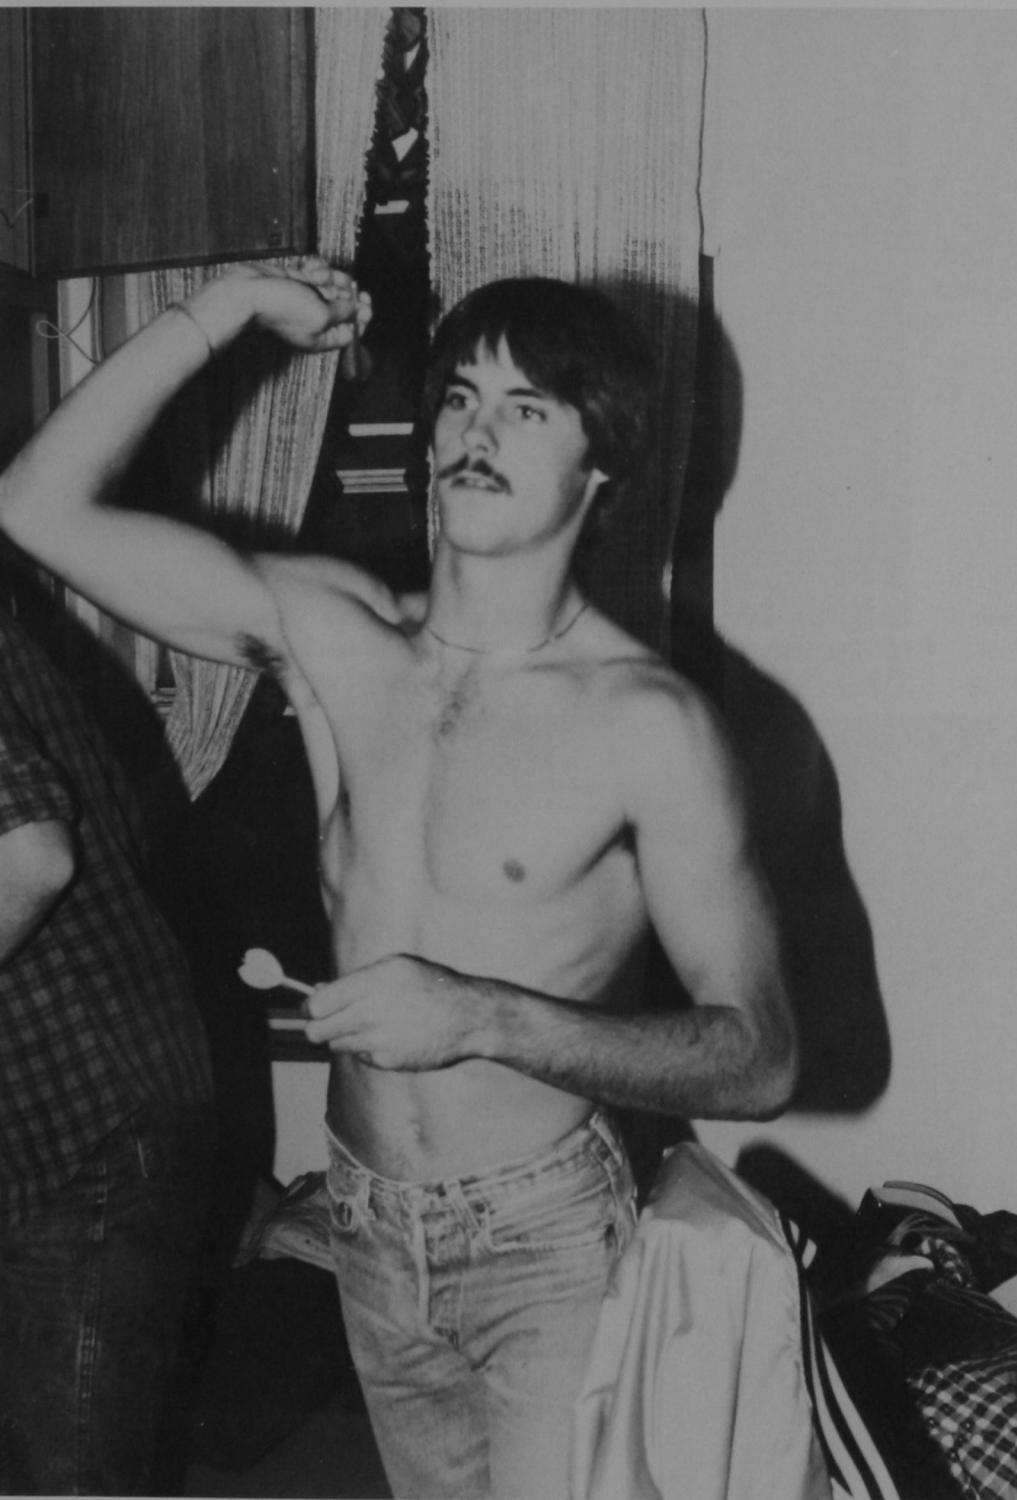

Alpha Gamma Delta's national philanthropy is the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. The Alpha Gams nearly tripled the amount that was raised last year by selling a calendar of the twelve best looking males on campus. This calendar proved to be very rewarding as well as profitable. Members of Alpha Gamma Delta felt that the time spent on the calendar was well worth it. "Our goal was to raise more money than we did last year and we accomplished what we set out to do."

The men were selected from an exclusive group. Thirty-three were invited to the Alpha Gam house for a reception. They were selected upon appearance and personality, it was hard because they were thirty-three of the best looking men on campus.

The men who are featured in the 1984 calendar are: Clockwise; January, Terry Allard; February, Jeff Reed; March, Troy Oglesby; April, Barry Bartel; May, Mark Russell; June, Kelly Dwyer; July, Scott Fridley; August, Bud Crownover; September, Freddie Graham; October, Randy Dowell; November, Hank Breshears; and December, Terry Johnson.

DORMS

The highlight of dorm life is making new friends or becoming closer to the old ones. People don't really know each other until they live together. Living with another person in the tight dorm rooms will make or break a friendship. Most roommates have their share of spats, but on the whole they are happy with each other. Dormitories give students the chance to have many friends.

Our six Dorms are well taken care of by the supervision of Dr. Freda Johnson, Dean of Women, and Dr. Lee Ash, Dean of Men. They keep the maintenance, security and all other areas up to standards.

Stewart Hall

Residents of Stewart Hall made things happen during the year. In her second term of office (she also served as Stewart Hall president in 1973-74) Bettie Sharpe organized several events in which the residents could participate.

