Peeking At Future

The students in the pictures on these two pages are from the Anatomy, Micro and Med Tech classes. They are learning to stick fingers without hurting, do a urinalysis properly, see how the kidneys function, and to use the microscope with a degree of accuracy to determine the amount of bacteria present. They also learn to write reports on their findings.

2. Micro lab working hard.
3. Mr. Christian, what did you find of interest on the slide?
4. Marie Ferguson, Yvonne Longoria, and Jo Martin, all former SJC graduates, visiting before the seminar.
5. & 6. Students working in lab, examining various organs to see how they work.

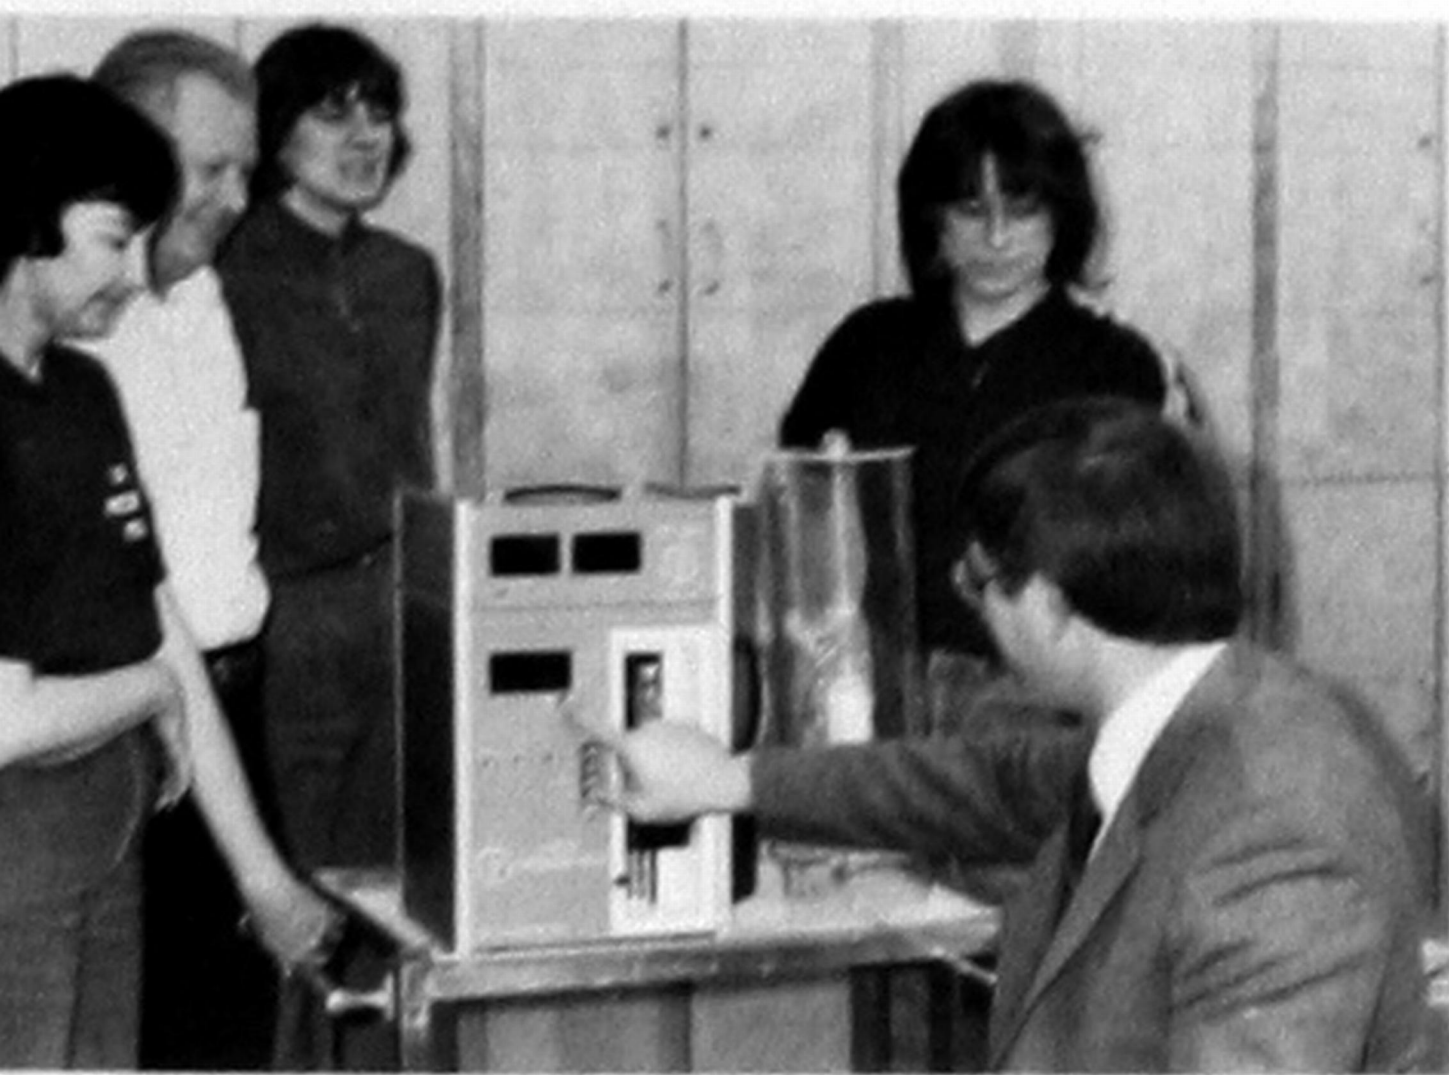

During a seminar for all health students on January 17, 1983, the Health Department was the recipient of a cell counter donated by Conner. This will be used by the med tech students to gain experience with automated equipment they will find in labs across the country. The cell counter will save valuable time for the techs. Both Mr. Christian and Mrs. Brooks will be using it in their classes. Mr. Paul Conner, Academic Dean, accepted the machine in behalf of the Health Department, from Mr. Andy Longoria of Conoco. He spoke briefly of his work at the company as a Med Tech. Mr. Larry Hoskins, of Bio-Dynamics, who sold the machine, also spoke briefly and gave demonstrations to the students.
