Nigh Emphasizes Necessity Of Tax Increase

By SHALIA WAKEMAN
"If we don't raise revenue beginning July 1, we have to cut out a quarter of a million dollars more for next year," stated Gov. George Nigh at a public forum during his Feb. 2 visit to Southwestern's campus.

GOVERNOR GEORGE Nigh offers a handshake to participants in Thursday's public forum on the Southwestern campus.

He continued to stress the importance of the tax increase passing, adding that if the Senate approves the temporary one cent tax increase (which the House of Representatives passed Feb. 1) the state would immediately gain $17 million a month in revenue. He also stated that at the present time, progress in Oklahoma is simply to hang on to what we have.

Not only did Nigh support the temporary tax, but he also aired his approval for an increased gas tax and lifting the sales tax exemption on cigarettes and beer. According to Nigh, the gas tax is necessary so that the state can provide matching funds in order to regain federal gasoline tax paid by Oklahoma.

Nigh compared his terms as governor to a marriage vow, as in the statement, "for better or worse." His first term in office saw the Oil Boom, one of the most prosperous financial stretches in Oklahoma's history. However, the Bust during his second term has caused the state to fall on difficult times.

During the boom, according to Nigh, the state started at the bottom (spending-wise), and worked up. In the past, programs hadn't been funded as they should have been.

"We were so far behind in so many programs, and we needed to catch up. We had low taxes, so over the years we did not fund some of the programs like we should have. We did spend a lot of money as the budget grew, but one thing people don't realize is that we started adding at the bottom."

THE GOVERNOR raises a hand as he expresses the seriousness of the state's situation.

In response to the question, "Why does it always have to be education that is cut?"--Nigh re-

Jazz Festival Features Artists

By SHALIA WAKEMAN
Diana Reeves with Gemini IV and Rich Matteson will be the featured guest artists at Southwestern's Fourteenth Annual Jazz Festival Concerts on Feb. 9-10.

Reeves, a professional singer since her teens, has performed with numerous jazz greats such as Clark Terry, Louie Bellson, Count Basie, and Chick Corea, as well as touring the world as featured vocalist with Sergio Mendes and recording two solo albums.

Matteson is recognized as one of the most exciting jazz soloists in the world. He has pursued a career as a public school music teacher, a college professor, professional arranger and composer, band leader, guest artist, and clinician. He is presently an instructor at North Texas State University where he teaches jazz improvisation.

Reeves will perform on three occasions on Thursday, Feb. 9. Performances at the Weatherford Public School Auditorium at 1 and 2 p.m. will be attended by grade school children. Reeves will perform again that evening in Room 101 of the Music Building at 7 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend, and no admission will be charged. The concerts of the day will be made possible by the assistance of the States Arts Council of Oklahoma and the National Endowment of Arts.

DIANNE REEVES

The Festival's activities will culminate on Friday, Feb. 10. The Stage Band Contest will begin in the SWOSU Auditorium, and the Show Choir Contest will start in the Ballroom and at the Weatherford Public School Auditorium at 8 a.m.

Rich Matteson Improvisation Clinics will be held from 10-10:50 a.m. and 3:30-4:20 p.m. in Room 102 of the Music Building. Diana Reeves Jazz Vocal Clinics will be held at 11-11:50 a.m. and 2:30-3:20 p.m. in Room 101 of the Music Building. Admission to either will be $1 at the door.

Student Senate Approves Budget For Spring 1984

The Student Senate accepted the Spring Budget at the meeting held in the ballroom Wednesday, Feb. 1. The budget was passed unanimously.

The Senate also voted to have the Spring Blood Drive March 20-21. Rob Scheele was appointed as director of the Blood Drive Committee.

The treasurer stated the current balance of $1,676.34 in the treasury. Appropriations were made for: cheerleaders, $250; yearbook, $120; honorariums, $1,310; telephone bill for three months, $72.47; two dances at $275 each, and Officer Worley (two dances), $50.

The Activities Committee announced that there would be a movie on Feb. 2 in the Library Auditorium. "The Pink Panther" was shown two times for the student's enjoyment.

Jennifer Wilson, a representative from the Jazz Festival, approached the Senate with a new proposal for receiving money from the Senate. Wilson asked the Senate for up to $100 if a deficit remained after they have received money from the ticket sales and all other income for the festival. If there is no deficit, the Senate will not pay any money to the music department. This proposal was brought in front of the Senate and passed by a 21-15 margin after the new budget was accepted.