A "Howdy Week," featuring events such as an ice cream social, a slumber party, a watermelon feed, and a volleyball game, welcomed residents back to school.

The residents put much effort into building a float for the homecoming parade.

Fun seemed to fill all of the dorm's activities, as it did their co-ed masquerade party at Halloween.

Dorm life proved to be both fun and eventful for residents of Stewart Hall.

Neff Hall

A large percentage of the residents of Neff Hall are athletes. This fact, combined with Steve Price, Bulldog quarterback, and his wife Stacey serving as dorm parents, has given the dorm the reputation of being the "athletes' hall."

After receiving a face-lift last year, the dorm atmosphere is attractive and cozy. The halls are just wide enough for a pleasant late night game of basketball, nerf football, or just about whatever game the residents might wish to play.

Despite the fact that Neff Hall is one of the oldest dorms on campus, things are still lively and jumping for residents of Neff Hall.

Oklahoma Hall

Oklahoma Hall residents participated in several fun activities during the year. Angie Kemp, R.A. for two prior years, became the dorm mother for 1983-84. She and her husband, Steve, helped house council members plan several improvements for the dorm, such as new carpet for the lounge, video games, and a new piano.

Residents took part in an inner dorm volleyball tournament, showed several movies, and entertained several visitors during Open House evenings.

Kristi Hooten, Oklahoma City sophomore and house council president, represented Oklahoma Hall as its Homecoming queen candidate.

The highlight of the year for Oklahoma Hall residents was the installation of HBO in the lobby's television set.

Parker Hall

Parker Hall provided its residents with a warm homey feeling. The large television lounge allowed residents a place to congregate, which they certainly took advantage of having.

A hamburger fry and several volleyball tournaments presented residents with recreational activities.

