

Soza Represents SWOSU on Spanish TV Show in Tulsa

12.07.2017

Otoniel Soza (left), graduate assistant at Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford, was recently featured on a Spanish television show—Temas en Tulsa. Soza talked about multicultural initiatives—especially the Hispanic outreach and heritage month activities taking place at SWOSU. Soza, who came to SWOSU from Nicaragua, also talked about the university's international student population. The Tulsa TV show is hosted by Tulsa Community College Associate Professor of Spanish Tina Pena (right).
