Roxanne Davis Named Don Weeks Endowed Professor of Accounting at SWOSU

Dr. Roxanne Davis has been named the Don Weeks Endowed Professor of Accounting at Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford.

Davis is an assistant professor in the Everett Dobson School of Business and Technology. She earned a PhD in accounting and a Master of Accountancy from the University of Oklahoma and a Bachelor of Accounting from Cameron University. She is also a Certified Public Accountant.

She is currently an editor-at-large for the Administrative Issues Journal published by the school. She is also faculty advisor for the Omicron Sigma chapter of the Delta Mu Delta International Business Honor Society at SWOSU.

Her primary teaching interests are financial and managerial accounting. Her research interests are in the areas of capital markets and accounting education.

Prior to joining SWOSU in 2018, Davis was employed by the University of Maryland University College - Europe as a traveling faculty member, teaching on United States military bases in Germany, Italy and England. The Lawton native has also been a faculty member at Cameron University in Lawton and Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls (TX).

SWOSU Associate Dean Dr. Patsy Parker said the Everett Dobson School of Business and Technology is fortunate to have several endowed positions available through generous donations of individuals and families who understand the importance of higher education. The endowed titles are a high honor. Faculty members who hold endowed positions are enthusiastic promoters of student success and active in teaching, scholarly activity and service.

Other endowed positions that have been awarded in Dobson SBT are: Everett Dobson Endowed Chair of Accounting – Dr. Trisha Wald; Everett Dobson Endowed Chair of Management – Dr. Hank Ramsey; Everett Dobson Endowed Chair of Marketing – Dr. Amanda Evert; and Ed and Winnie Ola Berrong Endowed Chair of Engineering Technology – Cindi Albrightson.