If residents wished to take in an afternoon baseball game, the diamond was in their front yard. The porch of the dorm provided them with a much more comfortable seat than the bleachers at the ball park.

To occupants of Parker Hall the dorm is truly a "home away from home."

Rogers Hall

Coeds found Rogers Hall a very pleasant place to live. The dorm has an ideal location — right next door to Jefferson Hall.

Another benefit that residents had was the fact that they didn't even have to go outdoors to reach the cafeteria.

Dances held in conjunction with the men of Jefferson Hall provided the dorm's residents with interesting social lives. Fire drills with all their jeers and whistles also filled the residents' lives with excitement.

Nights of talking when they should have been studying and hoping Mr. Right was in the lobby the same time they were — all of these things were a part of a Rogers Hall resident's life.

Jefferson Hall

Living in Jefferson Hall gives male students a bonus that no other male dorm on campus can boast: they are the only male residence hall to share a cafeteria with two girls' dorms.

Residents took advantage of their ideal situation by hosting dances in conjunction with Rogers Hall. Their own special ballroom, in the form of a boiler room, provided the back drop for a masquerade ball at Halloween, as well as several other "romantic" dances.

A hamburger fry, during which residents consumed vast amounts of hamburgers, was one of the social highlights for both residents and dorm parents.

Shown are Jefferson Hall parents, Deanne and Bryan Hammons, who helped coordinate the dorm's many activities during the year.

Pranks Add Fun to

DORM LIFE

Pranks played a very large role in dorm life. Some dorms and floors carry their orneriness even further than others. The fourth floor of Jefferson Hall fell into this category.

Dogpiles and throwing each other into the shower were a typical part of the week around this wing. However, the pranks were not malicious, and mostly they served to make the guys feel a part of the group.

Perhaps the most hilarious prank that newcomers faced was the "mysterious voice on the radio." Tom Boyle used his microphone and stereo equipment to project a sudden shocking voice over the radio of an unsuspecting underclassman.

The group has enjoyed the reactions of several of the wing's residents, who have suddenly, apparently out of thin air, heard a voice say, "This room is haunted!" or "We know you're alone."

Discovering whether the subject of the prank had the nerve to mention the incident or buried it in his subconscious, actually believing that he has had a supernatural experience, has left the pranksters with a lot of laughs.

The conniving that it takes to form a plan for a prank has brought the residents of this floor closer together. Usually, the evenings end with laughter at the results of their ingeniousness. These times brought residents of the wing some of their happiest memories of college. Dog piles, showers fully dressed, and mysterious voices projected over the radio ... All of these things highlighted the year for the men of Jefferson Hall's fourth floor.

Spotlightin' SPORTS

Whether it be the hustle and bustle of football's homecoming, the excitement of the Lady Bulldogs at Kansas City, or the Jaycee's Rodeo. Any of these sporting events are highlights of the school year. Of course, all the athletic events are important. The sports seem to be life or death to the players. These men and women practice as if they were to sweat blood. Their hard long hours are tremendously appreciated by the fans, but usually they avoid those thoughts. Their love of the game and their readiness to win are the only thoughts in their mind.

When thinking of collegiate sports most people think of high school all-staters and super jocks. These athletes are way out of the weekend ball players' league, therefore, intramurals are a highlight in the school year. These games give the fans a chance to feel the pressure and the athletes a chance to rest.

The Baseball Team's Woody Beisel

Gettin' Into the Swing With BASEBALL

The Baseball Team practiced long, hard hours to establish themselves as good all around athletes this season. The season began long before their first game in the beginning of March. In the fall, training always begins with lifting weights. Scrimmages follow with March snows and April showers (for Oklahomans, anyway) which bring on the games.

Some of the team's outstanding athletes are among the top in Oklahoma. Where would we be without guys like senior Richie Sculer, junior Hal Holt, senior Woody Beisel, senior Randy McKee and junior Mike Shelton?

The Ups And Downs Of FOOTBALL

The Bulldogs had their ups and downs the past season, but never would quit. Coach Bob Mazie pushed the team all season long. Although the team did not have a winning season they all felt a sense of pride at sticking together week by week.

During the week before the opening game the Bulldogs were confident and well poised, then little by little injuries of key players hurt the chances and the performance of the team. But the team stuck it out and no matter the consequences fought hard to do their best.