It was announced that there were 10 contestants in the Miss Southwestern pageant, and the Miss Southwestern Committee met after the regular session. The Spring Week Committee also met after the meeting to discuss spring week activities.

Viewpoints

By JANELLE RANDALL

My idea for a column this week literally hit me in the face. I was walking out of the Student Union with my editor, Shalia Wakeman. We both had our hands full as we walked towards the exit door. As we neared the door, I noticed a young man entering. . . "Ah, this man could hold the door for me," I thought. Unfortunately for me, I assumed too much. For instead of the gallant gentleman I had assumed would open the door, I instead discovered the retreating back of my fading hero and felt the contact of a door as it swung back to meet my face! This rather irritated me (besides making me look a bit silly. . . I mean how many people like to be seen plastered to a door?), but it also caused me to reconsider a question someone asked me the other day . . . Is the old fashion courtesy known as "chivalry" still alive?

After the run-in with the door, I would like to say that "yes indeed, chivalry is dead." But, I can't lie, so I will honestly say that although chivalry is not completely dead in our society, it is a dying breed.

You may be asking yourself, just what exactly is chivalry? Well, when I was younger I used to associate the word chivalry with the Knights of King Arthur's Round Table, for these knights seemed the epitome of politeness to the young maidens. But to give you the official definition, I consulted an old friend of mine--a Mr. "Webster" for the complete definition. Mr. Webster defined chivalry as the qualifications of a knight, such as courage, nobility, fairness, courtesy, respect for women, protection of the poor, etc.

I don't know about you, but that bit about "RESPECT FOR WOMEN" certainly hit home. What has happened to this good old respect that our grandmothers and our mothers used to take for granted? I'd like to honestly say that it is still alive and prospering, but certain incidents lead me to believe that it is slowly fading out of our society and being replaced by an indifference to being polite.

If, chivalry came about back in the days of the knights, just exactly when did chivalry start to become extinct in our society? I can't really say. It is not found in any history books, but I feel that I can hazard a pretty good guess as to why it is slowly dying.

I don't want to point any fingers, but members of my own sex . . . WOMEN have been accessories in the slow death of chivalry. When ERA became big back in the 1970's, many women began to snub men's offers of door openings, pulling out a chair, etc. And all for what? For something they termed equal rights. I couldn't understand then and I still can't understand now why so many women snubbed men because of ERA. For nowhere in the proposed amendment did it say anything about women having to lose their femininity. But somewhere, somehow, some women got confused and the result? Well, the sad result is that future generations of women may never experience the gallant chivalry our ancestors enjoyed.

I have to admit, I myself don't take chivalry for granted (OK, I will admit that I did the other day in the Student Union). For example, I made a new friend back in December and the first time I went somewhere with him, I was flattered beyond recognition when the young man opened my car door for me. I was shocked then and told him about it. He merely shrugged and said he thought all guys did that sort of things. All I could think was, "Where have you been all my life?" I can even remember one time that I accidentally opened my own car door (old habits die hard) and he acted personally affronted the rest of the evening! I almost asked him if it wouldn't be OK if I just got out of the car and let him open my door. . . he was that upset! But all good things must come to an end and the newfound gentleman had to go. No, I didn't lose a friend, I instead lost the gallant door opener I had begun to take for granted. I still see him, but now I could stand beside a car door all night and he probably wouldn't even notice what I was hinting at. . . I'd be lucky to get a "the doors unlocked, why don't you get in?"

I think though that I may have the solution or the answer to save the almost extinct courtesy known as chivalry. It is simple. . . women don't take men for granted and men open a door once in a while . . . who knows it may lead to a new fad and I may even one day recover from my phobia of Student Union doors!!!

Play Proves To Be Enjoyable

By JOANNA THURSTON ROPER

Talk about insecure! Allen as portrayed by Kevin Crary in Play It Again, Sam was the very epitome of insecurity. With his slightly pudgy figure, fly-away hair, Coke-bottle bottom glasses, and nervous little gestures, the audience could identify with his problems. He seemed real. Even the stage catastrophes seemed so natural to Allen's own character that one could laugh and think, "Yeah, that's ol' Allen!" rather than, "Clumsy actor!"

