Fellowships Granted 17 On Faculty

Seventeen Southwestern faculty members will be working during the 1967-68 academic year under national teaching fellowships provided by a $45,000 grant from Title III of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Dr. Harold Massey, Graduate School dean, said the fellowships are in six areas: biological sciences, chemistry, education and psychology, English, industrial arts and mathematics.

The program provides for the chosen staff members to be released part-time from teaching to engage in independent study, research, writing and curriculum-development projects.

Participating members of the faculty include:
- Biological sciences: Dr. Buena Ballard, Dr. Roy Dick, Dr. R. T. Lynn and Dr. Ronald Segal.
- Chemistry: Dr. Ralph Asbury, Dr. Rolan Decker, Dr. Donald Hamm and Dr. Harold White.
- Education and psychology: Dr. Dale Hassinger.
- English: Caroline Applegate, Dr. Eugene Hughes and Dr. Jerry Nye.
- Industrial arts: Grant Hendrix and Arthur Raley.
- Mathematics: Dr. Phil Gibbons, Dr. Raymond McKellips and Thomas Rice.

CONVOCATION SPEAKER: Leo Winters, state treasurer of Oklahoma, challenges Southwestern degree candidates to go on to greater things during convocation exercises May 26 at Milam Stadium. In the foreground are stacks of degree covers.

Three long-time members of the Southwestern faculty will retire on July 1: Walter Crouch, public relations director; Dr. Fred W. Allen, chairman of the biology department, and Miss Hazel Evans, assistant professor in business education.

The only person ever to hold the PR director's title here, Crouch is ending a 28-year association with the college.

He came to the campus as registrar in 1939, and when the public relations office was created a year later Crouch was appointed to fill the vital position.

Through the years he also has been an instructor in business, and since 1960 he has served as director of the placement office.

Former students and friends have established the Walter Crouch Scholarship, and the first grant from the fund is expected to be made to a Southwestern journalism student next fall.

After retirement, Crouch plans to remain in Weatherford.

Dr. Allen will become associate professor of bacteriology at Kansas City College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery. He will begin his duties on Sept. 1.

Formerly with the biology department in 1947, and he is credited with setting up the medical technology program here in 1954.

Miss Evans came to the college from Clinton 19 years ago as a business education instructor. She is a graduate of Southwestern.

A resident of Clinton, she intends to continue to be an active member of the Custer County Democratic Party and the Clinton Business and Professional Women's Club.