Football Cont.

The senior leadership was a key factor in keeping the spirits of all players high. When the going got tough, the seniors kept the team going.

Thirteen seniors began the year, and when injuries prevailed they knew they could count on a younger player to try and pull his load. Those seniors that were plagued by injuries were: Buddy McBryde, Butch Phillips, and Larry Weikel.

Other seniors were: Steve Price, who surpassed his expectations punting, Mark Hoffman, who passed his reception record of a year ago, Mackie Dedeaux who rushed for 101 yards in the homecoming game, and D. K. Guyton who ran an interception back 60 yards.

THE LADY BULLDOGS

The '83 Lady Blues began another year ranked on top. Kelli Litsch and the entire team received public recognition in Sports Illustrated. Also returning for the Ladies were seniors Anita Foster and Shorna Coffey; and juniors DeeDee Woodfork and Mindy Mayfield. Transfer players also played a key role for the team. Elissia Fountain, Diana Dees, and Carri Hayes were scrapping and playing hard every game.

Working Their Way To The Top Are THE BULLDOGS

The men's basketball team got their season off to a great start. Working together was the main goal of the season. The new team members made a great impression on the fans and their fellow teammates. The men had a way of making the crowd take notice.

This season, the Women's Varsity Softball Team played an eight game schedule, and play hard, they did.

Swingin' Times in GOLF and TRACK

The Golf and Track teams spent many hours a week practicing in preparation for their competitions and worked hard they did!

For a young team, golfers enjoyed a successful season, however, since 1977, the golf team has won five out of six years at the Oklahoma Intercollegiate Conference Championships. With a record like that, it's obvious that a great coaching staff is behind them. Coach Cecil Perkins and Assistant Coach, Steve Sweet, helped to make this season the success it has been.

Under the coaching staff of Jim Phillips, the track team had a successful season, also. They ended third in the conference and there is a hope that next year's team will be even greater.

Courtin' in Style With TENNIS

The tennis teams worked extra hard on the courts to build their talent this season. Under the coaching staff of Paul Nail and Lin Murdock, the teams played hard and showed exceptional endurance.

The women's tennis team had a slow start, barely making the five-woman team, but pulled through the season with a hope for better luck in the coming season.

The men's tennis team was seven-players strong this season. Their talent on the courts reflected once more upon the quality of students on campus.

CHEERLEADERS

Boast for the Bulldogs

Southwestern's cheerleaders separated into two spirit squads; one for football, the other for basketball.

Both groups put in much time and effort preparing new cheers and pom pon routines in order to do the best possible job. Hours of traveling and practicing aided the girls in bringing out team spirit and enthusiasm in football and basketball fans alike.

INTRAMURALS

Students found enjoyment and relaxation by participating in intramural basketball, men's flag football, coed softball, and volleyball during the year.

Intramural sports were a way for those who weren't in varsity sports to be active and competitive in a team sport. Many students took advantage of this opportunity.

Intramurals Cont.

Jim Phillips and Rick Roop worked with men's basketball, and Laura Switzer was in charge of women's basketball. Men's flag football was organized by Mike Whaley. Ernestine Wright, with help from David Weeks, worked with coed softball and volleyball.

National Competitors In

RODEO

The Rodeo team was again high in national status this past season. The team attended 13 rodeos, and for the 10th consecutive year were in the college national finals. The team also included three national individual finalists.

The Guys Have It

Bulldogmania

This past season when the focus of basketball was again on the Lady Bulldogs, the men's team was looking strong.

Practices were strong and recruiting of new players looked promising.

In the Kiwanis Classic, Lee Stringfellow showed he could play and jam well. Charles Harris was named to the all-tournament team, and the team as a whole won the classic and set a school record with 122 pts. against Concordia.

One of the smaller players on the team, Kirk Wilson, was a demon on defense. He was stealing passes and then drawing fouls and hitting clutch freethrows.

Arnold Madison was another of the smaller players, but that didn't stop him. He was probably the quickest player on the squad. Opposing guards didn't want Arnold defending them.

When you talk about the 83-84 Bulldogs, you can't leave anyone out. The team was a whole and played as a whole.