Vinita Schneider and Jeff Hays, Allen's best friend and his wife, were effective. Schneider and Crary very subtly built their little affair right under Hays' nose.

Although Crary carried the show with the aid of Schneider and Hays, there were cameo parts in the dream sequences that were interesting. Whatever Crary feared would happen and whatever he dreaded to remember, he could "see" along with the audience. One frequent visitor of his subconscious was his ex-wife played by Michelle Angley. She continually confused his plans and strengthened his insecurity.

Other lovelies that appeared in Allen's thoughts were Tracy Hutchins, Micah Moss, Judy Thompson, Desiree Randolph, Cindy Stockton, and Georgia Miller. Kelly Barnett was Bogart who provided the directions for Allen's misguided efforts to be charming. Reddy Royse was the final girl--one he probably isn't going to charm--she arrived that way.

Play It Again, Sam was a smooth, fast-paced comedy that was pleasant to watch. Randy Haney, director, demonstrated his tight control of the whole production. Crary, Schneider, and Hays never broke character--not even in the face of mishaps--and were believable in their problems.

The set was a good functional design, and the cast made full use of it. Better curtain treatment would have helped, but overall, the set with its two levels was effective. Lighting was a problem especially in the dream scenes and at the opening of each act. The person operating the dimmer switch should either become more familiar with it--or have it repaired.

Play It Again, Sam was produced and directed by Randy Haney for the Alpha Psi Omega, the dramatic fraternity. They can be proud of this year's production.

Hoke's Art Students Help Budget Crisis With Sale

By TAMI ALEXANDER

Several of Mr. Montee Hoke's advanced art students have come up with a rather unique project to help during the budget crisis the Art Department at Southwestern is facing.

Each student will donate his or her own clay and time to the making of coffee cups and small pots to be sold during a coffee cup sale that will be held Feb. 14 in the Student Union. The money from their sale will go toward buying much-needed equipment for the Art Department.

Mr. Hoke says one question often asked about pottery coffee cups is, "Are they safe to use?" Being made from porcelain and stoneware clay and glazed and fired to 2380°F, they are dishwasher, oven, and microwave safe, so there is no worry about them being toxic.

There will be cups of all shapes and sizes. There will be some matching sets, but mostly one of a kind originals. Some will be signed, some not. It is hoped that there will be 300 cups from which to choose.

This project has given the students a chance to increase their skills, as well as giving them a chance to market a product.

The Art students involved in this coffee cup sale are: Debbie Kirk, Tipton senior; Gayle Singer, Oklahoma City graduate student; Steve Johnson, Albuquerque, N.M., senior; Dan Hazel, Weatherford senior; Marty Mareno, Portland, Ore., graduate student; Hall Rigger, Medford freshman, and Mark Briscoe, Bethany graduate student.

Hoke encourages everyone to come and see the coffee cups and small pot displays and to consider purchasing one of these unique items.

MARK BRISCOE, Bethany graduate student, and Hal Ripper, Medford freshman, display their handiwork which will be sold in the attempt to raise money for the Art Department.

SHELVES IN the Art Building hold various sizes and styles of mugs which will be sold at the Feb. 14 sale.

Enrollment Increases

By NEYSA STEVENSON

Final enrollment figures show that there is an increase in full time students and courses taken at Southwestern. According to Bill Wilmeth, registrar, overall enrollment is up 75 students from the 1983 spring semester with a total of 4,544.

There are 2,328 female students enrolled this semester compared to 2,357 females for last spring. SWOSU has 2,216 males enrolled for the 1984 spring semester while there were 2,112 males enrolled one year ago.

Full Time Equivalent is 3,907 for this spring, compared to 3,758 for the 1983 spring semester. Full Time Equivalent is based on the number of credit hours of all the students' hours.

Traditionally, the fall semesters have a larger headcount than the spring semesters. Enrollment for the 1983 fall semester, with a total of 5,160, was the largest since the fall of 1977 which saw a total of 5,403. The fall semester of 1972 holds the record for the largest count at 5,603 students.

Garden Tour Scheduled For April 23-30

Mr. Cedric Crink, director of Southwestern Tours, has announced that his annual Spring Garden Tour will be held from April 23-30.

The eight-day tour will begin with a trip to Little Rock, Ark., and will travel to Natchez, Miss.; Mobile, Ala.; New Orleans, La.; Lafayette, La., and Bossier, City, La.

