

SWOSU Students Win Prizes by Completing Title IX Training

12.14.2017

Three Southwestern Oklahoma State University students recently won prizes for completing Title IX online training on the Weatherford campus.

Winners were Bayleigh Bellamy of Ft. Cobb, Cameron Cowan of Yukon and Christopher Ludwig of Kingfisher. They each got to choose one of the following prizes: TV, Apple Watch, frig/microwave or Beats by Dre headphones.

All students are invited by President Randy Beutler to complete the training. Jordan Selman, coordinator of student activities at SWOSU, said the university's ongoing training adds to overall campus safety.

A total of 328 Title IX forms were turned in by SWOSU students.