

Westview

Volume 33 Article 38 Issue 2 Westview

2-15-2018

Hello, Reptile

Parker Long

Follow this and additional works at: https://dc.swosu.edu/westview

Part of the Fiction Commons, Nonfiction Commons, Photography Commons, and the Poetry

Commons

Recommended Citation

Long, Parker (2018) "Hello, Reptile," Westview: Vol. 33: Iss. 2, Article 38. Available at: https://dc.swosu.edu/westview/vol33/iss2/38

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at SWOSU Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Westview by an authorized administrator of SWOSU Digital Commons. For more information, please contact phillip.fitzsimmons@swosu.edu.

Hello, Reptile

by Parker Long

He is my Abyss, and I have stared into His ugly mustard eyes. Now He stares back and hisses a laugh

If given half a chance, Reptile would devour the world To satiate His hunger But it wouldn't be enough

All the girls in all the dive bars Do nothing to fill him. Pleasure is prioritized Because love takes time.

A co-worker curses me Reptile hocks poison in his ears Spurring me to fight Craving a kill

He shows His works Not accepting critique Explaining His genius And their idiocy

A pretty girl walks by With a pretty boy Reptile bares his teeth, At them, but at us.

To deny Him is masochistic joy. I don't often have the will or the morality or the give-a-damn.

Hello, Reptile.