Three Songs from The Bubbling Sky [Poem]

Ian McMurdо

Follow this and additional works at: https://dc.swosu.edu/mythlore

Part of the Children's and Young Adult Literature Commons

Recommended Citation

Available at: https://dc.swosu.edu/mythlore/vol7/iss2/5

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by SWOSU Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Mythlore: A Journal of J.R.R. Tolkien, C.S. Lewis, Charles Williams, and Mythopoeic Literature by an authorized editor of SWOSU Digital Commons. An ADA compliant document is available upon request. For more information, please contact phillip.fitzsimmons@swosu.edu.
Three Songs from The Bubbling Sky [Poem]
THREE SONGS FROM The Bubbling Sky

The Song of the Fountain
A fountain falls
on the black mountain.
The rocks are cool
in the pool of fury.

High is the spray
high is the mountain high is the day
high is the fountain.

In a shower of sun
in a golden dower
your peace shall fall
and your pain shall cease.

The Song of the Doors of the North Where did you bathe
0 bird brightly plumed
That your feathers
are diamond-dewed?

The doors of the North
were open wide
and through a fountain I flew.

The Song of the Bubbling Sky
Between my toes
the bubbling sky
in beauty grows
and grows a tree
of silver rain
that showers on me.

--Ian McMurdo