

2-15-2018

Growing Young

Dennis Ross

Follow this and additional works at: <https://dc.swosu.edu/westview>

 Part of the Fiction Commons, Nonfiction Commons, Photography Commons, and the Poetry Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Ross, Dennis (2018) "Growing Young," Westview: Vol. 33 : Iss. 2 , Article 13.
Available at: <https://dc.swosu.edu/westview/vol33/iss2/13>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at SWOSU Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Westview by an authorized administrator of SWOSU Digital Commons. For more information, please contact phillip.fitzsimmons@swosu.edu.

Growing Young

by Dennis Ross

Young people are immortal do not believe a time will come when taking their FJR 1300 cycle to the max on poor rubber will seem imprudent, when joints ache and stairs become an assault on Everest, when pepperoni pizza is not manna from a beneficent god.

The possibility of mortality sneaks up slowly at first then with unstoppable authority with an aortic aneurysm or stroke, but a trapdoor opens, you tumble down a rabbit hole, and end up floating down in a crystal blue sky.

The frantic dance slows, sunlight ripples from the wings of a bee hovering over Queen Anne's Lace, a black snake slips quietly into the pond, small voices call again as they did as a child, the world opens out from a hard bud with crawling black ants into a peony.
What matters that the blossom will not last forever?