Also on the 1984 schedule for the group is a New Orleans World's Fair Tour, scheduled from July 2-15, and an Autumn in New England Tour, scheduled from Oct. 1-14.

For more information on these trips, contact Mr. Cedric Crink through Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford, 73096.

Dance Planned

Oklahoma Hall will sponsor a Valentine Dance from 8-11 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 9. Admission to the dance, which will be held in the dorm's television lounge, will be fifty cents for non-residents of the hall.

Refreshments will be sold by members of the house council, and the music will be provided by Greg Shaw.

College Republicans Start Letter Writing Campaign

The College Republicans have reappeared at Southwestern this semester after a two-year absence. In the College Republicans' second meeting of the semester on Jan. 31, election of officers took place. The newly elected officers are as follows: Bryan Bronn, president; Kelly Drake, vice-president; Kerby Thomas, secretary, and Mark Reisinger, treasurer. Business brought up in the Jan. 31 meeting was the start of a letter-writing drive to President Reagan. The purpose of this drive is to persuade President Reagan to attend the Veterans' Ceremony being held in Clinton on May 27-28 by sending many letters encouraging him to come. The greater the number of letters written to President Reagan the better the chances are that he will visit Western Oklahoma. The College Republicans urge all readers to write to Washington. Write to: President Reagan, 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., Washington, D.C. 20500. The next meeting of the College Republicans will be on Feb. 15, and all interested students are invited to attend.

Career Decision Group To Meet

Doug Brown, career placement officer, and Dr. B. J. Wells, coordinator of counselor education, are offering aid to groups of students needing help in making career decisions, choosing a major, writing a resume, and getting ready for an interview. The Career Decision Group will meet from 2-3 p.m. on Tuesday or Wednesday, according to the student's schedule. The meetings will begin on Tuesday, Feb. 14.

Sign-up for the groups is in Room 110 of the Education Building until Monday, Feb. 13.

(The following story was submitted as a class assignment in Prof. Con Hood's 1213 English Composition course.)

By BRYAN BRONN
Did you know Darth Vader walks the halls of SWOSU? Well he does at times, and beneath this elaborate costume is a Star Wars expert by the name of Michael Rockholt.

When asked why Darth Vader is his favorite character, Michael said, "Darth Vader is my favorite because his costume adds to his unique and mysterious being." So being impressed with Vader's costume, Michael set out to construct his own.

"In October of 1979 I started working on the costume for Halloween," he said. "When I found that people were so impressed with the keen likeness, I continued to work on it."

"I purchased the helmet at a novelty store, had a friend build the chest plate, and had my sister sew up the padding of the costume, as well as the cape. The four-inch lift shoes were done professionally, and another friend helped me with the microphone system." Overall, Michael said he spent about $2000 making the costume to fit his 6'0" frame compared to the real Vader, David Prowse, who stands 6'5".

Having the costume at hand, he decided to put it to use by appearing at movie theaters opening nights and weeks of the Star Wars movies. "I usually get around $250 on an opening night and a little less the rest of the nights, depending on the crowd size," he said. "I also do parties, such as birthdays, for only $25 and stay for 30-60 minutes."

"I first became interested in the Star Wars saga in 1979 when I first saw the movie Star Wars. Realizing this wild experience could actually happen made me so interested," he said.

"The concept of the force and what it is capable of doing, or the mental ability to do that sort of thing, also interested me," added Michael.

One of the odd things about the Star Wars saga that this expert points out is the way the saga is constructed. "In 1977 the saga began with Episode IV, then every three years a new episode will be introduced," he said. "The oddness is that there are nine episodes in the saga, making the saga come to an end in the year 2001. This is no coincidence since George Lucas's first space film was A Space Odyssey: The Year 2001."

Michael also points out some things you can expect in future Star Wars episodes. "In the next three episodes, the story of the conflict between the Rebels and the Empire will be told."

"Approximately in Episode III Anakin Skywalker will appear, who is Darth Vader in Episodes IV-VI. Anakin is training to be a Jedi during the clone wars of that period when he starts to turn to the dark side of the force. The Jedi are the peacekeepers or guardians of the galaxy, sort of like today's 'A-Team' or 'Remington Steele.' At the climax of that episode, Anakin fights Ben 'Obi Wan' Kenobi in a battle of the two sides of the force. Ben ultimately defeats Anakin in a light saber duel by knocking him into a lava filled crater. Anakin is badly burnt by the fall and must from there-on out wear a special artificial lung outfit of black armor to keep out the sun's rays, which explains Darth Vader's unique costume."

