

10-15-1993

Nobody Wants To Be a Cowboy

Aaron Baker

Follow this and additional works at: <https://dc.swosu.edu/westview>

---

Recommended Citation

Baker, Aaron (1993) "Nobody Wants To Be a Cowboy," Westview: Vol. 13 : Iss. 1 , Article 19.
Available at: <https://dc.swosu.edu/westview/vol13/iss1/19>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at SWOSU Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Westview by an authorized administrator of SWOSU Digital Commons. For more information, please contact phillip.fitzsimmons@swosu.edu.

Nobody Wants To Be a Cowboy

BY
AARON BAKER

“Oklahomans no longer will work the long hours for the cheap wages of cowboys.”
“Ranchers seek help of alien migratory workers.” —News item.

I say hang us dead
to the old bunkhouse wall.
Let the lonely coyotes wail
and the wild hawks sail, as they will according to their kind. Welcome to Spring;
throw a rope on the mavericks
when the baby-faced calves become lost in the hidden arroyos,
and the white bones of a steer hang on the post of a barbed-wire fence.
Behold the singing meadow lark fluttering in the red-eyed dawn,
bringing memories of the dark tresses of dance-hall girls tossing under the touch of our lily-white ungloved hands so lightly on a rare Saturday night on the town. Now, even the little boys don't dream of cowboys, anymore,
and the vast thin sod shows no tracks
of our saddle mounts on the prairie rim,
or trace of lost spurs. . .
I say hang us dead
under a dim sagebrush sky. ■