Senior forward Charles Harris adds to the lead with this slam.

Lee Stringfellow jumps high as Arnold Madison prepares to retrieve the ball.

All About the PEOPLE

College life is a world within itself; it reaches to many different realms. But if one watches closely enough; he will notice every single person lives basically the same pattern. Each person usually has a goal, fortunately it is not the same goal. Some of the people want to learn while others want to teach. A few of the people are here just to bide the time while waiting until something better comes along.

Attending classes usually does not highlight one's day, but one can be very surprised as to what trips another person's trigger. Regardless, we are all here for the purpose of going to class and doing well, although some may have other reasons that go along with this idea. Underclassmen remember to go to class most of the time, but they seem to forget to do well. The upperclassmen tend to forget to go to class, but seem to do better as far as grades go.

It is difficult to live nowadays without an education. Thanks to the faculty our later lives will be smoother. Without their willingness to teach; our knowledge would be very limited. Of course, without our desire to learn; their tasks would be menial and worthless. This desire to learn and work will be well rewarded with a degree, but a few of the students will happily receive departmental awards. These distinguished students are usually "the cream of the crop." Unfortunately not all of the upper students are recognized.

Discipline is the key to successful academic life. The more discipline, the more recognition or honors one will get for his achievements. The other honors such as beaus, sweethearts, and queens are selected by the students, which possibly are more important. At any rate, being recognized by others is always a highlight.

Glenda Blackmon cheerfully heads toward class in the Old Science Building.

HONORS

Being specially recognized in a becoming manner is a highlight to anyone. On our campus there are bunches of ways to be noticed. Being a Homecoming queen candidate, a departmental award, recipient, or possibly being named to Who's Who; will bring back fond memories of college life. There are many honors that are briefly revealed, but soon forgotten by most everyone, except, of course by the person being honored. These types of recognition are like modeling in the Bridal Showcase, being senior of the week, or possibly editor of the yearbook. At any rate, these are all highlights and hopefully will not be forgotten too quickly.

As Homecoming weekend came nearer, spirits soared at the thought of the traditional event. As 20 candidates were narrowed down to five finalists, the excitement grew. The student body voted on the contestants of their choice who were sponsored by various campus groups, Greeks, and organizations.

Following the election of the five finalists, a Homecoming Assembly was held as part of the tradition of the event. Diane Johnson, 1982 Homecoming Queen, crowned Melani Mouse the new queen at the 1983 assembly.

Melani, a junior, was sponsored by the O'Club and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Mouse of Weatherford.

Members of the 1983 Homecoming court included: Sandy Smith, Oklahoma City senior, who was sponsored by Rogers Hall; Michelle Huston, Boise City sophomore, who was sponsored by Stewart Hall; Susan Sweigart, Balco sophomore, who was sponsored by the Accounting Club; and Vanda Ingram, Lookeba senior, who was sponsored by the Baptist Student Union.

Student Senate Awards

For the first time since the Duke Awards became a part of the Southwestern tradition, the Student Senate decided to cancel the awards and hold a Student Senate Awards Banquet. Since most of the Duke awards were presented to the Student Senate members, the group voted to honor those students who show outstanding work during the school year.

During the banquet held at the T-bone Steak House, the officers for the 1983-84 school year were installed into office and received plaques to welcome them into office. The officers receiving plaques included Kurt Winden, president; Sandy Hill, vice-president; Krista Blanding, treasurer; Mark Hoffman, senior class president; Jeff Jordan, senior vice-president; Melanie Mouse, junior class president; and Michael Ratke, junior class president.

Rob Scheele was installed into the office of sophomore class president, and Sedrick Love into the office of junior class vice-president.

Along with the officer installation, several Outstanding Service Awards were presented. Receiving these awards were: Ed Parsley, Pete Franks, Richard Phillips, Krista Blanding, Sandy Scroggins, Sandy Hill, Scott Davis, and Kurt Winden.

Appreciation Awards were given to two outstanding Weatherford businesses who had shown special help to the Senate. These awards were given to Dale Schomp, veterinarian, and Ron Blackwell, owner of RK'D video games. Schomp received the award for services provided for Southwestern's mascot, Brandy and Blackwell received the award for donating free video games and drinks during the 1982 fall blood drive.