When asked why it takes so long to produce a film Michael said, "It takes three years to produce one film because of the scale of the figures. They are such small figures that it takes up to one week to film one scene."

So if you ever see Darth Vader walking around campus narrating the saga of Star Wars, it's probably Michael. "May the Force Be With You."

SWPhA Promotes State Pharmacy Week, Feb. 5-11

Southwestern Pharmaceutical Association will be promoting Oklahoma Pharmacy Week Feb. 5-11. Governor George Nigh proclaimed Oklahoma Pharmacy Week in order to give recognition to the health services pharmacists provide to Oklahoma.

Dr. Benny French, a member of the Pharmacy School teaching staff and sponsor of SWPhA, said, "The main purpose of this week is to encourage people to go to their local pharmacists whenever they have any questions about prescriptions or drugs." Although Southwestern hasn't organized any special activities for the week, Dr. French commented, "Sandy Conklin, SWPhA president, is pushing the promotional efforts here on campus while Jerry Allen, a local Weatherford pharmacist, is coordinating the downtown publicity."

The theme of Oklahoma Pharmacy Week is "Oklahoma Pharmacists: Your Source For Drug Information." The Oklahoma Pharmaceutical Association and your local pharmacist are urging you to learn more about the medications you take.

"Americans spend $13 billion a year on prescription drugs," says John Lassiter, President of the Oklahoma Pharmaceutical Association. "Yet, studies show that 50 per cent of all prescriptions filled are taken incorrectly. Thus, many people do not get the results they want from their medicines and suffer avoidable side effects. This is a concern to all pharmacists."

The Oklahoma Pharmaceutical Association is supporting a public education campaign to improve communication between health professionals and the public. The national "Get The Answers" campaign, which is sponsored by the National Council on Patient Information and Education, encourages patients to initiate a dialogue with doctors and pharmacists by asking questions like: What is the drug supposed to do? How and when do I take it? What do I do if side effects occur? "The ultimate objective of this campaign," says Mr. Lassiter, "is to have patients and health professionals work together to improve the exchange of information about prescription drugs."

Consumers should feel free to confide in their pharmacist for information and instructions on intelligent medication taking practices. Patients are reminded that every time they purchase a medication, they should obtain as much information about the medication as possible.

Medications are your best health care you can buy today, and result in substantial health care savings by greatly shortening or eliminating the need for hospitalization, and reducing lost productivity from being absent from work. In order to get the

BY TURNING off his microphone, Gov. Nigh illustrates that things don't have to be necessities to be enjoyable.

Gov. George Nigh Holds Public Forum To Report Condition of State Funding

sponded, "We have not always cut education. We've never funded at the level that we should have or wanted to, but with what we did have, we gave education more breaks than any other area."

Nigh continued, saying that education has always been a top priority in Oklahoma. In fact, 70 per cent of the general fund appropriation goes to education (common schools, vo-tech, and higher education). When a failure of revenue takes place in the state, under state law, each agency's appropriation is cut by the same percentage. However, a bill was passed which allowed education to be cut less than other agencies this year and last year.

He added that there had recently been a 180 per cent turnaround in the legislature, which he credited to a change in the attitude of the people. Nigh contributed the 83-18 passing of the tax increase in the House of Representatives as a reflection of this change. "But the second shoe has to fall next week in the Senate," Nigh added, "and the Senate must make that same stand."

The possibility of a state lottery was compared to the issue of liquor by the drink by Nigh. He made little comment on the matter since he considers it a "moral issue."

The governor also addressed the issue of parole and the death sentence, stating that he does believe in the death sentence but feels that the governor should not be a part of the parole system.

Of the DHS, he stated that the change in names from the Welfare Agency is only the first of many changes, but they won't happen overnight.

When the question of government waste arose, he used the metaphor of government buildings needing to be attractive, to that of persons needing to keep their shoes polished.

Nigh's visit to the campus was in keeping with his attempt to visit every county officially at least once a year.

