

SWOSU Milam Madmen T-Shirts Now On Sale

07.30.2007

SWOSU students (from left): Natalie Jordan, Oklahoma City (Westmoore); Scott Townley, Amber; and Anjana Patel, Zambia, model the new 2007 Milam Madmen t-shirts, which are now on sale for $5.

The Milam Madmen t-shirts are back!

Southwestern Oklahoma State University is once again offering the ever-popular t-shirt with all its benefits during the 2007-08 school year.

Cindy Dougherty, dean of students at SWOSU, said wearing the MMT to any home SWOSU football game this fall gets the wearer a free coke. Also, there will be game give-aways and half time drawings throughout the season for all MMT wearers.

One lucky Milam Madman will walk away with a Nintendo wii at halftime of the SWOSU football home opener on August 23. Those sporting the MMT will get a chance for the drawing to be held at halftime, compliments of the Collegiate Activities Board (CAB).

"This was started by the New Student Orientation 'Traditions' committee three years ago," Dougherty said. "Each year the students put their spin on it. So any MMT from 2005, 2006 or the new 2007 version will get the perks at the game."

The 2007 edition is on sale for $5 in the office of the Dean of Students, Stafford 214.
