

7-15-1989

A Special Day

Doug Wisel

Follow this and additional works at: <https://dc.swosu.edu/westview>

---

Recommended Citation

Wisel, Doug (1989) "A Special Day," Westview: Vol. 8: Iss. 4, Article 8.
Available at: <https://dc.swosu.edu/westview/vol8/iss4/8>

This Nonfiction is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at SWOSU Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Westview by an authorized administrator of SWOSU Digital Commons. For more information, please contact phillip.fitzsimmons@swosu.edu.

Stafford with his head tilted skyward as if looking forward to his next space flight or to the future of a more brilliant space program, for activities in which he has been honored. Although most honors have been government-issued, another honor that Weatherford has given him was the renaming of Washita Street to Tom Stafford Street on another "Tom Stafford Day" on September 7, 1975. In addition to Tom Stafford Street, Weatherford also displays a Weatherford flag, which Stafford carried on his last space flight.

Stafford's last space flight was not the astronaut's last contribution to the United States. He was promoted to Major General on August 9, 1975, at which time he was appointed commander of the Air Force Flight Test Center. On May 1, 1978, he became Deputy Chief of Staff, Research Development and Acquisition, Headquarters USAF, after being promoted to Lieutenant General on March 15. Lieutenant General Thomas P. Stafford retired from the Air Force on November 1, 1979, but has continued to give expert advice to NASA and some private firms.

Stafford is presently a private technical consultant for the aerospace industrial business, Gibraltar Exploration, Ltd., of Oklahoma City and ranks as Vice President. Thomas P. Stafford started as a small-town boy who followed his dreams into space and paved the way to success. ●

BRENT WILKS is a sophomore at SOSU with an undecided major. He lives in Clinton and commutes to classes. Brent graduated from Clinton High School in 1988. His hobbies include hunting, restoring old vehicles, and reading.

Second-Place winner, Stafford Day Writing Contest

A SPECIAL DAY

By Doug Wisel

Monday, June 20, 1988, was a special day in Weatherford. The town was in a state of excitement because its home-town hero was coming home. Store windows were decorated. Red, white, and blue flags were flying, and the town was swollen with pride. The sun was shining brightly, which added to the festive mood. Weatherford was excited because Lieutenant General Thomas P. Stafford and the two Russian cosmonauts who participated in the Apollo-Soyez flight with him were in town for a homecoming festival and the dedication of a thirteen-foot-high bronze statue of Tom Stafford. A large crowd gathered in the City Hall parking lot where the dedication ceremony would be held. I could feel the excitement build as a trumpeter played "The Star-Spangled Banner." Mayor Gary Rader proclaimed June 20 "Thomas P. Stafford Day" as the crowd waited anxiously for the unveiling of the statue. A loud cheer arose as the crowd waited anxiously for the unveiling of the statue and when the white covering was finally removed from the statue. As the ceremony ended, I saw a variety of reactions. Several people were reunited with old friends, some took pictures, and others just looked at the statue. The Thomas P. Stafford Day was a special time because it created a wide assortment of thoughts and feelings.

The first impression that I felt during the ceremony was a feeling of patriotism and pride. The ceremony made me proud of the accomplishments that America and her space program have made. It was also evident that the people around me were proud of General Stafford and what he has done for the Weatherford community. I was reminded that the United States is the greatest nation in the world and that we are truly privileged to live in this great country.

The ceremonies also created feelings of admiration for General Stafford. I could see the admiration in the sparkling eyes of the children who sat near me. I felt admiration for his four space flights and his many other accomplishments. I also felt admiration for the hard work and dedication he had put forth to accomplish what he has done. I admire the fact that he was willing to risk his life for the advancement of our space program and our nation. He is truly a modern hero.

Lt. General Stafford and Weatherford Mayor Gary Rader look on during the unveiling.

Perhaps the most overwhelming feeling at the ceremony was hope for the future. America's space program hasn't had much hope since the space shuttle Challenger disaster. However, honoring the accomplishments of General Stafford and the space program restored my hope for the future of the space program. I am sure that the space program will recover from the Challenger disaster and achieve many more great accomplishments.

The Thomas P. Stafford Day dedication ceremony was truly a special occasion for me. It caused me to be more thankful for the country I live in and the advantages I have. I am proud of the accomplishments of Lieutenant General Thomas P. Stafford and the recognition that he has brought to Weatherford and Oklahoma. He has represented our city and our state well. ●

DOUG WISEL was a Summer-session student at SOSU in 1988. He is now a sophomore Business major at Oklahoma Baptist University. He enjoys reading, playing sports, and participating in the Baptist Student Union. After graduation, he plans to attend seminary and become a pastor.

U.S. and Soviet astronauts reunited and surrounded by honor guard.

WESTVIEW PATRONS

SOUTHWEST STATE BANK, SENTINEL
KELLEY JEWELERS, WEATHERFORD
ALLEN PHARMACY, INC., WEATHERFORD
UNITED COMMUNITY BANK, WEATHERFORD, FDIC
WEATHERFORD NEW CAR AUTO DEALERS ASSOCIATION