09.20.2013

Southwestern Oklahoma State University's New Student Orientation kicks off an IMPACT series this Wednesday, September 25, with the first of five events—Money Matters, regarding student loans, credit cards and budgeting.

NSO and Ava Doyle of Oklahoma Money Matters will present tips to students on money management and how to make ends meet as a college student. This IMPACT event will be presented from 12-1 p.m. in Stafford Center 104 on the Weatherford campus. A pizza lunch will be provided.

Coming up next in the IMPACT series will be "SWOSU has heART" on October 2. This event is a showcase of the arts around campus. This IMPACT is an informal way for all SWOSU students to see what the art, music and theatre departments have been working on lately. It will take place in Stafford 104 from 12-1 p.m.

Faculty and staff are welcome at both events.