Phi Delta Chi, a pharmacy organization received the famed President's Trophy at the banquet. This award is given to the organization with outstanding achievement during the school year.

CLASSES

The highlight of college life is to be a Senior. Unfortunately one has to be a Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior first. Of course, this takes time and hard work and if one doesn't work it will usually take more time.

The time goes quickly and it is probably the most enjoyable time of one's life, especially the freshman and sophomore years. Freshmen are easily recognized by the upper classmen. Most are always wide-eyed and lost, at first; then after the first two weeks they get secure and become a little cocky. The majority of Sophomores are rather relaxed; they don't seem to get excited about much. Juniors begin to worry about being able to graduate so studies become very important. Finally, Seniors; they are caught up in graduating and getting on with their lives; definitely a highlight.

HIGHER-UPS

The Higher-Ups, this consists of everyone like the President, Vice-President, the Board of Regents, the Deans, the faculty, and the Administration. These are the many people that make this university function.

The faculty plays the most visible role. They are the ones that deal with the students every day. Occasionally, someone a little higher-up gets to visit with a student, sometimes for a problem, but hopefully for a highlight.

Recognition Goes to the LIBRARY

This student searches for information by using a microfilm reader.

A library aide, Angie Bowe, is always eager to assist students at the circulation desk.

Students find time to relax as they study.

The Al Harris Library serves as a workshop for students and faculty alike. It is also a local site where students can go to relax in the lounge areas and enjoy each other's company. The library acts as an extension of the classroom by furnishing resources to assist students in their studies.

It is open seven days a week to allow easy access to available materials. The library has over 200,000 bound volumes, subscribes to 1,689 periodicals, and has 25,283 government documents. This list is expanded by numerous microforms. Also available for student and faculty use, are a typing room furnished with typewriters, copy machines, micro-form reader-printers, and microfilm and microfiche readers.

On occasion, the library and the vital role it plays is overlooked. The library staff is due recognition for the management of such an asset on campus.

Dr. M. C. Weber uses a Reader's Guide for research assistance.

The Year Was Highlighted

This book, hopefully, hit at least one highlight for everyone on campus. Such a task is probably impossible, but being a memory book maybe it will bring thoughts of friends and acquaintances when later reviewed.

The staff, photographers, and the editors put in turmoil-filled hours trying to figure out who was who or what pictures were to be taken when, but the results of the finished project will change many attitudes.

Attitudes about Southwestern are usually sweet ones. It may be considered a suitcase college, but most students stick around all four years (except on weekends). The classes are challenging, the facilities are sufficient, and above all the atmosphere is pleasant.

In closing, the highlights were hit to the best of our ability, here it is the 1984 Bulldog for you.

Acknowledgements

I would like to sincerely thank Mr. Wilson. His confidence in me and his support of my efforts in working on this yearbook have been very important to me. His constant encouragement and occasional "push" here and there have made the 1984 yearbook a reality.

Sandy and I have been through a great deal this year and have survived. A special thanks is in order for Shalia and Debbie who took on extra pages to complete and stayed late to aid in checking pages to meet our deadlines. More than once there was reason to panic, but by cooperating and working together as a team all the goals were met. I would like to commend the staff and the photographers who have devoted much time and effort to produce a quality yearbook.

To my parents who have always been supportive of my endeavors, have encouraged me, and have helped me along when I needed them most, I want them to know how much their love and devotion have meant to me. Heartfelt appreciation goes to Tony Mikles who spent more than his share of time in the journalism room and patiently listened to my "crises" as well as my successes during the year.

Thank you students for the privilege it has been for me to edit the 1984 Bulldog!

Cindy Jackson

The past year has been full of tenseness and anxiety for everyone. I pulled through with the help of many people, but the people who made this yearbook possible were Debbie Duerksen, Cindy Jackson, Shalia Wakeman, Richard Wilson, and the Staff. These people put many hours of worry and work in the book. The people I have met while creating this book have all been a joy to work with and a great help to the production.

I owe a special thanks to my parents, Ray and Nancy Scroggins, and also to Hank Breshears. Without their encouragement, this endeavor would have never been possible. It has been a fantastic experience and a privilege to edit the "1984 BULLDOG."
