

Patrick Wins SWOSU Patient Counseling Competition

03.10.2009

Southwestern Oklahoma State University pharmacy student Tayana Patrick of Weatherford recently won a patient counseling competition on the SWOSU campus in Weatherford. She now advances to a national competition in San Antonio, Texas.

These SWOSU students recently finished in the top 10 of a patient counseling competition held on the Weatherford campus. They include (front from left): Jennifer Bennett, Waynoka, fourth place; Rachel Ingram, Springfield, Mo., second place; Kristina Wood, Canyon, Texas, third place; and Travis Wolff, Yale. Back from left-Jessica Collum, Perkins; Jason Rivera, Choctaw; Megan Roberts, Midland, Texas; and Lena Lam, Plano, Texas. Not pictured is Brian Smith of Valliant.

Southwestern Oklahoma State University pharmacy student Tayana Patrick of Weatherford recently won a patient counseling competition on the SWOSU campus in Weatherford.

Patrick will now advance to a national competition this April in San Antonio sponsored by the American Pharmaceutical Association-Academy of Student Pharmacists.

The Southwestern Pharmacy Association (SWPhA) sponsored the local competition. Students were asked to provide counsel on a certain scenario involving a drug. Students have five minutes to look up information on the drug and then five minutes to counsel the patient.

Other winners were: Rachel Ingram, Springfield, Mo., second place; Kristina Wood, Canyon, Texas, third place; and Jennifer Bennett, Waynoka, fourth place. Other students who made the top 10 were (in alphabetical order): Jessica Collum, Perkins; Lena Lam, Plano, Texas; Jason Rivera, Choctaw; Megan Roberts, Midland, Texas; Brian Smith, Valliant; and Travis Wolff, Yale.