

TKEs Camped Out at SWOSU for Good Cause

03.08.2010

Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity members are camped out this week on the south side of Stafford Center on the Southwestern Oklahoma State University campus in Weatherford.

The TKEs are not staging a protest but raising money for the Down Syndrome Association of Central Oklahoma by manning a booth around the clock through this Thursday, March 11, at 5 p.m.

The TKEs sat through a day-long rain on Monday but are hoping for better weather the rest of the week. The fraternity members are raising awareness about Down syndrome.

Donations are welcome, and TKE members will be at the booth at any time of day/night through Thursday.