Lady Blues Cage Lady Tigers In 60-55 Victory

By CYNTHIA COFFEY
The Southwestern Lady Bulldogs added yet another victory to their streak as they defeated the East Central Lady Tigers in a Feb. 4 contest, taking a 60-55 victory. Kelli Litsch led the Lady Blues in the defeat with 18 points. Anita Foster followed with 14 points. Mindi Mayfield, Carrie Hayes, and D. D. Woodfork contributed 10, eight, and four points, respectively. Diana Dees and Shor-na Coffey rounded out the scoring with two points each. The smooth rebounding by the Lady Blues made it difficult for the Lady Tigers to get under the goal. Litsch grabbed a devastating 10 rebounds from the boards; Foster followed with eight caroms. Woodfork and Kim Fennelly captured six rebounds each. Mayfield contributed defensively with five rebounds. Dees, Coffey, and Hayes had two rebounds each. Woodfork passed for five of the 12 assists made by the Lady Blues.

A repeat performance was made Feb. 1 as the Lady Blues upset Panhandle State in a 90-55 win. Elissia Fountain led the Lady Blues, scoring 16 points, her all-time high for the season. Litsch and Foster contributed 15 and 14 points, respectively, to the slaughtering. Coffey and Hayes each added 10 points in the massacre. Fennelly and Jan "Cheese" Cheadle added seven and six, respectively, while Dees and Mayfield each collected five. Dees played a fine defensive game, capturing five steals in the confrontation. The Lady Blues ended the defeat with a 45-point spread. The Lady Bulldogs are scheduled for a performance Friday at 7 p.m. at Rankin Williams Fieldhouse, when they will be pitted against Southeastern.

Dogs Scalp Savages Claiming 61-56 Win

By STEVE COLLIER

The Southwestern Bulldogs pulled ahead in the last minutes of the game Feb. 4 to beat Southeastern 61-56. The Bulldogs were behind six points with under four minutes left in the game, but a come-from-behind effort left the Southeastern Savages out in the cold.

The top scorer for the Southwestern men was Arnold Madison, sinking six of seven baskets. Other top scorers were Tony Moore, totaling 10 points, and Lee Stringfellow and Charles Harris each adding eight points to the total.

Southwestern led at halftime with the score being 29-24, but the Savages came out ready to play, and the second half was a barn-burner all the way.

Both teams yielded 13 turnovers, yet the real difference came on the free throw line. The Bulldogs attempted 23 free throws, making 17 for 74 per cent, more than doubling the number of trips made to the charity stripe by Southeastern.

The Bulldogs won another one Feb. 1, capturing a 71-67 triumph over East Central at Ada.

Harris led the Bulldogs, dropping 20 points. Moore and Stringfellow added 14 and 10 points, respectively.

Despite a low 37 per cent from the field in the first half, the Bulldogs maintained a 33-25 halftime lead.

Defensively the game was fairly even, especially in the rebounding area, with Southwestern pulling down 40 rebounds to East Central's 38. East Central picked up steam in the second half, but with the Bulldogs shooting 50 per cent, the effort was futile.

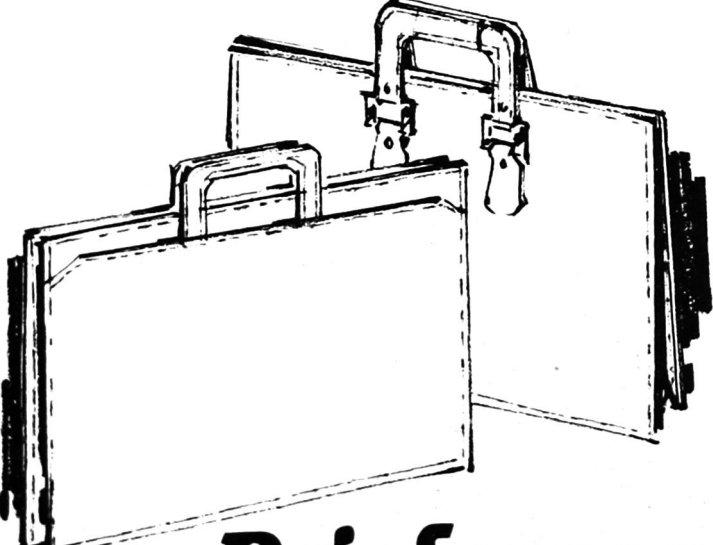

The Bulldogs will next take to the court against USAO at 8 p.m. Saturday at Rankin Williams Fieldhouse.
