09.26.2017

Southwestern Oklahoma State University faculty and students are hosting an art exhibition through October 14 on the Weatherford campus.

The free exhibition presents various styles of artworks created by SWOSU art faculty and art students, including paintings, pottery, graphic design, drawings, sculptures, mixed media and more.

“Something that will stand out will be pieces from beginning art students in Foundations 1 that have reproduced hand drawn art from old masters,” said E.K. Jeong, associate professor in the SWOSU Department of Art, Communication and Theatre. “There will also be sample pieces from our tapestry classes on campus.”

The exhibition is being held in the Art Gallery lobby in the SWOSU Art Building. The public is invited. The building is open Mondays through Fridays from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.
